BEWARE OF THE "DEBUTANTE SLOUCH!"

It's Ruinous to Health and Figure, Baroness Posse Tells Marguerite Martyn

"I Know Women Who've Never Recovered From the Grecian Bend Deformity," Says Famous Boston Physical Culturist.

"New Pose Is Not Only Ugly, but It Violates Every Rule for Graceful and Proper Carriage of the Body."

All Women Should Take Certain Exercises Daily to Keep Themselves in Good Physical and Mental Condition.

Housework Is Not a Substitute as Many Suppose, but Is a Strain, Which, in Turn, Must Be Relieved by Special Movements.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

OH, little girl, with the "beau-catchers" pasted flat upon your cheeks, and the bobtailed coat and the minaret and your particular pride among all the prevailing fashions, the DEBUTANTE SLOUCH—do you want to know how a group of most learned men and women departed from solemn, scientific treatises to discuss you and your postures during the American Physical Education Association's convention here last week?

Do you want to know how you are suspected of imperiling the immediate future of the race? How you are accused of being about to upset and transvert all the progress that has been made in physical culture?

And do you care to learn of the dreadful fate that is in store for you if you persist in your present manner of carrying yourself? Then listen:

It was during a session of the therapeutic section of the association that the Baroness Rose Posse, vice-president, who was in the chair, chanced to breathe aloud the phrase, "debutante slouch." The subject so named was not on the program. Oh, no; the gathering was there to consider scientific and technical papers on a "method of curvical delatation without anesthesia," "scoliosis and school seating," "the value of education gymnastics for physical and mental deficients," etc.

But—merely mention "debutante slouch" and forthwith an animated impromptu discussion was on.

How They Distort Their Bodies.

DR. BARNETTE D. S. WYLLIE of St. Louis arose to his feet, climbed out of the midst of the group of women who surrounded him and stepped quickly down the aisle to the platform, "to be at a safe distance from all of you," he said.

"Young women who are cultivating what is all too familiarly known as the debutante slouch," began the doctor, in clear and measured accents, "are disobeying all the rules of posture laid down in our textbooks, and the evils attendant upon this practice are manifold. They strive, it seems, to contort their bodies into the shape of the letter S. Their chins fall chestward, their hips veer to one side or the other, their bodies to any angle that will maintain a balance.

"Now, if the body is mature, curvature of the spine is not an immediate danger. It is the loose relaxation of the front of the body, with the large organs resting heavily one upon the other, which quickly will bring about grave results.

"At best we have little means of exercising the front muscles of the body. That is why fat accumulates most rapidly there. The least we can do, however, is to raise our chests, expand our lungs, exercise the diaphragm with our breathing, in order to keep the most important organs of our bodies in their proper places.

"Now, it is apparent that the girl who indulges in this slouch does not, cannot, breathe diaphragmatically. All the breathing she does causes only a slight fluttering movement of the neck and chest. Her visible pulsations are like those of a little bird. With her chest sunken, her abdomen falls into folds and serious gastric and intestinal disturbance is certain to follow. There will be indigestion, fatty degeneration of the lower organs and eventually visceroptosis."

BARONESS ROSE POSSE

Visceroptosis! Whatever that may be! I do not find it in the dictionary nor the household medical manual. No doubt it is too complicated and scientific a malady for the layman's understanding. But, visceroptosis! Isn't the word terrifying enough to make even your hair stand up straight?

Baroness Speaks With Authority.

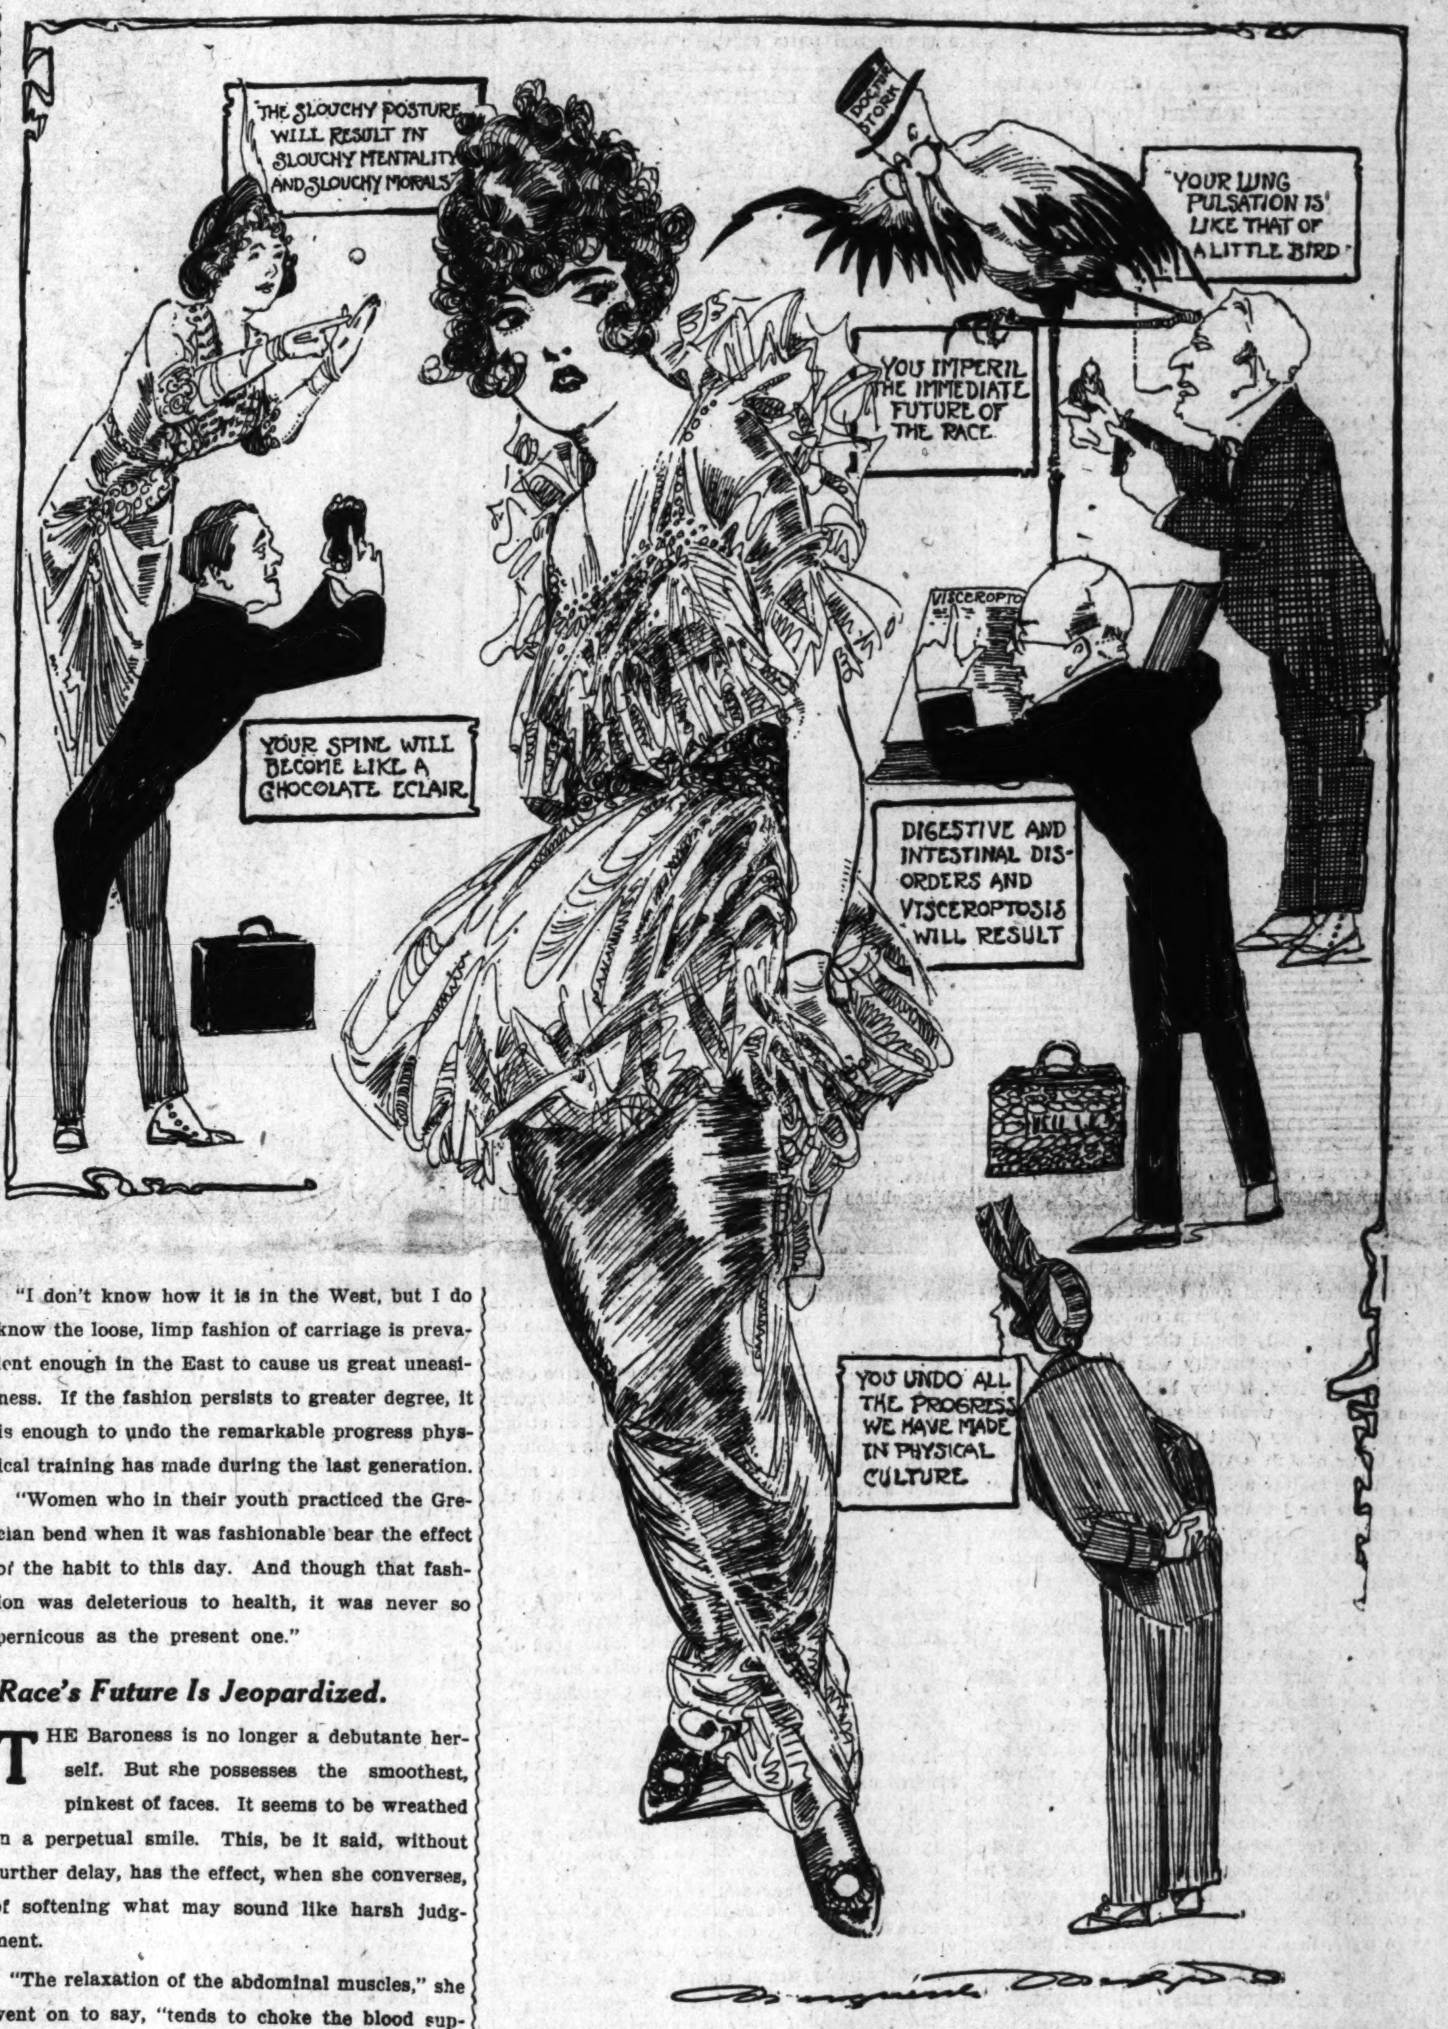
ANOTHER physical educator arose and told of the pains she had been at to circumvent the evil of the fashionable pose among her pupils. Then there were some more remarks from Baroness Posse. The Baroness speaks with authority as president of the second oldest institution of its kind in the country, the Posse Normal School of Gymnastics, Boston. And she speaks with the force of example.

She is the gentlest as well as the most intellectually cultured of women. "No slouch" of a figure she, and far from being unstylish in her afternoon toilette. A foulard silk gown with a great deal of Irish point applique, inclosed a figure of subtle curves and lines, neither stiffly boned nor doubtfully stayed. Long white gloves, a chain of brilliants, a chic blue hat and many dainty details made her seem quite a "dressy" person.

"The spinal column of the girl of today is becoming like unto a chocolate eclair, as an eminent Boston physician remarked to me," quoth the Baroness, "and it is my belief that these slouchy postures induce mental slouchiness, to say nothing of moral slouchiness."

For your consolation, dear girls, Dr. Joseph Stewart, superintendent of hygiene in our St. Louis schools, arose to remark that he thought the debutante slouch a transitory fad that would go the way of other fashions before serious harm could come of it.

But the Baroness, when I sought her out after the meeting had adjourned, reiterated and reinforced her statements.



THE SLOUCHY POSTURE WILL RESULT IN SLOUCHY MENTALITY AND SLOUCHY MORALS DOCTOR STORK
"YOUR LUNG PULSATION IS LIKE THAT OF A LITTLE BIRD" YOU IMPERIL THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE OF THE RACE
VISCEROPTO
YOUR SPINE WILL BECOME LIKE A CHOCOLATE ECLAIR
DIGESTIVE AND INTESTINAL DISORDERS AND VISCEROPTOSIS WILL RESULT
YOU UNDO ALL THE PROGRESS WE HAVE MADE IN PHYSICAL CULTURE
Marguerite Martyn

"I don't know how it is in the West, but I do know the loose, limp fashion of carriage is prevalent enough in the East to cause us great uneasiness. If the fashion persists to greater degree, it is enough to undo the remarkable progress physical training has made during the last generation.

"Women who in their youth practiced the Grecian bend when it was fashionable bear the effect of the habit to this day. And though that fashion was deleterious to health, it was never so pernicous as the present one."

Race's Future Is Jeopardized.

THE Baroness is no longer a debutante herself. But she possesses the smoothest, pinkest of faces. It seems to be wreathed in a perpetual smile. This, be it said, without further delay, has the effect, when she converses, of softening what may sound like harsh judgment.

"The relaxation of the abdominal muscles," she went on to say, "tends to choke the blood supply—to impede the development of important organs and to weaken important muscles. If this fashion is persisted in I tremble to think what its effect may be upon the immediate future of the race." I felt impelled to enter a protest here.

"But the Vensu of Milo, she stands with an unmistakable slouch," I began.

"I approve of classic statuary in our homes and in public places, as does our friend, Dr. Tell Berggren." That young enthusiast has just been speaking on behalf of the nude in art as a means of fastening physical ideas. He had gone so far as to declare himself in favor of nude bathing at public pools—separating the sexes—to encourage physical perfection.

"I believe splendid physical examples should be held up as models, that it is time all mystery enveloping our bodies were removed. But with sculpture, too often ideals of strength and health are sacrificed to beauty of line or some other effect."

I don't know how the unqualified condemnation of what I had looked upon as trivial, a caprice of frivolous fashion, strikes my women readers. I confess I was becoming alarmed. Is it all over for the person who confesses to a sneaking admiration for the trailing, drooping ladies pictured by Drian and the rest of the new fashion artists? Is there really no hope for women guilty of nothing more culpable than the desire to be "in style"? I felt moved to ask.

Physical Training the Antidote.

"IT is never too late to begin physical training," promptly responded Baroness Posse.

"I have taught women of 60 and 70 to swim and swimming is the most thorough exercise for women. There are few ills that cannot be reached and remedied by some form of gymnastic exercise. Moreover, there are few women who do not need some form of corrective exercise. The housewife with her backache, the desk worker with her headache, the shop girl with her weary feet, any woman tired from some overexertion, may discover the corrective in gymnastics. The woman with the tired feeling may regard the proposal of further physical exercise as imposition. But rest often is obtained from a change of activity. An hour's utter relaxation in a dark room may cure some cases of nerves and, of course, one cannot prescribe a general course of exercises for all women. Each case should preferably be treated individually. I would advise consultation with a competent physical trainer, where it is possible. But often a specialist, or the gymnasium, or the time required, are not available to the busy woman who really needs these things most."

"Isn't housework very good exercise in itself?" I interrupted. "No," replied the expert. "On the contrary, woman's physical improvement is due largely to the introduction of labor-saving devices. It is impossible to breathe correctly in the midst of dust and unfavorable temperatures or to stand erect while making beds, ironing, leaning over the cook stove, etc."

For the woman who cannot afford the advantages of gymnasium training Baroness Posse offered a series of simple exercises which, with her long experience, she recommends most highly. I got out my sketch book and elsewhere on this page are reproduced the movements as she demonstrated them before me.

Some Corrective Exercises.

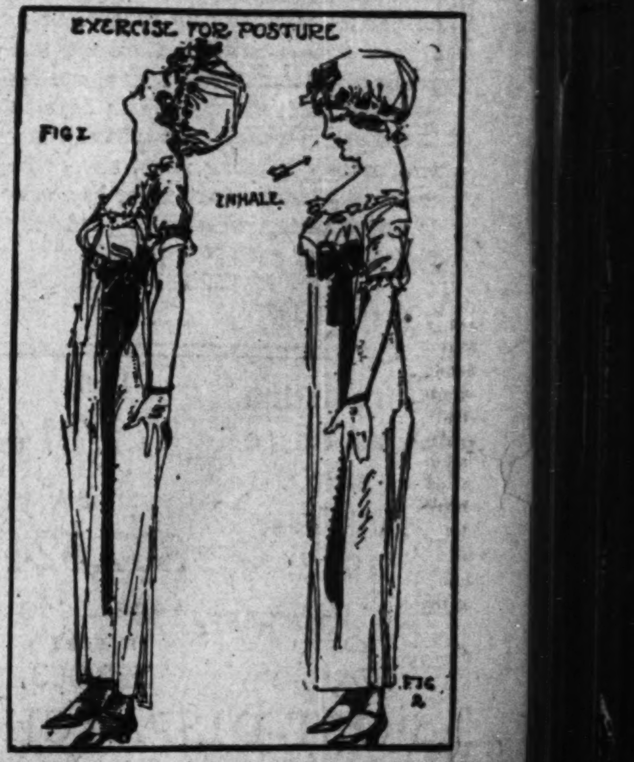
THE action pictured in figures 1 and 2 will help to correct improper carriage. Let debutante slouchers stand right up now and try it!

For the housewife with the backache the second exercise is recommended. It is when there is too much blood in the small veins in the back, drawn there by bending that women have backache. The remedy is to draw the blood away from the back, to distribute it generally over all parts of the body.

Rising on tiptoe and reaching upward with the arms as illustrated will do this. Rising on tiptoe also strengthens the arch of the foot which has grown flat and painful with too much standing. Always the Baroness emphasized "breathe deep and have all the fresh air available in your rooms."

"This set of exercises, while so simple, will do more to refresh tired nerves and recreate worn bodies than a dozen other exercises I might give you," said she.

"And especially do I recommend them to the girl who, with this slovenly carriage, is defying all the rules of health, if not of intellect and morals, by refusing to stand upright."



"As in first figure, let the head fall back as far as it naturally will. Draw it up gradually while taking a long breath, drawing chin in as in Fig. 2. You can just feel the muscles of the chest being strengthened."

Stand erect, heels together, hands hanging at sides naturally. Raise the arms slowly until the hands are as far above the head as possible. With elbows flexed, palms outspread, reach, stretch, inhale.

While arms are raised and fingers are reaching their utmost extension, it is well to rise on tiptoe quickly. Let arms down gradually to sides again, exhaling. The little lift gives an added effect of forcing more air into the lungs. Do this exercise three times and rest. Repeat often during the day.

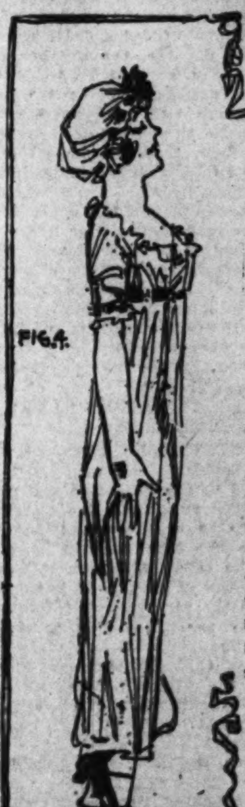

FIG. 4

A good exercise for the woman whose feet are tired and whose back aches from stooping is to stand perfectly erect, heels together, rise quickly on tiptoe, inhaling. Stand so a second (Fig. 4). Gradually lower heels, letting breath out. Do this three times and rest. Repeat frequently.

Exercise for increasing chest capacity.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Rights of the Several States.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In a recent issue "American Patriot" takes issue with the statement of a pupil that "the several states control the Federal Government," saying he lost sight of the fact that the Civil War settled that question—that the Federal Government controls the states. As "American Patriot" is well versed in history and civil government, he should know that in the convention that framed the Constitution it was proposed to abandon the federal system and substitute a general national government over all the states, as one body politic, but was lost, only three states voting for it. Again, the Government of the United States was created by the states. Read Article VII of the Constitution. It is a Government of states, for states and by states. Chief Justice Marshall says: "It is true, that if the states, or a majority of them, refuse to elect Senators, the legislative powers of the Union will be suspended." Evidently the pupil's statement is correct. Mr. Raquet of St. Lou's, editor of the first abolition paper published in Ohio, wrote a letter which was published in the Post-Dispatch March 13, 1908. If "American Patriot" never read this letter he should do so, then tell us why Mr. Lincoln prosecuted the war and what question has been settled for all time by that war. I will venture this statement and challenge "American Patriot" to successfully refute it—if the Federal Government controls the several states, it does so by usurpation and in violation of law and justice.

Marriage a Miracle.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Corra Harris announces marriage as a miracle which has failed because conditions of life have changed. Men are no longer husbands and fathers so much as they are citizens, financiers, wage earners, persons who live outside of the home and whose interests are too much on the outside. During the month of June, 1911, there were 200 that asked for divorce, the number of divorces granted that year amounted to 944. These conditions would not exist without some adequate cause. What causes men to lead a single life? It is not because they want to, but because conditions force them to do so. A willing worker, under existing conditions, is not positive whether tomorrow morning he will have a master to sell his labor to, in order to obtain the necessities of life, therefore he leads a bachelor life.

Is a man to be blamed if he hesitates to get married when the uncertainty of employment is staring him in the face? The uncertainty of a job can only be stopped when the machinery of production and distribution are owned by the people collectively. The worker will then be granted the right to sell his labor and receive in exchange of labor expended the full social value of the product of his labor.

GEO. GERDES.

ST. LOUIS' USE OF THE INITIATIVE.

From the New York World.

St. Louis has resorted to the initiative and referendum to overcome the suspicious indifference of the House of Delegates to the completion of the free bridge across the Mississippi that was begun years ago by the city. Although millions have been spent upon the structure, it has been left hanging useless in the air through failure to build the land approaches. That this situation favored the bridge monopoly at St. Louis at the expense of the city, and that the House of Delegates, differing with the Council, persisted in holding up the improvement, made it imperative that unusual means should be found to force action in the public interest.

The law under which the people of St. Louis proceeded requires that 25 per cent of the voters at the last election shall join in the initiative, as compared with 5 per cent in some Western states. As a matter of fact, in St. Louis in the free bridge matter nearly 50 per cent of the voters went on record as supporting the movement to put compulsion on the municipal legislature. It is manifest that the reluctance of the House of Delegates to do its duty has given general offense. It has suffered a severe rebuke.

In this exceptional case St. Louis has furnished an interesting illustration of how the initiative, when properly safeguarded, may be made to serve the public in a great emergency in wringing relief from negligent or untrustworthy officials. To employ such a weapon constantly on the hasty or frivolous demand of an inconsiderable fraction of the voters, as proposed in certain states, is only to introduce confusion into the government by opening the way to every kind of agitator. St. Louis had extreme provocation, and the necessities of the case induced more than a third of the voters to express emphatic disapproval of the branch of government responsible for obstructing a necessary work. There must be action now.

UNWORTHY OF CONGRESS.

The system under which each Representative in Congress is given the services of a private secretary at taxpayers' expense makes the disposition of the money dependent on the Representative's word. A member who does not scruple to certify wrongfully in drawing the money can put it in his own pocket. The system is vicious in its possibilities for petty graft, but the congressional beneficiaries who instituted it resist every attempt to change it.

Defeating a hopeful effort to reform its mileage graft, the House proceeded recklessly to enlarge the pickings from the clerical hire graft. It has increased the allowance for a secretary from $1500 to $1800 for each member. Members who approved it virtually voted to increase their own salary.

The action cannot escape the odium of an impudent salary grab. It would be unworthy of a Congress at any time. It is particularly unworthy of a Congress that not only is wrestling with the problem of restoring the Government to the people, but is under pledge of economy.

FIFTH GREATEST MISSOURI THINKER.

Mr. Benton Corwin, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch, has referred to himself and some others as "we who think."

The reference is entirely justifiable. We will go further. Conscious thinking differentiates the performance from the unconscious cerebrators whose psychological processes are purely reflex, and furthermore the conscious thinker who will boldly assert that he is a thinker demonstrates the possession of an ego which entitles him at once to a high place among the intellectually elect.

The distinction is very marked between those who think but keep it to themselves, so that they are never suspected, and those who are not ashamed to think out loud and even with a megaphone. It is the distinction which separates generals and colonels from mere mental privates. The bold leaders of thought give command and direction to the vast silent forces at their backs.

The Missouri thinking contest going on under our modest auspices has had no worthier eligible than Mr. Corwin, and it is with a deep sense of gratification that we announce him winner of the fifth heat and Missouri's Fifth Greatest Thinker by an easy margin.

WHY THEY LEFT THE FARM.

During February and March the Sunday Post-Dispatch has published numerous letters in answer to the inquiry put by William Hirth, publisher of the Missouri Farmer, "Why did you leave the farm?" These answers are from men and women who left the farm some years ago and have had varied experiences in the city.

Some of the reasons given for abandoning farm life are long hours of labor, lack of society, hog cholera, drouth, sickness, death of parents, loan sharks, mortgages.

Generally speaking, the reasons given do not prove the undesirableness of farm life. And most of the writers admit that, in point of health, freedom, wholesome food and opportunity for gaining a competence, the farm outpoints the city. They have generally found that their rural view of city life and opportunity was a delusion, and several stated that, if they had to make the decision again, they would stay on the farm. Some were making every effort to return.

The letter of Julius Wegner, published Feb. 22, summed the matter up. He said that there is no such excuse for leaving the farm today as there was, say 40 years ago. "There are few attractions in the city today that the farmer boy cannot enjoy at home about as often as is beneficial to him."

What the writers did not show a realization of is the fact that, since their farm days, agriculture has been revolutionized. The modern scientific farmer has less fear of drouth, of hog cholera or the other perils that proved too much for his predecessor. With selected seed, a knowledge of soils, of "dry farming," of fertilizers; with improved machinery, better roads, use of telephone, rural free delivery, parcel post and other modern innovations, farming has become a business and a source of intellectual satisfaction. It is losing its drudgery, its loneliness and its lack of appeal to the mental faculties. It challenges the best a man has to offer, in skill, inventiveness and industry.

OUR STARVED RURAL SCHOOLS.

Improvement of rural schools is the great issue on which at least some progressive action is demanded on town meeting day next Tuesday.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch's description of school conditions in rural Missouri presented no fact not fully attested on the official authority of State Superintendent W. P. Evans. These conditions are typical of those prevalent in a broad stretch of territory in the Southwest.

Of the 9381 country schools in this State, Mr. Evans has shown that only 7 per cent have any proper facilities for heating and ventilation. Only 4 per cent of them maintain the standards enabling them to qualify for the moderate requirements of the department's "approved list," whereas 60 per cent of the schools in Missouri towns are entered on that list. The value of Missouri school property has increased 100 per cent in the last 10 years, but practically all this increase has been in the towns. Such increase as there has been in some rural places but little more than counterbalances depreciation in other rural places.

Supt. Evans goes unhesitatingly to the heart of the problem when he declares that nearly 96 per cent of our rural schools are on the unapproved, inefficient list simply because rural residents refuse or neglect to pay for better schools. He says:

> Towns with an assessed valuation about equal to that of a well-to-do rural district maintain six teachers, including a one-teacher high school. The average rural district sends all its children to a one-teacher school in a shed that is poorer and cheaper and less fit for school purposes than three-fourths of the barns in the district.

The subject calls for plain speaking. Country districts not only employ a teaching force vastly inferior in numbers to that of town districts of equal wealth, but they refuse to pay the inadequate numbers they do employ a salary sufficient for their support. Living cost has doubled in 20 years, but the rural teacher's pay shows little or no increase. Earnest teachers whose associations and training would incline them to remain in the country and help solve the great problem of rural education are starved out. They must go to the towns to make a living.

The problem is one the 9381 rural districts in Missouri and the tens of thousands in other states must work out for themselves. They cannot have decent schools unless they pay for them. They should be roused to the duty of more generous support. In every one of these 96 per cent of delinquent Missouri districts, town meeting day should see a fight begun to authorize larger levies for teachers' salaries, for habitable, better-appointed schoolhouses, for dictionaries and other works of reference and necessary educational appliances.

MR. LANE'S CONSERVATION VIEWS.

Secretary of the Interior Lane, recently interviewed by the New York Evening Post, takes a sensible view of the problem of the conservation of public resources. Speaking with special reference to water sites he says he is seeking a plan to utilize such resources without turning them over to perpetual private ownership. He wants to retain public ownership on terms that will tempt capital to use the natural resources, but will protect the people against the permanent seizure of them for private profit and public oppression. The Secretary's object is clearly stated:

> I am interested just now in the streams of the West, which flow over public lands. These lands must be irrigated. The waters must be used for power. We are not ready to go into the power business ourselves—as a people. We must have the power, among other things, for our railroads, which are such expensive users of coal that they are getting only the smallest fraction of heat out of that coal. Most of it goes through the smokestacks.
> The power is a necessity for light, and it should be in common use for heating homes as well. No one can guess—not even a man like H. G. Wells—what this power of our flowing streams will be used for fifty years from now.
> And so I do not want to see it given away for all time—an irrevocable, irreparable grant that society will condemn. Since all of us won't join together or can't, to turn this power to use, we may surely allow some to unite—those with the imagination, the know-how, and the money.
> They will do the work and put the power at our service. But they must not take this as forever their own. The right must come back to us to do what we want with this so-recently discovered force. We must hold the key to this cave of treasure. We should not sacrifice the present for the future, for there won't be any future if we don't use the present properly. This is true of industry and economics as of other phases of life. We may not justly let every man put his hand into the jar and take out what he pleases, for there is no jar that can't be emptied. There is a limit to land, to forests, to coal, to phosphates, to water, to power sites.

Franchises for reasonable periods which will offer ample returns on capital with the right on the part of the State or nation to purchase at a fair appraisement is the Secretary's suggested plan. Equitable regulation of rates and service he advises as necessary for the protection of consumers.

The importance of conservation cannot be overestimated. We are fortunate to have a Secretary of the Interior who brings to its solution strong conviction of the necessity of conserving resources for the future with clear ideas of present needs and the relative interests of investors and the public.

DEFAMATORY SERMONS.

It is not often that an evangelist can be touched on the pocket nerve, but Mr. Bill Sunday is an exception:

> NEW YORK, March 31.—Charles Bell, through his counsel, Thomas M. Rowlett, has begun suit in the Supreme Court against William Sunday, "baseball evangelist," for $25,000 damages. He says that in a sermon at Wilkes Barre, Pa., on March 3, "Sunday spoke false and defamatory words concerning him."

Whether the words complained of were false is not for us to say. But that evangelists are often reckless in their comment on sinners is a fact which many people know. It has not been long since the Rev. Torrey in St. Louis said of victims caught in the M. A. C. fire that "men had prayed that night who never prayed before"—which latter was a rash and cruel presumption, to say the least.

It is distressing that the pulpit should be called to account in the court for a want of truth as well as of charity.

ADVICE TO HARVEY W. II.

Tempus fugit, Harvey, and as we understand that you already talk Latin, here is some advice, partly in that lingo, which may be of use to you when you come to fight the food adulterators, pro bono publico.

Remember, Harvey, that the enforcement of the Pure Food law is flebile ludibrium, a deplorable mockery. It is up to you to do what Papa Wiley could not accomplish, to quelch the Food Trust manu forti, with the strong hand. We know it is a hard task—hinc illae lacrymae. But we believe that you, with lots of dog Latin, may pursue it cum laude.

Fortes fortuna adjuvat, Harvey, and we hope you will be as brave as Papa. Don't forget that the American people are complaining: Mi date crata per cacio, "you gave me chalk for cheese." That is Italian, near enough Latin to be understood by you. But, ubi jus, ibi remedium, where law is there is remedy. And you must learn law as well as Latin if you would save the country.

When you grow up and understand the value of money, Harvey, remember the saying, Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes, and don't let the trusts bribe you when you are off guard.

Finally, as Virgil said: Macte nova virtute, puer; sic itur ad astra—Go on and grow in valor, O boy! this is the path to immortality.

PROTEST.

Scene: Any City Which Did Not Get a Regional Bank.

FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS OF THIS OUTRAGED COMMUNITY: As you all know, the name of our beloved city is not in the list of those which are to have regional banks. We have been treacherously dealt with, our just claims have been ignored, and we suffer the humiliation of seeing ourselves jobbed out of our rights. The natural flow of trade has been dammed and turned backward. We are to contemplate the amazing spectacle of great cities like our own paying tribute to commercial weaklings like Richmond, Va., and Atlanta, Ga. Our confidence in the national administration has been betrayed, our pride has been trampled in the dirty mire of political logrolling, and we are denied a place in American trade which it has taken us a hundred years to win. Had we rolled dice for these banks the outcome could not have been more ridiculous. Had we pulled straws for them the distribution could not have been more unequal. Knowing what they were going to do all the time, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Agriculture went through the motions of making an economic investigation. What was the result? I'll tell you what it was, my friends. The economics of the situation—that is the flow of trade—showed that there ought to be a regional bank at Richmond, Va., the home of Mr. John Skelton Williams, a member of the Reserve Board; another at Atlanta, Ga., the former home of Mr. McAdoo, and two more in Missouri, the home of Mr. Houston! (Laughter.) If the President himself had been on the board the economics of the situation, viewed in the light of what we have learned from Adam Smith, Malthus and Henry George, would also have required a regional bank at Princeton University! (Laughter.) But to be serious: When this matter came up, we were led to suppose that the board would at least confine itself to cities made by the principal circuses. We did not guess that the city which has the most clay banks, or in which someone in authority happened to be born, were to be considered. No more dastardly outrage has been committed in this country since the republic was established. If we resorted to arms, as they are doing in Ulster, caused disaffections in the army and divided the country against itself, we would be doing no more than that to which we have been provoked. Nobody said anything about the possibility of winning a bank with tobacco coupons, as they seem to have done at Richmond, Va., or taking one of them into the Southwest for its health, as they appear to have done at Dallas, Tex. Our understanding was that the sole consideration was business. Thus, friends, were we deceived. I am a Republican! (Prolonged cheering.)

'Twas a night crisp and clear in December,
With the wind cutting keenly and chill,
And the moon bathed in cold mystic splendor
The little stone church on the hill.

Looming out 'neath the pale silvery moonlight,
Like great sentinels—watchful and still—
Her twin towers grimly guarding the entrance
To the little stone church on the hill.

The organ pealed forth low and tender,
Like the lilt of a clear winding rill,
Sweet voices harmoniously blending
In the little stone church on the hill.

Soft lights gleamed from the richly stained windows,
An emblem of peace and good-will,
And bright heralds of the night twinkled kindly
O'er the little stone church on the hill.

As I gazed in awed contemplation,
My soul seemed to quiver and thrill,
In the presence of something supernal,
Near the little stone church on the hill.

A St. Louis multimillionaire has changed his residence to another state to avoid taxation. Like Mr. Rockefeller, he knows where he can live cheaper. Rich people are having a very moving experience in these days of more equitable taxation. Judging by the way they are hopping over border lines and crossing seas, it is not to be long until they are to be confronted by the necessity for having a country of their own. When they have to pay the same rate of taxation that poor people pay there is absolutely no fun in being rich, and they are not having a good time at all any more.

From the Sioux City Tribune.

New York speculators admittedly have been worrying about future funds to carry on their operations, as a result of the new currency system, which is primarily designed to promote better conditions for regular commercial papers.

After extended study of the situation the stock exchange experts have come to the conclusion that the contemplated establishment of an open discount market will be a slow process and that a very generous supply of funds will continue as available for stock market operations, although at considerably higher rates than prevailed under former conditions.

The discoveries made by the stock exchange interests are most convincing as to the general merits of the new financial system. There is no general public desire to deprive the New Yorkers of the privilege of borrowing money where they can meet standard requirements on interest rates and security. It was the absolute control of the money and credit situation by a crowd of unscrupulous stock gamblers that gave offense.

With New York the practical reserve center of the entire nation, the result has been, aside from centralizing control, to foster wildcat speculations that would give promise of revenue to the glutted New York banks, while legitimate business interests in other sections of the country were deprived of due consideration.

A PORTO RICAN REPUBLIC?

From the Boston Post.

The measure introduced in Congress by Luiz Munoz Rivera, resident commissioner from Porto Rico, looks to the establishment of that island as an independent nationality. Instead of making the islanders citizens of the United States, it provides for a citizenship of Porto Rico, which in the course of consolidation and development shall constitute a new republic.

Porto Rico is becoming rapidly Americanized; its educational, industrial, financial, commercial systems have developed under our influence and by our support. But unquestionably its people are not fitted, through their long suppression under Spanish regime, for self-government. To this they must grow up.

The mistake on our part was the refusal of United States citizenship to this people; they should have been let in on the same conditions as others in our territorial possessions. Senor Rivera says that they "eagerly sought" this citizenship 10 years ago; but that now they "choose to remain simply citizens of Porto Rico, with the later possibility of national independence."

It is unthinkable that this island shall be turned over to the rapacity of local politicians under present conditions. It is now, and should remain, a possession of the United States.

Desperate Juveniles.

From the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Of the 12,000 children arrested in New York last year, the great majority had committed such heinous offenses as playing ball or marbles on the street, using roller skates or flying kites. When children are denied by law the right either to work or to play, their surplus energies may take even more dangerous channels than kite flying.

From the Syracuse Herald.

When a woman wants to economize she likes to cut it out of what the family eats, and when a man proposes economy he wants to take it out of what his wife wears.

Tolls Repeal Debate

TAKE A PLEBISCITE.

Washington Post: How many are for repeal and how many are against it? What are the arguments? How is the question looked at in the South? What does the West think? How about the East? Where stands the North? Congress ought to ascertain the popular will on this vital question. No vote should be taken until the people can be heard from. This is a question for the people themselves to pass upon. The people should write or telegraph to their Senators and Representatives, if it is only a line. Let Congress have the benefit of the public opinion.

THE PRESIDENT IS RIGHT.

Indianapolis News: Every one knows that our foreign relations are not what they should be. The President solemnly assured Congress that repeal of this toll exemption provision was the indispensable first step to setting them right. The people believe him, as they well may do. The first thing is to assure the world that when we make a treaty we shall abide by it. We must undo the bad work of the last few years, and restore our foreign policy to its original high estate. South America, for instance, knows that we "took" Panama in flat violation of our treaty with Colombia. The passage of this repeal bill will do much to reassure our neighbors. The President is right, and he was sustained for that reason. We have no doubt that Congress will follow his leadership.

THE PEOPLE WILL UNDERSTAND.

Washington Herald: Just at the moment Speaker Clark and the others standing out against repeal of the canal tolls exemption doubtless have popular approval on their side because of the false interpretation placed upon the issue and widely disseminated by the opponents of repeal. Their effective weapon has been the representation of the President as truckling to the wishes and demands of Great Britain, a ruse which has never failed to gain the temporary support of those who do their thinking when the trouble is ended. The possibility is remote, but it may be that the jingo approval will abide with Speaker Clark yet awhile, but the most vivid imagination will fail to stretch it so far that it may be made an issue in the campaign of 1916. Long before the party conventions the people of the country will see the question as the President sees it now and give his statesmanship just praise.

THE PRESIDENT AS "A CZAR."

Pittsburg Press: The fight is more than a mere difference of opinion as to what any treaty means, or as to whether it is right to make American ships pay their share (through taxes) of the cost of the canal and then pay the same tolls as foreign ships besides. The President might have got on the wrong side of those questions of detail and still saved his moral authority. But when he asks his party to give England the right to prescribe the rules for the management of a waterway, every foot of which passes through American soil and every dollar of whose cost was paid for by the American people, he should not attempt to prevent discussion by adoption of the gag rule. Gag law under Cannon in Congress was the chief reason why the people turned the Republican party out. In resorting to its use to force the Democratic party to break its platform pledges,

Echoes From Ulster

SPOTLIGHT NOW ON ASQUITH.

New York World: The reconstruction of the Liberal Cabinet, with Mr. Asquith's new undertaking as its striking central fact, will draw attention from the resignation upon which Gen. French and Gen. Ewart insist. They are dismissed with regrets and with compliments. But they are no longer, nor is Ulster, the spotlight center of the political stage. For the moment, East Fife, what is said there and its verdict at the polls will divide interest unevenly with the routine proceedings of the House upon the home rule bill.

ARMY REFORM WILL RESULT.

Washington Post: Once the Government regains its equipoise and the profound reaction has brought all democracy in its train, Parliament will surely proceed to deaden aristocratic influences around the throne and institute army reforms that will practically eliminate Gen. Gough and the entire coterie of officers who are violent tory partisans. Ulster, too, must suffer by reason of the rashness and folly of those of its allies who have flung themselves athwart the course of popular government. With the backbone of tory support broken, submission to the inevitable can but be hastened.

COERCERS WERE COERCED.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: It may be said that Mr. Asquith has "avoided civil war." We shall never know whether he did or not, since he plainly feared to bring the question to an issue. As a result, instead of coercing Ulster, the Asquith ministry has been publicly coerced by a few score military strikers. It is to be hoped that the majority of Irishmen will not now fail to reap the home rule harvest for which they have wrought so long and with such sacrifices. From this distance their chief danger seems to be not the rifles of the Ulstermen but the weakness and spineless wabbling of the Asquith ministry.

WILL ULSTER STILL RESIST?

Chicago Record-Herald: The Government still has a majority of 100 and can put its home rule bill through. Under the anti-veto act that bill will become law even if the lords reject it a third time. In the act the Ulster exclusion feature is to be retained in any event. Will the Ulster Unionists, in and out of the army, deliberately resist, not the coercion of Ulster, but the application of the act in the rest of Ireland? Lord Cromer and other opponents of the home rule bill have already admonished the Tories and their army supporters that Europe is a witness of the affair and that problems are "up" on which Britain must speak as a united nation. How many of the tories will on mature reflection encourage mutiny and defection in the army? How many will take the ground, even by implication, that the army can play politics and decide which acts of Parliament it will recognize or respect? It would not be surprising if, in spite of the sneers and taunts of Balfour and Bonar Law, the flurry in Ulster and the army should actually facilitate an agreement between Asquith and the opposition in regard to home rule. The British are steady and sober-minded, and they can find a "formula" for Ireland and Ulster if national interest, honor and prestige demand it.

Woodrow Wilson has forfeited his right any longer to pose as a real Democrat. He has started a conflict which is irrepressible—a conflict between democracy and autocracy. He has assumed the role of Czar, and democrats of all parties will vigorously and patriotically contest his assumption, just as they did when W. H. Taft forced the same issue upon them. The country will grieve over Mr. Wilson's tragic blunder, but its sympathies will be wholly with the men who are standing for national rights and free speech in Congress.

THE END IS NOT YET.

Washington Times: The whole history of legislation and especially the history of legislation in recent years, with the growing progressivism of the Senate, shows that legislation is not enacted when it leaves the House. Generally, it is only begun. Proof of this can be found in the study of the course of railroad rate legislation or tariff legislation or currency legislation within the last several years. This being so, it more and more clearly appears that the forcing on the House of the gag rule which cut to a few days the debate over one of the most important measures before Congress in recent years, was indefensible, even if viewed from the standpoint of expediency alone. It has added to the intensity of the controversy and, in the long run, instead of having shortened it, has lengthened it.

Speaker vs. President

SHOWS WILSON TRUE LEADER.

Milwaukee Journal: If anyone has doubted the rightness of the decision made at Baltimore between Wilson and Clark, the present instance ought to convince them that no mistake was made. Wholly apart from the evidence of the vast difference in the caliber of the two men, there is this direct evidence of difference in fundamental belief. Speaker Clark is found on the side of a subsidy, a principle opposed to the belief of his party and to the conviction of the vast majority of American voters without regard to party. Could there be clearer evidence that Mr. Wilson was the leader the party needed?

CLARK'S DOUBTFUL FUTURE.

Indianapolis Star: Clark has the making of his future. It is unthinkable that the presidency should ever be his, now, but there still lies before him the verdict of history that here was one with a heroic size of mind unpoisoned by prideful hate. The country can sympathize with the state of mind of a man whose ambition has been thwarted, but it is in no mood to be patient with him who would monumentalize a grudge.

"CLARK AND HEARST."

Indianapolis News: Once again the Democrats are called on to choose between the Wilson leadership and the Champ Clark leadership. That is the real issue that is presented by the Speaker's pompous statement. It is Baltimore over again. The question is not whether the Democrats will "change our foreign policy," but whether they will reverse the Baltimore decision which was ratified at the polls. Once again it is Wilson and Bryan against Clark and Hearst. The control of the next national convention is—or may be—the prize. We do not believe that the Democratic party is weary of well-doing, or that it will repudiate its great leader. President Wilson was never stronger with the people than he is today. And it is with the people that the Democrats in Congress would have to reckon should they turn from Wilson and Bryan to Clark and Hearst.

SMOKED OUT.

New York Tribune: It would be grotesque to credit Champ Clark, the rampant foe of privilege and special legislation, with any genuine interest in the bestowal of subsidies on coastwise shipping. The Speaker was looking ahead to 1916, and was anxious to put whatever obstacles he could in the way of Mr. Wilson's renomination, should the latter ignore the Baltimore platform's declaration in regard to second terms. It is lucky for the President that he has smoked out the Speaker on an issue on which he is right and Mr. Clark is wrong. The anti-Wilson ambush was cleverly planned. But so poor was the Clark-Underwood argument that only one Democrat out of every five in the House of Representatives would accept it. On such a showing the failure in the Senate of the anti-Wilson coalition seems also assured.

CLARK'S OPPORTUNITY.

Topeka Daily Capital: Opponents of the treaty have played on the Speaker's ambition by the tempting suggestion that he "burn his bridges behind him," take the floor, attack the administration's policy in foreign affairs and end by announcing for his own part a "strong" foreign policy. Such a fight on the administration by the Speaker will be taken all over the land as the "opening gun" of 1916. He received a majority of the votes of the Baltimore convention, the only candidate for the presidency who ever received a majority convention vote and failed of the nomination. He can "come back" as the presidential possibility, and now's his time. "Opportunity knocks but once." So thinks the coastwise shipping interests, which will stop at nothing to get their special privilege of freedom from canal tolls. It is taking a big chance, but for a big prize. Today the Speaker must decide whether he will go in with the enemies of the administration, the probability being that he will prudently decide not to "burn his bridges."

The Railroad Crisis

A HOPEFUL SIGN.

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph: One of the surest indications of returning confidence in business is the demand for freight cars. On March 15 there were 29,042 fewer idle freight cars than at the beginning of the month. On Jan. 15 there were 214,889 empty cars. Now there are 124,865, or 90,024 less. The movement of freight means a live market.

MUST SHOW GOOD FAITH.

New York World: If it can be shown that the railroads really need higher rates to maintain efficiency and expand with the needs of the country, there will be less opposition to the grant than there would have been five years ago. But they should come into court with clean hands. There should be no room for suspicion that they are bled by leeches or risking labor wars to impress public sentiment. For such activities the present time is not opportune.

GOVERNMENT ACTION BLAMED.

Philadelphia Ledger: For the first time in the history of industrial America the Government has taken up arms against the railroads. It is as if the hands should be used to destroy the veins and arteries of the body. Railroads are the arteries of the body politic. Through them flows the national blood. Today, railway freights and passenger transportation are lower than in any other country on earth and the capital invested in railways earns less than it would receive in any other investment; with the result that the twentybillions of railroad bonds and stocks are worth less than par, and show a depreciation since 1906 of about $5,000,000,000. This fact alone will account for the chill in business, felt throughout the whole country.

UP TO COMMERCE COMMISSION.

New York Times: If the Interstate Commerce Commission has any confidence in itself, or in its accounts of the railways' condition, it is in a better position than any other authority to decide for itself forthwith, asking for no arguments. The official figures show that the commission has heretofore misjudged and acted in error upon the reports to it. That is the substance and the merit of the railways' appeal. The railways now are suffering one of the most serious reverses in their history. Their suffering is so severe that it is reflected among industrial investments. It cannot be long before the country in general must suffer from the reductions of dividends in both railways and industrial corporations. The Supreme Court itself has flinched from the results of the rigor of its law, and has reconsidered judgments which were impolitic. The Interstate Commission need not fear the country's reproaches for a retreat from its untenable position that it is infallible, and must refuse advances of rates because it has been accustomed to do so.

IS IT PLAYING POLITICS?

Pittsburg Dispatch: Much is made by a certain class of newspapers concerning the laying off of men by the Pennsylvania Railroad. There is no doubt of the correct policy of laying off men when there is not work for them. But two features are present in this case which can hardly fail to attract attention. One is that a wise policy will not exaggerate such a tendency; the other is that the papers which make column displays of the fact that the railroad has cut down its forces one-sixth are Republican organs. It may be worth while to pay some attention to the fact that very wide-awake men in the steel business of Pittsburg have expressed their opinion that this is "playing politics." Now politics of that sort may turn out a two-edged sword. It is not beyond experience that powerful interests in this country have started panics for their own purposes, and the panic got too much for them. There is no panic yet, but if powerful people take pains to advertise the discharge of men and their organs make a display of it, there may be one which will cost more than it comes to, for anyone.

A Future Sea Fight

BATTLE BY DEBATE.

Secretary Daniels has decided that the midshipmen at Annapolis need to be carefully schooled in debating.

"The enemy has hove in sight," the gallant Captain roared,
Serve throat pastilles to every man and officer aboard.
Midshipmen, man the megaphones! Deck officers, stand by
To issue drinking water when the speakers' throats go dry.
Crack on a thousand pounds of steam, we'll overhaul their fleet,
And when we've got that earshot range we'll take 'em off their feet!"

Oh! war it is a dreadful thing! In that dark, direful hour,
The most heroic man might quail; the bravest man might cower,
But coolly every sailor there, with calm and steadfast gaze,
Conned o'er his "World's Best Orators" for deadly word or phrase,
And when close on the enemy the flagship checked her course,
A verbal hail swept o'er the rail with terrifying force.

With bitter, biting adjective, with smashing argument,
With fleer and jeer and subtle sneer the atmosphere was rent.
Alliteration's artful aid was blent with apt quotation,
To back up dig and diatribe and discourse and oration,
And in a trice the enemy had yielded to his fate,
No batteries could stand against this broadside of debate!

Now when our rusting rifles rest in lonely solitude,
When all our battleships are scrapped, or served for breakfast food,
The story of that glorious day shall never be forgot—
The day our navy learned to fight with words instead of shot,
And daily at Annapolis the scientists shall teach
Our middies the destructive use of deadly parts of speech. —New Orleans Item.

Chicago's City Store

DAILY SALES OF $9.11.

Indianapolis News: Among other foolish things that have characterized Chicago is a municipal store established in that city, for running which $25,000 was appropriated for the first year. It was opened more than a month ago, and its average daily sales have been $9.11. It is only for persons out of work and who are not property owners. The county agent thinks persons of that kind would rather trade elsewhere than be looked on as charitable subjects.

THE STIGMA OF CHARITY.

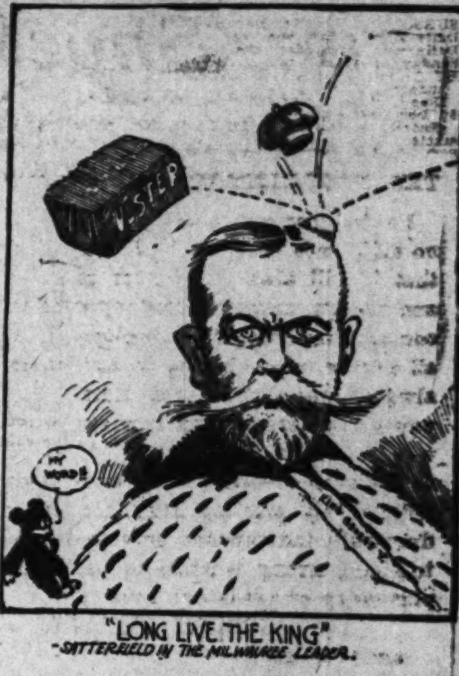
Philadelphia Evening Telegraph: The failure of the Chicago municipal store, which sought to sell groceries at cost, "exclusively to persons out of employment," was to be expected. The store's restrictions placed the stigma of "charity" on all who entered it. The successful store must invite all classes or it will get none.

BUYERS OBJECTS OF SUSPICION.

Louisville Courier-Journal: One of the reasons, perhaps, for the failure to sell more goods was the rigid investigation that was made of the financial conditions of customers. Only persons out of work and not property owners were eligible to deal at the municipal store. The fact that goods were not delivered also may have had something to do with the shortage in custom. Obviously, many of the unemployed did not care to place themselves in the attitude of being objects of charity. Others may have objected to being their own delivery wagon.

POVERTY'S PRIDE.

Philadelphia Evening Times: We are a stiff-necked people, no matter how flat our pocketbooks become. The failure of the municipal store in Chicago is an example of American poverty's pride. The trouble seems to have been that the store was bound up with charity red tape. Every customer had to certify that he was out of work and not an owner of property. He had to be looked up before he was accepted as a customer.



"LONG LIVE THE KING"
—SATTERFIELD IN THE MILWAUKEE LEADER.

Women's Activities

ST. LOUIS FOUNTAIN NUDES.

Washington Herald: The Woman's Protective League of St. Louis is terribly shocked over the bronze figures of two little girls without any clothes on which are intended to adorn a fountain in the public library grounds. The W. C. T. U. also has adopted resolutions of protest. Wonder what they would have done if the figures selected had been those of young women attired in modern style for a walk on the city's fashionable promenades.

QUESTIONS FOR QUEENS.

New York World: The promised coming of Queen Eleanora of Bulgaria as a sort of royal publicity agent of her country's cause opens interesting possibilities. Why should not the Grecian Queen come over with a trunkful of evidence, in rebuttal, of Bulgarian atrocities? Carmen Sylva would be welcomed next, to tell of Roumania's aspirations. A lecture by Queen Mary of England on Ulster's relation to home rule might fill a long felt want; and if the German Empress or Crown Princess would tell us about the Zabern incident we could promise good audiences.

MORE AID FOR MOTHERS.

Philadelphia Evening Times: Another mother has been granted a court order on the County Commissioners for the support of her small children. Judge Gorman gave the order on the theory that the money might as well be paid to the mother for the care of her children at home as to a charitable organization for their maintenance in an orphan asylum. This is common sense. The family is the unit of society, and no family should be broken up and dispersed if it is possible to give the children good care and a sound moral training under the roof where they were born. Charity, no matter how well organized and conducted, cannot supply the place of a mother's love and tender care.

A WOMAN CONDEMNS DOLLS.

Milwaukee Daily News: Charlotte Perkins Gillman says that "we can at least be thankful for the teddy bear, for it is something that little boys as well as girls can play with and like to play with. No toy that develops the 'little mother' element in a child is healthy and normal." It is to be supposed that this lecturer wants little girls to have the same ideas of things as little boys? Why, it seems that these theories are opposed to nature, and the doll for the little girls is as natural, and as beautiful, too, as anything known. The idea that the child playing with her doll is showing an abnormal trait, and is being overdeveloped along wrong lines, is positively insufferable.

CITIZENSHIP FOR WOMEN.

Evening Wisconsin: Woman suffragists, headed by the Rev. Olympia Brown of Wisconsin, president of the Federal Suffrage Association, have been in Washington this week seeking the aid of the House Elections Committee in behalf of the French bill, which would provide that women who are citizens of the United States and possess the qualifications required of men voters, shall be eligible to vote "in all states of the Union at elections for members of the House of Representatives and the United States Senate." If the old interpretation of the Federal Constitution stands, the French bill would be ineffective without amendment of the Constitution as provided for in the resolution which lately failed in the Senate though favored by a majority of the Senators.

Czar Shocked to Hear Daughters Are Tango Mad.

They, Like Rest of Russian Court, Dance It Privately Though Church of Which His Majesty Is the Head, Bans It—Grand Duchess Tatiana, a Gay and Sprightly Debutante, Who Is Fond of Flirting.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—Grand Duchess Titiana, the Czar's second daughter, not quite 17 years old, made her debut in society this season and has attracted much attention. Her beauty (she has a brilliant complexion, nut-brown hair and Grecian nose) is greatly admired, but what interests the court most is her vivacity and independence.

At a ball given recently by the Dowager Czarina, the elderly matrons were shocked by Grand Duchess Tatiana's peals of merry laughter and, most of all, by the way she flirted with several young officers of the imperial guard.

The mothers had trained their daughters to be retiring in the presence of royalty.

Only the Dowager Czarina seemed to enjoy her high spirits. But when the young Grand Duchess manifested an eagerness to dance the tango the fond grandmother drew the line right there.

That dance and others like it have been frowned upon by the Russian orthodox church and lately its displeasure was emphasized by a pastoral letter from Archbishop Mahari, the metropolitan of Moscow, to the clergy under his jurisdiction, directing them to forbid the tango and kindred dances in their parishes.

As the head of the church, the Czar, of course, had to take notice of the Archbishop's injunction, and when he learned of his daughter's frivolity he sent for her and is said to have given her as severe a scolding as his fatherly affection would permit. He asked her how she found out that there was such a dance as the tango."

"Well, papa," she is reported to have said, "all your adjutants know how to dance it and talk a lot about it. You must be deaf if you haven't heard them already."

Whole Court Privately Dances Tango.

Then she informed him that all the young people of the court have been taking private tango lessons. She and her elder sister, Grand Duchess Olga, were taught by Grand Duke Dimitri Pavlovitch, to whom Grand Duchess Olga is said to be secretly engaged.

All St. Petersburg knows how Olga refused to have anything to do with the Crown Princes of Bulgaria and Roumania in turn, when they came here to woo her.

"Prince Boris (of Bulgaria) is a prig and Prince Charles (of Roumania) has no manners," she told her parents. "I will have neither of them. I want to marry a Russian."

These remarks spread through the city and pleased everybody very much. People talk of her as "a real Russian Princess with a will of her own."

Crown Prince Charles arrived in St. Petersburg this week, traveling from the Roumanian frontier in the Czar's special train. It is asserted in well-informed quarters that he was brought here to be paraded and "put through his paces" before Grand Duchess Olga again to see if he could make a favorable impression upon her.

She and her sister Tatiana have brightened up life at Tsarskoe Selo, hitherto very dull on account of the Czarina's bad health. They insist on having pretty dresses and going out to parties given by their grandmother, who is very high-spirited herself. They used to go to visit the Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna a great deal, but after that lady's trouble with her Swedish husband caused royal displeasure the intimacy stopped, much to their disgust.

Court gossip says that Grand Duchess Tatiana is destined to be Queen consort of England some day. If she does marry the Prince of Wales many skirmishes with Queen Mary are foretold—for the young Princess has a will of her own and is, besides, very intelligent. The two sisters are already vastly popular here, though this is the first year they have been seen in society.

Grand Duchess' Secret Fiance a Gay Blade.

Grand Duke Dimitri, who was sent by the Czar's order to his father in Paris, owing to the fast life he was leading in St. Petersburg, has been dispatched from Paris by his father to Sicily to get him away from too much Parisian gayety. Dimitri is in the personal charge of an elderly tutor and is accompanied by two singularly formidable and severe looking orderlies, who seem to be quite able and willing to take physical as well as moral charge of the young Grand Duke. The tutor keeps the purse and the two orderlies are always at hand.

The Grand Duke, sullen and bored, seems to suffer all the disabilities of a prisoner. He is tall, handsome and aristocratic, but worn out.

On his way from Paris he would have made friends with four American girls in the train de luxe (one of whom was very pretty and traveling in charge of a duenna), but the tutor kept him in check.

A good deal of misinformation about the cause of Dimitri's being banished from St. Petersburg appears to have been published in the United States. One erroneous story was that he had paid too much attention to the American wife of a well-known Prince; another that he had courted the American wife of a prominent Count. The woman who fascinated him is an American, it is true, but she is merely a singer in a fashionable cabaret. Dimitri caused a great scandal by making a scene with the police one night in the sumptuous establishment where the woman was singing.

Intimate Details of Czar's Family Life.

Miss Margaret Eager, an elderly English woman, who lived eight years in the Czarina's household, where she taught the children English, recently took up her abode in Budapest and has given in a newspaper interview some interesting reminiscences.

Only university professors, she says, are selected as tutors for the Czar's children. One who lectured on history and who was addressed as "His Excellency," was lecturing on France one day and inadvertently referred to the Constitution of the French republic.

Grand Duchess Olga, the eldest daughter, interrupted to ask:

"What is a Constitution?"

The professor explained.

"Has Russia a Constitution?" persisted the inquisitive Grand Duchess.

The Czarina, who usually was present when her daughters took lessons, gave the professor a warning look. He recovered from his embarrassment and answered: "Of course Russia has a Constitution."

"I beg your pardon," exclaimed Grand Duchess Tatiana. "I am sure Russia has no Constitution. Papa does not approve of such a thing."

The Czarina rose from her chair, the professor took his leave and never returned.

Miss Eager assures us that the private life of the imperial family is model. The Czar and Czarina are never happy unless they are with their children. The Czarina is a devoted mother, but does not approve of certain modern methods in the education of the young.

The Czar is a good pianist and loves to play duets with the Czarina.

Parents and children spend the evenings together. After supper all play games until the young folks go to bed. Then the Czarina reads to the Czar, who reclines in an arm chair and smokes.

No longer is the Czarina the great beauty she was in her youth. Never-ceasing anxiety has made her old before her time. When Miss Eager left the Russian court two years ago the Czarina was only 39, but looked many years older. The slender figure and the crown of golden hair are all the charms left to the sweet Princess Alix, who, at her home in Hesse, was called "Sunny."

Czarina Lives in Constant Dread

She is the best of women, declares Miss Eager. She adores her husband and her children. If the Czar has to work late at night, she sits up in a neighboring room and does not think of retiring before he has done with state affairs. Very pious herself, she insists that in the children's education religion shall supersede everything else.

Miss Eager relates that when the Czarina's four daughters were very young they whispered to each other for some time in the nursery one day, then three of them seized Grand Duchess Marie, pushed her into an arm chair, crowded around her and made all the noise they could. At that moment the Czar entered.

"What in the world is all this noise about?" he inquired.

"We are playing a new game!" explained Grand Duchess Olga, always the bravest of the four. "Marie is the Czar and we are the conspirators."

The Czar turned on his heel and did not re-enter the nursery that evening.

From the time the Czarewitch was born, nearly ten years ago, the Czarina has not enjoyed one day of perfect peace, so anxious is she about his life. Her daughters are allowed to ride, go hunting or play games in the open air. But Grand Duke Alexis she never trusts out of her sight. After his birth she became extremely superstitious. She consults the cards and all kinds of mysterious persons, especially spiritualists, every day. She tells them her dreams and takes their counsel on questions of home life.

"I pity the Czarina with all my heart," Miss Eager sighs in closing the interview. "She has everything to make her life happy—a doting husband, lovely children and enviable family life; yet she is the unhappiest of women."

MRS. THACKARA HOSTESS AT MORNING DAY DANCE

BERLIN, April 4.—In Berlin, where people change apartments probably oftener than anywhere else, much gratitude is expressed to Mrs. A. Montgomery Thackara of Philadelphia, for devising a new form of entertainment which is styled "dancing among the packages."

Mrs. Thackara, daughter of Gen. W. T. Sherman and wife of the American Consul-General who was transferred recently from Berlin to Paris, returned here last week to superintend the removal of her household goods and at her suggestion De Witt C. Poole, formerly Vice-Consul, gave a dance on Tuesday evening in her former residence, where the rooms were filled with numerous cases and packages ready for shipping to Paris.

ART GALLERY WILL BE A OCEAN LINER FEATURE

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 4.—Most interesting among the new features of the giant Cunard liner, Aquitania, which will be ready to leave Clyde in a few weeks, is the long gallery, stretching nearly 150 feet, from the first-class smoking room to the lounge. The walls are paneled in mahogany and painted delicate green. Here will be showcases containing exhibits of jewelry, china, lacework, prints and other objects of art. Valuable prints will adorn the walls, making it not only a gallery of art, but one of history as well, and there will also be a series of engraved portraits of the leading figures of the eighteenth century.

PROMINENT AMERICANS ARE VISITORS IN PARIS

PARIS, April 4.—After a winter of extreme dullness, the drooping spirits of the keepers of the big Paris hotels were revived this week by the arrival of a few wealthy Americans, most of them however, only remained a single night, the majority passing on to the Riviera.

Among the latest arrivals were Col. and Mrs. Henry Watterson, ex-Senator and Mrs. Nelson A. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Bacon, Baron and Baroness (Adelina Patti Cedarstrom have arrived from Cannes by automobile.

Loie Fuller is here from Nice. Mrs. James W. Girard, wife of the American Ambassador to Germany, has returned to Berlin. Mrs. Craig Biddle has gone to Baden-Baden and Maxine Elliot has left for Biarritz.

WOMAN'S FRANTIC APPEAL TO KING WINS A HEARING

COPENHAGEN, April 4.—As King Christian was about to enter the new Cimeon's Church an old woman rushed at him and seizing his hand, cried: "I must have a talk with you."

The police wanted to arrest the woman but the King would not permit it and invited her to call upon him at the palace. She said, "God bless you," and retired into the crowd. Later she explained that she wanted to ask the King to build more churches.

A motion picture operator got a film of the scene and it will be exhibited with the King's permission.

POINCARE'S WOMAN PARTNER GETS FINE FEDERAL JOB

PARIS, April 4.—Mlle. Marie Galtier, a well-known woman lawyer who was associated with M. Poincare in his practice before he became President, has been appointed to the office of Inspector General of the Ministry of the Interior. She is the first French woman ever appointed to an office of so much importance. She is not a suffragette.

A. V. ARMOUR WILL VISIT KAISER'S ONLY DAUGHTER

BERLIN, April 4.—Allison V. Armour of New York, Chicago and Europe, who has been a close friend of Emperor William since both attended the same German university, is paying his customary spring visit to Berlin. He is on his way to Brunswick to felicitate the Duchess on the birth of a son. Armour was one of the very few persons to whom the Emperor's only daughter sent, in her own handwriting, an invitation to her wedding.

"PATERNAL MAGISTRATE" IS RULER OF JUVENILE COURT

PARIS, April 4.—The first juvenile court in France has been opened in Paris and is presided over by Paternal Magistrate Flory. All offenders under 16 years old will be taken before this court and they will be treated "paternally." None will be imprisoned unless it is found to be absolutely necessary.

MONARCH TANGOES IN PUBLIC WITH BALLET GIRL.

Christian X Picks Her Out for a Partner at the Royal Ball Given at the Copenhagen Yacht Club.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 4.—In no country but Denmark could one hope to see such a spectacle as was witnessed at the royal ball given at the Copenhagen Yacht Club—the spectacle of a King dancing with a ballet girl.

The King was the King of Denmark, no foreign sovereign out for a lark. It should be pointed out, however, that Danish ballet girls have a far different social standing from those of other lands. Many are of high birth and not a few have married into the royal household. It was with such a "star" that the King danced, Fraulein Christeans, a charming brunette of 21, who has been a member of the royal ballet as long as she can remember.

At 10 p. m. His Majesty joined the brilliant company at the Yacht Club, towering over all the other men. He seated himself between two ladies of the court, and presently danced with both, one after the other, to the strains of a Viennese waltz.

Christian X proved himself the most strenuous if not the most graceful dancer in the ballroom. When the inevitable tango came on His Majesty, who is tango-mad, intimated that he would like as a partnear Jeane Christeans, whom he espied not far off. The couple went through a graceful tango, not too "advanced." Only seven other couples in a company of 200 dared to court criticism by tangoing.

CHILIAN BEAUTY IS BELLE OF LONDON DEBUTANTES

LONDON, April 4.—Miss Bittencourt, daughter of the senior honorary attache to the Legation of Chili in London, and perhaps the most beautiful of the debutantes of this year, is one of the belles to become engaged in her first season in society. Typically Spanish and with perfect coloring of that nationality, she has more vivacity than is often found in women of her race. Next month she is to be presented at court and her mother will give a grand ball for her June 10.

Mrs. J. Bittencourt, the mother, is uncommonly handsome and extremely rich. She is particularly prominent on the Riviera as a cosmopolitan hostess with a very extensive acquaintance among persons of consequence.

TREASURE TROVE RECALLS INVASION OF SWITZERLAND

GENEVA, April 4.—Two peasants removing a large tree that had blown down near Schwytz found a large number of coins bearing dates from 1727 to 1790 in the stump. This incident recalls that when the army of the Directoire invaded Switzerland in 1797 most of the people buried or hid their money and hundreds were unable afterwards to find it. This is supposed to have been one of the caches then selected.

There were several hundred silver coins, among them 50 silver crowns with the effigies of Louis XV and Louis XVI and the dates of 1727 to 1790. There were also several hundred copper coins of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and the remains of a canvas bag which had contained the coins.

POPE COMPOSES A CHANT WHICH PEROSI CALLS GOOD

ROME, April 4.—Pope Pius, a good musician, lately enriched the church music with a chant in four parts written entirely by himself. The composition is characterized by deep religious fervor and is in the form of an appeal to his patron saint, Joseph. The chant was sung for the first time last month in the Pope's private chapel in the Vatican. Among the few privileged listeners was Maestro Perosi, conductor of the Sistine Choir, who says that the Pope's chant requires a little technical polishing, but reveals high musical talent.

NO FORTUNES AWAIT CLAIMANTS IN ENGLAND.

American Embassy in London Again Flooded With Vain Inquiries of Persons Seeking Unclaimed Wealth.

LONDON, April 4.—Nothing appears harder to kill than the myth that in the English chancery courts are lying immense inheritances awaiting claimants. For 30 years swindlers and shyster lawyers have sought victims and obtained money for to "prosecute claims" to fictitious fortunes in England.

American Embassy officials are suffering just now from a revival of activity on the part of correspondent in the United States, who believe they can claim some fortune lying dormant in chancery.

This week's mail brought four letters from optimistic persons, including a woman who referred to a caple story appearing in the New York World on Dec. 7, 1912, telling of the finding of certain papers relating to Apsley House. This correspondent, like all others, will receive a printed reply politely explaining that the Embassy cannot undertake investigations and mentioning the names of several lawyers competent to advise claimants.

Secretary Bell said the Post-Dispatch would do the Embassy a distinct service by pointing out that there is no large unclaimed estate in Great Britain, the average value of these few fortunes awaiting heirs being $1800, and only two estates amount to $75,000. The vast sums constantly spoken of as dormant in chancery are purely imaginary and usually the invention of swindlers. The statute of limitations is almost invariably a bar to recovery, and the expense of investigation generally eats up the bulk of the money in dispute.

GAY COUNTESS' LOST DIARY MENACE TO HER CAREER

Lovely Vera Esterhazy Is Willing to Pay Well for Its Return, but Thinks the $10,000 Demanded by Suspected Baron Is Too Much—Traps Him, but the Treasury of Her Secrets Is Not Found.

VIENNA, April 4.—Vera Esterhazy, a young Countess, belonging to the noblest and est family among the Hungarian magnates, finds herself in a most embarrassing situation because she could not make her mind up to pay the $10,000 demanded for the return of her stolen diary.

A lawyer reported to the Vienna police late in February that while Countess Esterhazy, his client, was staying at one of the hotels on the Ring her diary was stolen from the locked drawer of a bureau, though her maid, Mme. Emma Boethy, was in the room during the greater part of the day on which the theft occurred. The lawyer explained that it was important to recover the diary.

Countess Vera, who was 25 years old in Ja is the independent mistress of a large fortune. is very elegant, extravagant, and lives pretty as her fancy dictates. Her family, especially great-uncles, younger brothers of her grand fear she will dissipate the family property and doing all they can to have a guardian appointed her. Some medical experts have already pr her not in her right mind.

There can be no doubt that she has led ra adventurous life in recent years, a conscientio count of which she had given in her diary. Her adviser holds the opinion from what he has been that the Countess' uncles might succeed in her put under guardianship if they had the as a proof of her extravagant ways of living. lawyer also hinted that if the contents were known his client's social position might suffer.

The police suspected the lady's maid and subj her to a long examination. She emphatically having stolen the diary, but dropped some hints a countryman of the Countess, one Baron Str dorf in Presburg, might know more than she did.

That young man was in the hotel when the Coun was and made her acquaintance.

The Vienna police induced the Presburg police question Baron Strahlendorf and to search his for the missing diary. This availed nothing, and Countess sent her lawyer and the manager of vast Hungarian estate to negotiate with the Ba She was convinced he had the diary, because maid confessed she had told him about it and him the drawer in which it was kept.

The lawyer and the manager were instructed offer a good price for the diary and when he lear this he said he would find it if the Countess was ing to pay $16,000 for it. He gave the Countess days to decide, threatening to either publish the tents of the diary in a Vienna or a Hungarian paper, or let the Countess' uncles have it.

After much haggling it was agreed that Strah dorf would give up the diary for $10,000—he and lawyer to meet at a small place near Presburg exchange packets containing money and diary.

The Countess refused to pay so much. Then St lendorf came to Vienna and explained to her th would be very dangerous for her not to have diary for safekeeping. After much persuading promised to meet him in the hotel tearoom in presence of her lawyer and to have the money

But the lawyer denounced Baron Strahlendorf police for extortion and when the three met in tearoom the Baron was arrested. He emphatic denied having taken the diary or knowing wh is, asserting that he only promised to find it if a tain sum of money were placed at his disposal. also declared that he knew its contents by heart the lady's maid had read the diary to him on when the Countess was at the theater or in long before it was stolen. He certainly did not the diary on his person when he was arrested. tried to make the police believe that he is in with the Countess and that his acquaintance the maid was kept up to give him an opportu meeting the mistress.

Nemo KOPSERVICE
THE CORSET MARVEL OF THE CENTURY

IT is not by chance or luck that the word "Nemo" has come to mean all that is good in corsets. Years of hard work, constant study and successful experimenting have given the Nemo its rightful place as the standard corset of the world.

Nothing but sheer superior merit could have induced the loyal and fastidious Parisienne to adopt our corsets as her very own, while steadfastly refusing all others made outside of her beloved France.

Mlle. la Parisienne gladly accepts the Nemo because it gives her something different and better; but she rejects every other American-made corset, even when enveloped in a maze of French names and a somewhat doubtful atmosphere of "Paris" fashion notes.

NEARLY every woman knows the Nemo as a corset of health, comfort and durability. Some have yet to recognize it as the foremost STYLE corset.

The Nemo, being a positive corset, must be correctly selected, accurately adjusted, and intelligently worn; then it will give greater satisfaction than any other corset at any price.

For the modish "natural" or so-called "corsetless" figure, the new Nemo Kopservice Corsets are par excellence—nothing in the market to compare with them.

This is a hint worthy the attention of Mrs. and Miss la Mode—and all their sisters, cousins and aunts—when preparing their summer outfittings.

Be a wise woman! Act upon this really valuable suggestion.

Most progressive dealers will be glad to help you.

Following the Quiet of Holy Week, With Its One Wedding, Society Is Anticipating a Rush of Fashionable Charity and Social Affairs, With Pageant Work for Rest Time.

By Frances Cabanne Scovel.

THIS is Holy Week and with the exception of one notable wedding, the social calendar is a perfect blank as far as formal affairs are concerned. That, however, doesn't mean that there is nothing going on, because, under the shadow of the most solemn penitential season, everyone is just as busy as can be, getting ready for the week to follow, which will be one of the gayest since midwinter with three big charity affairs, the first, which will begin the Thursday after Easter, and all the weddings that will take place between times—to say nothing of the preparations for the pageant, in which everyone is interested, and all the women and girls are giving for at least one day each week.

THE Palm Beach Festival of Dancing and Skating, which will be given at the Jai Alai Wednesday of Easter week will surpass any charity affair for long time as roller skating and dancing are the craze just now. Everyone is expected to wear summer costumes and to go masked. The big building will be made to look as much like a tropical scene as orange trees, blossoming fruit branches, birds and trailing vines make it. The foyer will be made to represent a big veranda with orange trees all around. In the middle will be a fountain with real goldfish and everything green and summery and everywhere will be Japanese lanterns.

Inside, the same idea will be carried out, only the oranges will be big yellow balloons fastened to the rail of the boxes and all around the tennis nets that will mark off the part of the floor reserved for dancing.

While summer clothes will be worn by many of the revelers it is whispered that some of them—the costumes—will be comic. "Willies off the Yacht," "Hay Rubes," "Maude Millers," "Farmer Lasses," even "Shepherdesses" and the like. All will appear on skates.

There will be special dancing and skating features during the evening by amateurs and professional dancers and skaters and altogether the festival will be one in reality.

Although a number of tickets have been sent out they will be on sale at the rink and at the Famous-Barr Co., as the affair is for everyone interested in dancing, skating and the Free Night and Day Camp for the Prevention of Tuberculosis for Self-Supporting Women and Girls of St. Louis.

Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins is the chairman of the Night and Day Camp committee, who is getting up the festival and it is through her tireless efforts that the camp at 9600 South Broadway, which is but one year old, has been able to care for about sixty women and girls.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MULLANPHY CATES have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Katheleen Glen[illegible] Cates, and Lieut. Rollin Lar[illegible] Tilton of the Coast Artillery [illegible], U. S. A., which will be one of the most important nuptial events of the spring, on Saturday evening, April [illegible] at 6:30 o'clock, at the home of the [illegible], 4280 Washington boulevard.

It was at her sister Lucile's wedding to Lieut. Francis P. Hardaway about [illegible] years ago that Miss Cates and Lieut. Tilton met when she was maid of honor and he best man.

Later she visited her sister at the Presidio in California, where Lieut. Tilton was stationed. A romance followed.

Miss Cates made her debut last fall. She seemed to care little for society [illegible], so when her engagement was announced soon afterwards, her indifference was explained.

Mrs. Hardaway, who has come from Fort Monroe, Va., for the wedding, will be matron of honor, and Lieut. Hardaway, who will come on later, will be best man.

Miss Edith Cates, the bride's 14-year-old sister, and her cousin, Miss Eliza [illegible], will be bridemaids.

The bridegroom's brother, John Tilton, who is a member of the faculty [illegible] Cornell, will be one of the groomsmen, and Soulard Cates, the bride's [illegible] brother, 16 years old, will be the [illegible].

Miss Cates, a descendant of Bryan Mullanphy, the philanthropist, and through her mother, who was Miss Eliza La Motte, is related to many of the pioneer families.

She has much of the beauty and charm for which the women of her family have been noted and which made her sister, Mrs. Hardaway, one of the belles of her debut year.

After their marriage, Lieut. Tilton will take his bride to Fort De Russey, Honolulu, H. I., where his regiment has been stationed for the past year.

[illegible] Schumack, ladies' tailor and dressmaker, 604 Century Building. Smart models; exclusive material.

The engagement of Miss Mary Colt of Los Angeles and F. Herbert Filley, which was announced last week, is of more than usual interest, as Miss Colt is the niece of Mrs. John [illegible] Filley, with whom she has been spending the winter and under whose chaperonage she made her debut and Mr. Filley, who is the son of Frank [illegible] Filley, is the nephew of Dwight Filley.

Miss Colt was graduated from Wellesley last June with highest honors and was president of her class, which in itself is almost honor enough for one [illegible].

[illegible] was one of the most prominent [illegible] of the season and took the [illegible] of Capt. Peacock in the musical comedy "Campus Mouser" not long ago [illegible] was one of the "hits" of the production.

Mr. Filley lived here until about three or four years ago, when he went to New York.

He is a grandson of the late Giles Filley and a nephew of Mrs. John T. Davis, Mrs. Thomas T. Richards, Mrs. Isaac Morton and of Robert E. and Charles H. Filley.

The marriage will take place here June 1.

Miss Annabel Nulsen of 3029 Longfellow boulevard has as her guest her cousin, Miss Ruth Parkhurst of Chicago, who arrived last night.

Miss Parkhurst formerly lived in St. Louis and moved to Chicago with her family a short time ago.

TWO other interesting engagements that have been announced are Miss Isabel Cline's to Gerald B. Harney and Miss Julia Holmes' to Edwin W. Lee.

Miss Cline is the daughter of former Judge and Mrs. Frederich A. Cline of 4321 Olive street. Miss Holmes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Holmes of Pasadena, Cal., who formerly lived in St. Louis, and a niece of Mrs. Cline, who was Miss Frances Holmes. She came here in the autumn and made her debut with her cousin, Miss Cline, and both girls have been much entertained and admired.

Miss Holmes' marriage to Mr. Lee has been set for June, when her parents will return to their old home for the event. Miss Cline will wed Mr. Harney in the autumn.

Mr. Lee is the son of Mrs. Bradley D. Lee of 4400 Westminster place and was Excise Commissioner under Gov. Hadley. He is a graduate of Williams College and Washington University Law School and a member of the Racquet Club.

Mr. Harney is the son of the late John Mullanphy Harney and a grandson of the late Gen. Harney of Mexican War fame.

He is related to many of the old pioneer families and his marriage to Miss Cline will unite two families prominent in the history of St. Louis.

Special showing of Flower trimmed Hats. Sally Meagher, 801 Century Bldg.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES WIEGAND, who have been spending the winter in California, have returned and are stopping at the Washington Hotel.

Miss Caroline Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. EASY WAY TO IMPROVE YOUR HEALTH

From "Spring Remedies."

"Sickness and ill health almost invariably come from impurities in the blood, which, at the approach of warm weather, cause Spring fever, loss of energy and vitality, sallowness, pimples, poor appetites and other evidences of a deranged system.

"At small expense these disorders can easily be corrected by taking a good, reliable tonic. For the restoration of energy and good health, and positive relief from Spring ailments, no better remedy can be found than this valuable tonic. Get an ounce of kardene and one-half pint alcohol at any drug store and mix with one-half cup sugar. When dissolved add hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and in a short time you will be surprised at the splendid health-restoring qualities of this old-fashioned remedy. It is the best system cleanser, blood purifying tonic known."—ADV.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING? JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SOME SULPHUR

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair. Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.—ADV.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee. —ADV.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

PURIFIES as well as beautifies the skin. No other cosmetic will do it.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash, and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 66 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the hautton (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." For sale by all druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers in the United States Canada and Europe.

MICHIGAN U. GRAD WRITES SONG HIT

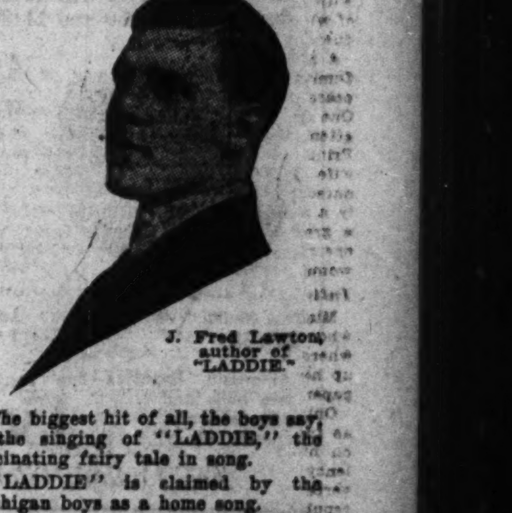
"LADDIE"

To Be Featured by the Michigan Glee Club at Victoria Theater This Week.

Michigan University Club on Tour Extending to Pacific Coast.

A half hundred jolly good fellows, the combined Glee and Mandolin Clubs of the University of Michigan, are due in town for their annual concert, which will be given the early part of this week at the Victoria Theater. Prof. Howland is the musical director of the club.

The loyal Michigan followers, who will attend in force, are assured a musical feast of fun and frolic. There is the Midnight Sons' Quartet, exponents of "anti-classical," and a pair of "comedy exuders," who dispense a line of tuneful nonsense. Nor must you forget the Rag Time String Quartet, who, when they get into action, have been known to make pious personages take to the tango.



J. Fred Lawton, author of "LADDIE."

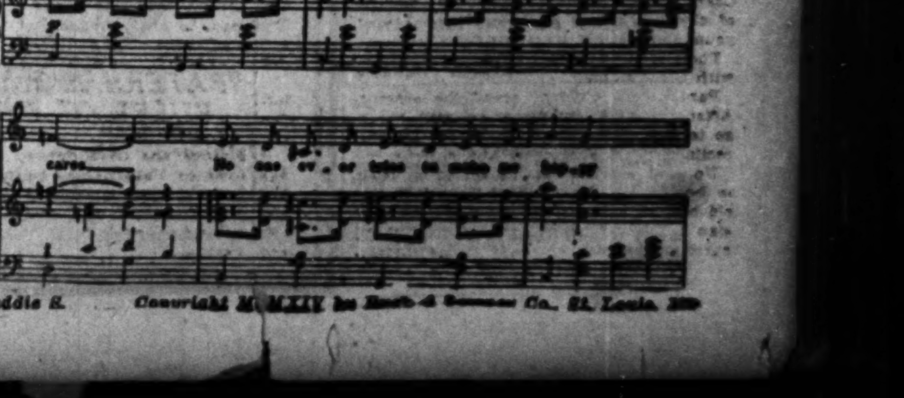
The biggest hit of all, the boys say, is the singing of "LADDIE," the fascinating fairy tale in song.

"LADDIE" is claimed by the Michigan boys as a home song.

"LADDIE" was written by J. Fred Lawton, a Michigan grad of '12.

Mr. Lawton won Ann Arbor fame by writing the varsity song and several college operas. "LADDIE," the song hit of the year, has won its author fame from coast to coast.

By the way, it's Buck & Lowney, Holland Building, St. Louis, who publish this famous song. A part of the chorus of "LADDIE" follows:



CHORUS.
Lad-die you're the on-ly one who loves me
Lad-die you're the on-ly one who cares.
No one ev-er

Laddie 8.

ARKANSAS CONVICTS' PROFIT TO FAMILIES

Prison Board Hopes Farm Will Show Earnings for Distribution This Year.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 4.—The Arkansas Board of Penitentiary Commissioners expects this year to solve the convict question through the Arkansas State farm. The convicts are self-sustaining, but the Commissioners expect to show a sufficient profit after this year to warrant the Legislature in passing an act by which a considerable portion of the profits from the farm may be paid to the families of the convicts for their maintenance.

The State farm is composed of about 10,000 acres, about half of which is in cultivation. The balance was lake and forest, but a system of drainage has been followed out and the trees are being removed so that some day the entire farm will be in cultivation.

To give profitable employment to all the convicts, the board has leased 2500 acres of land adjoining the farm and this, too, will be cultivated. All will be planted in cotton, the surest crop for a State farm. With this additional acreage, the cotton crop this year should reach 3500 bales of long staple cotton. The Commissioners are building silos and purchasing livestock so that nothing will have to be purchased for the farm this year but clothing, drugs and such supplies as cannot be grown in Arkansas.

PENNSYLVANIA URGED TO 'SWAT THE QUICK LUNCH'

State Health Commissioner Advises Crusade in "Barbarous Custom."

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 4.—"Swat the quick lunch," is the newest crusade advised by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Health Commissioner. It is launched in a "Little Talk on Health and Hygiene," one of a series.

We have no reason to be proud of the quick lunch, according to Dr. Dixon, who designates this form of a meal as distinctly American. He says all other civilized nations regard such eating as a "barbarous custom."

Besides, according to the doctor, quick lunches are comprised of the wrong foods. Fried articles, pastry and coffee or tea are a very bad combination and do not give the nourishment the body should have in the 10 or more hours from breakfast to dinner. He concludes:

"When you go to lunch take your time to eat. Let the roar of the hungry multitude around you and the hurried waiters leave you undisturbed. The profit of the proprietor is in the quickness with which you consume your lunch, and make way for another customer. You will profit individually by taking a reasonable length of time to enjoy your food and stimulate the digestive glands."

FORMER SENATOR BAILEY LIKES TWO-FISTED MAN

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Former Senator Bailey of Texas likes a fighting man—one who is willing to fight with his fists when insulted. Bailey announced this preference at the meeting of the Mississippi Society, at which he was the chief speaker.

There is only one time and place where, apparently, Bailey does not think a fight appropriate and that is in the United States Senate, while the Senate is in session. He said he would wait until adjournment and then have it out then and there. At least, this was the only exception he mentioned. He said he was afraid we are being "overcivilized."

The audience smiled at his remarks, as most of those present recalled that Bailey once figured in a physical encounter on the floor of the Senate and another time attacked a newspaper correspondent.

FAMILY WILL TRAVEL 8000 MILES ON FOOT

"Walking Woolfs," Who Have Tramped 25,000 Miles in Three Trips, Start Again.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4.—The "Walking Woolfs" are off on another trip, this time only a short journey of about 8000 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolf, who now have traveled afoot nearly 25,000 miles on three trips, the first of which was only a few hundred miles, are on their way to Chicago, having started Thursday. From Chicago they will go to Detroit and thence south through Cincinnati to Tampa, Fla., and back up the coast to Norfolk, Va. From there they will go by boat to Portland, Me., and thence home through Northern New York and along the lakes to Chicago.

Dolly, their horse, who has pulled their two-wheeled cart on their previous journeys, and Don, their dog, which has been the faithful companion of the horse, will go along again. The sole purpose of the walk, as in its predecessors, is to restore Woolf's health.

SEATLESS PASSENGER SUES TEXAS RAILROAD

WACO, Tex., April 4.—Does the law require a railroad to furnish passengers with seats?

The courts will be compelled to decide this question as the result of a suit filed by C. P. McCoy, who is suing the International Great Northern for $1500 because it failed to supply a seat for him. McCoy alleges that he bought a ticket at Mart for Waco and that every seat was occupied.

When the conductor asked for his he refused to surrender it until given a seat. Then the train was stopped and he was ejected and was forced to walk back to Mart while ill.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"P. P. C." writes: "If you can prescribe something to prevent an attack of appendicitis, please do so. I have constipation, sour stomach, headache, and am weak and listless, with pains after eating."

Answer: The best treatment for disordered stomach and bowels, due to indigestion, is tablets triopeptine, sold in sealed cartons with full directions.

"Energy" writes: "Let me say that my condition puzzles and worries me. In the last year I seem to have been growing old rapidly, though only 38. My food and sleep do not recuperate my strength and energy, and lately I have dizzy spells, trembling, headaches, loss of appetite, memory and hopefulness. Despondency and worry over my condition are ever present."

Answer: Cheer up, get well and then conserve your vitality by proper, temperate living. Obtain three-grain cadomene tablets in sealed tubes with full directions, use them, and an agreeable, pleasing restoration should ensue to your entire satisfaction.

"Miserable" asks: "I was miserable all through the summer last year on account of being too fat. Can you please help me to reduce with something harmless?"

Answer: Hundreds of persons who are too fat suffer. It is needless suffering. The discovery of the principles contained in 5-grain arbolone tablets make it comparatively easy to reduce from 10 to 80 pounds. These excellent tablets are put up in sealed tubes with directions for self-administration.

"Gwendaline" writes: "Kindly tell me what to do. I suffer with liver, kidney and stomach trouble. Am constipated and have slight attacks of biliousness."

Answer: For your stomach, liver and kidneys take three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These little tablets are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions for using. They will purify the blood and act directly on the liver and kidneys, and if taken regularly will gradually effect a relief for all ailments that arise from chronic constipation.

"Wife": Incontinence or bedwetting in children is usually corrected by using the following in 10 to 15 drop doses in water one hour before meals: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 3 drams; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Mix well.

"C. R." writes: "I have a very troublesome case of catarrh of the head and throat. I suffer annoyance and embarrassment very keenly. Can you give me something to stop this trouble?"

Answer: Use daily a nostril wash and gargle made with antiseptic vilane powder. Obtain a two or eight ounce box of it and use it according to the directions enclosed.

Mrs. O. C. B. writes: "I am informed that I have kidney trouble and it is fast approaching a serious stage. What would you prescribe?"

Answer: If your symptoms are the usual ones, such as puffs under the eyes, swelling ankles, accompanied by headaches, pains, depression, fever, chills, etc., I would advise the immediate use of balmwort tablets, a very fine remedy for such difficulties. Sold in sealed tubes with full directions for self-administration.—ADVERTISEMENT.

"Al" writes: "I should like a good, reliable treatment for the hair and scalp. Something that will cure dandruff and stop falling hair, also cure an itching scalp."

Answer: The most reliable treatment for the scalp is sold in 4-oz. jars, at any drug store, and is called plain yellow minyol. It is superior to anything known for the scalp. It gives new vigor and helps the hair to keep its natural color. This will positively cure your dandruff and stop the itching of the scalp.

"Harry M." writes: "I am quite tall and do not weigh enough for my height. Am very nervous and my skin is very pale."

Answer: You can readily increase your weight by taking three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets regularly for several months. These tablets will also overcome nervousness, help digestion and assimilation and thus improve the color of the skin. Many report gaining 10 to 30 pounds with improved health in every way. The tablets are packed in sealed cartons with directions and are widely prescribed for your ailment.

"Poor Ann" writes: "Every winter I am troubled with slight attacks of rheumatism. I have tried many things but with no avail."

Answer: The best thing for rheumatism is made by mixing the following ingredients and taking a teaspoonful at meal times and again at bedtime. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½ ounce; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fl. balmwort, 1 oz., and syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 oz.

"Mrs. A. C." writes: "My little daughter has a very bad cold and cough which we do not seem able to even relieve. What shall I do?"

Answer: Purchase a 2½-oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene and make a syrup according to directions given and your daughter will be cured within a few days. This is very pleasant to take and will drive the cold out of the system.

CHINESE SCHOOL BOY KILLS WOMAN AND BURNS BODY

Confessed Slayer Was Employed in Railroad Official's Home as a Servant.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 4.—Mrs. Charles J. Millard, wife of a Canadian Pacific Railroad official, was killed and her body burned in the house furnace by Jack Kong, a 17-year-old school boy who was employed as a servant by the Millards. Kong says he burned the breakfast porridge and Mrs. Millard ordered him to cook some more. He refused and said he was going to school.

Mrs. Millard made some remark to the effect that she would have to cut his ear off to make him obey her better, and, he says, he then seized a chair and struck her down. He used a carving knife to cut off her legs and arms and built a big fire and put the body in the furnace, he says.

Kong confessed after he had been arrested and questioned concerning the disappearance last Wednesday of Mrs. Millard. A vigorous search had been made and the arrest of Kong followed the finding in the furnace of bits of bone and some fragments of rings.

Soon after Mrs. Millard's disappearance, bloodhounds were brought from the provincial penitentiary at New Westminster. They took the scent from a stain on a rug in the dining room, followed it to the cellar and stopped at an ax in a corner. It is presumed that the woman's body was chopped with this.

When the dogs were put on the trail again they led the way to the attic, where the missing woman's clothing had been found a short time before.

Chinese Treatment of Smallpox.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—Two Chinese men have been arrested on a charge of strangling a child suffering from smallpox in a train from Moscow and throwing its body on to the line. Eight similar crimes by Chinese have occurred recently in Russia.

MAKES THE HAIR FLUFFY, LUSTROUS AND BEAUTIFUL IN A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine" and try this. Also stops falling hair and scalp itch; destroys dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.—ADV.

Congressional Wits at Play

Avenue for Presidents; Alley for Vice-Presidents.

Senator Smoot Enlivens Upper House Debate With Bit of Repartee to John Sharp Williams That Arouses Even the Presiding Officer.

WASHINGTON, April, 4.

ABOUT this time each year the question of renaming a certain Washington street occupies much time in the Senate chamber while the annual appropriation bill for the District of Columbia is being discussed. The street was once known as Sixteenth street, but a few years ago it was named the Avenue of the Presidents.

The other day John Sharp Williams brought up the annual question, declaring that the name of the street was confusing and caused people to get lost.

Then Senator Smoot, who seldom cracks a joke, objected.

"Let us keep the name, Avenue of the Presidents," he said solemnly, "but in order to maintain our bearings let us rename the alley which runs parallel to the street now known as Sixteenth street alley."

"What should it be called?" asked Williams.

"Let us name it the alley of the Vice-Presidents," said Smoot, whereat Thomas Marshall awakened from his peaceful slumber, in the presiding officer's chair, and fixed a cold blue eye upon the Latter Day Saint from Salt Lake.

La Follette Everybody to the Swede; Lenroot Worked for Him

IRVING LENROOT, Congressman from Wisconsin, was a great believer in Senator La Follette for many years and they were very close friends, but they have fallen out. La Follette, it is said, has a habit of falling out with his closest friends.

A short time ago a Wisconsin Swede who already had voted many times decided that it would be more regular if he were to become naturalized. The following questions were asked him by the examiner:

"Who is President of the United States?"

"La Follette."

"Who is Governor of Wisconsin?"

"La Follette."

"Who is our Senator?"

"La Follette."

"Who is our Congressman?"

"La Follette."

"But, my good man," said the examiner, "who, then, is Irving Lenroot?"

"Oh, he works for La Follette," was the reply.

Department of Justice Lawyer Enjoins Himself From a Bed

WRISLEY BROWN is one of the young attorneys connected with the Department of Justice. A short time ago he was sent to a small town in the Middle West to get some first-hand information concerning a certain small bank. He had been in the town only a few days before and he feared that his presence there so often might excite suspicion, so he registered at the hotel under an assumed name.

He spent the day attending to his business and when he returned to the hotel at night he could not remember the number of his room.

"Well," said the proprietor, "give me your name and I will look up the room number."

Then Brown tried to remember what name he had used and found that it also was forgotten. The register had been put away and he could not refer to it. He tried to explain, but the hotel man absolutely refused to let a man who did not know his own name, to remain in the house. There was no other hotel in the town and Brown spent the night walking the streets like an outcast.

Congressman's Negro Friend Only Wanted Cash to Rattle

REPRESENTATIVE HELFIN of Alabama was approached by a negro he had appointed to a Government job.

"Mistah Tom," said the negro, "will you let me have three or fo' dollahs 'til tomorrow morning. I's goin' to a party."

"Can't spare it just now," said Helfin. "The first of the month is drawing near and I need the money."

"But ah'll give it back to you in the mornin,"' said the negro.

"How will you be able to give it back in the morning?" asked Tom.

"Oh, ah'll give back the same money you gives me. I jes' wan' it to kind o' rattle 'round in mah pocket."

Vice-President Marshall Could Not Help Baiting Champ Clark

VICE-PRESIDENT MARSHALL has a streak of boyish mischievousness in his makeup and he cannot help showing it, even on solemn occasions. He was sitting on the rostrum beside Speaker Champ Clark at the public funeral of Senator Bacon in the Senate chamber.

He saw the President's Cabinet filing into the chamber, and remembering that Clark has about as much love for Secretary Bryan as the small boy has for castor oil, inasmuch as Clark might now be President had it not been for Bryan—the Vice-President leaned over to the Speaker and said:

"Here comes your old friend Bryan. Shall we stand up?"

"I'll be damned if I do," muttered the Speaker, from the bottom of his heart.

Kentuckians Too Smart for McReynolds and Underwood

ATTORNEY-GENERAL Mc-REYNOLDS and Oscar W. Underwood were both born in Kentucky, although each left there many years ago. They attended a dinner the other night and were introduced by Swager Sherley, to a friend from Kentucky.

"I'm always glad to meet anyone from Kentucky," said the Attorney-General, "Aren't you Oscar."

"Indeed, I am," said the majority leader in the House.

"Then why didn't you fellows stay at home?" asked Sherley, instead of running off to add glory to other states.

"Kentucky folks are too smart for us, retorted McReynolds, "and we had to go away to make enough to live on."

TWO MEN GET STAY IN CLAIRVOYANT TRUST CASE

CHICAGO, April 4.—A writ of supersedeas from the State Supreme Court today saved C. P. Bertsche, former saloon keeper, from being taken to the Joliet Penitentiary to serve his sentence for swindling Mrs. Hope L. McEldowney out of $15,500 in what was characterized as the clairvoyant trust case.

With Bertsche the writ stayed the sentence of James Ryan, known as "Prof. Charles T. Crane," who also figured in the McEldowney case.

Preparations to take the two to the penitentiary had been made by the Cook County jailer when the stay order was received.

UNEMPLOYED BANNER CARRIERS ARRESTED

Members of Band of I. W. W. and Anarchists Held for Showing Inflammatory Devices.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Several men gathered in Union Square this afternoon for a mass meeting of the unemployed, were charged by the police, who objected to the display of inflammatory banners. Many arrests were made, and the mass meeting finally was postponed until next week, Saturday.

Led by members of the Industrial Workers of the World and Anarchists, the crowd attempted to organize a parade to march up Fifth avenue. The mounted police broke up the parade before it got well started.

Detectives who had been distributed through the crowd dressed as workingmen, tore down two flaming red banners inscribed, "Tannenbaum must be freed," and hustled the men who carried them to the police station.

U. S. MEN ESCAPE MALARIA

WASHINGTON, April 4.—United States naval vessels stationed at Tampico during the current troubles in Mexico have escaped malaria while ships of other nations lying alongside them have averaged 47 cases each.

United States officers knew well the malaria dangers when they went to Tampico, and they arranged that the portholes should be screened and that protective gloves and headgear should be furnished to exposed men during mosquito hours.

THOMAS W. GARLAND 409-411-413 Broadway.

PASTOR WRITES AN APOLOGY TO SOCIAL CLUB HE ATTACKED

Advertisement Compares Conduct of Waco's Leaders With Disorderly Population.

PUTS BLAME ON A WOMAN

Instead of Revelation in Pulpit He Pleads a "Misunderstanding of Terms."

WACO, Tex., April 4.—The Rev. Hubert D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the Austin Avenue M. E. Church and the highest salaried clergyman in this city, has written an apology to the directors of the Huaco Country Club, admitting that a charge he was instrumental in circulating regarding alleged misconduct at the club was untrue and was entirely without knowledge of conditions.

This apology followed a verbal one from his pulpit on the occasion that he had announced that he would expose the 'disgraceful conduct at the club." The charge was made in advertising a sermon which Dr. Knickerbocker planned to deliver. The announcement was printed in the Saturday issue of an afternoon paper and in red ink on cards which the pastor personally distributed throughout the business district of the city. The announcement read:

> The Finding of the Ecclesiastical "Grand Jury" in the case of the Huaco Club, Charged by a lady With Being Worse Than Second Street.
> This will be the local section of H. D. Knickerbocker's sermon Sunday night at 7:45 o'clock, at Austin Ave. Church. The subject of the sermon proper will be: "The False Philosophy of Thomas Jefferson as Interpreted by the Waco Times-Herald."
> "Is More Boose a Remedy for Booze?"
> "Is Less Law a Remedy for Lawlessness?"
> "Did Thomas Jefferson Believe in 'Personal Liberty,?"
> "Who Owns You?"
> (This sermon was postponed from last Sunday but will be given without fail at this hour.)

Club Stands High Socially.

The Huaco Country Club has a limited membership list and picks its members from the wealthy and prominent men of the city. It stands for the best, socially, in Waco. Naturally the advertisement and the comparison (a part of Second street being the segregated district) was particularly odious and brought an instant protest.

Just how the matter was taken to Dr. Knickerbocker has not been announced but the Sunday morning newspaper printed its statement from him.

"It has been called to my attention that my advertisement concerning the Huaco Club does an injustice, by implication, to the members of the club. It is far from my intention to do anyone an injustice, and I desire to make this statement before I preach my sermon.

"'I find on investigation that the statement 'The Huaco Club Is Worse Than Second Street,' was intended even by the lady who made it in its broad sense. Her idea seems to have been that the high quality of those who frequent that club should call for conduct above reproach. Sin of any kind committed by those with high responsibility is worse in its influence than more heinous crimes committed by those in a lower social scale. On further investigation I have found that the charge against the Huaco Club is not sustained.

"I will discuss the matter futher in my sermon tonight.'"

Refuses to Name Woman.

At the time for the advertised sermon the Austin Avenue Church held a record audience and many members of the Huaco Club were present. Dr. Knickerbocker put all the blame on his woman informant, whose name he refused to divulge, and said that as the comparative phrase used was a misunderstanding, he would "let it go at that." He added:

"I regret very much that the misunderstanding has come up. After investigating I find it is not true. I talked to one of the directors of the club and he said they often get reports of something awful that has happened and they trace it down, and there is nothing in it.

"Oh, yes. I found in the investigation that the woman, who made the charge did not mean what she said. She meant it in a sort of figurative way. However, let her bear her own burden. I have troubles enough on my own.

Is that explanation satisfactory, Brother Woodson?" he asked turning to a member of his congregation.

"Brother Woodson is one of my Board of Stewards."

Advised to Investigate.

Woodson answered: "In the future I suggest that your investigation precede your advertisement, and that if you at any time hear of any matters concerning the Huaco Club that need investigation, if you will submit them to the directors they will investigate the matter to the finish."

Dr. Knickerbocker's willingness to dismiss his charge as his misunderstanding of an unidentified woman was not satisfactory to the clubmen. They took the charge to the board of stewards of the church, who called Dr. Knickerbocker before them. The directors declared that Dr. Knickerbocker's apology was too frivolous to suit them. That the sermon apparently had been prepared and then delayed one week before the announcement and then for him to "investigate" between editions of a newspaper was hardly serious enough consideration.

Gives Out Signed Apology.

After a conference, the board of stewards gave out a statement expressing high regard for the Huaco Club and the personal belief that the insinuation was untrue. They added this signed statement:

To the directors of the Huaco Club, city.

Gentlemen—My board of stewards has presented to me the complaint you made to them in regard to my action in making the publication which was contained in my advertisement last Saturday in the Times-Herald, in regard to the Huaco Club, and in response thereto I freely state that I was wrong in making such publication and now frankly state that the facts and insinuations contained in said advertisement about the club are untrue in fact and substance, and I freely retract and withdraw the same in toto, and express my sorrow at having published same.

I would not intentionally wound anyone's feelings or cast undeserved reflection upon anyone. That an act of mine has resulted in such wounds gives me genuine pain. It is a small man that will not acknowledge his mistakes. I leave myself in the hands of your generous magnanimity.

Very sincerely yours,
H. D. KNICKERBOCKER.

The directors of the Huaco Club have stated that this apology makes "every amend possible under the circumstances."

"Battered" Wife's Authorship.

LONDON, April 4.—"I could write a book about my husband," said a woman who was granted a separation at Marylebone Police Court. She described how he pulled her out of bed by the hair and bounced her about the floor, and added: "I have a bad jaw, a bad shoulder and two bad knees, and I'm just like a battered old tin can."

Advice on Beauty

by Claire Ainsworth

NOTE—If the reader does not find the information wanted in the questions answered below, just address a letter to Miss Claire Ainsworth, 40 Patterson Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope, and she will gladly advise on health problems. The articles and preparations mentioned are on sale by all wholesale druggists, large retail and department stores; or any accommodating dealer can obtain them for you.

M. G. B. asks: "How can I whiten my complexion and get rid of pimples, blotches, red nose, blackheads and greasy appearance of my face?"

Answer: Your letter indicates that your blood is in bad condition. Begin taking at once something to purify the blood. For this purpose obtain one-grain tablets quinoxide. The whitening effect is marvelously beautiful.

Martha G. asks: "Will you please tell me of a good, reliable and harmless hair tonic?"

Answer: I get ½ ounce hairwand powder and dissolve it in a pint of pure soft water. It is apparently a natural hair and scalp remedy superior in every way, because it is free from alcohol—which I deem harmful to the hair and scalp. Rub into the scalp with the fingers. To darken gray and faded hair use a pint of sage tea, instead of water, and dissolve the hairwand powder in it. Apply it to the hair evenly twice daily.

Maude C. asks: "I am getting more fleshy day by day and have resolved to take treatment to reduce. Please tell me of a safe, harmless and effective remedy."

Answer: Get from a well-stocked pharmacy five-grain phythyrin tablets and take according to directions in sealed tube. This formula is prescribed widely by physicians and one whom I personally know says it is harmless and very effective.

D. B. C. asks: "Is there anything safe to use for removing unnatural hair growth on the face and arms?"

Answer: A friend was bothered until she discovered that ordinary fluvol powder would instantly destroy the hair, without injuring the skin. Get the powder in a sealed air-tight package.

Agnes L. asks: "I am losing my hair by the combful and my scalp is covered with scurf, while it itches terribly. What will stop the troubles?"

Answer: The use of plain yellow minyol will check and cure dandruff and itching scalp, stop the falling hair and restore a healthy condition of the scalp. Apply as per the directions on 4-oz. jars. This preparation is made for and widely used by professional hairdressers. Before beginning this treatment shampoo with gloriol liquid shampoo, a very high-grade preparation.

Miss Jean asks: "There seems to be no oil in my skin, which is dry, yellow and rough. What treatment should I use?"

Answer: Your skin needs a good pure emollient flesh builder, and for this purpose nothing on the market is so good as gloriol emollient, sold in sealed jars. Use it morning and night and soon the flesh will improve in tone and the skin will become white and pink. This emollient puts new life and color in the face, while it fills hollows and removes other complexion blemishes.

Marguerite asks: "What is the object in using vanishing or greaseless cream?"

Answer: The purpose of a good, pure, fragrant greaseless cream is to protect the skin from the severity of sun, wind and weather. Be sure to use a good and harmless cream. I use and recommend one called gloriol balm, sold in sealed tubes. It prevents chapping, burning, roughness and freckles, while it is delightfully soothing and pleasant to apply.

C. R. P. asks: "I cannot find a good toilet soap that pleases me. What one do you recommend?"

Answer: I long ago discontinued the use of ordinary toilet soaps, because I found that I could not keep my skin and complexion perfect by their use. I now recommend and use gloriol glowene, a "water massage cream," which cleanses the deepest pores, reduces large pores and softens and clears the skin beautifully. It comes in sealed tubes, very convenient and sanitary to use.

Mrs. A. R. asks: "I would give anything I possess to find something to overcome my scrawny arms, hands, neck and bust. What am I to do?"

Answer—I can only advise the same treatment which I have heretofore given in these columns. Defective circulation and nutrition are responsible for your pitiful condition. First, take a good tonic and flesh builder, and for this I know of nothing better than 3-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, sold by most pharmacists. Then the parts should daily be supplied with a nourishing skin food, and for this you should obtain in sealed tubes, medicated venosol, which is especially used by actresses and society women to develop the bust, arms and neck. Full directions are given with the article, and rapid development is certain to follow its use. Take deep-breathing exercise daily.

R. M. asks: "Can you recommend a remedy to make the hair fluffy, wavy and curling?" I have to put my hair in kids every night, and sometimes the curl comes out before noon."

Answer—Have you never tried gloriol wavolene? It defies detection and makes the hair curl and wave beautifully. One application will keep the hair in curl for a week or more.

Elsie R. asks: "Is it good to use face powder after using gloriol balm?"

Answer—Yes, if you use a good, pure, refined powder that will not clog the pores. I advise the gloriol face powder, which comes in pink, white and brunette. Send two stamps for my book "Beauty Truths." It is free to all my readers.—ADVERTISEMENT.

WASHING WON'T RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

Dissolve It, That's Best Way.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—ADV.

The main greenhouses of the Missouri Botanical Garden (Shaw's Garden) have been transformed into a Holland tulip field for the opening of the spring season today. The public will have an opportunity of viewing a marvelous display of blooming bulbs.

The Garden is open every week day throughout the year from sunrise to sunset; and on Sunday from April 1 to December 1. Today is the opening of the 1914 Sunday period. The Garden is free to the public.

The bulb show consists of 10,000 tulip plants, many of them bearing four to 16 blossoms; 5000 hyacinth plants, some bearing three to six large flower spikes; 600 lilies, including 20 varieties, and all bearing blossoms and bulbs.

The tulip display is a blaze of color, ranging from a deep cream to deep orange and from delicate pink to a very dark red. In addition to these colors there are the pure white flowers.

The hyacinths are in all of the delicate pastel shades of pink, rose and blue and white. The flower spikes of the hyacinths are larger and much fuller than those of last season.

The lily collection is one of the most interesting ever shown in St. Louis. It will include a large number of Easter lilies, and many of the colored blossoms. The flower forms of the lilies vary. One a rich, Roman purple in color, turns back its petals until they resemble a "bishop's cap"—the color and form suggest the name.

There will be two other interesting groups of bulbs included in this display—the narcissus, jonquils and daffodil family and the amaryllis. The narcissus collection will include the new varieties shown last season, and all of the old fashioned varieties.

The gates of the garden will open today at 2 o'clock and remain open until 6 o'clock. There will be guides to direct the visitors and give such information relative to the plants as may be desired.

CONGRESS VOTES TO RETAIN FREE BATHS

Appropriation Bill Carries Item Providing Ablutions for Representatives and Senators.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Members of the House continued today to enjoy the free baths at the Capitol without any fear, if they had any, that this privilege would be cut off. The House, yesterday, in voting to retain the item in the legislative, executive and judiciary appropriation bill, provided for baths and bathing attendants for Senators and Representatives.

During the debate the House was aroused to laughter by Representative Bryan of Washington, who demanded to know why it was that the House appropriated $2200 for washing 433 representatives and $4000 for bathing 96 Senators. Chairman Johnson, in charge of the bill, quick to see the facetiousness of the remark, made no response.

TWO SATIRISTS GUILTY OF LIBELING CROWN PRINCE

Writer and Publisher Sentenced to Prison for Articles on Farewell to Hussars.

BERLIN, April 4.—Two further convictions were pronounced by the Criminal Court here today for insults to Crown Prince Frederick William contained in satires of his farewell order to the Death's Head Hussars at Danzig when he was transferred to Berlin. Dr. Zepler, the owner of a weekly publication, and Karl Schmidt, author of a satire which appeared in it, were each sentenced to six weeks' detention in a fortress.

The farewell address to the Death's Head Hussars written by the Crown Prince concluded as follows:

"If ever the King calls and the bugle sounds the charge, then think of him whose fondest wish it was to live this moment of a soldier's highest happiness in your company."

TALK ON PHILIPPINES

Dean C. Worcester, Secretary of the Interior of the Philippine Islands from 1907 to 1913, will address the Contemporary Club, at the Buckingham Hotel, Wednesday night, April 15. His subject will be "Wild Tribes of the Philippines and What Has Been Done for Them Under American Rule." He will show slides and motion pictures made by himself.

Worcester has aroused controversy by his assertion that slavery exists in the Philippines and by criticisms of President Wilson's plan, under which government of the islands is being gradually turned over to the natives. He is now president of a plantation company with headquarters in Manila, and a vice-president of the American-Philippine Co., organized to finance and operate business developments in the islands.

WHY SHOULD I WORRY? My credit is good for a diamond or watch at Loftis Bros., 2d floor, 308 N. 6th st. Open evenings.

"You Can Look as Young as I, Mother"

"A woman is as old as her hair looks." Mothers with grown-up daughters, whose hair is beginning to turn gray, can revive their hair to its natural youthful color and brilliancy. No woman under 30 can afford to have gray or faded hair. Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer is not a crude dye or stain. It is a clear liquid, pure as water.

It requires four to eight applications, one each day, to revive the life and natural color in faded or gray hair. Each daily application shows a marked improvement. Where the hair is just beginning to turn gray, the grayness will simply disappear with one or two applications.

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer

is a liquid that penetrates. It cannot rub off or show a bit more than the color could rub off your hair when you were fifteen, because it is so mild. All good druggists sell it at $1.00 per bottle. Crude dyes or stains are dirty, dangerous, harmful, and show plainly. They rub off and streak the hair.

There are many thousands of men and women using my preparation. The offer made in the coupon is only for those who have not used Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer. This offer will not be made again. Every bottle is sent prepaid.

CATALOGUE HOUSES USING FREIGHT TO BEAT PARCEL POST

Establish Agencies in Southwest to Distribute Catalogues With Big Postage Saving.

GUTHRIE, Ok., April 4.—Eastern mail order houses that distribute hundreds of thousands of catalogues to their trade are not only enjoying cheaper transportation by reason of the parcel post, but are reducing the cost of their advertising sums by carrying their printed matter by freight centers of distribution.

Two mail order concerns of national scope recently have established advertising headquarters in Guthrie for parcel post zones in the West and Southwest. One firm is shipping half a million catalogues to this point from New York City, where the parcel post rate on each to the seventh zone would be 21 cents.

Mailed from Guthrie, the postage would be only 6 cents in the first and second zones, 8 cents in the third and 11 cents in the fourth zone. This will save an average of about 10 cents on each catalogue, or a total of $50,000.

From this saving must be deducted the freight to Guthrie and the cost of unloading the mail from the cars, stamping each package and depositing it in the local postoffice. This, however, should not prevent the saving of large sums, as against the rate of 21 cents in New York City.

The packages are wrapped and addressed at the main headquarters of the companies. Similar distribution points have been established in other parts of the country. The heavy purchase of stamps at the local postoffices will strengthen their rating by increasing their revenues.

GIRL OUTRANKS 14 MEN STUDENTS IN ADVERTISING CLASS

Miss Rosalie Tumalty of St. Louis Second in Soliciting Ads for Missouri U. Paper.

IS ONLY 20 YEARS OLD

Has Obtained $1000 Worth of Business Since School Opened Last Fall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 4.—Miss Rosalie Tumalty of 5942 Horton place, St. Louis, a junior in the School of Journalism of Missouri, is the first woman student at the university to specialize in advertising. The University of Missouri is the only university in America offering a complete course in advertising instruction

Miss Tumalty entered a competition in advertising soliciting and writing at the beginning of school last fall, with 15 men students, and at the close of the first school semester in February she ranked second. The advertisements were obtained from local Columbia merchants and printed in the University Missourian, the daily newspaper published by the students in journalism. In all, Miss Tumalty turned in nearly $1000 worth of business.

The young man student turning in the largest amount of business, slightly in excess of $1100, had had experience in advertising before entering school.

When the student managers of the college paper are elected next year, Miss Tumalty has an excellent chance for a position in the business office of the publication.

Gets Many New Advertisers.

When the classes in advertising were organized last fall, J. B. Powell, instructor in advertising, was at a loss what to do with his first girl student. Part of the classwork consists in assigning students to solicit and write advertising for Columbia merchants.

Finally Powell gave Miss Tumalty a list of beauty parlors and women's tailoring schools to solicit for advertising In less than a week she had "landed" the entire list for the college paper and had also encouraged them to advertise in the other papers of Columbia. She not only made advertising contracts with them, but she wrote their ads, and the ads were so good that each of them is still advertising and using increased space. Not one of these firms had used advertising space regularly before.

Then Miss Tumalty was given a list of soda fountains and candy stores to solicit for advertising. Several of the managers of these stores were foreigners, and they had baffled the men students in the class. Miss Tumalty concentrated her efforts upon the main store downtown that had long held out against all the solicitors in town, both for the college paper and the other Columbia daily. The manager of the store is a young Greek of good education. Miss Tumalty induced him to change the name of his store to "Jimmie's Store," and wrote a series of advertisements for him, emphasizing this fact. Then she induced him to prepare a number of special drinks which she named after popular football stars and university athletes.

In less than a month "Jimmie's Store" had more business than all the other downtown candy stores combined. Jimmie had to increase his sales force, and install a larger fountain, for the students flocked to his popular store. Now his store from an advertising and business standpoint ranks favorably with the leading clothing and dry goods stores of Columbia. And her business promotion did not end with the advertising. She showed him how to decorate his windows, and she instructed his clerks how to wait upon the trade efficiently, and how to give such good service that the casual customer was sure to return.

Then Miss Tumulty turned her efforts toward the dry goods stores and women's ready-to-wear stores. One store, a millinery and women's ready-to-wear store, was slightly outside of the downtown trade center, and in spite of the fact that it was the largest store of the kind in town and had the finest equipment, it had never been a financial success and had changed hands several times.

Puts Store on "Its Feet."

Miss Tumalty decided this store was her problem, and she went to work with a will. She wrote several advertisements for the store that brought in many new customers, but this wasn't enough, so Miss Tumalty went out among her girl acquaintances in the university and encouraged them to visit the store. The climax came this spring when the manager of the store returned from New York with his spring purchases. A few well-worded ads gave the gentle hint that something unusual was going to happen at that store.

After the curiosity had grown to the fever heat, the "surprise" came. The store was going to exhibit the "new spring gowns on living models," something unheard of in Columbia merchandising.

But where were the models to come from, for everyone knew the store would be unable to import the high-priced professional models from the cities. Here is where Miss Tumalty's real business advertising ingenuity came in. She induced eight of her girl friend students in the university to assist her and eight girls had the time of their lives in wearing all the new suits, dresses and hats, to the admiration of some thousands of Columbia housewives and society matrons, who nearly blocked the street with their carriages and motor cars.

And Miss Tumalty's energies did not stop with this store. She is now preparing an advertising campaign for a local automobile company.

A few days ago, when one of the millinery and notion stores went into the hands of receivers, Miss Tumalty was employed to write the advertisements for the local newspapers to dispose of the $6000 stock of goods.

TANGO SOCIETY STAR ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Girl Who Quickly Won Way Into Denver Set Attempts to End Her Life.

DENVER, Colo., April 4.—Miss Hazel Ruch, who starred in the tango circle of smart society here for two weeks, is in jail in Evanston, Wyo. When she learned that she had been arrested on a forgery charge as well as on one of "jumping" her hotel bil at the Albany here, she attempted to end her life.

Miss Ruch came here unintroduced, but her first appearance in a fashionable cafe caused a great craning of necks. A smart young matron introduced her. One evening she apparently was taken ill at the hotel and Mrs. Nellie M. Smith of Boulder, another guest, nursed her through the night. That night Mrs. Smith lost her check and bank books.

When Miss Ruch's bill reached $75 and she was informed that further explanations of expected drafts would not be accepted in lieu of cash, she departed. It has been alleged that she cashed some checks my means of Mrs. Smith's check and bank books at Boulder, Colo., Laramie, Wyo., and Salt Lake City, to a total of $195. Her home is in Chicago, but her mother writes that she can do nothing for her financially.

A School for the Practical Study of Errors of Refraction in the Human Eye and Methods for their Correction.
To all to whom these presents may come
Greeting
Know ye that Charles Reilly faithfully pursued the regular course of study, attended diligently the lectures and clinics of this college, and upon examination proved worthy of the degree which is hereby conferred Doctor of Ophthalmology.
In Testimony Whereof we have hereunto affixed our hand and seal this 27th day of [illegible]
Charles McCormick President, Prof. of Ophthalmology
Prof. of Physiology

DR. CHAS. REILLY
Is a Graduate of the McCormick Optical College, it having conferred upon him the title of Doctor of Ophthalmology

As shown by the above reproduction of his Diploma granted by the McCormick College of Optics, the best known, the best equipped and most thorough optical college in the United States. The College is chartered by the State of Illinois and has a legal right to bestow the title of Doctor of Ophthalmology upon its graduates.

AND DR. REILLY has had 23 years' practical experience in his profession, and last, but not least, his successful fitting of over FIFTY-FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE with glasses.

THE FITTING OF THE HUMAN EYE WITH GLASSES is in no way a matter of medicine, but is entirely mathematical and consists of properly measuring the curvatures and deficiencies of the eye and correcting same by mathematically ground lenses. In fitting the eyes with glasses medicine has absolutely no part, and untold thousands can testify to the evil effects of using "drops" as practiced by many physicians.

DR. REILLY HAS FITTED OVER FIFTY-FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE with glasses right here in St. Louis.

If these fifty-five thousand were not satisfied Dr. Reilly would not now be the president of the largest exclusive refracting optical establishment west of the Mississippi, if not in the United States. AND always at the same place. It is only the quacks and inefficient who find it necessary to frequently move and seek "pastures green and fields anew."

Dr. Reilly has been fitting eyes IN ST. LOUIS FOR THE PAST 18 YEARS, and, barring sickness or death, will continue the same work RIGHT HERE IN ST. LOUIS, AND THE EXAMINATION IS ABSOLUTELY FREE. You don't have to pay $5, $10 or $35 to have injurious and poisonous drugs dropped in your eyes and then get a guess for your prescription. IF DR. REILLY SAYS IT'S SO, IT'S SO.

From the medical dictionary: "ATROPIN, a poison obtained from the deadly nightshade." (Atropin is the drug usually dropped in the eyes by the oculists.)

Edison's New Diamond-Disc Phonograph

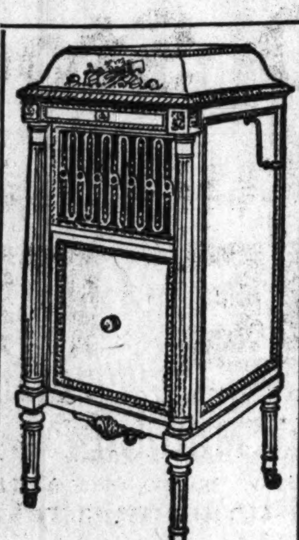
(IT'S A DIAMOND—SEE THE POINT)

All of the salesman's enthusiasm, combined with all of the Edison owners' enthusiasm, can not begin to convey the impression which the instrument itself does.

IT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

TONE cannot be described, neither can the value of tone be estimated. One violin sells for $25, another for $1000—the difference, $975, is paid mostly for the tone.

There is a corresponding difference between the tone of the New Edison and the tone of other sound-reproducing machines with which you are familiar.



Edison's New Diamond-Disc, From $60 to $450.

IT'S A NEW TONE

This improvement in tone is due to the Diamond point reproducer in conjunction with Mr. Edison's new method of recording sound which can be used only at the Edison recording plant. By means of this method Mr. Edison has been enabled to record overtones, or tone colors, heretofore considered impossible. To accomplish the impossible, however, has been Mr. Edison's forte.

Mr. Edison invented the Diamond Disc in 1878—the first disc machine invented—and when asked why he did not place it on the market sooner, said: "I wanted to give to the world a perfect musical instrument. The overtones are the most difficult to record. They are the coloring to music, and I wanted to get them. No reproduction of sound is perfect without the overtones. I wouldn't release the Diamond-Disc until I was satisfied I had them."

After hearing this wonderful musical instrument, you will want to thank Mr. Edison for having perfected his New Diamond-Disc Phonograph. Demonstrations daily at

POWER WASHERS CALLED ABUSE OF WATER SERVICE

Public Service Commission Would Refuse Permission to Use 18,000 Home Machines.

BURTON FAVORS LICENSE

Collector Says Sale of Power Is Legitimate at the Proper Rates.

The recommendation of the St. Louis Public Service Commission, in its report to the Municipal Assembly Friday on the city waterworks, that water power washing machines should not be licensed, would put 18,000 of these devices out of commission if adopted.

"A use of water which, under our present system of rates is the probable cause of large and unpaid-for consumption, is that by water motor washing machines," the commission said. "These machines are estimated at many thousands and their use of the city's water supply for power purposes is perhaps the most unwarranted of the many abuses under a flat rate system of rates. Even under meter rates it would be doubtful whether their use of water to supply power would be legitimate unless the city should have a large excess of plant over the demands upon it. The commission recommends an ordinance correcting this use of the city's water as soon as possible."

Burton Favors Licensing.

Collector of Water Rates Burton takes issue with the commission. He yesterday said he advised the continued licensing of water power machines at proper rates.

"I consider the use of water for power by these machines just as legitimate as the use of the city water by manufacturers in steam plants for power purposes," said Burton. "The purpose is identical, even if the washing machine uses the water power direct and the big plant uses the water power indirectly by converting it into steam."

Burton objected to the $1 license charged water power machines as too low, when he took office in 1911, and introduced a bill in the Assembly raising the license fee to $5. The bill passed with an amendment making the license fee $3 a year, after a fight in which women who wash for a living and others opposed the increase on the ground that it was oppressive to the needy.

Machines Used by Women.

Several types of water motor washing machines are in use in St. Louis in residences, boarding houses and by women who do family washing. No laundry corporations use them, according to Burton, and all are of small dimensions capable of operation by a half-inch supply pipe. By attaching a short hose to a faucet, water is run through a motor box, causing a semi-revolution of a spiked disc inside a tub, that moves the linen back and forth in soapy water.

Burton says the average water power washing machine will consume 800 gallons of water in three hours, and he estimates that each machine operates three hours a week, consuming about 42,000 gallons of water a year, which would cost $3.36 under the meter rate of 8 cents per 1000 gallons charged manufacturers.

Burton says he is aware that many of the machines are operated for 12 hours at a time and longer, and are in use more than one day each week. He says that many of the machines are operated only every other week, and for less than three hours when the washing is small.

More Than 18,000 Said to Be Used.

There are no exact figures as to the number of machines in use today, as new machines are listed daily, but the number is in excess of 18,000, Burton says. The revenue from these machines is about $54,000 a year at the $3 rate.

"The greatest waste of water occurs from leaky hydrants and defective plumbing," Burton said, "and from careless use of water, especially in sprinkling lawns and sidewalks. I believe this could be corrected in St. Louis, as it was in Philadelphia, by educating the public to the importance of repairing leaks promptly and by limiting the use of a garden hose to an hour or so daily."

The commission indorsed the proposal of Water Commissioner Wall to establish universal metering of buildings in the city. "There seems to be no way of arriving at a fair division of the cost of water service by any other method than by the universal installation of meters," the report reads.

MISSOURI WOMAN IS WELL AND HAPPY AFTER HEALTH MIRACLE

She Leads Active Life in Country After Recovery by Using Remarkable Remedy.

Mrs. J. B. Trullinger of Norborne, Mo., was ill for months with derangements of the digestive tract. She suffered terrible pain and was seldom able to be about.

She took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy with results that most happily surprised her and astonished her physician.

Mrs. Trullinger lives out on Rural Route 1, out of Norborne, and leads an active country life. She writes:

"I take great pleasure in telling you what Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy has done for me. When I wrote you last March I was hardly able to be up at all. I endured awful suffering. I would get so bad I would become unconscious, and the nauseating spells I had would leave me as weak as if I had had a long spell of sickness nearly as bad as typhoid.

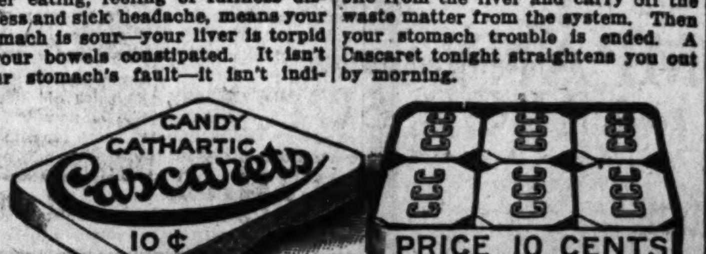
"Words cannot express the appreciation I have for your medicine. I am now able to work all day long. All this summer and fall I have felt just fine, gaining in strength and flesh."

Just such happy stories are told by thousands who write after taking Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. The first dose convinces.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be careful. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Probably it is known among your neighbors; ask them. Go to Judge & Dolph and Wolff-Wilson drug stores and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you the wonderful results.—ADV.

STOMACH SOUR, HEADACHY, BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED? TAKE CASCARETS.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the waste matter from the system. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.



CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP.

MAKE BIG MONEY IN A MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN!

The big-money business of this age—and by far the most interesting and most fascinating business ever known—is the modern business of selling by mail. Here is the one business of great promise which can be started by young and old, experienced or inexperienced, in city, town or country, with only a few dollars or with thousands — and it is a business which offers surer and greater rewards for the time, money and effort invested in its upbuilding than any business I have ever known.

Sell Anything By Mail

New Parcel Post Adds Millions of Mail-Order Buyers Everywhere!

There is practically nothing that cannot be successfully sold by mail. Millions of dollars are sent through the mails every day in the purchase of practically every commodity and every class and kind of professional service.

The statement has been made by one of America's great mail-order advertisers that the new Parcel Post has put the mail-order dealer in direct touch with at least 20 million additional buyers. JUST IMAGINE WHAT THIS MEANS TO THE MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS! Right now is the time for you to learn of the great possibilities of the mail-order business and to get ready to launch a business of your own and get your share of the millions that are being made in the business of selling by mail.

To Look Older Than You Are Is a Handicap in Business-

Save Your Hair With

Newbro's Herpicide

Other things being equal, big business always picks the man of youthful appearance, as the one more likely to possess the stamina, nerve and initiative to carry out the plans and ideas of those higher up.

Thin scraggly hair, sprinkled with dandruff detracts from a clean, youthful appearance and may impair one's chances in the world of business. Almost every one, as the result of dandruff, is liable to a loss of hair. Check it before it reaches the chronic stage.

Systematic effort and proper hygienic methods are needed. Soap and water will remove dirt, but to successfully combat the widely prevalent dandruff contagion, calls for a scalp prophylactic of known reliability.

The logical one, the proven one, the one used by thousands is NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, the Original Germ-Remedy for dandruff. Do NOT accept a substitute.

Applications at the better barber shops.

Results guaranteed.

Two sizes, 50 Cents and $1.00. For Sale at All Drug Stores.

ECZEMA LIKE LIVING FIRE

On Head and Face. Itched and Burned Terribly. Would Form Scales. Hair All Came Out. Eyes so Sore Could Hardly See. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 1, Box 57, Michigan City, Ind.—"I had the eczema on my head ever since I could remember. It would itch and burn terribly sometimes. It came on my face and was like a living fire. My eczema was like pimples and if I scratched them they would bleed and form scales like finger nails. I had scars all over my face. I could not sleep because it itched so badly and I would scratch. My hair all came out in one week. My eyes got so sore that I could hardly see well. I suffered terribly and I thought there would be no cure for me.

"I treated and spent fifty dollars and got no help. I was discouraged. My sister came to see me and she told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I would bathe in hot water and Cuticura Soap and then put the Cuticura Ointment on twice a day, morning and night, and bandage my face and head as much as I could. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and my cure is complete." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Rhoda, Oct. 23, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Although sold everywhere, sample of each will be mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

☞Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

FEEL YOUNG!

It's Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, unless you take yourself in hand.

Coax the jaded bowel muscles with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Don't force them with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistency and Nature's assistance.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. Take one or two occasionally and have no trouble with your liver, bowels or stomach. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. All druggists.

U. S. SUPREME COURT TO DEFINE A 'MIXED-BLOOD'

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The Department of Justice has asked the Supreme Court to decide "What is a mixed-blood Indian." Upon the decision depend more than 1000 suits that have been brought to cancel sales of land allotments.

The Clapp amendment to the Indian appropriation bill gave to the "mixed blood" Indians of White Earth, Minn., the privilege of selling their allotments of land. The District Court held that "any Indian not of pure blood was a mixed blood." This ruling was made in the case of an applicant who showed one-thirty-second of white blood. The Department of Justice contends that there should be one-half white blood as a minimum for a mixed-blood.

A good many of the sales that are questioned by the department are more profitable to the purchasers than to the allotees.

Swell Corns? Try Wonderful "GETS-IT"

Greatest Corn-Cure World Has Ever Known. "Gets" Corns Sure as Fate.

Thousands say "GETS-IT" is simply magic. If you've tried nearly everything under the sun to get rid of those corns, so much the better for "GETS-IT." Corn freedom is yours at last, not next week or next month, but right now! "GETS-IT" goes after corns as a crow does corn. There are no more thick plasters and greasy salves that don't remove, no more files, razors and jabbery that make corns grow. Put a few drops of "GETS-IT" on and see every corn and callus shrivel and vanish. That's the new way, the painless, sure, safe, quick way. Only "GETS-IT" can do it. Apply it in 3 seconds.

Every druggist in the land sells "GETS-IT," 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Optona tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eyestrain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind, or nearly so, or who wear glasses would have never required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late. Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—ADV

BOSSES FIGHT FOR POLITICAL LIVES IN KANSAS CITY

Municipal Campaign Narrows to Battle Between Democrats and Nonpartisans.

OVER COMMISSION RULE

Newspaper Owner, Who Advocates Union Station Park, Center of Attack.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4.—The hottest political campaign Kansas City has had in many years, will close Monday and on Tuesday the voters will decide whether they wish to continue the present Democratic administration or retire it in favor of nonpartisan rule pledged to obtain commission government.

There are five tickets in the field, Democratic, Republican, Progressive, Socialist and Nonpartisan. Three weeks ago the outlook for the Nonpartisan ticket was poor. The Democratic administration had gone in with a majority of more than 5000 votes, and while it admittedly had lost strength to the Nonpartisan ticket, it apparently was the strongest.

The Republicans and the Progressives had indorsed commission government, but each had a plan different from the Nonpartisans. This befuddled the voters, and while the Nonpartisan ticket had drawn the large majority of Progressives and considerable of the Republican strength, the presence of the two tickets to divide the commission government vote meant a situation the Nonpartisan ticket could not overcome.

Both Lose to Nonpartisians.

But since that time the Progressive ticket has lost almost its entire strength while the Republican ticket has threatened several times to quit the fight.

Even former Gov. Herbert S. Hadley deserted the Republican ticket in favor of the Nonpartisan ticket, and his defection was followed by nearly all of the other supporters, except those whose enmity for William R. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, led them to prefer anything except what the Star, which has been preaching commission government for many years, might desire.

Several times overtures were made to the Nonpartisan Campaign Committee for a surrender of the Republicans on an agreement that the Nonpartisan committee pay the Republican campaign debts, but the offer was rejected. The Nonpartisan committee decided that events had so shaped themselves that their ticket would get every Republican vote, except those who would not vote that ticket under any circumstances because of their hatred for the Star. The same condition applies to the Progressive ticket.

Meantime the Democrats have lost strength steadily. One after another prominent Democrats—business men, professional men, ministers and labor leaders—has gone over to the Nonpartisans, and each one of them has carried votes with him. One of them was Frank P. Walsh, long a leader in Kansas City's Democracy, and now, by President Wilson's appointment, chairman of the National Commission on Industrial Relations. In fact, while C. A. Burton, the Nonpartisan nominee for Mayor, is a Republican, the chief orators in the Nonpartisan campaign are Democrats.

Protest Against Party Bosses.

Many of the Democrats are advocating the Nonpartisan ticket as a protest against bossism in their party, represented by Joseph B. Shannon and "Tom" Pendergast. These two bosses are in absolute control of the city and county government, which is charged with waste and inefficiency. They, to a large extent, also have controlled the police department, and the recent attack upon Mrs. Gertrude Shidler, a nurse, in one of the police-protected dens, gave the Nonpartisan ticket one of its strongest arguments.

Incidental to the approaching completion and opening of the new Union Station, the Star advocated facing the station on a large park to prevent an undesirable grouping of cheap hotels, saloons and lodging houses. The Democratic orators charged the Star advocated the park to increase the value of Owner Nelson's real estate holdings. It was said he hoped to get control of the Park Board and force through a park plan to cost $10,000,000.

Meantime, every commercial and civic organization in the city indorsed the station park plan, and a committee of Republicans and Democrats, appointed by these organizations, who appraised all the land to be taken for the proposed park and estimated the cost of improving it, reported that the total cost would be only a little over $1,000,000 and that the average small taxpayer would be taxed about $4, extending over a period of 20 years, or about 20 cents a year.

At the same time the Nonpartisan ticket was pledged not to create the park without a vote of the people.

Legislative Control at Stake.

The Democrats are fighting with a desperation born of a realization that defeat in the city election means also a defeat in the county and in the Legislature, so far as Jackson County is concerned.

The election of men to the Legislature who favor a commision government is necessary to carry out the plans of the nonpartisans. Under the power it has to frame its own charter, the city may only partly adopt that form. It must still comply with the State law requiring two houses of the Council, but there is no provision fixing the number of members.

It is proposed by the Commission Committee to reduce each house to three members, elected at large, and to have the two houses meet in joint session to pass upon city matters until the Legislature submits an amendment to the State Constitution permitting the adoption of full commission government by abolishing the Council altogether and conducting the city's business through a board of commisisoners, each of whom shall be at the head of one of the city departments.

Through its charter power, nearly all of the other essentials of commission government can be obtained, such as the initiative, referendum and recall, and it can put the various city boards, such as the Park Board, Health Board and others, under committees of the Council.

To Increase Bust Measurement

A beautiful bust is woman's greatest charm, and with the aids that modern science has wrought any woman may possess one.

If every flat-chested woman who reads this would go to Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. at once and get a package of Sorose (price $1.00) she would soon learn that her own bust could be developed from three to six inches very quickly and with perfect safety and secrecy.

Sorose, which is a prescription recommended by a famous physician for just this purpose, is almost magical in its quick effect, and as it is used any woman can watch her busts develop almost from day to day and see them grow large, round, firm and beautiful. There is no massaging, no steaming pots, nothing to rub on and nothing injurious to take. Sorose acts only on the busts.

It does not increase growth at any other point, but its action on the bust is so certain and remarkable that long ago its makers authorized Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. to sell it on a positive guarantee of satisfactory development or money back, and this same guarantee is in effect today. Plays Now in St. Louis ✦ New Dramas on Foreign Stage

Martha Hedman in "The Two Virtues" Now Scores Distinct London Triumph

Supporting Sir George Alexander in Alfred Sutro's New Comedy She Plays Perilous Role of a "Bad" Woman Who Is Inherently Good and Makes Its Appeal Convincing — Winthrop Ames Will Present the Play in New York Next Season.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

MARTHA HEDMAN, whom I liked so well, you may remember, for her excellent New York achievement in Henri Bernstein's "The Attack" and in Augustus Thomas' weak "Indian Summer," now seems to have won a great personal London triumph with Sir George Alexander in the premiere production of Alfred Sutro's new comedy, "The Two Virtues," at the St. James Theater, the play and its two leading players being credited with having scored a distinct success.

In this new Sutro play Miss Hedman has the role of Mrs. Freda Guildford, at first a distinctly unpleasant character but mellowing, under the playwright's skilfull treatment of his theme of "charity and chastity," into the aspect of a woman who is more than willing to be good if the hard censoriousness of her world will permit. At the opening of the play's story the audience is told that this Mrs. Guildford has entrapped a certain poet, Claude Jervoise, alienating him from his wife. The latter in her distress turns to a former suitor, the eccentric Jeffrey Panton, played by Sir George Alexander, entreating him to see Mrs. Guildford and persuade her to "return" Poet Jervoise to his disconsolate wife. Valorously essaying this delicate task, Jeffrey Panton himself falls in love with Mrs. Guildford, thereby incurring the wrath of his sister, Lady Milligan, who fears that his infatuation may frustrate her plan to make him the husband of a titled girl. Jeffrey begs his sister to be more charitable in her judgment of Mrs. Guildford—"charity is as great a virtue as chastity," he argues, and then dwells illuminatingly on the innate goodness of the woman whom he is defending. "Why don't you marry her, then?" cries Lady Milligan, exasperated beyond endurance. "By George!" retorts Jeffrey, "I never thought of that before!" And instantly he procures a special license, hurries headlong to Mrs. Guildford, makes hot and very honest love to her, and eventually gains her promise to become his wife. Yielding, almost against her will, it is plainly to be seen that the woman's soul rejoices at the prospect of happiness and right living thus created by the devotion of a man who is clear-sighted enough to have discerned her essential goodness under the shadow of a life for which she was not by any means wholly responsible.

Martha Hedman is said to portray the perilous role of Mrs. Guildford with an effective blend of delicacy and dramatic power, ultimately making its appeal quite convincing. Sir George Alexander is both whimsically humorous and wholesomely earnest as Jeffrey Panton. Miss Athene Seyler properly realizes the selfish and silly Mrs. Claude Gervoise, Herbert Waring is described as "almost cruel" in his lifelike picturing of her affected and artificial poet-husband, and Henrietta Watson gives a clear-cut performance of the antipathetic Lady Milligan. Winthrop Ames has bought the play's American producing rights and will present it at one of his New York theaters next season.

Dear old "Raffles" of the late Kyrle Bellew's memorably effective playing now finds its palpable imitation, with certain additions of "thrillfulness," in a melodrama by Percy Gordon Holmes entitled "You Made Me Love You," which is attracting London playgoers to the Lyceum Theater by thousands.

Here we have, in the person of James Dennison, the story's hero, an infernally resourceful chap who has been made a criminal in spite of himself. This so happens because one Maurice Courtney, his cousin, contrives to fasten "the stain of guilt" upon Dennison, unjustly accused of having forged his father's name and then, appropriating Dennison's fortune by means of a will in which his father disinherited him—but later revoked—throws the young hero upon the mercy of a cold, cold world. About this same time, too, Dennison is mistaken for "The White Hand," the mysterious chief of a criminal gang, whom he amazingly resembles, and, recklessly, determines to play the part of this arch-criminal. This he does in the most pulse-quickening way, ultimately, however, owing to her own sacrificial love, involving his sweetheart in the perilous web of his weaving. John Harrison, an old college chum, has become a famous detective and is hot on the trail of the "White Hand," but without suspecting Dennison of being that dreaded malefactor. Happily, at the last, in "ambushing" a burglary, Sleuth Harrison discovers that Villain Courtney is the burglar, and that Courtney seeks to find and destroy the real "last will and testament" of Dennison's father, restoring Dennison to his rightful inheritance. Villain Courtney is apprehended, the all-important will is recovered, Hero Dennison comes into his own again, disappearing forever as "the White Hand," the blackmailing lawyer who made a villain of Courtney is shot and killed by his dupe, Sleuth Harrison vastly increases his prestige as a detective, Hero Dennison marries Iris Cavanagh, his sorely imperiled sweetheart, and all's well with the world at the play's close. We probably shall see "You Made Me Love You" in this country before another year passes. I hope it's a real good melodrama. I like 'em when they're good.

From Paris comes the news that "L'Epervier" ("The Hawk"), a new drama by Francis de Croisset, now on the Ambigu's stage, not only is intensely dramatic in its skillfully told story but develops a sudden emotional appeal in its last act which makes it infinitely touching.

The Count de Dassetta, a Polish nobleman in Paris, is a card-sharper who lives by plucking profligate young "pigeons" at the gaming table. He has a charming wife, the Countess Marina, who, however, falls in love with Rene de Tierrache, just returned from his post as First Secretary of the French Embassy in Rome. Rene urges the Countess Marina to forswear high play—in which she has been her husband's accomplice—but without suspecting that she and her husband were "crooked" gamblers. When the young wife tells her husband that she wishes to play no more, he informs her that they have no other means of livelihood, adding that it was for her saks that he began to cheat. Even now he is fleecing a rich American. At the gaming table that night Rene detects the Countess passing an ace to her husband. There is an angry scene in which the husband discovers that his wife loves Rene. She must choose between the two. She chooses her lover. But, in the last act, when, after several months, she encounters her husband, shabby, broken, haggard, now ruined because he has been playing honestly in reckless desperation, she realizes that it is her duty to return to him. "It is the woman you yourself have created," she tells Rene, her lover, "the woman whom you taught that unselfishness and devotion are a woman's life!" . . . .

Mme. Gabrielle Dorziat as the wife and M. Andre Brule as the "hawk" husband are said to make this scene profoundly moving. Jean Coquelin struggles against the handicap of a "stock" conventional role as the millionaire American who has fallen into "the hawk's" clutches. Roger Monteaux makes rather a priggish figure of Rene, the lover. But it is Mme. Dorziat and M. Brule alone who count in such a story. And they are credited with doing superb emotional work. The play is one of the big successes of the present Paris season.

ACTORS' FUND DAY.

Under the leadership of the Chicago Theatrical Managers' Association 16 Chicago theaters will give special matinee performances of their current offerings for the benefit of the actors' fund on actors' fund day, April 17, and, in addition, there will be a big vaudeville special feature combination matinee bill presented at the American Music Hall for the same good cause. All that is best worth seeing at Chicago playhouses will be on view in one or other of these 17 performances. An elaborate souvenir program including the casts of all plays then in Chicago, is being illustrated by the artists of Chicago newspapers. Tickets for all these fund matinees now are on sale at the Olympic Theater box office in St. Louis.

IF YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED GIVE A TEASPOONFUL "SYRUP OF FIGS."

No matter what ails your child a laxative should be the first treatment given.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign your "little one's" stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in just a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the system and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—ADV.

A complete grand opera orchestra and a fine singing chorus are announced as noteworthy features in addition to the three different casts of principals.

Next week, "Excuse Me."

"LIFE OF OUR SAVIOR." Shubert. Second week of sincerely beautiful reverential and admirably presented photodrama, its action taking place in the Holy Land itself, its greatly vital animated pictures attaining genuine majesty. The atmosphere and customs of Scriptural times have been preserved. The principal characters are portrayed by well-known French artists in drama and the supernumeraries enlisted from among the natives of the Holy Land, many of whom are actually descended from the Tribes represented. During the unfolding of the picture-story an elaborate musical program, descriptive of the various scenes, will be presented by a special orchestra.

Next week, "The Passing Show of 1913."

"THE GIRL FROM MUMM'S." American. Parisian musical comedy, the book by J. A. Lacy, lyrics and music by Fred A. Bohnhorst. Its story concerns the experiences of Cleo Marcette, the title-role figure, who quite innocently involves Jack Hamilton, a young married man, in embarrasing complications, during the course of which he introduces her as his niece, Ethel Busby, thus tangling up certain love affairs so direfully that he finally has to confess his own plight in order to straighten things out.

VAUDEVILLE. Columbia. Bill headed by "Wronged From the Start," a new travesty on melodrama by Everett Shinn, author of "More Sinned Against Than Usual."

VAUDEVILLE. Hippodrome. Bill headed by Luigi Dell Oro, instrumental virtuoso, playing on two instruments of his own invention.

VAUDEVILLE. Grand. Bill headed by Sophie Tucker, "the Mary Garden of Rag-Time," in a repertoire of rags and other songs.

AL. REEVES' BEAUTY SHOW. Standard. New musical comedy and vaudeville. Company headed by Andy Lewis, "Chick" Cameron, Zella Russell, Vera George and Olivette Tremayne, with La Belle Carmencita, dancer, actress and singer, Thursday night, amateurs. Friday night, wrestling.

PARISIAN BEAUTIES. Gayety. Will present a two-act musical comedy entitled "A Night in a Harem." Company headed by Jack Miller, Fred De Silva, Lillian Smalley and Lanier De Wolfe. Entertaining vaudeville features.

PHOTOPLAY. Garrick. "The Rise and Fall of Napoleon," a great historical photodrama in eight parts.

PHOTOPLAY. New Grand Central. "A Celebrated Case," with Alice Joyce and Guy Coombs in the leading parts. A Keystone comedy and a fine musical program will be presented between the reels.

OPTIONS WILL BE TAKEN ON SITES FOR OPERA HOUSE

Committee Also Plans to Sell "Golden Horseshoe" Boxes at $10,000 Each.

A telegram received yesterday from Otto H. Kahn indicates the interest with which Eastern operatic magnates are watching the St. Louis opera house plans. Mr. Kahn is the leading member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers, and for many years has been chairman of the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Opera Co. His telegram reads:

> New York, April 4, 1914.—Guy E. Golterman, Victoria Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.: Your letter received and I am gratified to learn that your great city, which has so abundantly demonstrated its interest in and appreciation of musical art, is to have so worthy a home for opera and concerts. I believe the proposed plan, combining as it does revenue-producing features with its artistic purpose, to be a very good one, and I am certain that the materialization of the project would prove a very valuable addition to your city and a source of satisfaction and pride to its people. Much gratitude is due to the public-spirited and art-loving men who have brought this auspicious plan to the threshold of fulfillment and to whom I beg to offer my best wishes for its successful realization. OTTO H. KAHN.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Grand Opera Committee, attended by Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, Mrs. John T. Davis Jr., George W. Simmons, Edw. A. Faust, Daniel G. Taylor, Charles A. Stix, James E. Smith, Alex Hilton and Guy Golterman, it was definitely decided to go ahead with the New Opera House plans.

Mant sites have been offered the committee and short-time options will immediately be taken on the four sites which offer the greatest number of advantages.

"Golden Horsehoe" Boxes $10,000 Each

The main feature of the financial plan will be the sale of boxes (in the "golden horseshoe") to 30 families at $10,000 each, for which the subscribers will in addition receive $10,000 worth of preferred stock in the corporation which will own the opera house. It is believed that this stock will earn a nominal income of 2 per cent per annum from the beginning. The sale of boxes will be in the nature of granting to the purchaser a perpetual leasehold under which the owner shall have prior right to the use of the box for all entertainments in the opera house at current rates.

This plan constituted the basis of financing the Metropolitan Opera House more than 30 years ago. The New York boxes were sold on a basis of $30,000 each and, in the more than 30 years that have elapsed, the stockholders rarely have permitted their boxes to leave their families. There have been numerous transfers through death or for family convenience, but only five boxes have been permitted to leave original family influence.

From the original stock value of $30,000, the value of these boxes has risen until their worth now is estimated at from $100,000 to $120,000—more than twice the present value of a membership in the New York Stock Exchange.

The committee in charge of this feature of the financial arrangement, consisting of Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, Mrs. John T. Davis Jr., George W. Simmons and Edward A. Faust, will meet Tuesday to organize for active work.

The committee announces that its efforts will be directed toward building an auditorium which will stand alone without offices or apartments as has been tentatively suggested, believing that its earning capacity will be sufficient to at least pay all fixed charges and operating expenses.

With regard to the Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera Company's engagement at the Odeon next week, the committee announces that all season seats for which the subscription has not been paid by Tuesday of this week, then will be placed in the single-seat sale now under way.

It is estimated that an average of 750,000 persons ordinarily attend moving picture shows in Chicago each day, and that, under especially favorable conditions, the daily attendance runs up nearly to the 1,000,000 mark.

STELLA DE METTE TO Be K. OF C. SOLOIST

The Knights of Columbus Choral Club announces a concert at the Odeon on Tuesday night, April 28, and the engagement of Miss Stella de Mette as soloist.

Miss Mette is a South St. Louis girl known in the opera world as Miss de Mette. She is a member of an old and prominent German family. Trained vocally abroad, her unusual talents attracted the attention of the Metropolitan Opera Company management, and she was engaged as one of that company's principal mezzo-sopranos. After many overtures towards her engagement, the Choral Club finally succeeded in securing her services, principally because the club is a St. Louis organization.

The club, at this concert, will appear for the first time under the direction of Prof. William Theodore Diebels of Holland. The program to be presented is of interest much out of the ordinary, and will include one especially big number of uncommon dramatic appeal as well as [illegible] value. It is confidently believed that the approaching concert will be most successful in the Knights of Columbus Choral Club's brilliant history.

Prima Donna Mary Garden, in a recent interview, declares that "New York has no artistic courage, and is [illegible] to taking everything from Europe [illegible] it never dares to decide for itself [illegible] a singer with an absolutely perfect [illegible] should come unknown to the Metropolitan Opera House she would never be accepted."

Hair Grew 4 Inches in a Few Weeks

A St. Louis Lady Increased the Length of Her Hair Four or Five Inches in a Few Weeks With This Simple Home Recipe.

A well-known St. Louis lady, after using a simple recipe on her hair, which she mixed at home, made the following statement: "Without exaggeration, my hair has grown four or five inches." The recipe she used is as follows, and any lady or gentleman can mix it at home: To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the tips of the fingers. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out.

It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. These ingredients can be obtained from any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home.—ADV.

RUB IT ON YOUR SORE, ACHING BACK

Rub Lumbago, Pain, Soreness, and Stiffness away with St. Jacobs Oil.

Kidneys cause Backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Rub it right on the ache or tender spot, and instantly the pain, soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache, sciatica or lumbago pain. "St. Jacobs Oil" is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

It's the only application to rub on a weak, lame or painful back, or for lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism sprains or a strain.—ADV.

To Absorb Freckles and Other Blemishes

Every spring numerous inquiries are made by girls seeking some reliable recipe for removing freckles. Last year very favorable reports were received from many who had used mercolized wax during the freckling season. The wax seems to possess unusual properties which completely absorb the freckles, with no harmful effect. The complexion improves wonderfully, becoming as soft as a rose petal, and as delicately tinted. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's, spread a thin layer of it over the entire face every night for a while, washing this off in the morning. For rough, spotty skin, sallowness, blackheads, pimples and all cutaneous blemishes, this treatment is superior to any other.

Springtime also brings wrinkles to many sensitive skins that are much exposed to winds and changing temperatures. To a half pint witch hazel add an ounce of powdered saxolite, which quickly dissolves. Bathe the face in this; the effect on a wrinkled skin is remarkable.—ADV.

CIRCUS TO OPEN AT COLISEUM NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Begin Spring Season With St. Louis Engagement.

The Carl Hagenbeck and Great Wallace Shows will open their spring season with a week's engagement at the Coliseum, beginning next Saturday night. Two performances daily, at 2 and 8 p. m., will be given.

The performances are to be given in three rings, on two elevated stages in a massive, steel girded arena and on a quarter-mile hippodrome track. The show opens with a pageant composed of Arabs, Hindoos, Greeks, Moors, Asyrians, Phoenicians, East Indians, Persians, priests, slavers, peddlers, sun worshipers, Roman Soldiers, musicians, trumpeters, harpers, chariot drivers, camel drivers and elephant leaders.

The big thriller with the show this year will be Hugh Robinson, a young St. Louisan, well-known as an aviator, with his "Circle of Death." Mounted on a high-power motorcycle Robinson loops the loop and at the same time the loop revolves in the air in an entirely opposite direction. It is declared to be the very latest effort of daredevil recklessness combined with mechanical genius

Among the principal performers are the Ward-Fisher troupe of 14 aerialists; the Cornalla family of 7 acrobats; the Nettie Carroll troupe of wire artists; the Cevene troupe; the three Reiglers, the Rooneys and almost 300 others. The principal animal trainers are Phil Hagenbeck, Carl Zwir, Prof. Webb and Hiram Kerslake. Two hundred wild animals from the Hagenbeck farm in Germany perform in the arena.

During the St. Louis engagement a downtown ticket office will be in operation at the Famous-Barr Co., where tickets may be procured at the same prices as at the Coliseum. No street parades will be given.

WATER TANGO AS SIMPLE AS MOVEMENTS OF FISH

Swimming Instructor Has Charted Dance for Pool Frequenters.

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., April 4.—The opening of the bathing season at the East Connersville beach will bring the water tango, De Boise McCooney, a clever dancer and swimmer, says many of the movements of dancing and swimming are identical. He plans to teach the water tango.

Attired in conventional bathing suits, standing in three to four feet of water, properly instructed and fairly coached at the start, two persons can do a feat which will delight spectators and make the performers' hearts leap within them, according to McCooney. At first thought, he says, forward progress through such a depth of water would seem difficult, ungraceful and absurd.

But by a mass convention of physical gyrations, which he has charted, the seemingly clumsy feat will become as simple as the movement of a fish.

HER FIRST AUTO RIDE IS TO THE POOR FARM

HAMMOND, Ind., April 4.—The one pleasure ambition of the aged and infirm Mrs. Mary Evans was to ride in an automobile. She has attained that ambition, but it was not the pleasure of the event that she anticipated. Her destination on her only automobile ride was the County Poor Farm.

The ride to the poor farm followed the funeral of her husband, who cut his throat when he lost his poorly paid job that had supplied them with a scant living. He was 74 years old and their lives had been gloomy. They had buried 12 children, and had none left to maintain and comfort them in old age. Their cottage was on a much traveled auto highway and Mrs. Evans says of recent years she and "father" got their only pleasure in watching motors rush by and wondering if, sometime, they would be invited to ride in one of them.

CITY WANTS FIRE BELL

Houston Folk Deny They Have Outgrown Country Town Custom.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 4.—Because they miss the clanging of the old fire bell, citizens are circulating petitions to have it restored. It was abolished by the Mayor recently as a custom of the small town.

The petition says there have been accidents and collisions with fire apparatus since the bell quit ringing because of a lack of public warning. A system of taps formerly gave the location of the fire.

Stolen Money Plastered in Ceiling.

Dream Leads Man to Son's Body.

LONDON, April 4.—David James Stalker, a miner, of Annfield Plain, West Hartlepool, was troubled in his sleep by a dream that his son had been drowned. He rose, went to a pond, and there found his son's jacket hanging on a post. The body was recovered from the water afterwards.

GANDER, 33, IS DEAD

CLINTON, Mo., April 4.—The 33-year-old gander belonging to W. H. Ross, a farmer in the north part of Clinton County, believed to be the oldest goose in the world, is dead. The average life of a goose is 12 to 15 years, and the oldest known in this section of the country besides Ross' gander was 20 years.

The rare old bird, up to a year ago was as lively as a fowl 30 years younger, and had a peculiar habit of invading the hen house and pulling setting hens from the nests, although he never harmed them nor ate the hatching eggs.

FORMER POLICEMAN BARRED FROM HOME BY HEIRESS WIFE

Beautiful and Wealthy Giula Morosini Werner Displeased With Husband's Associates.

ONCE SAVED HER LIFE

Home on Hudson Is Surrounded by Detectives and Mistress Reported in South.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The beautiful Giula Morosini Werner, heiress to the bulk of the fortune of the late millionaire, Giovanno P. Morosini, has left her husband, according to reports current at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson. She has placed guards over the Riverhead estate to keep Werner out, it is said. Werner was a mounted policeman in 1907 when he saved the life of Giula Morosini by stopping a runaway, and she married him four years later, after he had divorced his wife.

There has been discord in the family for a year or more. Werner was much given to seeking the company of former friends on the police force, according to reports which reached his wife. It was also reported to Mrs. Werner that her husband had been visiting his former wife, Alice.

The final break came, it is asserted, Thursday night, when Werner, who had been away for several days, got home. He had employed two former policemen to act as guards in and about the grounds of the Morosini estate, which extends for a quarter of a mile along the river south of 254th street. These guards were missing when Werner reached the main gate.

Two strangers stopped him. They said they were members of a private detective agency and refused to let him in. He went to other gates. They were all guarded. He called the house on the telephone and got no reply. The guards were armed and Werner went away.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Werner is not known save to her closest friends. It is reported that she has gone to Florida. Inquirers at the house are given this information at the gate. The telephone has been disconnected. Werner does not appear to have visited the place after he found his way barred by detectives Thursday night. Detectives from a private agency in the pay of Mrs. Werner have trailed Werner, it is said, for months.

Whether Mrs. Werner intends to apply for a divorce cannot be ascertained.

TOLEDO IS OFFERED 3-CENT CAR TICKETS

Railways Company Asks City to Appoint Committee to Map Out Ideal System.

TOLEDO, O., April 4.—Henry L. Doherty of New York, acting for the Toledo Railway and Light Co., appeared today before a meeting of the City Council Committee on Franchise and made a written offer to sell street car tickets, good at all hours, five for 15 cents. Cash fares would be 5 cents. Doherty provides that the fare rate may be revised by the Council at the end of the first year and at five-year periods thereafter during the life of the proposed 25-year franchise.

He suggested, also, that the city appoint a committee to map out an ideal street railway system and suggest how it should be operated. Provision is made in the proposal for municipal ownership of the street railway if the city so elects.

The concession surprised the Council committee and it is believed that it will end the 12 years' franchise war in Toledo.

KAISER DENIES REPORT HE CRITICISED CATHOLICS

Official Statement Says Letter to Landgravine of Hesse Contained No Attack on Faith.

BERLIN, April 4.—The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung today officially denies that any letters sent by the Emperor William to the Landgravine of Hesse contained any phrase of an anti-Catholic nature.

It had been reported that the Emperor had expressed strong anti-Catholic views to the Landgravine, who was a Princess of Prussia, when she was converted to the Catholic faith in 1901.

The Norddeutsche says: "The Emperor's letter contained no expression of any sort concerning the Catholic faith, the Catholic Church or the Catholics."

COUNTERFEITER CAUGHT AT WORK IN SALT LAKE

Companion Believed to Have Been Wounded in Escaping Police Raiders.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 4.—Policemen captured Andrew Poters and confiscated a counterfeiting plant here today, after a chase. Poters' associate was believed to have been wounded by a pistol shot from one of the officers.

The two men were discovered making counterfeit half dollars. They dashed from the little house where their plant was situated and one of them escaped. The police seized the plant and counterfeit money amounting to about $600. Electric silver plating apparatus and supplies of tin, antimony, lead and silver nitrate were found.

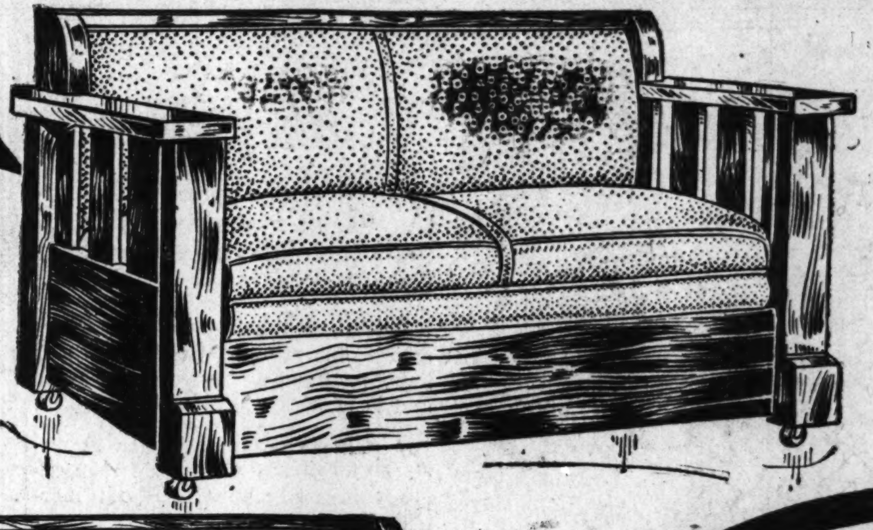
New "Divan-Bed" Davenport

It is exactly as illustrated—a small Settee when closed—a full-size double Bed when open

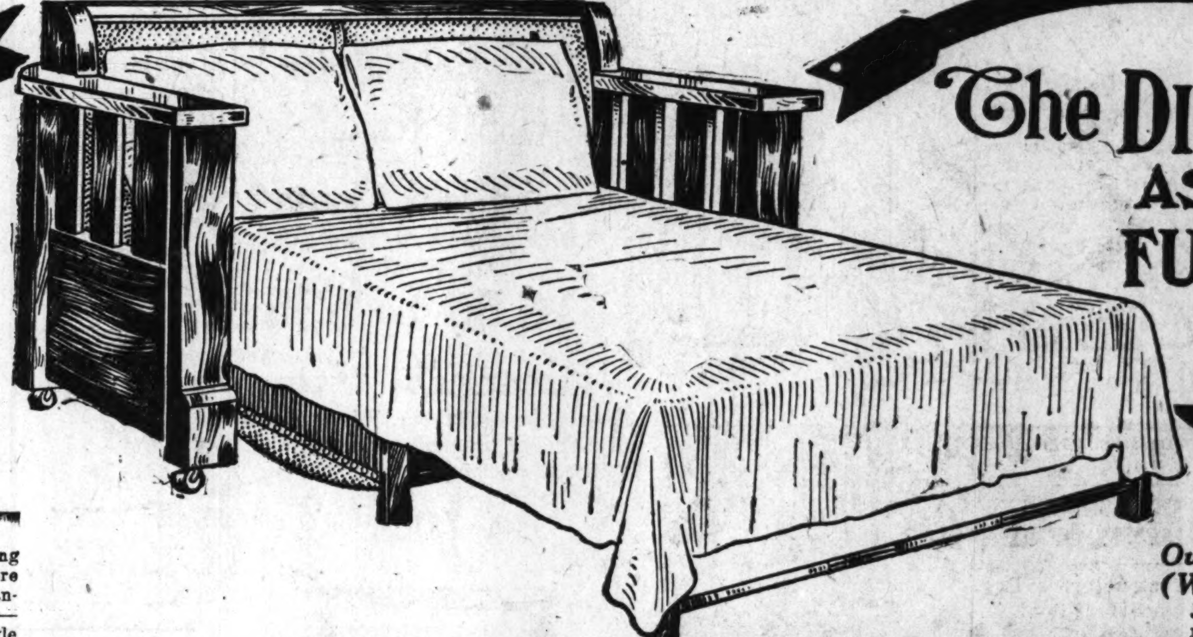
The DIVAN-BED AS A SETTEE



$22.50

$1.50 Cash

$1.50 a Month



The DIVAN-BED AS A FULL SIZE BED

Something Absolutely New—
Our new "Divan-Bed" Davenport is something different and better than you have ever before seen. The one great advantage of the "Divan-Bed" is that it looks like a settee when closed—takes up about half the space that the old-style davenport does—yet it can be opened into a full-size double bed—and is more comfortable and restful than any other bed davenport.

The "Divan-Bed" Davenport—is a brand-new invention, and is certain to take the place of the old-style bed davenport. We were fortunate to secure a large number of these davenports at an extremely low price, and will offer them at a corresponding reduction.

The Construction—
This Bed Davenport is unusually well made throughout—the frames are of solid oak, in Colonial design, with broad arms and heavy posts—the seat and back are upholstered in imitation leather that looks exactly like real leather and will wear as well.

Opens Into a Full-Size Bed—
The "Divan-Bed" Davenport is made on an entirely new principle—the springs, mattress and bedding are under the seat and come into position when the seat is turned, so you do not sleep on the upholstering, as is the case with nearly all other bed davenports.

Has Regular Bed Springs—
A special feature is the broad, comfortable set of springs which support the mattress when the davenport is opened as a bed—these springs are of the finest construction and as comfortable as any box spring made. The mattress is removable, so it can be cleaned, aired and turned.

Four Ticks of a Clock and It's a Bed—
You are going to be particularly pleased with the ease with which this Bed Davenport can be opened into a full-size bed—it is almost automatic in action, and so strong in construction and simple in design that it positively cannot get out of order.

We Are Proud of This Offer—
This is just the Bed Davenport that everybody has been seeking for a long time—it solves the problem of an extra bed in the most ideal manner—it takes up only about half the space occupied by an ordinary bed davenport and makes a more comfortable bed than any that has heretofore been produced.

Our Price—Including the Springs—(Without the Mattress)—Is $22.50
Judged from every standpoint of quality and workmanship, this "Divan-Bed" Davenport is a value, and it is only due to our unequaled buying facilities and purchasing these bed davenports in tremendous quantities for all our stores that we are able to offer them at such a decided saving.

And Note the Terms—
Our principal object in offering this Bed Davenport is to open up a great many new accounts—and for this reason we offer it at this wonderful low price of $22.50—and on terms of only $1.50 cash and $1.50 a month.

We Urge You—
To give this your first attention tomorrow—it's a more wonderful offering than the picture and our description can convey to you—it's just what you want, and you will certainly regret it if you miss this opportunity.

The Motor Boat Season

BY CLARK M'ADAMS.

THE motorboat season is open—
The air is resounding with pops,
The river is wild with excitement,
And the wrath of fortuitous stops.
The shores have grown green and inviting,
The isles are alluringly fair,
And a lot of recruits to the pastime
Are rapidly learning to swear.

No one has explained why an engine
Will run on an automobile
With few of the moods that a motor
Put into a boat can reveal.
They tell us the principle of them
Is almost exactly the same,
But none the less running on water
Is a very much different game.

At any rate, this is the season
A motorboat slips from the bank,
And the boatman, grown soft in winter,
Begins to resume with the crank.
The fellows who passed him last summer
Would better keep out of his way,
For he has a boat now which will cover
The shores of the river with spray.

All motorboats are made faster
Before they are launched in the Spring;
To have it rubbed into one always
Is not a desirable thing.
Wherefore at the closing of autumn,
All fresh-water sailors proceed
To take up with gloating aforethought
The desideratum of speed.

All engines increase in their power,
All hulls are remodeled in line;
All wheels are exchanged for the better;
All parts are another design.
To pass a man once on the water
Is to make him so mad that he plots
And plans in the seasons to follow
Through an endless procession of yachts.

One must bear in mind that on water
The speed limit doesn't apply;
There is no soft tooling on low speed,
With cautious short spurts on the high.
The boatman turns on all the power,
And gives her what gas she can use,
And she does what she can do as long as
The party is out for a cruise.

There is no policeman to follow
And trail one around with his bike;
The river is wide and inviting—
You can go just as fast as you like.
The motorboat season is open—
The air is resounding with pops,
And the least of the riverman's worries
Is the probable presence of cops.

AUTOMOBILES are by this time so common that it is necessary for a select few to have motor boats. There at least everybody cannot follow. Motor boating requires some knowledge of the river, which is not to be gotten in a day, nor yet in a year. Anybody can learn roads about once over. They are so monotonously alike. It is different with the river. Unlike the bridges on the road, which are stationary and very soon cease to be an adventure, the sandbars in the river are always moving, one is never sure of missing them, and they are a continuous adventure. There is speed, too. Sped, of course, is a relative term. An automobile only goes fast in comparison to a street car or a carriage. In comparison to an aeroplane it is doing little better than a wheelbarrow is in comparison to the next slowest mode of transportation. Relatively speaking, a motor that satisfies in a way the craving for speed. One can always run one of them as fast as it can go. This is a tremendous satisfaction. The restrained feeling of a motorist operating inside or very little over the speed limit is entirely foreign to motor boating. Everything about the engine is doing the best it can all the time. True, the speed of the boat is less than the speed of an automobile running well in hand, but the engine is going like mad, and the boatman never has under him that pent-up and yearning power which expresses itself in the eagerness of the driver of the automobile to turn her loose. Therefore the expression on the boatman's features is calm and quiet, whereas that of the motorist is disposed to be wild and hunted. It is only when one encounters a motorist returning from a long spin in the country that an expression of countenance similar to that of the motor boatman is seen. Somewhere in the country the motorist has gotten the lust for speed out of his system. Hid from the eyes of city policemen and safely removed from interference by village constables, he has run the speedometer up to 50, 60 or 70 miles, and has felt the wind in his face like Barney Oldfield. That is, the motorist occasionally enjoys the equanimity enjoyed by the motor boater all the time—when the engine is running.

AS dust is the plague of automobiling, so mosquitoes are the plague of motorboating. Like dust, mosquitoes can be oiled, and they are oiled in Panama and a few other places. They are not oiled along the river. This is a great pity. If it were not for the mosquitoes one could drop in anywhere and tie up for the night, or resort to any manner of attractive riverside grove for a camp lunch. The mosquitoes keep trespassers off the banks pretty well, especially in the late spring and early summer. After that they permit some landing, but one must keep inside the 20-foot line or whatever the understanding is with mosquitoes.

Like automobiles, too, motor boats are multiplying all the time. The conditions are favorable to their increase all up and down the river. Every river town has a flotilla of them. The river front up at Alton looks like the principal shipyard of the Lilliputians. The Missouri River is not so much frequented by motor boats. Marine engines keep themselves cool by pumping their own water as they run. It carries a good deal of solid matter indigestible to pumps. In the Mississippi, however, pumps do well on the water and are fond of sucking it in and spouting it out in a playful manner that is of advantage to navigation.

There is no Henry Ford in the motor boat business, so motor boats are of all makes and sorts, without any dominant type. Speeds are based on what they make downstream. Motor boatmen will say that this is not so, but if they tell you what their boats can do and you time them doing it you will very soon learn that is what they meant. Owing to the unfortunate circumstance that about three-fourths of the motor boats along the river do not run at all, it is pretty hard to say what the average speed of a motor boat is. Fast ones which run, however, make 15 and 20 miles an hour (downstream), and a few speed boats do better than that (downstream). The life of a boat, if it is not equipped with mail order machinery, usually exceeds that of the owner, though occasionally a boat which runs well all the time and does not induce apoplexy is survived by its owner.

Hensley's Argument Convinces Man Wife Doesn't Appreciate Him

WASHINTON, April 4.

WALTER L. HENSLEY, Congressman from a Missouri district, is the father of a resolution for an international holiday a year long; the idea being to keep the nation from building battleships for that period. When he has a chance he likes to find out how the general public likes his plan and he finds the smoking compartment of a Pullman car an excellent place in which to get in touch with popular opinion. One day he was in the smoker, and, looking up from his paper, he remarked:

"I wonder what people generally think about this plan to stop building warships?"

A well-dressed young man across the aisle said: "I should worry about that. I guess it don't make any difference to me whether they build one battleship or ten a year. My taxes are not very much."

The Congressman offered to prove to him that his general Federal taxes were higher than those of Andrew Carnegie. The young man laughed.

"Federal taxes are chiefly duties," said Hensley. "Now you give a good deal of money to the Government in taxes on the cigars you smoke. Mr. Carnegie does not smoke. You probably drink a little. Mr. Carnegie does not. He is a modest dresser. You probably buy two suits of clothes to his one. You doubtless eat twice as much as he does. So, I think you pa[illegible]eral taxes than he does."

The young man had nothing to sa[illegible] time but half an hour later the Congressm[illegible] heard hi[illegible] remark to his wife, as the couple were going to the dining car:

"You may think I'm an awful boob, but let me tell you this: I contribute more toward keeping up this Government than a man like Andrew Carnegie does."

Senator Kenyon's Solution of the Arctic Animal Problem

SENATOR WILLIAM S. KENYON tells a story of his schoolboy days. He was taking an examination in geography and one of the questions was, "Name four animals that inhabit the Polar regions."

William thought of polar bears and seals, [illegible]t he could not recall another animal that lived [illegible] the Far North. After racking his brain for [illegible]e time, he wrote, "A polar bear and thr[illegible] [illegible]s."

AUTOISTS ON GRAND JURY WANT STREET CAR SPEEDER HELD

Motormen Violate Laws and Are Never Molested, Report Declares.

PEDESTRIANS ALSO HIT

People on Streets and Delivery Wagon Drivers Assailed as Careless.

Members of the February Grand Jury, the majority of whom are automobile owners, in their final report yesterday to Circuit Judge Jones, declared the police militate against auto speeders almost exclusively, whereas the jurors think they should pursue street car scorchers as well.

They think delivery drivers and pedestrians who cross in the middle of the block, and children who roller skate, should be made to respect the rights of motorists or take the consequences.

The jury recommends that policemen be instructed to see that the motormen comply strictly with the law. "They should be required," the report says, "to sound their gong when approaching every street intersection and give way to drivers of all other vehicles who, under the laws as prescribed, might have right to the crossings, and they should be forced to recognize the same speed law as applies to automobiles.

"While automobile drivers are arrested, tried and convicted for violations of this law, we never hear of a motorman being prosecuted individually, which in the opinion of the grand jury is favoritism shown the United Railways Co., and we accordingly urgently recommend that the police department be given instructions to treat all classes alike," the report says.

Delivery Drivers Criticised.

The jurors also think drivers of delivery wagons should be required to hug the curb more closely, so that faster vehicles, in passing, will not have to use the left side of the street. Drivers of delivery wagons should also, the jury says, be stopped from making turns in the middle of the block.

Another thing the police should attend to, in the opinion of the grand jurors, is violation of the speed law by drivers of automobiles used for the delivery of afternoon newspapers. It is a very common occurrence, the report says, for them to go out Chestnut street, between Broadway and Twelfth street, at 25 to 30 miles an hour. The drivers of these vehicles should be required, the report says, to observe the same speed laws that govern all other automobiles.

There should be a law, the jurors think, relieving drivers of all classes of vehicles from liability for running over persons who cross the street in the middle of the block.

Finally, the jurors, while not prepared to recommend that a law be enacted against children roller skating on the street, do think that policemen should take roller skating children to their parents for the application of proper reprimand, and drivers of vehicles, especially automobiles, should not be held accountable for the many lives lost annually by children "making this unwarranted use of the streets."

City Institutions Fire Traps.

The jury denounced the Industrial School and the House of Detention as fire traps and described the city dispensary as a barn.

"At the Industrial School," the report says, "a great many of the children sleep in a dormitory on the third floor. The exits are narrow stairways and fire escapes are inadequate. In case of fire the loss of life would no doubt be dreadful to contemplate.

"The House of Detention," the report says, "in the character of the building and its furnishings is nothing short of a disgrace to the city, and besides it is a veritable fire trap. The stairs are very narrow and the fire escapes inadequate. We think no time should be lost in providing new quarters and complete new furnishings."

It is recommended that when a new building is erected it be commodious enough to accommodate the Juvenile Court, so that children will not have to be marched through the streets from the juvenile prison to the court.

The city dispensary is referred to as "this old barn of a place." The interior should, the report says, be repainted, the walls papered and the floor covered with linoleum. "As it is today, one has the feeling on entering the place that he will become contaminated with germs by touching anything," the report says.

It is recommended that a sufficient staff of physicians be provided to permit of a doctor being sent with an ambulance each time it answers a call.

Workhouse Methods Condemned.

"We believe," the report says, in discussing the workhouse, "that it is utterly impossible to reform a man by locking him up in a steel cage and compelling him to do work he does not like to do." It is recommended that a municipal farm be provided where the prisoners could be given more congenial work.

The jury disapproves of the practice of placing in the Industrial School small children against whom there is no charge, but whose parents are unable to care for them. Association with children who are serving terms for misdemeanors is declared to be bad for them. A better place for them, it is suggested, would be the poorhouse.

A greenhouse, to cost probably $5000, is recommended for the Infirmary. "We cannot conceive," says the report, "of any feature which adds more cheerfulness, and gives more pleasant enjoyment to such unfortunate people."

It is recommended that three of the Poorhouse buildings be supplied with elevators for the aged and crippled inmates who cannot go down the stairs to get out of doors or to attend moving picture shows and other entertainments in the Entertainment Hall, or religious services in the chapel.

It is urged that two small rooms be

I. W. W. WOMAN TRIES TO ATTEND TRIAL OF PASTOR

Jane Est Forces Way Into Church Where Dr. Price Is Being Investigated.

WANTS PUBLIC HEARING

"I'd Like to See Him Try to Kiss Me," She Says as She Pushed by Minister.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Jane Est, heretofore identified with movements of the Industrial Workers of the World, created consternation at the Metropolitan Temple today, by trying to force her way into the trial of Dr. Jacob E. Price, pastor of the Washington Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, who is charged with misconduct by nine women members of his congregation.

At the door she was confronted by Dr. Frank J. Belcher, pastor of the Five Mission, acting as attorney for the defendant.

"Let me in," she shouted, in tones which immediately drew a large crowd. "This is not a private trial; ecclesiasticism is on trial. Ecclesasticism has always been whitewashed by the church whenever charges are made against pastors. These trials ought to be held out in the open where people can hear them. There is a great deal of talk about shielding the pastor.

"I want to see Dr. Price," she continued. "I'd like to see him try to kiss me."

Is Stopped at Witness Room.

It has been charged that Dr. Price, among other things, tried to kiss a woman member of his congregation.

Followed by the crowd, the woman succeeded in pushing her way into the temple, but could get no further than the witness room. Here she described herself as a "church cleaner."

During the I. W. W. raids on New York churches recently Jane Est was a prominent speaker. She compared the movement to the French Revolution.

The pastor of the temple, the Rev. George W. Downs, failing in an effort to keep the woman quiet, called in a policeman, who escorted her from the place and warned her to stay out.

Outside she shouted that she intended to visit the Eighteenth Street Church, where the Methodist Episcopal conference was in session. A minister heard her and rushed to the church in a taxicab. When she arrived the conference had hastily been adjourned.

Pastor's Accuser Tells of Threats.

Mrs. Hilma Dohl, whose testimony was excluded yesterday, since her charge was not included in the general complaint, was allowed to take the stand. She said she had been improperly approached by Dr. Price and that she had subsequently received visits from two persons who tried with threats and intimidation to prevent her from testifying.

She had decided, she said, not to press the charges, on account of her children but upon opening the Bible for inspiration her finger fell upon a verse which seemed to urge her to action.

GRAND JURY URGES ARREST OF STREET CAR SPEEDERS

provided at the morgue, where relatives could claim their dead apart from the harrowing surroundings in the main part of the institution.

After the new jail is completed the old one should be converted, the jurors say, into a municipal lodging house.

The opinion is expressed that the police department should be more vigilant in efforts to suppress the carrying of revolvers. The opinion is expressed that this evil would be remedied to a great extent if a law were enacted making the minimum penalty for this offense a year in the penitentiary. The minimum penalty is now two years in the penitentiary.

The police are urged to prevent the sale of opium, cocaine and like drugs and it is suggested that efforts on the part of eleemosynary institutions to effect cures should be encouraged by long sentences.

The members of the jury were: John B. Chambers, secretary of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co.; Fred B. Adam, secretary of the Adam Electric Co.; Louis Barklage, broker; John F. Bolland, president of the J. Bolland Jewelry Co.; John F. Conrad, president of the J. F. Conrad Grocery Co.; W. Harding Davis, president of the General Railway Materials Co.; Edward B. Fay, civil engineer; Ernest C. Klipstein, architect; Mathew Park, president of the M. Park Manufacturing Co.; Joseph W. Pilcher, president McConnell-Pilcher Ice and Fuel Co.; William G. Boyd, vice-president of the Brown Bond and Stock Co. and August Otto, president St. Louis Bindery Co.

For This Last Week We've Planned Four Wonderful Groups of the

VERY FINEST HATS
On Sale at Prices That Are Irresistible

Months ago we began planning for this week preceding Easter by the placing of orders abroad for materials and trimmings and arranging that the very latest models should reach us in time to serve as inspirations for our cleverest designers. They have been busy for days past solely on these—the wonderful display that they have attained would do credit to the most imposing of millinery expositions.

- ℂ Light Hats trimmed with Flowers and Fancy Ostrich.
- ℂ All Black Hats in styles for Dress and Street Wear.
- ℂ Hats in the favored Directoire or Watteau Style.
- ℂ Hats in the Much-Wanted Close-Fitting Shapes.

No two of these hats are alike—neither exact shapes nor styles have been shown here or elsewhere in St. Louis this season. In some we have unhesitatingly made exact copies of the exquisite model hats from Parisian shops—mainly though, they are adaptations of these, each with an individuality that sets it aside from all others. The materials and trimmings we've used are largely from abroad, these being augmented with selections from the foremost New York makers. There are many hats made entirely of the high polished or "lacquered" materials—there are some entirely of leghorn and lace—then there are hats of every kind of braid. Touches of daintiest of flowers, fancy ostrich in burnt and novelty effects, laces, etc., are the trimmings—trimmings you would expect to find on hats selling at far more.

These four prices are fully a fourth, and in many instances much more than a fourth, under the prices at which such hats should sell were we to price them in accordance with the qualities of materials and trimmings we have used in their making.

SMELLY MUSIC WRITTEN FOR CITY CLUB'S NEW PLAY

Futurist Fantasy Warranted to Be Fit Case for Board of Health.

COTTON FOR THE EARS

One Sane Actor in Cast Guaranteed for Production May 6, 7 and 8.

A futurist janitor, a futurist scrubwoman and a futurist porter, as well as authors, actors, poets and musicians of the new school, will appear in "A Futurist Fantasy; or, Nipped in the Bud," this year's City Club play. The play, the authorship of which is jointly admitted by W. W. La Beaume, Max Zach, Noel Poepping and Arthur Proetz, will be produced May 6, 7 and 8 at a theater not yet selected.

But, cheer up. The worst is yet to come. There will be futurist music, of a sort described by its composer, Herr Zach, as "music that smells." How it smells, is a question which the Symphony Society director has left to the imagination. This will reach its climax of cacophony in "Aroma," which Zach calls a tone-poem. Cotton batting will be provided for the ears, and clothespins for the noses of sensitive persons during this ordeal.

One Sane Person in Cast.

As a sop to the Board of Health, or to whatever power it is that starts lunacy inquiries, the makers of the piece have included one sane person in the list of characters to be represented. At least, he is sane to begin with. He is Lambert Mann, "a successful St. Louis artist of the old school." Two futurist plotters, Ludwig and Herbert, undertake to get money from Lambert Mann for futurist propaganda.

Bill collectors and others who may be interested in means of getting money from artists, "of the old school" or otherwise, will here have a chance to see how it is done. The futurist plotters are described as being impecunious—at the outset.

The part of Lambert Mann is to be played by Eugene Tittmann, and those of the plotters by Arthur Proetz and Herbert Cost. Alma and Constance, Mann's wife and daughter, will be impersonated by Clarence Stratton and Charles Zeibig.

Members of the Cast.

The other members of the cast will be:

Ernest, a Suiter .... I. D. Kelley
Mary, the Nurse .... Coleman R. Gray
Ayeaye, President of the Guild —Robert Miller
Beebee, Treasurer of the Guild —Coleman R. Gray
Seesee, a Futurist Author .... Oscar Leonard
Deedee, a Futurist Actor .... Jim Drummond
Easy, a Futurist Actress .... Wm. Orthwein.
Feefee, a Futurist Dancer.... D. D. Becker
Eyeeye, a Futurist Baritone.. Chas. A. Gray
Jayjay, a Futurist Basso.... Leighton Shields
Kaykay, a Futurist Poet...... Wyatt Brodix
Mimi, an ex-Soulmate of Herbert —Linn Bostwick
Ekseks, a Futurist Janitor.... Serge Halman
Whywhy, a Futurist Scrubwoman —Eugene Senseney
Zeezee, a Futurist Porter, Morgan McCormick

The management of the show is in the hands of an Executive Committee headed by Oliver C. Smith and including Herbert Cost, John S. Ledler, Alfred P. Hebard and Linn Bostwick. The members of the cast are all members of the City Club and most of them took part in last year's show, "He Snoops to Conquer," which was a burlesque on vice crusades of a certain sort. In that production, as in this, several of the men took feminine roles.

$1,450,000 BEQUESTS TO CALIFORNIA U. CONTESTED

Heirs of Banker's Widow and a Manufacturer Seek to Break Wills.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Suits were filed in the Superior Courts of Alameda and San Francisco Counties today, disputing the right of the University of California to $1,450,000 bequeathed to it by the late Jane K. Sather and Ernest V. Cowell, both of whom died in 1911.

Mrs. Sather left the university $700,000, out of which she directed there should be established the Sather Chair of Classics, the Sather Chair of History and a law endowment of $20,000, and that there should be erected the Sather Campanile, a steel and white granite shaft 300 feet high, now partially completed, and the Sather gateway to the campus, now standing. She was the widow of Pedar Sather, a pioneer San Francisco banker.

Ernest V. Cowell, a wealthy cement manufacturer of Santa Cruz, Cal., left the university $750,000, from which he directed there should be established a $500,000 scholarship fund, and that there should be erected a $250,000 athletic stadium.

Both suits raise the same point of law. The Sather heirs and the Cowell heirs contend that the laws of California forbid any decedent to bequeath more than one-third of an estate to any public or benevolent institution when there are rightful heirs.

Our 64th Anniversary Sale Begins Tomorrow!

It Is of Supreme Importance to Every Man, Woman and Child

This will be the first Anniversary Sale—in celebration of the founding of our business—that we have held in our completed store, which now occupies an entire city block. We mean, therefore, to make it a sale long to be remembered—for both its magnitude and wonderful value-giving.

We shall offer tremendous quantities of Vandervoort-quality merchandise at the lowest prices of the season. Only in this way, we feel, can we fully express our appreciation of the loyal support given us by the public of Saint Louis and vicinity.

The items listed on this page are but a small part of the special values awaiting you. Be sure to watch the daily papers for further particulars.

Sale price, while they last $2.95

Third Floor.

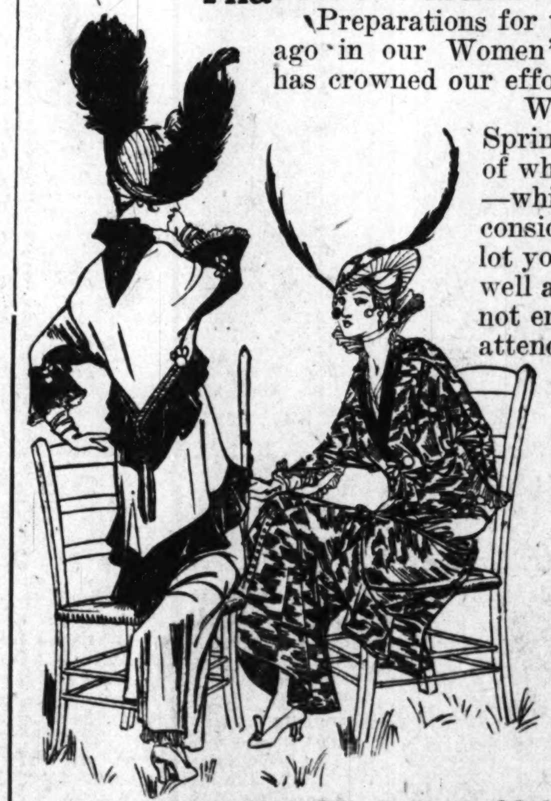
$24.50 and $27.50 for Women's New Spring Suits That Are Valued at $35.00 to $40.00



Preparations for the Anniversary Sale were begun weeks ago in our Women's Suit Department and great success has crowned our efforts.

We have secured a large number of new Spring Suits, in fifteen different styles, two of which we illustrate, every one a late model—which we will sell, while they last, at prices considerably below their real value. In the lot you will find sizes for the small woman as well as for the extra size woman, and we cannot emphasize too strongly the advantages of attending this sale.

$27.50 for Silk Suits Values $37.50 and $40

In this lot there are six beautiful models of silk faille and rose moire. They are made in Eton, fancy blouse and semi-dress styles, showing the new gathered back with round and pointed flaring peplums. They are trimmed with Persian crepe and twisted selfcords and with contrasting silk. They have kimono sleeves with flaring and cuff effects and some are finished with "cowl" collars, others with ruffle and in the crush style.

The skirts are made with one or two tiers, or in bouffant effects. These Suits can be had in all sizes from 34 to 46 and in such colors as green, navy, Copenhagen, taupe, wistaria, also black. Values $37.50 and $40.00, sale price $27.50

$24.50 for Cloth Suits Valued at $35.00 and $37.50

In this lot you will find nine models made on entirely new lines in semi-dress effects and in cloth and silk combinations. The materials used are fine serges, wool crepes, wool poplins and fancy worsteds. The coats are of all the popular types such as Etons, fancy blouses and short, hip lengths. Some are semi-tailored, others are copies of more dressy styles and are trimmed with taffeta, moire or bound with braid. The coats have loose, straight lines as well as the flaring peplum effect, and some have the soft, crushed collar and revers, while others have the standing cowl or square collars.

The skirts have mounted waistbands and one, two or three flaring tiers, with trimmings to match the coat; sizes 34 to 46 bust. Choice may be had of black, navy, green, wistaria, Copenhagen, tan, black and white checks, etc. Regular $35.00 and $37.50 values, sale price $24.50

Third Floor.

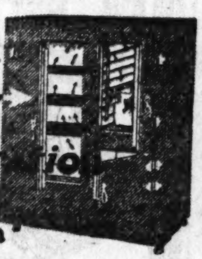
The Secret of Perfect Refrigeration
Seeger Dry Air Siphon



A Good Refrigerator Is a Necessity in Every Home

On the efficiency of your Refrigerator depends the freshness and preservation of food, as well as much of the health of the family.

The Seeger Siphon Refrigerator

(Sold exclusively by Stix-Baer-Fuller in St. Louis) is one of the most practical, efficient and sanitary iceboxes made.

The walls of the Seeger Siphon Refrigerators are built of 14 layers of material, insuring a cold, even temperature inside, and excluding heat. The linings are of snow-white porcelain and white enamel —made seamless, sanitary and absolutely germ proof.

But it is in the circulation of cold air—on which the efficiency of a Refrigerator depends—that the Seeger excels.

These Refrigerators are so constructed that there is a constant circulation of pure cold air that takes up and throws off all impurities of food, and eliminates the possibility of stagnant moist air.

Seeger Refrigerators will keep your food pure, sweet, fresh.

A complete line of these celebrated Refrigerators is shown in our Housewares Section at prices ranging from

CARTHAGE QUAKER PAIR PASS 68TH ANNIVERSARY

Samuel Weeks, Friend of Lincoln, Never Separated From Wife More Than Day.

CARTHAGE, Mo., April 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weeks of this city have just celebrated their sixty-eighth anniversary. Weeks came from Illinois, and was a close friend of Abraham Lincoln in the years preceding his election to the presidency. Weeks is a Quaker, so did not take part in the war.

Keews is 91 years old and his wife is 85. They have had nine children of whom six are living. They never have been separated more than one day.

ELLEN GOLDEN IS LAWFUL WIDOW OF EWALD, JURY FINDS

She Gets $300,000 Cash and $10,000 Annuity; Two St. Louis Relatives Get $125,000.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4.—All litigation pending in courts here for several years against the estate of Louis Philip Ewald, late ironmaster of St. Louis and Louisville, was ended here today. The jury in the trial of the suit of Ellen J. Golden, or Ewald, against the estate, returned a verdict today declaring the woman to be the lawful widow of Ewald, under a common law marriage in St. Louis 24 years ago. The court approved a compromise agreement for settlement of the woman's claim entered into by opposing counsel yesterday.

Ewald, who died in 1909, left an estate estimated to be worth more than $4,000,000. Ellen Golden sued for half the personality and a widow's share in the realty, aggregating about $1,750,000. Under terms of the settlement the woman will receive $300,000 cash and an annuity of $10,000.

Her claims as Ewald's widow are legally recognized and three children of the couple, who were adopted by Ewald are formally adjudged legitimate heirs at law of the late ironmaster.

Suits brought by certain of Ewald's brothers and sisters, who live in St. Louis, seeking to break his will, which left the greater portion of the estate to the three adopted children and suits to set aside the children's adoption, also are compromised and adjusted by the agreement.

Harry F. Ewald and Rosa Damon of St. Louis, brother and sister of the late ironmaster, are to receive $125,000 between them in satisfaction of their claims. This amount includes $15,000 bequeathed to each in Ewald's will.

MAN HELD FOR DEATH OF MISSIONARY IS FREED

Officials Say Turks Shot Dr. Holbrook by Mistake for House Owner.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14.—Nishan Avedighian, an Armenian teacher at the American Mission at Sivis, Asiatic Turkey, who had been arrested in connection with the murder of the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Holbrook of Minneapolis, a missionary at Soushehir, on Aug 15 last, was released today. He had succeeded in establishing his innocence of the crime.

Four other persons arrested on suspicion are to be tried on April 18. The official version of the crime showed that Dr. Holbrook had been killed while sleeping in the garden surrounding the house of an Armenian, who had aroused the hatred of the Turks.

The Turks shot the missionary in mistake for the owner of the house.

FIRST REGIMENT WILL PLAY "SECRET SERVICE"

Members of National Guards Will Appear in Gillette Drama at Odeon.

"Secret Service," a military drama by William Gillette will be presented at the Odeon April 21, 22 and 23 by members of the First Infantry, National Guards of Missouri.

The regiment has produced three military plays in the past three years under the direction of Frank Oakes Rose, who has the fourth production in charge. "Ours," "Shenandoah" and "Held By the Enemy" were the other plays.

Leading male roles at the Odeon production will be taken by Maj. E. H. Burgher, First Col. Arthur B. Donnelly, Maj. Richard E. Gruner, Capt. George W. Stewart and Capt. E. J. McMahon. The part of Edith Varney will be taken by Miss Clara Niedringhaus, Caroline Mitford by Miss Viola Goeke, Miss Kittridge by Mrs. W. H. Baker..

Women Everywhere

WOMEN from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from all sections of this great country, no city so large, no village so small but that some woman has written words of thanks for health restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No woman who is suffering from the ills peculiar to her sex should rest until she has given this famous remedy a trial.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wonderful Case on the Pacific Coast.

INDEPENDENCE, OREGON.—"I was sick with what four doctors called Nervous Prostration, was treated by them for several years, would be better for a while then back in the old way again. I had palpitation of the heart very bad, fainting spells, and was so nervous that a spoon dropping to the floor would nearly kill me, could not lift the slightest weight without making me sick; in fact was about as sick and miserable as a person could be. I saw your medicines advertised and thought I would try them, and am so thankful I did for they helped me at once. I took about a dozen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with much success. Since then I have used them whenever I have felt sick. Your remedies are the only doctor I employ. You are at liberty to publish this letter."—MRS. W. STEPHENSON, Independence, Oregon.

A Grateful Atlantic Coast Woman.

HODGDON, ME.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

For over 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

If there is anything about your case that you do not understand write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ARTISTS ENTER WORK IN GUILD'S ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Lorado Taft and Two Other Chicago Painters Compose Jury of Award.

The first annual open competitive exhibition of the St. Louis Artists' Guild began last night at the Guild, Union boulevard and Von Versen avenue, with a reception and private view. Fifty St. Louis artists, many not Guild members, are competing. Eighty-three canvases and a number of pieces of statuary, all new work, are on view.

The prizes, offered for the first time this year, are standing, and will be available at the Guild's open exhibition each year hereafter. They are as follows: Artists' Guild prize, a life membership in the Guild, valued at $500, for the best work of art; the Halsey C. Ives prizes for landscapes, one of $100 and one of $50; the Mary Elizabeth Bascom prize for figure painting, $100; the Betty Bofinger Brown prize for figure painting, $50. For sculpture, the Susan Rebekah Carleton prize of $100, and the Nancy Ashcroft Meston prize of $50 is offered.

The awards will be made Saturday night, when the jury of awards will be entertained at dinner by the Guild. The jurors are Lorado Taft, Ralph Clarkson and William Marshall Clute, all of Chicago. Mrs. Taft will remain here to deliver a lecture at Sheldon Memorial Hall Monday night, April 13, for the St. Louis Art League.

The exhibition will be open to the public, beginning with this afternoon, and every afternoon thereafter.

MRS. SPENCER IS LEADER

FULTON, Mo., April 4.—Mrs. Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis, chairman of the Student Committee of the Young Woman's Christian Association, is in charge of the Bible hours at a two days' cabinet conference of the associations of Central Missouri Colleges which began here today.

The conference is in charge of Miss Ina Scherrebeck of St. Louis, secretary for the South Central states of the association. Besides William Woods and synodical colleges of this city, delegates are present from the following colleges: Hardin of Mexico, Christian of Columbia, Central and Howard Payne of Fayette, Central Wesleyan of Cameron, Missouri Valley of Marshall and the University of Missouri of Columbia.

EATING MEAT REGULARLY CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, CAUSING PAINS IN THE BACK

Don't fail to flush your Kidneys occasionally with a tablespoonful of harmless fruit Salts to avoid danger.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—ADV.

APOLLO
Player Piano

This "Ad" Is Different

This advertisement is different.

We could tell you that the Apollo Player Piano has the Down Touch—the spring Motor—the Solo—the Transposing Device, etc.—but—after we got through you wouldn't know any more about the Apollo than you did before you started reading.

Every player piano manufacturer claims five or six superior features which are exclusive with his instrument. "Individual features" are Greek to the layman.

So—to give you a change and an idea of what Apollo features mean at the same time, we will take one of the fundamentals of Apollo music and analyize it for you, leaving its value to your judgment.

How would your sister or wife play the piano?

Naturally, she would play it by touching down on the key—wouldn't she?

You know and everybody else knows that touching down on the key is the right way to play the piano.

The Apollo Player Piano is the only player piano in the world which plays by touching down on the key. Apollo basic patents make this feature exclusive with it.

Now—are you going to allow any manufacturer to cover up by talking "features," "levers" and "devices" the fact that his instrment is fundamentally wrong—that it does not touch down on or use the keys of the piano in any way and cannot produce human music because it does not play in a human way?

MICHIGAN U. GLEE CLUB HERE TODAY FOR TWO-DAY STAY

University's President Also Will Be Guest at City Club Luncheon.

The St. Louis alumni of the University of Michigan will entertain the president and the glee club of the university, who will be in St. Louis today and tomorrow. President Hutchins and the glee club will be guests at the City Club luncheon tomorrow, at which J. W. Booth will preside and Hutchins will speak.

At the Victoria Theater tomorrow night the University Glee and Mandolin clubs will entertain for the benefit of a fund by which the local alumni of 200 members plans to establish a St. Louis scholarship at the University of Michigan.

The clubs will arrive in St. Louis this morning for a two-day stay on their annual trip to the Pacific coast.

A reception will be tendered to them at the Washington Hotel this afternoon, after which they will be taken for a motor ride through the city. They will be guests tomorrow afternoon at a baseball game arranged by Branch Rickey, manager of the Browns, who coached three championship baseball teams for Michigan and who recently was graduated from the law school at the university.

The Ann Arbor clubs have prepared a program that introduces "collegiate vaudeville stunts and specialties." "The Midnight Sons' Quartet" and the "Ragtime String Trio" are featured. There will be a burlesque on the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," with a diminutive tenor lisping the part of Romeo and a basement bass playing Juliet.

Hits from the annual Michigan U. comic operas also will be produced by the men who originally produced them in performances in Ann Arbor, Chicago and Detroit. This year's comic opera is "A Model Daughter," and one of the principals in this sketch is James B. Angell, grandson of Dr. James B. Angell, former president of the university.

M. LANDAU IN CHARGE OF BIG GLOBE SALE

Maurice Landau, declares that in all of his 40 years in the clothing business he has never before seen in the Globe, Seventh street and Franklin avenue, such exceptional values as are being offered in the 30-day sale that is now in progress. This sale of the Globe is now conducted under the direction of Landau and he is giving his personal attention to all the details. The sale by the Globe store was started yesterday. It is a manufacturers' outlet sale and the goods to be sold are valued by the firm at $100,000. This stock was consigned to the Globe by manufacturers to be sold within 30 days. It consists of men's, young men's and boys' suits, and the bargains that are presented to the public are for the purpose of bringing in a heavy Easter trade. A special feature of the sale has been the window decorations of the Globe. Suits are offered to measure at $15. The sale includes boys' hats, boys' Norfolk suits, men's slip-ons, men's hats, and about everything a man, youth or boy wants for the parade on Easter Sunday. The whole stock is to be sold without regard to cost, according to the announcement of the Globe, so as to raise money in a hurry.

SKATING FESTIVAL FOR NIGHT AND DAY CAMP

Summer Costumes and Masks Will Feature Palm Beach Festival at Jai Alai.

Summer costumes and masks will be worn at the Palm Beach Festival of Skating and Dancing, to be given at the Jai Alai Wednesday night, April 15, for the benefit of the Night and Day Camp.

The Night and Day Camp at 9500 South Broadway, on the river bluffs, is a sanitarium for the prevention of tuberculosis among self-supporting women and girls. It has been in existence for a year, and has cared for nearly 60 women and girls, curing one-half of them. It is the only absolutely free tuberculosis hospital in the city, and this free treatment has depleted its funds.

The dancers and skaters will unmask at 11 p. m. After that time, those who have been in boxes or in the balcony, not masked will be permitted to join in the dancing or skating. A. Cookson will be director of skating, and Harry Trimp director of dancing.

Tickets will be $1 each, including skates; these are on sale at the Famous-Barr store, or by Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins, 20 Lennox place. Boxes seating 10, at $15 a box, are to be obtained from Mrs. William Dee Becker of 4048 Lindell boulevard.

The entertainment committee consists of Mrs. Willard Bartlett, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Charles Macon Biggers, Mrs. Albert H. Brueggeman, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. George L. L. Davis, Mrs. J. Dwight Dana, Mrs. William H. Elliot, Mrs. Frederick Gardner, Mrs. M. A. Goldstein, Miss Hattie Gooding, Mrs. W. C. Johnston, Mrs. C. Norman Jones, Mrs. Henry W. Kiel, Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, Mrs. Herbert L. Parker, Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey, Mrs. Eugene Senseney, Mrs. J. Harrison Steedman, Mrs. John R. Towler, Mrs. A. L. Wichman, Mrs. Melville L. Wilkinson and Mrs. Frederic Zeibig.

TERRE HAUTE POLICE FREE SON OF BELLEVILLE MAN

Commercial Club President Identifies Jewelry Bag as That of Boy's Mother.

Henry G. Schrader, president of the Belleville Commercial Club and manager of the St. Clair Title Office, returned to Belleville yesterday from Terre Haute, Ind., where he was called after the arrest there of his son, Carl, 17 years old, who was found with much valuable jewelry for which he would not account.

Schrader said he identified the jewelry as belonging to the boy's mother, now dead. He said he had kept the jewelry intending to give it to his children by his first marriage as keepsakes as they grew older. Carl found it, he said, and left home with it.

When the father identified the jewelry it was turned over to him and the boy was released. Carl did not want to return to Belleville, Schrader said, and when he expressed a desire to visit his mother's people in Philadelphia, the father bought a ticket and sent him there.

STOMACH SOUR AND FULL OF GAS? GOT INDIGESTION?—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction, or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—ADV.

Thousands of mouths like this are seen every day. The trouble is known as Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease. These soft, discolored, bleeding, foul-smelling and receding gums, loosened and sensitive teeth can be made firm, strong and healthy by this simple Home Remedy.

Stop Despairing! Don't Give Up Hope of Saving Your Teeth.

A simple home treatment which we are placing before the public will bring you the relief and comfort you desire. Stop spending money with dentists who do not help you. Don't waste your money on drug store remedies that are invariably, as you know, disappointing.

Write to us today and learn more about this painless, speedy, inexpensive remedy that you can use at home, so there will be no further need for you to undergo the long, painful or expensive dental treatment. Bridges, Crowns and False Teeth are unsightly and rarely satisfactory, and through this treatment of the causes of bad and sensitive teeth, gum disease and foul breath they should be unnecessary.

If you are suffering with Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease, gingivitis, receding gums, elongated or loose teeth; soft, discolored or spongy gums; if your breath is foul; if your teeth pain while eating; if you are subject to bad tastes—then, for your own sake, send for Dr. Willard's book and learn how easy his method is—how painless and speedy—how this simple remedy quickly and permanently gives sound, healthy teeth.

Just sit down NOW and write us for this free book. A few minutes will convince you that Dr. Willard's common sense, simple Home Remedy is what you are looking for. Don't wait. There is no pain connected with it. We have received scores of letters from people saying they would have given hundreds of dollars had they known of Dr. Willard's Home Treatment in time. Address Dr. F. W. WILLARD, 3480 Temple Court Bldg., Chicago.

CAPT. SCOTT'S AID IS LECTURING ON ILL-STARRED TRIP

Commander Evans, One of Last to See Explorer Alive, Praises Brave Men.

HE NEARLY PERISHED, TOO

Second in Command Still Bears Scars From Ravages of the Antarctic.

Commander E. R. G. R. Evans, C. B. of the Royal Navy of Great Britain, second in command to Capt. Robert Falcon Scott in his last expedition to the Antarctic, is telling American audiences of that ill-starred venture under the Southern Cross.

"Teddy" Evans, as Scott always referred to him, had the fullest confidence in his chief, and was the last man of the supporting parties to leave the five men bound for the South Pole. He bade his superior good-by at a point 140 miles from the pole. No survivor of the expedition is therefore better fitted to take up the task of recounting the heroic story, or to explain the failure of the five brave men to win their way home again. The last of polar party failed and died 11 miles from their One-Ton depot, and nearer to the sea and their base than Evans had been to the pole.

Commander Evans, who is 33 and the youngest man of his rank in the British navy, delivered only one lecture before coming to America. That was at the Sorbonne in Paris before an audience of 5000 persons. President Poincare, one of those present, pinned on the breast of the Englishman the cross of the Legion of Honor.

Evans' Life Barely Saved.

His first lecture in this country was before the National Geographic Society in Washington. In this audience were Misses Eleanor and Margaret Wilson, daughters of the President.

Persons seated near the speaker saw that his lips were deeply scarred.

"I will carry these marks always," he explained after the lecture. "On my return, after bidding Capt. Scott good-by, I was stricken with scurvy, and it was only through the most heroic work of my companions that my life was saved. I bit through the flesh of my lips when the agony of my disease gripped me."

The high tide of Evans' work with the expedition and, perhaps, the supreme moment of his life, came when he lay helpless with this plague of the polar regions.

Commander Evans traces the progress of the expedition from London to Cape Evans, "36 days out from New Zealand," where winter quarters were selected. The next few months were occupied in placing supply depots before the four months of Antarctic darkness set in. In this time, various minor excursions, for scientific and other purposes, were made, with accompanying hardships and narrow escapes.

Commander Evans was in command of the advance guard that finally set out for the Pole. A halt was made in latitude 80 degrees and 32 minutes, and six days later Capt. Scott arrived with 11 men. The whole party continued working forward at the rate of 15 miles a day.

"Capt. Scott's plan worked easily and well," says Evans in his lecture. "We were all so happy and full of life on the march over the great ice barrier that we often would wrestle and skylark at the end of the day. Depots were made every 65 miles Each depot contained one week's rations for every returning unit. That outward barrier march will long be remembered—it was so full of health, life and hope.

Three Cheers Given as Good-By.

"On Jan. 4 the last supporting party marched south to latitude 87 degrees and 34 minutes with the polar party, and, seeing that they were traveling rapidly, yet easily, we halted, shook hands all around and said good-by. Up to this time no traces of the successful Norwegians had been seen, and we all fondly imagined that our flag would be the first to fly at the South Pole. We gave three huge cheers for the southern party as they stepped off, and then turned our sledge and commenced our homeward march of nearly 800 miles. We frequently looked back until we saw the last of Capt. Scott and his four companions, tiny black specks on the horizon, and little did we think that we were the last to see them alive, that our three cheers were the last appreciation they would ever know.

"Lady Scott has remarked on the magnificent spirit shown by her husband and his four specially selected tentmates, when they knew that Queen Alexandra's little silk Union Jack had been anticipated by the flag of another nation," continued Commander Evans. "Scott and his companions had done their best and never from one of them came an uncharitable remark. On Jan. 19 the homeward march was commenced; the party had before them a distance of over 900 miles. Seaman Evans died on Feb. 17, and then the bereaved little band pushed northward with fine perserverance, although they must have known by their gradually shortening marches that little hope of reaching their winter quarters remained. In their latter stages their marches dropped to three miles a day. The temperature fell as they advanced and we find them recording a temperature of 46.2 below zero one night. Poor Oates' feet and hands were badly frostbitten—he constantly appealed to Wilson for advice. What should he do, what could he do? Poor, gallant soldier; we thought such worlds of him. Wilson could only answer, 'Slog on—just slog on.'" On March 17, which was Oates' birthday, he walked out to his death in a noble endeavor to save his three comrades beset with hardships, and, as their dead leader wrote, 'It was the act of a brave man and an English gentleman.'

Party Stopped by Blizzard.

"Scott, Wilson and Bowers fought on until March 21, only doing about twenty miles in the four days, and then they were forced to camp. They were kept here by a blizzard and on March 25 Capt. Scott wrote his great message to the public."

While on the journey toward the pole, when in latitude 85, five degrees from the pole, Commander into a crevasse in the glacier and was only saved by the harness by which he was attached to the sled. "Evans had rather a shake up," Scott wrote.

Jan. 4, after Evans with his two men had started back on a journey of more than 600 miles over the waste, hauling a sledge meant for four men, Scott wrote, "No doubt, they will make a quick journey back."

In the oficial account of the expedition, Evans' return is described:

"Under average conditions, the return party should have fulfilled Scott's cheery anticipations. Three-man teams have done excellently on previous sledging expeditions, as recently as the midwinter visit to the Emperor penguins' rookery; and the three in this party were seasoned travelers with a skilled navigator to lead them. But a blizzard held them up for three days before reaching the head of the glacier. They had to press on at speed. By the time they reached the foot of the glacier,

Capt. Scott's Aid. One of Last to See Him Alive

COMMANDER E.R.G.R. EVANS.

From Capt. Scott's Diary:

"WILSON, Evans and I went to the cape, which I now rechristened Cape Evans, in honor of our excellent second in command." (This cape became the home of the expedition, from which the journey to the pole started.)

'Evans, with a clear-minded zeal in his own work, does it with all the success of result which comes from the taking of pains."

"Teddy Evans is terribly disappointed, but has taken it very well, and behaved like a man. Poor old Cream wept, and even Lashly was affected."

(Written near the eighty-eighth degree, when Scott told Evans to turn back, and Scott pressed on to the pole.)

Lieut. Evans developed symptoms of scurvy. His spring work of surveying and sledging out to corner camp, and the man hauling with Lashly, across the barrier, after the breakdown of the motors, had been successfully acomplished; this sequel to the glacier and summit marches was an unexpected blow.

How He Saved Situation.

"Withal, he continued to pull, while bearing the heavy strain of guiding the course. While the hauling power thus grew less, the leader had to make up for loss of speed by lengthening the working hours. He put his watch ahead an hour. With the 'turning out' thus advanced, the actual marching period reached 12 hours. The situation was saved, and Evans flattered himself on his ingenuity. But the men knew it all the time, and no word said!

"At One Ton camp, he was unable to stand without the support of his ski sticks; but with the help of his companions, he struggled on another 53 miles in four days. Then he could go no farther. His companions, rejecting his suggestion that he be left in his sleeping bag with a supply of provisions while they pressed on for help, 'cached' everything that could be spared, and pulled him on a sledge with a devotion matching that of their captain years before, when he and Wilson brought their companion, Shackleton, ill and helpless, safely home to the Discovery.

"Four days of this pulling, with a southerly wind to help, brought them to Corner Camp; then came a heavy snowfall; the sledge could not travel. It was a critical moment. Next day Crean set out to tramp alone to Hut Point, 34 miles away. Lashly stayed to nurse Lieut. Evans, and most certainly saved his life till help came. Crean reached Hut Point after an exhausting march of 18 hours; and the dog team was driven to the rescue by Dr. Atkinson. At the Discovery Hut, Evans was unremittingly tended by Dr. Atkinson, and finally sent by sledge to the ship. It is good to record that both Lashly and Crean have received the Albert medal."

Unable to Aid in Rescue.

With Scott absent, Evans was in command, and he probably had some apprehension for the dire need his chief had of him, but he was prone with disease, his strength gone and hope for his life almost abandoned. He was unable to aid in the last futile attempts to relieve Scott, this work falling to Surgeon Atkinson of the Royal Navy, the next ranking officer. Some of the survivors do not appear to think all was done that might have been to rescue the leader.

"The absolute generosity of Capt. Scott runs through his dying appeal to the nation," the official account of the expedition says, "and those letters of his with no word of blame or reflection on others for the disaster, though he could not know that scurvy had smitten the last supporting party and that those who would have come were fettered by illness and the weather conditions which finally arrested the advance of the dog teams."

GOETHALS STARTS INQUIRY

Governor Will Investigate Record of Former Commissary Chief.

PANAMA, April 4.—Col. George W. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, today decided to appoint on Monday a board composed of three canal officials to examine the documentary evidence submitted by John Burke, former chief of the commissary department, showing his financial position previous to coming to the isthmus to manage the commissary.

Burke recently returned to the isthmus. In the course of an interview today he again asserted his innocence.

KANSAS EDITRESS STARTS SUFFRAGE SCHOOL FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Mary A. McIvor Advises Sisters on Use of Ballot at Coming Primaries.

MISTAKES OF MEN CITED

Leader Declares 'Dad' Should Be Relegated and Intelligence Used to Decide Issues.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALINA, Kan., April 4.—With the woman suffrage law and the approach of a general election campaign in Kansas comes the school of instruction for women. The announcement by several women of their intention to be candidates for office, some for Congress and one for the United States Senate, makes the problem of knowing just how to vote much more keen among the women than it would be otherwise.

Kansas women have been known for years for their interest in economic and political questions, and now those who have devoted much of their time to the study of these matters are taking the lead in instructing their sisters in voting, so that in the August primary and the general election in November their votes will count.

Editor's Wife Takes Lead.

Prominent among the instructors is Mrs. Mary A. McIvor of Hoxie, Kan., the wife of the editor of the Hoxie Sentinel. Mrs. McIvor has assisted her husband in the publication of his paper for some years, and prior to the passing of the equal suffrage law her work counted for much in that cause. Every week she had a signed editorial on the first page of the paper and she was quoted liberally among the Kansas press. In speaking of her work Mrs. McIvor said:

"Woman, after her long and worthy efforts at the rear of the army of men struggling toward the goal of good government, finds herself at the front. The weapon is laid in her hands and the neighbors watch to see what she will do with it.

"In these stirring moments none but the Kansas woman herself knows how she alternately shrunk and then thrilled with delight in the new experience. So long screened by the marching wall of men, we emerged dazed and uncertain.

Says Vote Introduces New Era.

"But the passing months have gradually accustomed us to the new position and on every hand we see manifest a disposition neither to shrink nor shout, but to work. So many good things are just ahead of us; so many noble beginnings have been made; such great questions seem almost solved that we can truthfully say, 'The old order changeth giving place to the new.' And the new order, when we have shaped it, will not be as man would have done, or as woman would have done, but as man and woman working together do for the uplifting of humanity."

Now that the first victory has been won Mrs. McIvor is devoting her time in keeping the women of the Sixth Kansas District in line. The leading editorial in the Hoxie Sentinel, always on the first page and signed, continues to talk to the women about their duty, how they should vote, how they should mark their ballot to make it effective, and other things that she says will make the first victory more glorious and pronounced than if the interest is allowed to die to be revived shortly before the election.

Gives Personal Instructions.

Besides the advice given in her editorials Mrs. McIvor instructs the women personally in her new work. She organizes classes and gives instruction free and makes instructors of women who organize other classes for the study of the ballot. She declares that by August every woman in the Sixth District will have had sufficient instruction to know just how to vote.

"To many men," she says, "cast their votes one way or the other because Dad did, or with only a limited knowledge of what they are voting for. Women must not do this. Their votes must count for something.

"There never was a time when there was a greater necessity for thought and intelligence in marking one's ballot than right now. The intelligent vote is the vote cast by one who understands the issues and votes for the good of himself or herself and for society generally.

Points to Errors by Men.

"Nothing is more pitifully wrong than a vote cast directly in opposition to the welfare of the voter. Think how easily this may be done. Reason how frequently it has been done in the past. Men have gone to the ballot box year after year and at the suggestion of some party leader or at the dictation of some favorite candidate for high office, have voted so blindly and inconsistently that they hindered their own progress and deprived themselves and their families of benefits and opportunities which justly belonged to them. Women must not make this awful mistake."

MAN'S "CONSUMPTION" IS MERELY NAIL IN LUNG

SILVER CITY, N. M., April 4.—It was a nail imbedded in his right lung that produced the symptoms of tuberculosis that for two years have troubled W. P. Stanley, a young civil engineer of Sedalia, Mo., who came here for his health. Discovery of the six-penny nail was made at a local sanatarium with the X-ray. How to extract it without permanently injuring the lung is puzzling the surgeons and Stanley probably will be sent to Chicago for an operation.

Stanley was putting a transom over a screen door two years ago and held a number of nails in his mouth. He swallowed one. Soon symptoms of tuberculosis developed. He believed that he had tuberculosis and came to New Mexico.

COUPLE GO ARM IN ARM TO THEIR DIVORCE TRIAL

Former Governor of Colorado and Wife Who Gets Decree Also Leave Court Together.

EVERETT, Wash., April 4.—No observer would have suspected that Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. McIntyre were going to the courthouse here to obtain a divorce nor that they had obtained one when they departed. They went to the building arm in arm and departed in the same manner and loitered on the sidewalk, apparently discussing objects of interest.

McIntyre was Governor of Colorado for three years, being elected as a Republican in 1894 when he ran against D. H. Waite, a Populist. Before that time he had a splendid record as Prosecuting Attorney and County Judge. He is a graduate of the Yale Law School and moved to Colorado in 1880 but is now a resident of Everett, with offices in Seattle.

Mrs. Ida Noyes McIntyre is a physician and is prominent in club church circles in Washington. They were married in New Haven, Conn., Jan. 26, 1899 and have lived in Washington since. She charged nonsupport for more than one year." McIntyre admitted service in the case and admitted that he had contributed nothing to the support of his wife.

Hawley Estate Increased $500,000.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The estate of Edwin Hawley, railroad owner, which was appraised shortly after his death at $5,283,000, has been increased by $544,000 through the reappraisal of certain securities.

Every Home Needs This Splendid Remedy

No Home Can Afford to Be Without a Mild, Reliable Laxative-tonic.

No well-regulated home should be without a laxative, for there is scarcely a day in a family of several persons that someone doesn't complain of a headache or sleeplessness, or show the first signs of a cold.

A laxative then becomes a necessity or what was a trifling congestion at the beginning may run into a serious cold or fever. No harsh remedy is needed, but simply a mild laxative-tonic that will make the liver active and stir up the bowels. People who have tried a great many things and are themselves heads of families, who have seen the little ills run to big ones, will tell you that there is nothing better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain at any drug store for 50 cents or $1 a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Among the great believers in Syrup Pepsin for constipation in old or young, as a general household emergency remedy, is Mrs. M. F. Smith, 710 N. Cherry street, San Antonio, Tex. To use her own words, she says she will bless Dr. Caldwell to her dying day for she believes that through his remedy, Syrup Pepsin, she found her way to permanent good health.

MRS. M. F. SMITH

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is scientifically compounded and its purity is vouched for. Mothers give it to tiny babes, and grown people, taking a little larger amount, find it equally effective. It is mild and gentle, pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

It does not hide behind a high-sounding name and is absolutely free from any prohibited ingredient. Families who once use Syrup Pepsin forever after avoid cathartics, salts, pills and other harsh medicines, for these only do temporary good, are nauseous and a shock to any delicate system. Such things should never be given to children.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington street Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

PROMINENT WOMEN TO AID IN CARNIVAL FOR DAY NURSERY

Proceeds of Affair Will Go Toward Upkeep of Father Dempsey Institution.

A carnival will be given in the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, April 14, at the First Regiment Armory, Grand and Manchester avenues, for the benefit of Father Dempsey's Day Nursery, at 1219 North Sixth street. Many women socially prominent in St. Louis will assist in making the carnival a success.

The nursery, which cares for the children of working women during the day, has no endowment, and it is necessary each year to raise funds for its support. It is in charge of the Sisters of Charity, and is aided by a number of charitable women, who sew for the children and teach them.

Among the women who have interested themselves in the carnival are:

Mesdames Paul Bakewell, Howard Benoist, George Tiffany, J. B. C. Lucas, Eugene Benoist, Festus J. Wade, R. W. McBride, A. V. Reyburn, Rufus L. Taylor, Walter B. Douglas, Henry Sayles Kilbourne Jr., L. L. Whittemore, Charles Cummings Collins, Martin Shaughnessy, H. Cornet, J. O'F. Delaney, W. Farish, Y. I. Wade, F. G. Zeibig, Daniel C. Nugent, V. C. Turner, W. C. McBride, Cornelius Tompkins, D. C. Lyons, W. B. Kenerly and Eugene Fusz.

One of the features of the carnival will be a country store, which will be conducted under the direction of the following women:

Mesdames W. T. Donovan, J. Scott Battle, C. P. Curran, T. J. Frier, Jacob Gross, Wilson P. Hunt, W. H. Lee, Reine de Penaloza, and Misses Mabel Hennings, Eugenia Hogan, Cecile Hogan, Madonna Hogan, Nancy Martin, Kathleen Martin, Margaret Byrne, Margaret Curran, Florence Curran, Jane Curran, Margaret Gross, Cornelia Gross, Marie Agnes Gross, Elsie Gummersbach, Marian Heffernan, Florence McTague, Pauline McTague, Mary Mulvihill and Lucille Schraubstadter.

SOLE OF A GIANT'S SANDAL FOUND IN MINE

Same Vein of Coal Has Been Productive of Shin Bone, Snakes and Walnut Branch.

NORRIS CITY, Ill., April 4.—The sole of a gigantic sandal was found in the coal mine here, 645 feet below the surface of the ground by Elijah Jennings, a miner.

While shoveling away the coal in his chamber, after firing a shot, Jennings found the sole in a layer of coal. It is so perfectly preserved as to show plainly an outline of the foot of the wearer. The other portions were not discernible.

Around the outer edge of the sole may be plainly traced the line followed in attaching the sole to the upper part of the sandal. Furthermore the shape of the foot of the wearer is plainly visible. The length of the sole is 12½ inches and the widest part 5½ inches. In the same vicinity of the mine was found a well-developed shin bone of a human being, while a number of petrified snakes were also found. All of these finds are so perfect that they are regarded as being of great value by scientists and there is much conjecture concerning the period when they disappeared from the surface of the earth.

A branch of a tree, identified as walnut, the leaves, twigs and thicker sections being completely petrified, was also found in the same mine. It is presumed that these and other articles were engulfed in some mighty convulsion of the earth.

CONGRESS IS LIKELY TO BE ON JOB ALL SUMMER

Big Program Ahead and There Is Little Chance of Early Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Congress will be on the job all summer, according to experienced observers of legislative work here. Speaker Champ Clark, Leader Oscar Underwood and others are on record as predicting there will be an early summer adjournment, but every day sees less reason to believe this will be the case.

The naval, legislative, sundry civil and diplomatic appropriation bills are yet to be considered and the trust bills have not been taken up. The rural credit and presidential primary bills also have not been touched upon. That looks like a full program for the heated season instead of a June adjournment.

If the Senate lets the debate on the canal tolls run the average length of a debate of that importance in that body, that will practically settle all hopes of those Congressmen who are anxious to get home and do some fence repairing.

DOG FLESH FOR FOOD

Lecturer Says It Would Be Fine Meat if We Thought So.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 4.—If we only thought so, dog flesh would be finely flavored and excellent meat, according to James J. Walsh of Fordham University, who lectured here under the auspices of the Holy Name Society. Prejudice was the cause of the dogs being kept out of the meat class, he said.

His topic was "Healthy Minds and Healthy Bodies."

Musical instruments displaced by larger or more expensive ones are offered at small cost through the Post-Dispatch musical columns.

UNIFORMS FOR REBELS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., April 4.—The constitutionalist army will no longer appear in those ragged, baggy clothes, made familiar to the world in pictures. Enriched by confiscation and extortion the Mexican Rebels have purchased neat khaki uniforms, shoes, hats and shirts for 15,000 soldiers and these are being rapidly distributed.

The supplies were purchased in the United States and are arriving here daily. Supplies of arms and ammunition also are arriving daily for the Rebels.

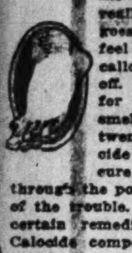
Choir Strikes to Uphold Ritual.

LONDON, April 4.—A strike has been declared by the choir of Wethersfield (Essex) Parish Church because they were requested by the vicar not to turn towards the east at the recital of the Creed. The vicar says there is no authority in the prayer book for turning towards the east.

Quick, Easy and Positive Cure for All Foot Torture



The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly, and the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Prepared only by Medical Formula Co. of Chicago, Ill., and Dayton, Ohio.—ADV.

Latin Proof of Drunkenness.

LONDON, April 4.—A solicitor at Lambeth Police Court suggested that a man charged with being drunk told the policeman that he was "perfectly compos mentis." The Judge: "Did he speak Latin?" The solicitor: "So I understand." Judge: "He could not have been sober if he did that."

Farmer Dies at 110.

LONDON, April 4.—The death is announced of Daniel Mullane, a farm laborer living near Macroom, Cork, who is stated to have reached the age of 110 years. He was active up to a few months ago.

CAN'T STAY IN PRISON; HASN'T GOOD EXCUSE

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 4.—Peter Pelinski, aged almost 70, has left the State prison here because he could not find an excuse for remaining in the institution that was acceptable to the Warden.

Pelinski was brought here in 1902 from Jackson Prison to complete serving a 20-year sentence for murder. He was contented here, and the possibility of his being forced to leave did not enter his mind until last week, when he was called before the Warden.

Pelinski said he had no relatives who cared what became of him and that his imprisonment made him helpless in the world. He tried to convince the officials that he had not earned good time; that they had made a mistake in the dates, and then offered to assume the sentence of any convict in the prison and let the latter be liberated. As he was departing he predicted that he soon would be back.

COUNTRY BANKER JUMPS TO LEAD AS TEXAS GOVERNOR

James Ferguson, With Only Wife's Consent to Run, Upsets Politicians' Plans.

FOOTING HIS OWN BILLS

In 30 Days His Homely Fight Has Put Ousley Out of Race and Frightened Ball.

By FRANK PUTNAM.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 4.—It begins to look very much as if, for the first time since Jim Hogg's day, Texas is going to get this year a Governor who doesn't owe his selection to either the railroads or the liquor interests.

The man is James Ferguson of Temple, 42 years old, farmer and country banker, novice in politics, orator of a homely sort using salty metaphors straight from the soil and packed with common sense often wittily expressed. A man who started poor and has gained a modest fortune by his own efforts; who says he figures his campaign for the nomination will cost him $30,000; that nobody can contribute a nickel to his campaign fund; that he has that amount handy to pay his own bills and another $30,000 for another campaign, if he takes a notion to run again. A man who says he "listened a long while for a call, but didn't hear it," so just decided to get into the race on his own hook, asking nobody's consent but his wife's.

This man has in less than a month, during which he has made only a few public speeches, driven the ring politicians of both the prohibition and anti-prohibition factions to something like heart failure; and from being a "political joke"—because he didn't ask their consent or advice before starting his race—has rid the field of all other pretenders on the anti side and become better than an even money bet against Col. Tom Ball of Houston, the chosen candidate of the pro wing of the party.

Indorsed by the Unions.

He has been indorsed by the Farmers' Union and by the labor unions of the cities. The liquor interests, unable to dictate to him or even to reach him, have fallen in line for him as their one hope of escape from further confiscatory legislation. Heretofore these interests in Texas have co-operated with the railroads in picking "safe" men; this year the railroads (through their general attorneys and other political agents), seeing Tom Ball the choice of a united prohibition wing and seeing the anti-pro wing apparently hopelessly divided between half a dozen active candidates, fell early into line back of Col. Ball.

They were working hand-in-glove with the old guard of Joe Bailey leaders, with a view to making Ball the pro candidate and Clarence Ousley of Fort Worth the anti candidate, so that whichever won they would control the State administration and put its influence back of ex-Senator Joseph W. Bailey in his effort to seize Charles Culberson's seat in the United States Senate in 1916.

They had the slate fixed up all right, but Ferguson has broken it. Ousley got out of the race about as quickly as he got into it and Ferguson has that field to himself, with the certainty that he will run the race out against Col. Ball, and the strong probability that he will beat Ball under the wire by a good majority.

Bailey's "Old Guard" Bitter.

Some of Bailey's "old guard" editors and lawyers swear they can't and won't support Ferguson, because Ferguson, as a private citizen, voted against Bailey when the latter was trying for a vindication after the exposure of his secret relations with the exiled Standard Oil Trust. These old boys are going to have to choose between supporting Ferguson and supporting a State-wide prohibitionist, and the betting is that they will find the former the less bitter pill to swallow. Anyhow, they are now a negligible factor.

Bailey's only hope to "come back" as a Senator is in the nomination of Col. Ball, the railroad-prohibition candidate, and when that fact soaks down into the consciousness of the Texas Democrats who so indignantly kicked Bailey out only a few years ago for secretly taking the pay of an exiled monopoly, they will do the rest.

Ferguson's nomination next July will, of course, be equivalent to an election next November, since Texas has only one party that cuts any figure.

What Ferguson Proposes to Do.

His election will mean a rest from the prohibition agitation—he says he'll veto every liquor bill of any kind that may be put up to him; that Texas has the best laws in the country regulating the trade and is tired of the subject. It will mean the passing of a law to help Texas' 225,000 white tenant farm families by fixing the shares of the crops that landlords can legally charge for land rental. It will mean the rapid betterment of Texas' common school system, the rebuilding of the State's various charitable institutions, all now housed in old firetrap buildings; the taking of the State prison system out of the hands of professional politicians who have managed to run it into a debt of over $2,000,000, and one or two other homely, practical betterments.

It will mean that Charles A. Culberson, senior Senator from Texas and one of the strong men supporting the Wilson administration's progressive policies, will not be supplanted by the reactionary Bailey.

Finally, it will mean that Texas is to be delivered from the danger of becoming a second Maine—with statewide prohibition on its statute books and all other issues obscured by this one for 80 years.

READ OUR REASONS FOR THIS GREAT OFFER

For many years the piano manufacturers have tried to reduce the selling expense of pianos. The old ways of paying solicitors, paying teachers' commissions, and engaging great artists to play their piano at fabulous sums have now been eliminated, and now it is the question of the best advertised piano, and one in which the purchasers are given the greatest possible value. This is the age of co-operation and we believe the best way to introduce and market our product is to spend our advertising money in making a special offer to the people rather than employing famous demonstrators at fabulous expense and making the people pay for such methods by asking a heavy price for the piano. Starck Pianos are known throughout the world as pianos of sterling qualities. Starck Pianos are guaranteed 25 years.

WHISKY GREATEST MENACE TO INDIAN, U. S. OFFICIAL SAYS

Warning Letter by Commissioner Will Be Read in Schools for Redmen on Tuesday.

RACE IS AN EASY PREY

Unscrupulous Persons Profit by Liquor Weakness, Cato Asserts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., April 4.—A letter written by Cato Sells, United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, on the evils of the liquor traffic among Indians will be read to every student body of Indians in the United State on April 6. This letter has been addressed to 6000 Government employes in the Indian service.

"I believe," says Commissioner Sells in his letter, "that the greatest menace to the American Indian is whisky. It does more to destroy his constitution and invite the ravages of disease than anything else. It does more to demoralize him as a man and frequently as a woman. It does more to make him an easy prey to the unscrupulous than everything else combined. Let us save the American Indian from the curse of whisky. There is nothing that could induce me, since I have taken the oath of office as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to touch a single drop of any sort of intoxicating liquor, and this regardless of my attitude on the prohibition question."

Open Saloon Scenes Described.

The bulk of the Indian population of the United States is in Oklahoma. Many years ago, under a mistaken view of the meaning of old Federal laws, saloons were open for a short time in Indian Territory, now the eastern part of Oklahoma. The drinking conduct of the Indian was incredible. Those who patronized the bar at Muskogee astonished even the barkeepers. They drank their beer or whisky—usually whisky—one glass after another, with scarcely a moment's intermission, until they sank to the floor in a stupor. Some found it necessary to steady themselves against the bar with one hand, while with the other they lifted their glass.

After an annuity payment, the Osages used to assemble two or three hundred at a time at Ralston and Cleveland, Oklahoma, on the south side of the Arkansas river, across from the Osage country, where under the laws of Oklahoma Territory, open saloons were permitted. It was a violation of Federal law to sell whisky to Indians, but there were saloon keepers and boot-leggers willing to take the risk. The sole purpose of each Indian was to get drunk, and as quickly as possible. His idea of a good time was to drink until he could no longer walk and lie asleep until he was sober.

One Man Remained Sober.

The Osages proceeded upon their debauches in a methodical manner. To one man of influence—and much physical strength—was assigned the task of remaining sober and keeping order, as the Osages frequently were inclined to fight among themselves in the first stages of intoxication. This man was armed with only a stout club, which he used with telling effect when he found it necessary to control an obstreperous brave. A hundred drunken Indians caused less fear among the white women of these towns than would two rampant members of their own race. The guard with his hickory club was largely responsible, however, for this feeling of security.

When everybody else had had his fling, the guard was free to relax from duties and indulge in what literally was a "high lonesome." He got drunk by himself just as he might go swimming or as he might eat alone. He often incurred the penalty of being too conspicuous, with the result that he was arrested and locked in jail. A further stroke of bad luck was that his companions usually left town without trying to release him.

LIMA TO ACCEPT THE SCORNED MAINE BATHTUB

Findlay and Other Ohio Towns Have Refused Relic, but It Is Now to Have Home.

LIMA, O., April 4.—This town has decided to give a home to the battleship Maine bathtub, which was shipped to Urbana as a prized relic, but scorned by that town. After Urbana rejected it, Findlay and other towns declined to give it a place in their museums of history or art. Now Lima is going to ask that the tub be sent here.

Urbana wired to Congressman Willis for a relic of the Maine when the battleship was raised. Willis replied with this telegram:

"The department has shipped to your city the largest available relic. You can place it in the public square or in the courthouse plaza, to commemorate the heroic deeds of the men who went down with the Maine."

Urbana rejoiced and the unpacking was a great event until it was seen that the relic was a bathtub. Then this telegram was sent to Willis:

"The City of Urbana refuses with contempt the municipal bathtub sent. This bathtub may or may not be a relic of the Maine. This is a clean community, spotless and bathed in civic righteousness. This bathtub awaits your orders at the freight house. Upon receipt of $1.00, cost of transportation, it will be returned to you. We, the free people of Urbana, do not need a bathtub any more than you do."

This situation has been repeated several times, but now Lima is going to rescue the honored relic from the scorn of inland communities.

BURLINGTON'S DEAL ON HALL STREET IS FOR 9 CITY BLOCKS

Purchase Includes Less Than Half of Holdings of Boatmen's Bank, German Savings Institution and National Bank of Commerce.

NORTHWESTERN ROAD PROBABLY TO BENEFIT

While the Two Railroads Are Rivals It Is Believed the Burlington Will Let the Other Have Trackage—Lease Must Be Acquired on Mullanphy Tract.

Approximately 289,280 square feet, less than half of the undivided interests in this locality, of the Boatmen's Bank, the German Savings Institution and the National Bank of Commerce, were included in the Burlington's Hall street purchase, forecast early in February in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The Mercantile Trust Co. represented the C. B. & Q. in the transaction.

The purchase embraces nine city blocks lying on the east line of Hall street and extending from Warren to Palm street. The location is just north of North Market street and south of the Merchants' Bridge.

The price paid was at the rate of $1.15 per square foot, or a total of $432,672, 35 cents per square foot less than expert appraisal gave the property prior to the sale. As there has been extensive optioning of land in this section in anticipation of terminal plans, the price realized for the bank property was a distinct disappointment in realty and financial circles.

Banks Own Most of Land.

The remainder of the land, comprising 391,140 square feet, lies on the west side of Hall street, the bank holdings in their entirety comprising 680,420 square feet. One-half of the land was owned by the Boatsmen's Bank, and one-fourth each by the German Savings Institution and the National Bank of Commerce. The acquisition of this will cost the railroads a pretty penny, it is predicted.

When the holding company, the Hospes Realty Co., was formed to take over the land, the stockholders of the German Savings Institution were given the preference of a dividend of $10 a share or a proportionate amount of stock in the realty company.

Similar disposition of the interests of the other banks was made, it is understood.

Before the Burlington purchase will be available for the purposes for which it has been acquired, it must include a strip of 23,000 square feet held by the Mullanphy Board, which divides the north half of the property. Negotiations for a lease of this strip, which, according to the will of the late bryan Mullanphy, cannot be disposed of, are in progress.

The Chicago & Northwestern, which plans, it is said, a four-track service into St. Louis, it is believed is interested with the Burlington in the purchase.

Incidentally, it is said, the Northwestern bid against the Burlington for control of this land.

Burlington May Aid Northwestern.

The Chicago & Northwestern recently built a branch south from Nelton, Ill., through Peoria to Girard and Benld, Ill., the latter place being 35 miles from St. Louis. While the Burlington and the Northwestern are rival railroads in the greater part of their territory, it is believed by those conversant with the North St. Louis terminal deal that the Burlington is disposed to help the Northwestern into St. Louis.

It has been said that the Northwestern would use jointly with the Burlington the bridge which the Burlington plans to build across the Mississippi at Mitchell, Ill. By the use of this bridge both roads would have an entrance to North St. Louis independently of the Merchants' Bridge. Congress has granted the charter for the bridge.

The Northwestern branch to Benld forms a right angle with the main line west of Chicago. It could hardly be made a part of a St. Louis-Chicago line, or of a through line from this city to any important point except Peoria.

Prior to and during the World's Fair the Burlington occupied the land, under a lease, but surrendered possession of it at the close of that period, when the banks insisted on its outright acquisition.

Deal Made to Shorten Line.

The negotiations culminating in the purchase have been hanging fire for several months, the banks at first declining to sell less than the whole. The purchase was made in order to straighten the Burlington tracks at Palm street, it being necessary for the railroad to make a detour of the east half of the bank land.

The land on the west side of Hall street, owned by the banks, is not intact and could not be used for terminals without the acquisition of adjoining holdings, together with which it could be used to decided advantage. The Wabash, however, rather than the Burlington would be the logical purchaser of the west half, or the remainder of this tract.

Agents of the railway have notified the lumber companies with yards on the land, including the Krebs-Sheve Lumber Co., together with other occupants, to vacate with a view to the early installation of tracks.

With plans for straightening its tracks thereabouts, the Terminal Railway, it is reported, is obtaining options on land in the locality of Buchanan street. The same railway interests, according to report, are negotiating for a large section of land lying east of Hall street, and extending from Ferry to Bremen avenue. As giving direct connection with the Burlington terminal yards, this tract, which is eight blocks north of the bank holdings, is essential, it is said, to the terminal plans of the railway.

A tract of 80,000 square feet, which is located south of the Branch property, and which is owned by Charles A. Olcott, it is understood, is also wanted by the railroads.

A short time ago an offer of $90,000 was made for the Mosberger timber yards, at 653 Morin street, the prospective purchaser being presumably the Terminal or the Rock Island.

The tract, which comprises four acres, is at the point where the Outer Belt Line swerves south into the river front district of North St. Louis.

Incidentally the Belt Line, which is an integral part of the Terminal system, gives to the Rock Island access from the west to its yards along the Mississippi River front. The Terminal, or the Rock Island, it is believed, has plans to swing its tracks north at Morin and Bulwer avenues into the Rock Island yards. This can be done only by the acquisition of the lumber yards which are in the line of the proposed right of way.

The Rock Island now is compelled to run south into the river front district and back into its yards north of Morin street and the Merchants' bridge, the yards extending both north and south of Morin avenue.

HOTEL FOR OLIVE AND TWELFTH SURE SAY REALTY MEN

New Center of Activity Will Be Created by Ritz-Carleton Project, Operators Declare.

SCRUGGS MANSION SOLD

Office Building Is Planned for Site Adjoining Beers Hotel on Olive Street.

Attention now is focused on Olive street and on Grand avenue, which are the centers of large realty and building plans, the former promising to rival Locust street in point of activity.

Negotiations, whereby a 16-story hotel is to be erected at the northeast corner of Olive and Twelfth streets for the Ritz-Carleton Hotel Co., have reached a stage which realty operators believe insures the realization of the project.

Daniel Catlin and W. K. Bixby, the owners of the ground, the Catlin holding embracing the corner, 100x126 feet, which is to be taken under a 99-year lease, virtually have agreed, it is reported, to take such of the bonds, or a reasonable amount of stock in a building company, as cannot be disposed of forthwith.

The structure is to have a frontage, including a 20-foot alley on Olive of 175 feet, by a depth on Twelfth of 126 feet.

Hotel Will Create New Center.

The success of this project, it is predicted, will mark the quick transformation of this section of Twelfth street as a hotel and theater and office building center.

An option, it is reported, has been obtained by promoters on the southeast corner of Olive and Eighteenth street. A large building is proposed for this site, but its owners, the McDonald heirs, are reticent as to its nature.

Skyscrapers, both hotel and office buildings, have been projected time and again for this corner, the location being one of the most alluring in downtown St. Louis for a large quasi-public building.

Announcements of large hotel building plans have been forthcoming in quick succession.

Plans for two hotel buildings in the vicinity of Grand avenue and Olive street are announced with the sale of the old Scruggs and Drummond mansions, for a total of $195,000.

Mansion Sells for $110,000.

The Scruggs mansion at 3617 Olive street, adjoining the Beers Hotel on the west, was sold for $110,000 to a syndicate of which J. C. Campbell, an attorney, is the prime mover. Announcement is made than a large hotel building will be erected on the site, 100x155 feet. The sale was at the rate of $1100 a front foot, establishing a record for this locality.

The negotiations were conducted by the Mercantile Trust Co., along with C. C. Nichols Jr.

Another feature was the sale of the old Drummond mansion on the northeast corner of Grand avenue and Morgan street to Felix Scalzo, for $85,000. Scalzo announced plans for a hotel with stores fronting on Grand avenue and a summer garden on the Morgan street side. The site has a frontage on Grand avenue of 163 feet by a depth on Morgan of 159 feet. The sale was promoted by Ben Altheimer.

Scalzo was one of the bidders recently for the Grand avenue Presbyterian Church on Grand avenue, just north of Olive, which was sold by the Mercantile Trust Co. to Louis Cella for $145,000.

Plans are being drawn for a large combination hotel and theater building for this site.

$60,000 ADDITION TO LISTER BUILDING

Work to Begin in Few Days on 4-Story Annex on the West.

Plans for the erection of an addition to the Lister Building, Olive street and Taylor avenue, to cost approximately $60,000, have been completed and work on the addition will begin within a few days, according to an announcement yesterday by the Landay Real Estate Co., owner of the property.

The addition is to adjoin the building on the west with a 10-foot court between the present building and the addition. Communication will be had between each floor of the two buildings by corridors across the court.

The addition will be 85 feet on Olive street and will extend back 58 feet 7 inches. It will be four stories high, and will be finished in mahogany and oak. The exterior will be of red brick with Bedford stone trimmings.

$30,000 FOR APARTMENT IN WESTMINSTER PLACE

Deal Is Made by Goodnow Realty and Investment Co. for a Client.

The Goodnow Realty and Investment Co. reports the sale of the new apartment building at 5788 Westminster place, now in course of construction by the F. J. Cornwell Realty and Building Co., to a client who has asked that his name be withheld for the present, the consideration being $30,000. This is a six-family, five-room and sun parlor apartment, having a frontage of 75 feet, and when completed will rent for $3720 per annum. It is one of the new buildings located in the new addition to Washington Heights. It will be thoroughly modern, containing all of the new features in apartment houses. The large sun parlors have an entrance from both the dining rooms and living rooms. The deal was consummated by W. Lyman Chase of the Goodnow Company.

The firm also sold the 12-room residence of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Sherman, 6306 Waterman avenue, to John M. Hannibal, president of the Hannibal Bros. Ice and Coal Co. This is one of the handsomest residences in Parkview, being a full three-story stock brick residence, with green tile roof, stone and marble trimmings, tile porch across the entire front. The house is modern in every way. This house is situated on a lot fronting 50 feet by a depth of 165 feet. Mr. Hannibal will make some improvements, and occupy it as a home.

The Goodnow company represented Mr. Hannibal in this transaction, and Mrs. Frances C. Wines represented the seller.

SETTLEMENT HOUSE TO OPEN ADDITION MONDAY

Basement Will Be Used for Clinic and Other Floors for Children of Working Parents.

A new addition to the Guardian Angel Settlement House, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, at 1029 Marion street, will be formally opened to the public Monday, April 13. The basement will be utilized as a clinic, and the first floor is divided into a provision depot, dining room and kitchen. The nursery and recreation rooms are on the second and third floors.

The object of the Settlement is to provide for the little children whose parents are engaged during the day in earning their livelihood in factories and laundries. The average attendance of these little ones is about 75, ranging from three weeks to four years of age.

The Settlement maintains a lunch room, a provision depot for the poor, Domestic Science and sewing classes for the larger girls, and Sunday school and sewing class for the little ones.

WILL ERECT BUILDING FOR TIRE COMPANY

The Mercantile Trust Co. reports having closed a long term lease to the Kelly Springfield Tire Co. and will erect a building for their occupancy on Locust street.

Negotiations were closed shortly after the arrival of H. Lee Smith, the new St. Louis manager of the Kelly company.

The building to be erected will be strictly modern in all respects and in keeping with the usual standard established by the Mercantile Trust Co. in erection of their other buildings lately on this growing thoroughfare.

ADAM AND EVE ON STAGE

LONDON, April 4.—Adam and Eve are to be represented on the London stage by consent of the Lord Chamberlain, the dramatic censor, but they must "wear such clothing as will not make them conspicuous."

Walter Stephens, adapter of Milton's "Paradise Lost" to the stage, has given his promise to the censor that the characters will be properly clothed, but he has not yet announced the style of costume.

$100,000 FACTORY FOR ST. LOUIS IN DEAL FOR 4 ACRES

Shiras Electric Company Has Bought Chicago Concern and Will Build Plant.

The Mercantile Trust Co. has sold for account of the owners, Messrs. Henry Ahrens, Conrad Ahrens, Louis Gaetner, George Gaetner and Emil Gaetner, four acres of ground at the northeast corner of belt line tracks and Kienlin avenue, to the Shiras Electric Co., which has a retail branch at 921 Locust street.

This sale means a new factory for St. Louis.

The Shiras Electric Co. recently purchased the physical assets of the Chicago Gas and Electric Fixture Manufacturing Co., which represents an outlay of more than $100,000.

The Shiras Electric Co. will erect on the ground purchased at belt line and Kienlin avenue a one-story factory building, at a cost of about $30,000. The equipment purchased from the Chicago Gas and Electric Fixture Manufacturing Co. will be moved to St. Louis and the new plant will be used for the manufacture of gas and electric fixtures.

The Electric company expects to employ about 200 people.

RESERVE ACT EXPLAINED IN "SERVICE" MAGAZINE

Workings of Law Are Shown in Article by Trust Company Officer.

A thorough, carefully prepared and easily understandable article on "The Federal Reserve Act," by William McC. Martin, fills the latest monthly issue of Service, the handy little magazine issued by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

This article is of greater interest, now that the Federal Reserve banks have been located, than it was when it was written, and the correctness of its statements as to the working of the law is not impaired by any of the more recent developments. Martin is assistant bond and trust officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

Pictures of all the Secretaries of the Treasury, beginning with Alexander Hamilton, give the magazine historical interest.

$5,000,000 LOANED WITH NEVER A FORECLOSURE

Booklet of Title Guaranty Trust Company Tells of Ten-Year Test of Loans.

Interest in the plan of installment loans on real estate, used by the Title Guaranty Trust Co., has caused many inquiries for the company's booklet, "The Safe Way to Borrow," in which the plan is set forth. The plan is the application of the installment principle to real estate mortgages. The time of the loan is 10 years, and the liability is slowly and steadily reduced.

A table showing the progress of the reduction of a $1200 loan appears in the booklet. The plan, it is stated, has now been in operation 10 years, long enough for a thorough test. In that time, it is stated, the company has loaned more than $5,000,000 on this plan, and has never had to bring a foreclosure suit, the easy payment method enabling the borrower to "get ahead of the game."

LOCUST STREET PROPERTY SOLD TWICE IN WEEK

Latest Buyer Will Erect 3-Story Building for Automobile Sales Room.

The property at 2642 Locust street was sold twice during the week by the Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co., and, it is announced, it will be improved by the latest buyer, William E. Beckmann, with a three-story building to be used as an automobile salesroom and for auto supplies.

The first purchaser of the property was H. M. Edmunds, who bought from the Powell Real Estate Co., through the Weisels-Gerhart Co. A few days later Edmunds sold it to Beckmann. The consideration of the second transaction was $16,500. The lot has a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 134 feet 8 inches.

LOT AUCTION SATURDAY

A. R. Schollmeyer Offers 34 in West Portland Place.

An auction of bungalow sites in West Portland Place will be conducted at the Real Estate Exchange next Saturday by A. R. Schollmeyer, who has 34 attractive lots for sale.

Schollmeyer says there is a rapidly increasing demand for such lots, and that the bungalow style of building, which, real estate men at first thought would be merely a passing fad, is here to stay and is growing in popularity. Bungalows are especially popular in Parkview, Brentmoor, Hillcrest and West Portland Place.

LOTS IN BETTER DEMAND

Improvements Are Being Made in Forest Park Summit.

An increase in the demand for lots in Forest Park Summit, the new bungalow subdivision near the southwest entrance to Forest Park, is announced by Prior & Hartig, agents for the property.

The city is beautifying the neighborhood by the erection of a new entrance to Forest Park. Sewers are being laid and streets improved. Clayton road is being widened and improved at a cost of $250,000.

Railroad Extension Started.

MARKS, Miss., April 4.—The Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad has begun work on the extension of its Swan Lake division from its present southern terminus at a point just south of Chancey, to Swan Lake. The distance is about nine miles. The new line will open a rich timber country.

AURORA, Neb., April 4.—Five horses were killed when lightning struck the barn on the farm of Emil Johnson, four miles west of here. A barn was destroyed by lightning on the Frank Stoval farm.

CITY CLUB TO FILL PIONEERS' CAST IN THE MAY PAGEANT

Members and Their Families Will Ride in or Walk Beside Prairie Schooners.

1600 PERSONS REQUIRED

All Will Furnish Own Costumes; Scene to Be Staged at Dusk.

Members of the City Club, with their wives and families, 1600 persons in all, will wear old clothes, ride in or walk beside prairie schooners, build campfires and shoot at Indians, in the third movement of the Pageant of St. Louis in Forest Park, May 28-31.

At the suggestion of Gustavus Tuckerman, civic secretary of the club, the pioneer group of figures in the final scene of the Pageant has been set apart for the club. A total of 1600 men, women and children is required in this group, and Tuckerman has assured the Cast Committee he will furnish that many. He now is canvassing the club for volunteers, who will enlist their families as well as themselves in the cast.

The club has a membership of 1400 business and professional men. Four hundred families would supply more than enough persons to take the roles, but, as in all pioneer movements, the men will outnumber the women, hence unmarried members of the club are being asked to enlist.

Some Have to Ask Wives.

A number of the members, as soon as Tuckerman spoke to them about it, enlisted for "self and family." Others said they would have to ask their wives, and a number of these returned with the news that the wives and children were enthusiastically in favor of the proposal.

The third movement of the Pageant takes place in the dusk, and represents the westward march of the pioneer families who displaced the trappers and hunters, and who peopled and tilled the West. It is the last thing in the Pageant, except the arrival of the steamer General Pike at the St. Louis wharf.

The pioneers and their families will furnish their own costumes. Laundered collars and tan shoes will be frowned upon, but owing to the dim light, any little incongruities, such as the wearing of flannel outing costumes by men, or of slit skirts by the "pioneer" women will not be noticed by many of the spectators.

Excise Commissioner Gets Part.

Selections for some of the parts in the Pageant have been made, tentatively, by the Cast Committee. In the scene depicting Battery A's return from Mexico, Senator Thomas H. Benton will be represented by Tom L. Anderson, Excise Commissioner. Leighton Shields will represent Mayor Mullanphy and Capt. F. M. Rumbold will have the part of Col. Deniphan. Other assignments for this scene are: Harry Walsh as Mr. McGunnegale, Dr. Wylie as Dr. Sykes, T. D. Cannon as Mr. Bowlin, Dr. Barto as Mr. Chambers and Carl Meier as Mr. Blennerhassett. In the Lafayette reception scene, William Meriwether Lewis will have the part of Gov. Coles, Powhatan Clarke the part of Gov. Clark and J. V. S. Barret that of the Mayor of St. Louis.

NONMAGNETIC SHIP TO GATHER DATA IN NORTH

Carnegie Institute Vessel, in 1915, Will Explore Electrical Currents of Southern Pacific.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Carnegie, the nonmagnetic vessel that completed last autumn a four-year tour of the earth in the interests of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, will sail in June for the coast of Norway and will spend the summer on the North Atlantic Ocean. In 1915 the vessel will go south, sail through the Panama canal and conduct a magnetic exploration of the Southern Pacific Ocean, concerning which, from a magnetic standpoint, little is known.

The purpose of the trips is to obtain material for magnetic charts which will indicate the amount of variation of the magnetic needle from exact north at various points of the earth. Since 1905 the magnetic surveys sent out by the Carnegie Institution have covered more than 1,000,000 miles. Ninety-four countries have been visited.

SHE SHUT OUT GARIBALDI

Browning's Housekeeper Asked Statesman to Wait Outside.

LONDON, April 4.—Mrs. Eliza Cawley, who has just died at Portsmouth at the age of 95, was formerly the Poet Browning's housekeeper, and remembered opening his door to Carlyle, Mazzini, Garibaldi and other friends.

When Garibaldi first called, in red shirt and slouch hat, she told him to wait outside. Browning wrung his hands and said: "You have shut out my best friend!" when she described the strange visitor.

To Reward Mine Hero.

WILBURTON, Ok., April 4.—Rufeno Rodriguez, the Mexican boy who saved the lives of 165 coal miners when the mine at Lehigh caught fire, in 1912, will probably receive a Carnegie hero medal. A representative of the Carnegie Commission has been here this week investigating the case. When the two other men who discovered the fire with the boy fled from the mine, the young Mexican rushed back into the workings and risked his life to warn the men. He is being educated in the School of Mines here at the expense of the Miners' Union.

$50,000 for New Schoolhouse.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., April 4.—At a special election held here, a $50,000 bond issue was authorized for the erection of a new school building. Women took an active part in the campaign for the bonds, and the vote was 280 to 7.

ENGLISH CHARGE 9 U. S. STATES ARE BOND DEFAULTERS

Society of Holders of Securities Publishes Statements of Alleged Debts.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A report just made public by Viscount Goschen, chairman of the Council of the Corporation of Foreign Bondholders shows that British security buyers have just been concluded negotiations whereby Guatemala has resumed payment of interest on bonds defaulted 14 years ago and that members of the corporation still hold $121,000,000 of bonds of Honduras, which have been defaulted, and $75,000,000 of bonds against States of the United States which have been repudiated. The states and amounts are:

Arkansas	$8,700,000
Florida	7,000,000
Georgia	12,700,000
Louisiana	6,000,000
Mississippi	7,000,000
North Carolina	12,600,000
South Carolina	6,000,000
West Virginia	15,239,370
Total	$75,239,370

A statement issued by Viscount Goschen follows:

"It is deplorable that these prosperous and progressive states of the great American Union take no steps to settle their defaulted debts, and it seems an anomaly that the United States should insist on compliance with its obligations by a country like Santo Domingo, when so many of the states within its own border are not observing their own engagements.

"The excuses put forward by these states for nonpayment are manifold, but they may be generally classed under three heads.

"1. North Carolina pleads that her defaulted obligations were contracted while the State was being administered by the Federal Government after Civil War. The answer to this is that the bondholders have nothing to do with differences between the states and the Federal Government. Tennessee for many years adopted the same attitude as North Carolina, but was wise enough to realize that no state can maintain its position in the world of credit which attempts to justify the repudiation of obligations by excuses which, in the case of individuals, would not be tolerated in any civilized court of law, and make a settlement.

"2. Louisiana alleges that there were irregularities of some kind in connection with the issue of most of her repudiated bonds. It would, of course, put an end to all credit if a state, on discovery that its own officials had acted incorrectly in the course of the issue of a loan, repudiated all responsibility for the money obtained from the public.

"3. Mississippi's excuse for not recognizing her defaulted debt is the worst of all. Between 1831 and 1838 the State issued two loans, for which [illegible] tained full value and the [illegible] which were invested in the [illegible] ment and development of two [illegible] long as the banks flourished [illegible] good profits the interest on the [illegible] was paid, but when, owing to [illegible] ulation, the banks got into [illegible] Mississippi made this the [illegible] ceasing all further payments."

THIRST TO LEARN CLOSING KANSAS RURAL SCHOOLS

Farmers Willing to Pay to [illegible] Children to Higher-Grade Institutions.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 4.—[illegible] ambition, not prohibition, is [illegible] rural schools of Kansas, according to [illegible] D. Ross, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The newspapers [illegible] ly printaed a synopsis of a [illegible] school report that showed [illegible] schools in the State have less [illegible] pupils, nine schools only one [illegible] and that 200 rural schools have been [illegible] continued this year.

Immediately there came inquiries [illegible] Utah and Virginia to know if [illegible] tion was the cause of this [illegible] tion. Ross has replied:

"The matter of prohibition [illegible] more to do with bringing about [illegible] dition than it has to do with [illegible] cline in rural church attendance [illegible] one hand, or with the kind of [illegible] we have on the other.

"If the situation shows anything [illegible] this: That the people of this [illegible] no longer are satisfied with the [illegible] one-teacher school and that [illegible] closing these schools and sending [illegible] children to larger and better schools.

"We have 80 consolidated [illegible] country districts which have [illegible] place of 200 isolated one-teacher [illegible] This means that 120 such schools [illegible] been abandoned; not for lack of [illegible] because the pupils are sent to the [illegible] solidated schools; and not for [illegible] money, because consolidated schools [illegible] more than the small schools [illegible] discontinued.

"To be sure, in some portions [illegible] State, on account of partial [illegible] crops for several years in [illegible] there has been a loss in population [illegible] result of which has been to leave [illegible] of our districts with a small [illegible] pupils.

"But the fact that the schools [illegible] maintained under such circum[illegible] means that even here our people [illegible] willing to pay the wages of a [illegible] and the expense of operating a [illegible] so as to provide every child in the [illegible] with good school privileges, [illegible] of expense."

Ross then quotes figures to show [illegible] since the enactment of the prohi[illegible] law not only has the increase in [illegible] population kept pace with the [illegible] ing population of the State, but [illegible] that the average daily attendance [illegible] the average length of school term [illegible] increased about one-fourth.

Blood Troubles Vanish As If By Magic

Remarkable Remedy That Drives Every Particle of Poison Completely Out of Your Entire System.

Strength, Power, Accomplishment are all Typified in S. S. S.

Blood troubles often become so deeply rooted in the glands and interstices of the tissues, that only a most searching remedy will dislodge them. There are many reasons why S. S. S. is this remedy. To begin with, the ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed are of vegetable extraction. For this reason they are readily passed through the walls of both the stomach and the intestines. Thus it goes directly into the blood circulation and its action is relatively the same as that of the other blood materials.

THIS IS IMPORTANT.

We derive all sustenance from our food whether solids such as meats, grains, fats, salts and sugars or in liquids, as the elements of oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen combined, or in the free, or gaseous, state as in the air we breathe. All of these various food materials are converted into substances which are selected from the blood stream to make up the constructive tissues and frame work of the body. And as fast as they keep building up, just as rapidly do all of these materials turn into body wastes to be excreted. But with a goodly share of humans, these wastes are not properly thrown out and they thus remain.

A PERIL TO HEALTH.

Here is where S. S. S. enters to assist the blood stream to more adequately perform the function of supplying pure blood in the arteries and carrying off the waste material through the veins. Naturally an assimilable remedy, S. S. S. not only has a prompt medicinal effect, but unlike food, it is not changed, it is not converted by the liver, it is not burned up in the lungs or tissues by oxidation. On the contrary, it continues to circulate in the myriad of cells in the interstices of the tissues until it gradually works its way out through the skin or the kidneys. And all the time it is an active agent, it remains a medical influence, [illegible] steadily at work preserving the [illegible] functions of the blood to give [illegible] material for that which has [illegible] down.

KNOWN BY RESULTS.

This is not a theoretical [illegible] a simple statement of physiological [illegible] and known results. There is [illegible] community in the entire United [illegible] but what has its staunch supporters [illegible] S. S. S. There is a host of [illegible] women who struggled for years [illegible] some form of skin trouble [illegible] zema, psoriasis, or acne; there [illegible] gion of people who cured them[illegible] some chronic sore or ulcer. [illegible] number who have overcome [illegible] poisoned blood from various [illegible] laria, anemic conditions, and all [illegible] of rheumatism, is sufficient [illegible] anyone that S. S. S. is a [illegible] remedy and bound to drive [illegible] purities.

There isn't a well stocked [illegible] department store anywhere [illegible] but what has sold S. S. S. [illegible] year after year. It is the [illegible] ally recommended remedy known.

Not a drop of minerals is [illegible] famous preparation and it is [illegible] medy that anyone can safely [illegible] can honestly and conscientiously [illegible] his best friend to use it. For [illegible] son when you ask for a bottle of [illegible] do not be talked into something [illegible] "as good," as you will certainly [illegible] fooled and deceived.

S. S. S. is prepared only in the [illegible] atory of the Swift Specific Co., [illegible] Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

And anyone who is afflicted [illegible] form of blood trouble, may [illegible] free advice on the best method [illegible] S. S. S. together with helpful [illegible] other matter. This department [illegible] of incalculable benefit to a [illegible] thankful people during the [illegible] century.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

TRADING IS PROFESSIONAL ON STOCK EXCHANGE, BUT PRICES SHOW FIRM TONE

Freight Rate Increases Are Hope of Wall Street District.

LONDON IS CHEERFUL

Easy Money Market Abroad Has Bullish Influence on Sentiment.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review today, says:

"It is sincerely to be hoped that the Interstate Commerce Commission will keep its head in the turmoil of excited controversy, and render a just decision in the matter of railway rates.

"To do so, it will be necessary for the commissioners to appraise at their proper value the extravagances of parties to both sides of the controversy.

"It will have to listen with calmness to the railway officer who assured the commission that the railway industry was 'going rapidly to the devil.' But it will also have to consider with the proper degree of cynicism the remarks of the Railway Commissioner from Iowa, who hoped and prayed that the railway managers were not discharging employes to coerce the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, and who was convinced that this was just what the rascals were doing, and who took pains to let the morning papers know it.

Commission Is Overworked.

"To at least some extent the commission has itself to blame for the troublesome position into which the whole rate controversy has fallen.

"The commisisoners are undoubtedly overworked, but to at least a reasonable extent they have the arrangement and disposition of their own calendar.

"With all due allowance for the other exacting duties which are imposed upon them, the fact must be recognized that the rate petition of the Eastern railways was a matter which called for settlement at a decently early date—for the reason that, if the facts were as the companies alleged, prompt relief was their right; whereas, if the facts did not support the railway contention, the sooner the application was denied the better. By keeping the case on the calendar nearly a year, the commission has complicated everything.

"Assuming the railway side of the case to be well grounded, the commission has delayed relief, while invoking collateral considerations, whose full investigation would postpone a decision until relief would come too late.

"Assuming the case to be without sufficient basis, denial of the petition has been so far pushed along, that the issue has quite unnecessarily become a subject on which the whole community is excited, and unnerved, and which at last has stirred up the energies of our congressional La Follettes—the statesmen with the very feminine attribute of declaring, whenever anything happens that they do not like, that "somebody ought to pass a law about it."

"Both results are as unfortunate as they are unnecessary. The commission might have avoided both by recognizing the nature of the case as something that required prompt action. It will best serve both its own purposes, and the advantage of the public, by pressing the matter to a settlement at the earliest possible date.

Bank Plan Criticised.

"With all the adverse criticism—much of it justified—which has been bestowed on the published plan of the 'organization board' for the banking districts and the regional banks, under which the new Federal banking system will begin, the conviction has also been shown that the character and capacity of the members to be named for the national board will have more to do with the successful introduction of the new regime than the fixing of topographical boundaries.

"But meantime the public reception of the list of designated banking centers proves, without possibility of dispute, one fact—that the fixing of so large a number of separate districts and separate regional reserve banks was a mistake in more ways than one.

"Competent and impartial students of the problem were in agreement, from the start, that to divide the country into more than six such districts would be an economic blunder. It now begins to appear that allotment of a larger number also insured political embarrassment.

"The organization committee had the right, under the act itself, to restrict the number of such regional banks to eight. Instead, they pitched upon the highest number authorized, and hinted, in the closing paragraph of their report, that after a while Congress may be requested to create still another district.

"This is unquestionably heading in the wrong direction, and the blame for it rests fairly on the shoulders of the organization board.

"It will still be true that, however, cities like Baltimore, New Orleans and Cincinnati may be exasperated at the choice made for the banking centers of their respective districts and however much of actual inconvenience may be caused to certain banks across the river, now actually in the New York clearing house, but which will have to rediscount bills in Philadelphia, the banks will join unitedly in the plans for making the new system a success.

"They will do this, both because of the good results which the system should ensure, and because of the fact that their own capital is invested in it.

"The equipment of the regional bank directorates with competent financiers, and the selection for chairman of the national board of a man of experience, firmness and broad-minded views of the problem to be solved, would give the necessary impetus and enthusiasm to the undertaking.

"Union Pacific and other active shares gained about 1 point on the week. The final session was dull and steady."

LONDON EXPECTS EASY MONEY TO CONTINUE

Foreign Banks in a Good Position to Meet Trade Demands.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, April 4.—At the end of the week, the important consideration is that conditions still favor a continuance of great ease in money during some time to come. Forecasts for the autumn are, however, already clouded by our banks' inability to retain gold.

"Its present holdings are still £2,000,000 sterling above a year ago; but we ought to be gaining in the next few months instead of losing gold, whereas the net decrease in the bank's stock in the past eight weeks has been £4,300,000 sterling, as against a slight increase in the same period last year, and the weekly arrivals of new gold are still taken by the Continent.

"The prospect seems in fact to be that Russia will continue to draw on the gold available at London, and perhaps on Berlin's supply as well. Paris is also likely to endeavor later to secure more gold, and the German Reichsbank will probably not permit continued withdrawals from its own reserve. Yet all leading banks are well stocked, and a long continuance of cheap money now depends mainly on the demands of trade, whereas present indications favor further reaction.

Consols Are Strong.

"The recovery of nearly 2 points in consols, which culminated Thursday, is ascribed about equally to hopes of a settlement in Ulster, to the ease of money, and to the scarcity of offerings on the consols market.

"The check to the movement in the past day or two is connected with the old question of fresh security issues and a feeling that the Irish crisis may not yet have been averted.

"The truth is that no genuine confidence is possible in the markets until home politics take a more distinctly reassuring turn.

"The city's doubts hinge mostly on its feeling that the destruction of the power of the upper chamber and the payment of members have introduced a complete change in parliamentary life, and have given the opportunity for politicians of the Lloyd-George and Winston Churchill type, to raise the cry of the aristocracy and the army versus the people.

"At the moment large financial houses are acquiring investment securities to a moderate degree; but the public continues apathetic. Interest in the American market is meantime entirely postponed, until the settlement of the freight rate question.

"So far as the announced plans for your new reserve banks to depend on the intrinsic merits of 12 regional institutions, as compared with eight, the policy pursued has made no particular impression here.

"Attention is more especially concentrated on the fact that cables from your side are intimating that the selection of banking centers has been influenced by political considerations. As to the truth of this, we are naturally uninformed; but we are well aware that any serious discord over the selection might hamper the complete success of the inauguration of your new banking system."

Metal Markets.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The metal markets were dull and practically nominal; lake copper $15 nominal; electrolytic, $14.75; casting, $14.37½@14.50. Iron unchanged.

STEERS IN SHARP MIDWEEK SLUMP, HIGHER LATER

Packers Complain of Eastern Market—Butcher Stuff Sold on Steady Prices.

Receipts National Stock Yards.

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle	10,000	11,316	9,832
Hogs	50,000	45,765	46,151
Sheep	8,500	9,332	7,795
H. and M.	3,250	3,120	1,253

Despite the fact that the past week's cattle receipts showed a slight decrease from the preceding period, the market was in no better shape and the period was one of fluctuations. Declines started during the fore part of the week but a good part of them had been almost wholly regained at the close. Packers still complained of a bad beef situation in the East. Tuesday's market was the worst spot of the week, as 154 cars were received, which was too much, especially when the big part of them were medium grade. Most of the steers moved at losses of 10@20c up to the middle of the week but at the close were no worse than a dime lower. Very few good ones were received and nothing strictly prime. Bulk went at $7.25@8.50.

Supply of butcher stuff was fairly good during the week and the quality of the heifer offering was much improved over the preceding period. Heifers were in good demand at all stages of the week and sellers had no difficulty moving their holdings. Anything on the choice yearling order was in strong request and bulk of these grades sold 10@15c higher. Medium to good grade heifers were strong. Best heifers went at $8@8.75, medium to good at $7@8, fair kinds at $6.50@7 and plain grades at $5.75@6.50.

Cows Firm and Active.

Cows were also on a firm, active basis during the week and best kinds were a dime higher. Most of the good cows sold at $6.75@7.50, good grades at $6@6.75, medium kinds at $5.35@6, cutters at $4.85@5.25, and canners at $4.25@4.50.

Bulls were strong early but closed weak, although no lower.

Vealers were on a strong basis all during the week and toward the close were 25c higher, with a late top of $9.75.

Stockers and feeders sold steady. A bunch of yearling heifers sold to a stock buyer at $8, a record price.

There was a very slim offering in the quarantine division all during the week, in fact, it was hardly enough to give the market a good test of strength. Steers were very scarce, and there was nothing in the way of Texans available, the total offering from that State being a consignment of bulls. What steers were on hand found a good demand, and sold strong. Canners and yearlings reflected no change from the previous week.

Hogs Decline, Then Climb.

A fair good supply of hogs was received, but like, for several weeks past, a large per cent of them were pigs and lights, and a good many of them were from Southwest territory, which means that they were not very good. In a general way, the quality was as good as usual. The last half of the week the offerings were much better than the first half.

The market was rather irregular. Prices took a turn down, and reached the lowest basis in several weeks, but later in the week this decline was about all regained. Tuesday the top was but $8.70, while the bulk of the hogs went at $8.50@8.60. The highest day the top was $9.00, and the bulk went at $8.70@8.80. It will be noticed that the range of price is very narrow. Good hogs, 180 to 225 pounds, were best sellers.

Plain mixed packers sold largely at $8.50@8.70, and the rough heavy packers, $8.10@8.35. Best grade of lights under 165 pounds, sold at $8.40@8.75; fair grades, $8.15@8.35; best quality pigs, under 125 pounds, went at $7.85@8.25; fair grades, $7.25@7.75, and the poor kinds, including most of the Southwest ones, $6.50@7.25, and some even under $6.50.

Sheep in Sharp Advance.

A very small supply of sheep was received each day and the total for the week is not a bit larger than should have been received the first two days. The light runs caused prices to take a turn upwards and by the end of the week they were on the highest basis they have been for several months. Most of the offerings were Western lambs, with a few Western sheep and yearlings included.

Native offerings were very scarce and not very good. Part of the offerings were clipped. Best fat lambs found sale at $8@8.35, fair to medium grades $7.50@8 and the culls and thin offerings $6@7. Clipped lambs sold at $7@7.35. Yearlings sold at $7@7.50. Clipped lambs and yearlings seem to be meeting with a pretty good demand and proportionately outselling those with the wool on.

Early in the week most of the mutton sheep sold at $6@6.25, but later went at $6.25@6.50. Good choppers and stockers sold at $4@4.50 and the fair grades $3@3.75. Fat bucks sold at $5.25@5.50 early in the week and at $5.50@5.75 towards the end of the week.

Horses Lively, Mules Dull.

Trading in horses was lively and prices on a strong basis as compared with a few weeks back. There was a large attendance of buyers from Southern and Eastern States, and they were taking liberal supplies at prices claimed by shippers as being satisfactory. Chunks, drafters, farm mares and toppy kinds of Southern animals were the best sellers and prices were in accordance to the quality. There was a fair proportion of these medium chunks shipped to the Eastern States and sellers claim they sold as high as they have any time this year.

The mule trade continues to be lifeless. There was little trading last week. Best quality kinds were the only sellers. These brought prices that were quoted as being steady.

BUYING OF SPOT COTTON INDICATES IMPROVED TRADE

Liverpool Purchases Are Heavy and Mills Refuse Easter Holidays to Employes.

The strongest feature of the cotton market is the liberal purchase of cotton in Liverpool. This, coupled with the refusal of spinners there to run on short time during the Easter holidays, rather detracts from the reports of poor trade conditions in Manchester and is in accord with the better reports that have been coming forward of late from that quarter. The Great Britain stock of American is about 140,000 bales less than at the same time last year, and the American afloat for Great Britain also is less.

For the season Great Britain has received some 100,000 bales less of American than last year, while the Continent has received about 600,000 bales more of cotton. The forwardings of American from Liverpool would indicate a necessity for further buying by that market. Whatever may be the ultimate result, the weather for the past two weeks has been against crop preparations and planting and this has put the trade on the lookout.

The current crop has been discounted so far as quantity is concerned and it is generally conceded that there should be no burdensome stocks of cotton on hand at the close of the present season. Early estimates of consumption has not been reduced and a crop approximating 15,000,000 bales is not a thing for spinners to shy from but is not far from their wish and expectation and prices should not suffer on account of such production.

Demand Will Make Prices.

Demand will decide prices from now on, as manipulation is out of fashion, and for the balance of this season the demand will receive stimulus or retardation as the spinners interpret the weather as for or against crop progress and final yield.

While a waiting policy in buying might be inaugurated by spinners should crop prospects be favorable during the growing season, at the same time a vigorous policy in selling might follow the same line of reasoning and the latter would bring about a condition favorable to steady buying all during the early months of fall and probably longer.

Spot markets report that prices ruling in the transaction of actual business have not changed much during the considerable decline and partial recovery of prices in the future markets. Business in spots is improving, but the inclination is to take the best cotton, then the next best only when prices are shaded considerably. Good grades bring full quotations.

A continuation of bad weather might stimulate buying and aid in absorbing the stock of lower grades. Buyers have been complaining that they experience difficulty in obtaining orders for the low grade cotton they hold in stock and this discourages speculative buying.

Contract Markets Not a Hedge.

The position of the contract markets no longer furnishes a good hedge for spots bought for an anticipated demand. Altogether, sellers must depend on the actual consuming demand. The dry goods markets report a good business among the retailers. Exporters are unable to do business because of a difference of a fraction of a cent in prices bid and asked. This condition has existed for some time and manufacturers say that the present price for goods will not continue, but an advance will be asked.

Domestic business is good, and neither in yarns nor cloths is there any stagnation. Census report shows that the number of spindles active at present continues well above last year and consumption of cotton in this country is likely to be record-breaking during the whole season.

About 2,250,000 bales yet to come into sight, plus the usual visible supply, seems adequate when measured in bales, but it should not be forgotten that the quantity is unknown when measured by spinning quality. The present crop has been thoroughly culled and is likely to run lower in grade as the season wanes.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 4.—A bumper crop is forecast by the monthly crop report of the State Board of Agriculture, issued today. While this is too early for accurate predictions, the wheat crop is graded 99.8 per cent, 13.1 per cent higher than the 10-year average. Fruit is graded 91, and peaches 83. The report follows: "The condition of wheat for the State is 99.8. This is the highest April condition recorded in the office of the State Board of Agriculture. It is 3.2 higher than one year ago, and 13.1 higher than the 10-year average. So far there are causes for practically no abandoned acreage. The crop seeded last fall was 2,156,637 acres, a gain of 7 per cent over the preceding year.

"While present high condition of wheat is gratifying, it should not be understood that a good crop is yet assured. However, there is hope for a record yield per acre, and with favorable conditions continuing a possible total of 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels.

Correspondents estimate that 55 per cent of the oat crop has been seeded. This is slightly in advance of the 10-year April 1 average of 51 per cent. Indications are for 1 per cent larger acreage than last year, or about 900,000 acres.

It is estimated that 41 per cent of the corn land has been plowed. Of last year's corn crop but 15 per cent is now on farms, 64 per cent of the correspondents estimate that there is sufficient feed to carry stock until grass. Seventy-two per cent of the correspondents report a scarcity of seed corn.

Much old clover was killed by the drouth of last summer. There has been considerable seeding and the acreage is now placed at 97, with general condition of 78. Timothy acreage is 93, with condition of 90. Condition of rye is 96, barley 77, alfalfa 93. Grass has made a wonderful growth.

Corespondents place the outlook for a general fruit crop at 91 per cent, and for peaches at 83 per cent.

There is a continued shortage of livestock. Correspondents report as follows: Number of hogs fed as compared with one year ago, 61 per cent; cattle, 62; brood sows, 82; pigs, 80. Milch cows are scarce and high. It is estimated that there is now but 32 per cent as much cholera as existed one year ago.

Wheat futures met selling pressure the past week, and after an irregular decline, closed with an uncertain tone. Market news on the growing crop was all bearish, and of sufficient weight to counterbalance somewhat bullish statistics.

Reports from all directions showed the growing winter wheat in the most favorable position in its history and official figures indicated that unless a severe change for the worse takes place the final yield will break all records.

In the Southwest, where minor complaints of dry weather have been prevalent, the weather map showed good rains, while in Missouri and the territory east of the Mississippi River, more moisture was recorded, which, while not particularly needed, will assure the crop starting the actual growing season with universally favorable soil and climatic conditions.

Late in the week there were reports of green bug damage in sections of Oklahoma, but these were not taken seriously by the trade, as sections of that State report this pest every year, and as a crop destroyer it is of more value on commisison house wires than in the fields.

Oscar K. Lyle, crop expert, was on the Merchants' Exchange floor yesterday, after a trip over the eastern section of the winter wheat belt.

Lyle says that conditions like the present have never been known before. He says there is hardly a brown blade of wheat between St. Louis and New York, and estimates the winter wheat crop will total 550,000,000 bu if the present promise is maintained. Some experts place the figures as high as 600,000,000 bu. There is practically no abandoned acreage this year.

The visible supply of wheat in Europe this week amounts to 81,096,000 bu, against 83,616,000 bu last week, showing a decrease of 2,520,000 bu. Last week there was an increase of 264,000 bu, and last year a decrease of 1,312,000 bu, when the total was 89,376,000 bu.

Bradstreets: Wheat, United States and east of Rockies, decrease 1,052,000 bu; United States and west of Rockies, increase 159,000 bu; Canada decrease 777,000 bu; United States and Canada, decrease 1,670,000 bu; afloat and in Europe, decrease 2,600,000 bu. Total decrease, 4,270,000 bu. Corn, decrease 534,000 bu. Oats, decrease 539,000 bu

Crop Summary Good.

Broomhall's foreign crop summary said:

United Kingdom—The weather is unsettled and the recent rain has delayed sowing, particularly of coarse grain. Native supplies are light and in parts very light.

France—The weather is unsettled and owing to the recent wet spell it is feared that there will be a reduction in the wheat area in the north and elsewhere.

Germany—The wet weather has caused delay in the sowing of the crop.

Russia—Crop accounts are generally favorable with some complaints of damage from the east and central provinces.

Roumania—The outlook is generally favorable; weather is wet.

Hungary—Crop outlook favorable.

Italy—Crop outlook favorable with the weather seasonable.

North Africa—In Tunis crop destroyed by hot winds; otherwise outlook is only fair.

The domestic wheat visible decreased 1,072,000 bu for the week. Corn 326,000 bu. Oats 873,000 bu.

WEYERHAEUSER IS DEAD; MADE GREAT WEALTH IN LUMBER

Climbed From Saw Mill Employe to Place Among Richest in the World.

ORGANIZED BIG SYNDICATE

Vast Timber Lands in Many States Were Purchased and Brought Great Fortune.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PASADENA, Cal., April 4.—The "Lumber King," Frederick Weyerhaeuser, one of the richest men in the world, whose wealth was estimated in tens of millions, died here today at his Pacific coast home, aged 80 years. He came here in the fall from his home at St. Paul and he got a bad cold 10 days ago and it turned to pneumonia. For several days he had been kept alive by oxygen. With him at the end were his sons, John, Frederick, Rudolph and Charles, and his daughters, Mrs. Margaret Jewett, Mrs. W. P. Hill and Mrs. S. S. Davis. The body was forwarded from here at noon on a special train for Rock Island, Ill.

Weyerhaeuser was born in 1834, on the Rhine, near the city of Mainz, Germany. In 1852 he and his widowed mother and his sisters emigrated to the United States and settled at Northeast Village, Erie County, Pa.

Worked in Sawmill.

After four years he moved to Rock Island, Ill. There he got a job in a sawmill, and in six months he was the business manager of the plant. In [illegible] he and F. C. A. Denckman bought the mill with their promissory notes. In 1864 Weyerhaeuser left his partner to look after the home business, while he went to Wisconsin to look over timber there, which was then selling "for a song."

Some of the Chippewa woods was purchased at $3 to $10 an acre. Weyerhaeuser prospected through Wisconsin and Minnesota, while his partner stayed at the Rock Island plants, and in 1872, when he had more sawmills and forest lands in the Northwest than he had capital with which to manage them, he organized a number of other lumber capitalists into the "Weyerhaeuser Syndicate," which operated the Mississippi Boom and Logging Co. and many other concerns.

Bought Vast Tract.

In the early '70s he paid $2,000,000 for the Nelson lumber tract of 600,000,000 standing feet in the lower Mississippi Valley. He and his associates got control of about 30,000,000 acres of timber lands in the states of the Mississippi Valley and along the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers, from Canada to the Gulf. This is equal to 50,000 square miles—six times the area of New Jersey.

In 1896, when he was constantly at work buying virgin forest trade in Wisconsin, Alabama and West Virginia, his holdings increased 1000 per cent in value. One piece of yellow pine land in West Virginia that he bought for [illegible] in 1906, was soon valued at $750,-[illegible]. One of his West Virginia tracts, that cost him $12,000, he sold in 1905 for [illegible].

"Timber was his passion. He often invested in other things, but he was usually a loser. In timber his judgment on a speculation never went astray. He was always putting most of his accumulating capital in timber."

Was Friend of Lorimer.

He owned large tracts of timber in Washington and Oregon. His sawmill in Washington was the biggest in the world, sawing 225,000 feet a day.

Weyerhaeuser was always a reticent man. In 1857 he married at Rock Island, Miss Elizabeth Bloedet, who came from his native place, Nieder-Saulheim. They had four sons and three daughters, all of whom are living. Mrs. Weyerhaeuser died in 1911. The sons have all worked in lumber camps.

The name of Weyerhauser was brought into the case of William Lorimer of Chicago, who was put out of his seat in the United States Senate because of alleged corruption in his election. The "Lumber King," it was said, was a business friend of Lorimer and looked to Lorimer to help the lumber interests in Congress.

Weyerhauser and his interests figured in the politics of all the Northwest States. Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho, who was killed by a bomb in a Western Federation of Miners agitation, was said to be the Idaho agent of the Barber Lumber Co., a Weyerhaeuser concern.

The Union Pacific sold 1,500,000 acres of timber to the Weyerhauser interests.

Called T. R. Meddlesome.

Just before the outbreak of the [illegible] panic he complained, in an interview, that things would turn out all right but for President Roosevelt, whom he called a "trifle meddlesome." He said, in 1908, that it would be 50 years before the demand for timber would be in excess of the supply.

Weyerhaeuser's oldest daughter, who is the wife of a clergyman of the Reformed Church, spent a year some time before her marriage going about among the lower classes in New York City, doing charitable work.

Her father has given away, without publicity, a good deal of money to charity. Among his gifts was $65,000 to Macalester College.

When Weyehaeuser settled at St. Paul in [illegible] he and James J. Hill became friends.

Asked once why he never talked much, the "Lumber King" replied:

"I have two eyes to see with, and

"GEN." KELLEY IS GIVEN SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

Leader of Unemployed Marchers Sentenced in Sacramento as a Vagrant.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 4.—"Gen." Charles Kelley, who started last month on a proposed march to Washington, D. C., at the head of an "army" of about 1400 unemployed men, was sentenced today to six months in the county jail for vagrancy. Kelley was arrested a few minutes before his "army" was routed from its camp here, and driven across the river by means of fire hose and pick handles in the hands of a posse of peace officers.

"If the lowly Nazarene suffered as he did for his cause, I can only say I am no greater than he, and will be content with the Court's judgment," remarked Kelley in the course of a one-hour address before sentence was pronounced. A portion of Kelley's "army" now is in Nebraska, on its way to the national capital.

AMERICAN WRITER'S PRAISE PLEASES BERLIN

Newspapers Reprint Karl Kitchen Article That Appeared in Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, April 4.—Karl Kitchen's praise of Berlin institutions, its night life and entertainments, as published in the Post-Dispatch Magazine on Jan. 18 and his verdict upon his trip to Europe to the effect that Berlin is the finest city visited, has greatly pleased the Emperor's subjects in the German capital, where almost all the newspapers have reprinted Kitchen's remarks under the heading: "What a typical American thinks of Berlin."

The weekly society paper, Der Salon, says:

"Some of Berlin's most typical institutions have pleased the sharp and critical eyes of this American globe trotter, and we take the opportunity of acknowledging with due regards the courteous utterances of a much-traveled American."

PANAMA FEARS ADVENT OF FEVER AND PLAGUE

Precautions Taken to Prevent Introduction From Ecuador and Colombia.

PANAMA, April 4.—Unusual precautions are being taken here to prevent the introduction to the isthmus of yellow fever and bubonic plague, which reports to the Health Department declare are increasing rapidly at Ecuadorean and Colombian ports.

Twenty-one deaths from yellow fever have occurred at Esmeraldas, Ecuador, among the Federal troops, who hold that city, and sanitary conditions are said to be deplorable because of the revolutionary movement. Several cases of bubonic plague and yellow fever appeared at Guayaquil recently. Conditions at Panama and Colon are good.

LINCOLN-DOUGLAS SHAFTS

Statues to Face Each Other in Illinois Capitol Grounds.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas will face each other again—this time in enduring bronze. Heroic statues of the two will be erected a few feet apart on the grounds of the State Capitol at Springfield, it was announced today at a meeting of the State Art Commission.

The figures will cost about $75,000. It is planned to unveil the statues on the 100th anniversary of the admission of Illinois into the Union, which will be in 1918.

GAG FOR IRATE SENATORS

Rule Offered Forbidding Disrespectful Remarks About President.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Senator Overman, chairman of the Committee on Rules, today introduced as an amendment to the rules, one prohibiting Senators from speaking disrespectfully of the President or the Vice-President in the Senate.

The rule, if adopted, will give the President the same protection that the Senators themselves have.

VILLA BUYS GAME COCKS

Twelve Shipped From South Carolina to Rebel General.

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., April 4.—Twelve fighting cocks were sent from here today to Gen. Francisco Villa, who captured Torreon. They were sold at $6 each.

This is the second order filed for the Mexican General since Christmas.

CASH PAYMENT TO SON'S WIFE ENDS STEER WILL SUIT

Compromise Includes $22,500 to Her While $60,000 Trust Fund to Him Continues.

DRAFT OF WILL SHOWN

Attorney Leahy Produces It to Prove Testator Was Sane When He Wrote It.

An original draft of F. A. Steer's will, introduced in evidence as a climax to a long-drawn-out fight over his $500,000 estate, and showing that Steer was not of unsound mind and not unduly influenced when he cut off his son, William C. Steer, with a life interest in a trust fund of $60,000, led to the settlement yesterday of the son's suit to set aside the father's testament.

Under terms of the settlement, the other heirs, three sisters, agreed to make a $22,500 cash payment to William C. Steer's wife, Fannie A. Steer, to continue the $60,000 trust fund settled on William C. Steer, and to permit his wife to have the income from $30,000 of that fund after her husband's death.

It was charged in William Steer's suit that his father was of unsound mind when he made his will, Oct. 25, 1906, and that he was unduly influenced by his son-in-law and attorney, John S. Leahy.

Steer Made First Draft.

Five paragraphs and a foot note, written on a sheet of paper which had been in a filing cabinet for more than seven years, were produced by Leahy to show that Steer himself made the first draft of the will, and that instead of inducing Steer to cut off his son, William C., with a trust fund of $60,000, Leahy induced him to add $10,000 to the amount which he originally had intended to leave to the son. The draft of the will also was submitted to show that Steer was sane when he made it.

Debate Over Testimony.

Testimony by Attorney Leahy at the formal hearing to "prove up" the will in Judge Hitchcock's court, yesterday, that Steer told him his son had pawned his wife's jewels and silver plate aroused Attorney P. W. Haberman, representing the son, to protest. Haberman said the compromise included an agreement that the hearing should not go into detailed evidence and should be only sufficient to prove the validity of the will.

Haberman conducted a spirited cross-examination of Leahy after Leahy, on direct examination, had testified to matters which Haberman said should not have been touched on.

Theodore Rassieur, attorney for Mrs. Leahy and other heirs, asked Leahy if Steer had said anything to him which would indicate a reason for leaving the son a less amount than to the other children.

"Yes," replied Leahy, "he said he had just learned that his son had taken the silver plate and wedding presents of his wife and put them up with a money lender as security for a loan."

Haberman insisted that such testimony ought not be introduced, as the hearing was merely formal to submit the compromise to the Court. Haberman, cross-examining Leahy, asked him if the compromise did not include an agreement that only such testimony as was absolutely necessary to "prove up" the will should be introduced.

Leahy said he did not so understand it, but said he had nothing to do with the compromise, having refused to advise his wife or the other heirs, and directed them to take the advice of other attorneys.

W. C. Steer Denies Selling Silver.

William C. Steer, the son, told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night that he had been advised by his attorneys that it was not necessary for him to appear in court, as the proceeding was only a formal one.

"If I had known that Leahy was going to give the testimony he did I should have been there to protect myself," he said. "I can see no reason for such testimony except an effort to discredit me. The statement about those presents is absolutely false and if necessary I could so prove."

The court proceeding included testimony by Frank H. Sullivan and Frank B. Coleman, witnesses to the will, that Steer signed it and that he was of sound mind. Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., testified he had known Steer for 30 years, and that he was not only of sound mind but a man of keen judgment.

The only bequest made to the son in his father's will was a life interest in $60,000 which was left to his mother to be used for his benefit. The mother died before the father and the $60,000 is held in trust by Leahy.

Since this will was drawn, John J. Raleigh died, and Mrs. Raleigh became the wife of E. W. Bentley. In his suit filed Nov. 4 last, William C. Steer named as defendants his three sisters, Mrs. John S. Leahy, Mrs. Frank H. Nay and Mrs. Bentley. He alleged his share of the estate was out of proportion to the shares of the other heirs, and that his father had been unduly influenced against him.

William C. Steer is an employe of the haberdashery firm founded by his father. He and his wife live at 5598 Waterman avenue. F. A. Steer died in London about a year ago while on a tour with Mr. and Mrs. Leahy.

Theaters Withdraw Five Plays.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Five one-act plays condemned here by the theatrical censor, were withdrawn from production today when Mayor Harrison summoned the management of the theater before him to show cause why the license of the playhouse should not be revoked.

TORREON DEAD WILL BE BURNED ON GREAT PYRE

Italian Officer Reports 2000 Bodies Are Piled in City's Streets.

FEW PRISONERS TAKEN

Velasco Is Thought to Have Got Away With Remnant of His Army.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 4.—When Gen. Villa took Torreon he took only 30 prisoners alive and unwounded, according to information received here today. Whether this means that many were executed, or that Gen. Refugio Velasco, the valiant Federal commander, succeeded in escaping with practically all of his army not dead or disabled, could not be learned. However, it is known he made the first few miles of his escape on troop trains, which he abandoned when he came to the first place where the rails had been removed.

This circumstance is construed in favor of the reports that he got away with the remnant of his army intact.

A dispatch from an Italian army officer with the rebel artillery was received this afternoon from Torreon. It says:

"Dead horses and dead men are piled high in the streets and plaza. It is impossible to estimate the number of Federal dead, but superficial inspection of public places would indicate that not less than 2000 bodies are scattered about. It will be a task to get rid of the dead, but a gigantic funeral pyre probably will be built and the bodies of men and animals incinerated.

Federals Threw Down Arms.

"Among the dead are some of the picked rurales, who fought against Zapata in the south and who were sent north to attempt to check Villa's victorious march southward. When Villa entered the city only the 30 who were made prisoners remained to tell the tragic story of their defeat. During the close of the fighting Thursday, when the Federal garrison saw that defeat was certain, they threw down their arms and took to flight."

The Italian's account of the number of dead is not relied upon here.

Villa's Next Move.

Gossip among local strategists as to Villa's future movements is pretty much agreed that, having rested and refitted his army, Villa will proceed simultaneously against Saltillo and Monterey, to the east, and Zacatecas, to the south. Assuming success in the exploits, it is thought the two armies will reunite probably at San Luis Potosi, for the campaign against Mexico City. It is assumed Mazatlan and Tampico will be reduced by the rebel forces already threatening them.

Rebel officers here quote Gen. Villa as opposed to any compromise with the enemy if one should be proposed.

"We will be ready to dictate in Mexico City," he is quoted as saying. "There can be no compromise with the enemy. Madero compromised and his government failed through the treachery of those who did not appreciate him, or took advantage of his clemency. This revolution must be the last in Mexico and it must be throrough and conclusive. This, we must accomplish by force of arms, so that in the end there will be no questioning of our orders or our laws."

Washington Watches Conduct of Rebels in Hour of Triumph.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Anticipating a period devoid of important engagements in Central Mexico while Villa's exhausted army is resting after its capture of Torreon, the interest of officials here is for the present confined to a desire to know how far the rules of civilizer warfare are to be observed in the treatment of the wounded Federals left in the Torreon hospitals and the prisoners taken by the rebels upon the fall of that city.

The conduct of the Constitutionalists in their hour of triumph is receiving close attention at the hands of the officials whose advice may have much weight in determining the future policy of the United States. It was said today at the State Department that the Constitutionalist junta in this city believes consideration of their claims to recognition cannot be delayed much longer. The statement attributed to the rebel leaders at Torreon that they were awaiting news of the political effect of their victory on Washington also is taken as a sign of general expectancy that the United States Government will recognize their claims.

Conditions precedent to political recognition in such cases have always been regarded as involving the establishment of a regular government at some capital and the possession of one or more seaports through which the new government can communicate with the outside world. Recent reports state that Tampico is about to fall into the possession of the Constitutionalists, without further fighting. In that case it will remain only for Gen. Carranza to locate a capital and appoint a Cabinet and other administrative officers in order to claim recognition.

The United States, however, is likely to go very slow in admitting this claim.

One of the most important objections made to political recognition at this stage relates to the vast claims of American citizens for injuries sustained during the two years of warfare in Northern Mexico. It is said to be a debatable question whether the extension of recognition by the United States to the rebels would not operate automatically to re-

Carranza Tells Post-Dispatch Torreon's Fall Will Hasten the Triumph of His Cause

By FRANK PUTNAM,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

EL PASO, Tex., April 4.—Col. Venustiano Carranza, president of the Provisional Constitutionalist government of Northern Mexico, gave to me last night the following written message to the American public to be published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch and New York World:

> "THE triumph of Torreon will hasten the decisive triumph of the cause I represent and therefore the establishment of a firm and lasting peace, based upon justice, liberty and upon the economic and social reforms that will be put into effect by the government which the Constitutionalist party will establish.
> "V. CARRANZA."
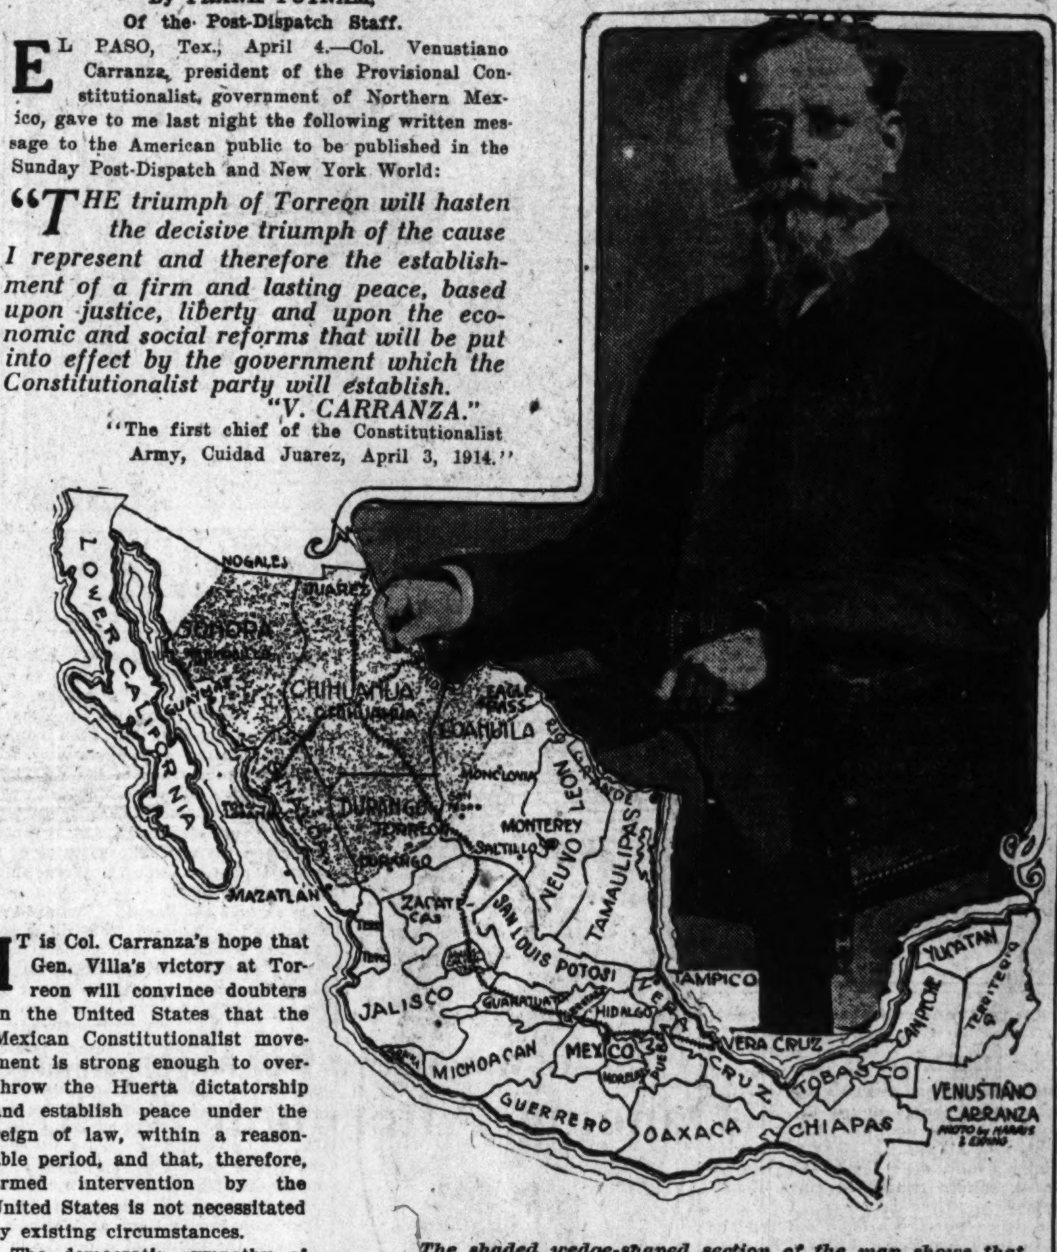
> "The first chief of the Constitutionalist Army, Cuidad Juarez, April 3, 1914."



The shaded wedge-shaped section of the map shows that portion of Mexico which is controlled by the Constitutionalists.

IT is Col. Carranza's hope that Gen. Villa's victory at Torreon will convince doubters in the United States that the Mexican Constitutionalist movement is strong enough to overthrow the Huerta dictatorship and establish peace under the reign of law, within a reasonable period, and that, therefore, armed intervention by the United States is not necessitated by existing circumstances.

The democratic sympathy of the Constitutional Government is indicated by the readiness with which, without introductions or credentials of any sort, I was able to reach the head of the Government and get from him the foregoing message.

The Colonel, at the end of a long day's grind in the executive offices, received me standing, a fine, erect, military figure, near or quite six feet tall, robust, without a trace of fatigue in his bearing. He had earlier declined to publish any comment on the Torreon triumph, but when it was suggested that the World and Post-Dispatch wished to present his interpretation of that event, he readily consented and calling his private secretary dictated the message.

Col. Carranza and members of his Cabinet believe the Washington Government is now, since the capture of Torreon, more likely to recognize the Constitutionalists' government as a belligerent power than to intervene. The Colonel sees in the revolution, which he is leading, a movement similar in purpose to the Democratic revolt against plutocracy in the United States. The American people are free to work out their own salvation without interference from other powers. The Colonel believes the Mexican people should have the same privilege. They want a government of their own creation, a government which will abolish the monstrous land monopoly built up by the Diaz despotism and defended by the Huerta dictatorship. They cannot believe the rank and file of the American people would, now, themselves engaged in a revolution against plutocracy, sanction an armed invasion of Mexico to crush the democratic inspirations of the Mexican people.

8 WIVES SMILE AS THEIR HUSBAND IS FOUND GUILTY

They Smile Again When Judge Says He Will Refuse New Trial in Mann Act Case.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 4.—The eight wives of Ludie Arnold and two girls who have testified against him smiled today when he was found guilty on two charges of violating the Mann act. They smiled again when Judge Meek told attorneys for Arnold that they could go ahead with the preparation of a motion for a new trial, but to consider it already overruled.

The conviction is based on the charge of transporting Grace Huffine from state to state. The jury foreman said they reached a decision to convict in 20 minutes, but there was some debate as to the number of counts.

Arnold heard the verdict without a show of emotion or any comment. It is said that he married 16 women in 15 years without the formality of getting divorces.

Arnold will be sentenced at the close of the term. The maximum sentence he can receive is five years in the Federal prison and a $5000 fine on each of the two offenses.

The motion for a new trial will be filed Monday and the case will be appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on Judge Meek's refusal to grant a new trial.

ARSENAL FIRE KILLS 30 OF UNCLE SAM'S HENS

Fire inside the Arsenal, between Broadway and Second streets and Wyoming and Arsenal streets, at 1 a. m. today, destroyed a shed and burned 30 hens kept there by the United States Army clothing and supply department, which uses the Arsenal as a distributing station.

The origin of the flames, which were quickly put out by firemen, was not ascertained.

KANSAS CITY MAN TO BE HANGED FOR ATTACKING NURSE

Was One of Six Men Who Lured Her to Room on Bogus Promise of Employment.

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—Vic Gueringer, pool hall proprietor, must hang for the part he played in the attack six men made upon Mrs. Gertrude Shidler, on March 9, last. A jury in the criminal court at 11:35 o'clock found him guilty of attacking Mrs. Shidler and decreed capital punishment for the crime.

As the words "Guilty" were pronounced by the foreman of the jury, Mrs. Gueringer, wife of the defendant, screamed and fainted. She was carried from the courtroom.

Gueringer's face blanched. Two deputy marshals led him from the room. As he entered the jail, his white-haired mother, who had been by his side during the trial, sobbed and bade him good bye. Mrs. Shidler was not in the courtroom when the verdict came. The case went to the jury at 9:57 o'clock.

In his closing argument, Floyd Jacobs, Prosecuting Attorney, made a dramatic plea for Gueringer's conviction.

In closing, the Prosecutor said: "You, by your verdict, either will brand Kansas City as a place where women are safe, or as a place where woman has no protection."

The crime was committed on the afternoon of March 9. Mrs. Shidler, a nurse, was lured to a room in the downtown district by a man who said a physician wished to employ her.

When she arrived at the room, six men attacked her. The State charged Gueringer committed the most serious offense of the six. Five men are still to be tried.

Mrs. Shidler has identified one of them as the man who took her to the building where the attack took place.

During the year 1913 the Post-Dispatch printed 65,664 Houses, Flats, etc., "Wants"—1901 more than the Globe-Democrat, Republic, Times and Star—the four others—combined!

WOMAN PRESIDENT OF SAFE CO., BADLY HURT BY A CAR

Mrs. Kate Baumann Is Struck at Olive and Vandeventer; Taken to Hospital.

Mrs. Kate Baumann, 66 years old, living at the Beers Hotel, Grand avenue and Olive street, was struck and seriously injured by a westbound Olive car at Olive street and Vandeventer avenue last night.

Mrs. Baumann, who is president of the John Baumann Safe Co., was crossing from the south to the north side of Olive street and apparently did not see the car until a moment before she was struck. The car was moving slowly and did not run over or drag her.

The motorman, Oscar Meyer of 568 De Balliviere avnue, told the police that he did not see her in time to stop his car, though he was able to check its speed before the car struck her.

Mrs. Baumann was picked up by persons who witnessed the accident, and was given temporary treatment by one of the United Railways physicians. She went to the Baptist Hospital, Garrison avenue and Morgan street, where physicians said that because of her age, her injuries were regarded as serious. She suffered a severe cut over the right eye, bruises on her head and body, and the physicians fear she may have been injured internally.

AUTO CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS, 2 ARE UNHURT

An automobile, in which Eugene Hardy of 5153 Kensington avenue, and John J. Farley, were riding from the baseball game at Robison Field yesterday afternoon, was caught between two Vandeventer cars at Lexington avenue, and both men were thrown to the street. The men were unhurt. The machine was damaged $500.

A policeman doing traffic duty at the corner reported that the accident was caused by the failure of the motorman of a eastbound car to obey his signal.

FUNERAL SHIPS IN WITH VICTIMS OF SEALING DISASTER

69 Bodies of the New Foundland's Sailors and 37 Survivors Landed at St. Johns, N. F., by One of the Fleet That Encountered Blizzard

Rescuers Bring Thrilling Story of Fight for Life After 1000 Men, Out on Floe, Were Engulfed in Storm.

Bodies Were Piled Up to Screen Living From Blasts —Two Nearly Mad After Brothers Die in Arms.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOHN, N. F., April 4.—The sealing steamer Bellaventure, Capt. Randell, arrived in port at 5 o'clock today with 69 bodies and 37 survivors, following the disaster which overtook the crew of the sealing steamer Newfoundland, Tuesday.

Hours before the ship docked thousands of people lined the pier, and its approaches while cordons of police and naval reserve men guarded the passageway to keep the way open for the ambulance corps in waiting to remove the dead to the temporary mortuary prepared in the Seamen Institute.

In the absence of Gov. Davidson and Premier Morris, the acting Premier, Mr. Bennett directed the work of caring for the dead and injured. Every physician and nurse in the city volunteered for service. They were aided by squads from the naval reserve ship Calypso and various military organizations.

As fast as the dead were identified they were placed on a special train to be sent to Bonavista Bay in the vicinity of which most of the victims lived. Many families have lost their only bread-winners, and if the 173 on the missing Southern Cross have met disaster, whole settlements will be without wage earners. More than a thousand women and children with little or no savings will be dependent upon charity.

The survivors, most of whom were unable to talk, were transferred to cabs and ambulances and conveyed to the general hospital for treatment, then the landing of the bodies began. Among the spectators were hundreds of friends and relatives of the men, many of whom had hurried to the city from outlying settlements to identify their relatives.

Story of the Survivors.

The story of disaster as told by the survivors is a tale of great suffering and remarkable endurance and heroism in the face of death.

The tragedy which overtook the New Foundland's hunters was unavoidable, according to Capt. Randell of the Bellaventure. Tuesday dawned somewhat overcast but with no hint of blizzard conditions, he said, so that it was quite safe it appeared to put men on the ice, after seals. Four ships were within sight of him—the New Foundland, Stephano, Florizel and Bonaventura. These had a total of a thousand men on the ice. His own hunters had encountered a small body of seals soon after leaving the ship, and were out for only an hour.

The storm broke with typical Arctic suddenness. The hunters from the Bonaventura and the Florizel were fortunate enough to reach their ships safely.

The Stephano's men being nearer the Florizel than their own vessel, hurried on board her. The Stephano meanwhile steamed toward the spot where her crew had been seen befor the snow shut in. This took her away from the New Foundland's group, who were far from their own ship. As soon as the Stephano was notified by the Florizel's wireless of the safety of her men, she headed back in to the storm to pick up the New Foundland's hunters.

It was impossible to see a ship's length ahead into the snow curtain, and when the Stephano's captain thought he was within a mile of the stranded hunters he lay to, and keut his fog horn going in the hope that they might be guided toward him. As hours passed and not a man reported, he concluded all had reached their own ship. But the New Foundland had no wireless, and all that day and all Wednesday while the blizzard raged with unabated fury, the fleet remained in ignorance of the fate of the 150 men marooned on the floes.

Thursday the weather cleared, and the Bellaventure was making ready to start her men after seals again, when a lookout in the crow's nest reported men on the ice. Capt. Randell immediately ordered every available man from the ship to the rescue. The main party of castaways were four miles away over a broken field of ice. The Bellaventure was driven toward them with all possible speed, but so bad were ice conditions that it required nine hours to cover the four miles.

Bodies Dug From Ice.

Meantime his men had reached the castaways. Only a few of the hardiest were conscious and able to help themselves. Many were in a stupor. Some were raving and others had been stricken with ice blindness. Many bodies were found frozen so fast in the ice that pickaxes were necessary to chop them out. Two of the survivors were nearly mad from their own sufferings and from grief. Each had watched a brother die in his arms.

By good fortune 30 of the New Foundland's hunters, who had not strayed far from the vessel, had been able to reach their ship.

Meantime the Stephano had been able to work within striking distance and was able to pick up a few of the survivors and recover a few bodies.

After the snow-filled hollows had been searched for more bodies, the Bellaventure turned her prow homeward, battling severe ice conditions and a second gale nearly all the way to port.

The first of the New Foundland's crew had reached the edge of the patch of seals in the forenoon. Two hours afterward the storm burst upon them and soon increased to a hurricane, accompanied with blinding snow. The New-foundland's crew started for her in companies of from ten to twenty. Before they could cover the distance the wind had veered and the men were led astray and missed their ship. Some fifty of them succeeded in reaching her, but 117 failed to do so, and after traveling for hours realized their terrible plight and saw that they were astray on the ice fields in the teeth of a terrific blizzard and bitter cold.

Night came and all hopes of finding their ship was given up. To stand still was to freeze to death and their only hope lay in keeping going, though they knew not in what direction. The blizzard increased in fury as the night advanced and the men were almost blown off their feet as they were driven before the gale. They could not face the blizzard; could only walk before it as long as their strength lasted.

As daylight came it was found that many had fallen exhausted on the floe and many more were at the point of exhaustion.

Clothes Frozen to Bodies.

The gale had abated somewhat and the cutting snow had ceased, but the cold was intense. Their clothes, mittens and boots were frozen to their bodies. They had no food and were not in sight of any ship. The brave fellows who still kept up assembled their dead and dying comrades and determined to stand by them as long as possible. When forced to abandon the dead, they placed the bodies together on the ice and marked the spot with flags such as sealers carry to mark their pans of seals.

The faint and dying were helped along by their shipmates while life lasted and frequently those assisted and the men helping them were seen to fall together and expire without again rising.

As Wednesday and Wednesday night passed, many exhausted their strength in assisting their comrades and lay down to die. Some of the survivors owe their lives to the unselfish and heroic action of their comrades who stood by them and helped them to keep moving after they had fallen from exhaustion and cold. One or two men who had helped to keep an exhausted brother sealer from giving up the fight for hours by aiding him to keep moving, fell exhausted and died before help reached him.

When the weather cleared Thursday morning one squad of the men sighted the Bellaventure, and the strongest of the company started toward her and succeeded in reaching the ship. The Bellaventure then called all other wireless ships to render assistance, and the search for the missing men was begun.

The Florizel, Stephano, Adventure, Bonaventure, Eagle, Beothic, Bellaventure and Nascopie cruised about the ice floe and succeeded in picking up all except eight, and these are yet unaccounted for, and supposed to be lost through breaks in the ice or covered by drifts of snow or broken ice.

Dead and dying men were found in groups, some still locked in each other's arms, others still holding a comrade by the arm or with arms circled around the neck in an attitude which indicated the heroic effort to assist each other in some way.

Some were frozen by their clothing to the ice, still living; others were found crawling on hands and knees unable to stand erect. Still more were found bearing a dying comrade between them, all with frozen garments, many hatless, and some half-crazed from the effect of their horrible experience.

Thursday forenoon when all possible was done to rescue the victims, the ships forced their way to the side of the New Foundland, which was still jammed and compared the list of dead and survivors with the roll call, when it was found that all except eight had been found.

While censure of the captain is heard for putting men on the ice in the face of an approaching gale, from the captain's of the other ships come the assertion that their barometers did not indicate a gale, strange though it may seem.

Several of the men are so badly frost bitten that their limbs will have to be amputated. The men were 54 hours from the time they left their ship till rescued.

Survivors state that they boarded the Stephano, Capt. Abraham Kean, at noon Tuesday, and after they had dinner the men decided not to go on the ice again, as the storm was just commencing. They assert that Capt. Kean urged them to go, and, not being on their own ship, they consented but reluctantly. Subsequently 29 of them returned to the Stephano and insisted on remaining on board. The others went on, with the fatal result now known. This statement was made by survivors. It does not gain general credence owing to Capt. Abraham Kean's high standing in marine circles, but the survivors indignantly denounced the Captain.

Used Bodies as Storm Shield.

The Bellaventure's men tell of pathetic scenes during the rescue and the picking up of the dead. They found a heap of bodies, piled for a barricade by survivors to break the force of the storm, behind which several men lay exhausted and dying. Some men became frantic during the long suffering and ran screaming from their comrades. The bodies of some victims were almost nude, the clothing being torn off them by survivors to shelter themselves from the cold. One man whose young brother was in company with him, held him in his arms for 20 hours, but he did not survive, and the older brother was severely frost-bitten.

One fellow, crazed from suffering, seeing a lake of water, said he was going down forecastle and plunged in. He was rescued, but succumbed shortly after. Forty men sighted an iceberg. They thought it a ship and made for it and so frenzied were some of them that they attempted to climb upon it. They remained under lee of the berg till rescued, keeping themselves from freezing by walking to and fro for 15 hours.

The bodies landed today were frozen in all shapes, some with arms under heads, others with hands over faces, others locked in each others' arms.

Fifteen survivors have entered the ship here, suffering badly. Most of them will have limbs amputated, some will die.

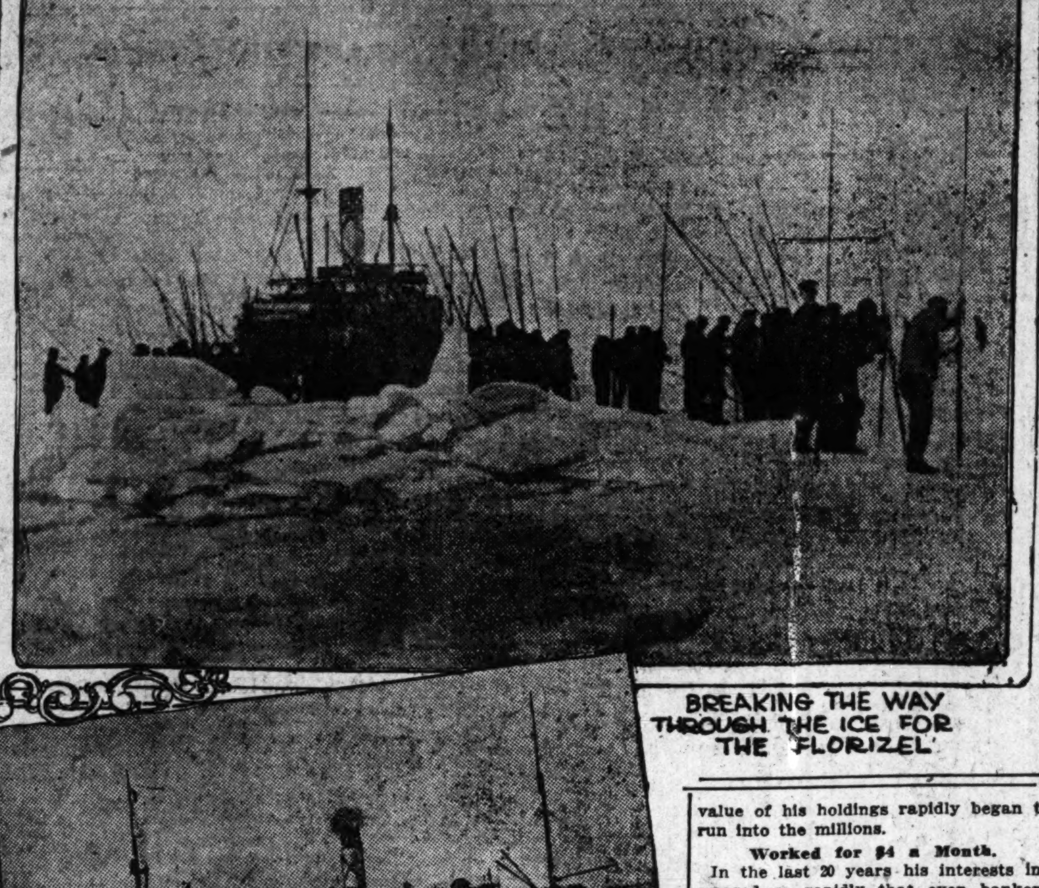
Southern Cross Still Missing.

Five thousand persons, many of them relatives of the victims, had lined every vantage point along the harbor front all day waiting for the Bellaventure's arrival and for some news from the missing sealer Southern Cross, carrying 170 men.

Not a word has been heard from the latter vessel since she was seen driving before the storm Tuesday morning. Hope aroused by reports that she had made one of the numerous harbors along the southern coast were dashed when investigation proved an error in identification had been made.

There is still hope, however, she has weathered the storm.

Sealing Ship Breaking Through Ice; Captain Who, Survivors Say, Urged Them Into Peril



BREAKING THE WAY THROUGH THE ICE FOR THE FLORIZEL

THE S.S. FLORIZEL

CAPTAIN A. KEAN.

HUNTING OF SEALS LARGELY A GAMBLE

Of all the financial gambles into which the hope of rapid gain lures mankind, none is more alluring than that of seal fishing. From the outset it is a race, in which chance and an early start are the deciding element. For these reasons thousands of New Foundlanders engage in it every year, and scores of ships are enrolled in the navy of conquest.

Under the international laws, no ship may start seal-fishing from one of the recognized ports—of which the principal is St. Johns, New Foundland, before noon of March 13. This year, March 13 fell on Friday, a combination of which the superstitious were chary. No seals may be killed on any Sunday after May 1, and no ship may make two excursions in a year. This means that each competitor must make his strike within six weeks or confess a financial failure. These restrictions on the killing season add to the venturesomeness of the enterprises, and partly explain the fool-hardy risks the fishermen sometimes undertake.

In the present season, 21 ships, with a total complement of about 4000 men, sailed from St. Johns. A conservative estimate says 10,000 are dependent for their year's income upon the 1914 catch. This meant a competition so fierce that almost any ship's crew would have been ready at any moment to undertake the greatest risks in the hope of making a big strike.

The Newfoundland seals are not those most valuable in the fur markets. They are hunted principally for their fat. The skins are used in the manufacture of leather and the fat in the manufacture of the finest lubricating oils, cold creams and perfumes. So rich are the market returns that seal-fishing vies in importance, among Massachusetts fishermen, with cod fishing.

NEGRO WOMAN, 114, DIES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 4.—Maria Ryley, 114 years old, formerly a slave, died at Raleigh, Tenn., today where she had lived since 1828. Her oldest child was buried three days ago at the age of 89. Her youngest child, a son, 62 years old, is still living.

Bible records found among the woman's effects proved her age, to whom she had belonged as a slave, and gave the names of her eight children. Her son says he does not ever remember of his mother being ill.

Weyerhaeuser Is Dead; Lumber Man Left Great Estate

two ears to hear with, but I have only one mouth, and that is to eat with."

Weyerhaeuser gave to the World, in January, 1912, at Pasadena, his "Rules for getting rich."

Here they are:

"Make up your mind to work at something really worthy of work, and work hard.

Says Use Your Money.

"The surest way to make money is to save money and to use what you have.

"Don't be afraid of long hours and constant attention to your work.

"Work can be made a joy, and economy a pleasure, if you can combine an object worth while with the determination to win.

"Work, where the interest of the man who works is centered, becomes a source of real gratification, of honest pleasure and accomplishment.

"Any young man can get rich, can succeed in business, if he has a definite and honest purpose and is so filled with the purpose that work ceases to be a hardship and becomes a privilege.

"Look at things with optimism in your heart.

"Go in some small business and work to make it into a big one."

"Never Lose a Log."

Weyerhaeuser got his financial start by applying the strictest German thrift and economy to a business which, at that time, was being permitted to run on a profligate scale.

"Never lose a log" became Weyerhaeuser's slogan in the days when hundreds and thousands of white pine logs daily escaped from the rafts being floated from the woods to the mills. He picked profits with both hands from this source when others refused to bother with "so small a matter."

Weyerhaeuser next tackled the question of middleman. Sometimes three and even four profits were taken by cutters, loggers, steamboat men and others before the timber reached the sawmill. These middlemen, Weyerhaeuser believed, were the principal cause of costly confusion.

In wiping out the middleman Weyerhaeuser conceived the idea of the Mississippi Boom River and Logging Co., which was a combination of the biggest men in the lumber business of the Middle West and which was consummated in Chicago, December, 1870.

Weyerhaeuser, as usual, was an unobtrusive attendant at this meeting; but when the meeting concluded he was one of three members of the Executive Committee and within a few years his associates in the concern discovered that Weyerhaeuser was the Mississippi Boom and Logging Co. From this point the value of his holdings rapidly began to run into the millions.

Worked for $4 a Month.

In the last 20 years his interests increased so rapidly that even bankers close to him in a business way were unable to keep track of his vast holdings. Some estimates of his wealth made his total holdings worth $600,000,000 but this is obviously an optimistic figure and the approximate value of the estate cannot be known until the filings are made in court.

He entered the Pacific Coast field and the Southern Lumber field on a scale that made wealthy men gasp. Organization of $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 concerns to handle individual timber and mineral companies became commonplace.

It was the Weyerhaeuser interests which were credited with being arrayed against John Dietz, "the defender of Cameron dam," who held out for many months against a siege by Deputy Sheriffs, who sought to enable workmen to cut a dam he had built and let an immense quantity of logs down the river. Dietz is serving a life sentence in the Wisconsin Penitentiary at Waupun because of the killing of a deputy in one of the battles at the dam.

After his father died the family migrated to the Northeast, Erie County, Pa., when Frederick was 18 years old. Young Weyerhaeuser at once decided that he would become a brewer and went to work at $4 a month, but he gave up the brewing idea, and his next attempt was farming at a wage of $13 a month.

Says Lumber King's Wealth Is Overestimated.

EVERETT, Wash., April 4.—"There is an erroneous impression regarding Weyerhaeuser's holdings and wealth," George P. Long, Pacific Coast representative of the Weyerhaeuser interests said tonight. "Mr. Weyerhaeuser held only about 15 or 20 per cent of the stock in the Weyehaeuser enterprises."

The Weyerhaeuser companies hold about 1,300,000 acres of land in Washington and 450,000 acres in Oregon. Of this about 75,000 acres are cut over. The remainder is timber.

Owned 500,000 Acres of Land in Oregon.

SALEM, Ore., April 4.—According to an estimate made by State Forester Elliott, the timber holdings of the late Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser in Oregon alone total about 500,000 acres. These lands are scattered through the State, but the largest holdings are in Klamath, Lake, Coos and Clackamas counties.

The State Forester was unable to estimate their exact value, but most of the lands are of a choice character and are worth many millions of dollars.

Interested in Five Lumber Companies in Idaho.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 4.—Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser, who died today at Pasadena, Cal., was interested in five lumber companies in Northern Idaho, the total assets of which amount approximately to $26,000,000. A great part of the assets is in standing timber.

HOUSE DEFEATS EFFORT TO RAISE BRYAN'S PAY

Estimates Providing Coachman and Footman for Him Cause Sarcastic Comment.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The uniforms of State Department footmen, their compensation, the Panama tolls fight, Secretary Bryan's salary, his Chatanooga lectures and half a dozen other subjects occupied the House today, during consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

The estimates included provision for a coachman and footman for the Bryan carriage, which provoked comment. Representative Humphrey of Washington offered an amendment to increase Secretary Bryan's salary. It was ruled out of order, but Mr. Humphrey said: "We ought to have a Secretary of State who would not have to sell something to England and violate his party platform in order to extricate himself and the country from the difficulties into which it had fallen through him." Representative Mondell of Wyoming said Secretary Bryan was planning undoubtedly to put uniforms on his coachmen.

"Whether the British union jack should be displayed on the front or the back of the uniform is a matter of taste," he said, "but that it should be prominent somewhere is without question in view of the recent surrender to Great Britain on the canal tolls question."

17 DETECTIVES ON WATCH 2 NIGHTS FAIL TO GET MEN

Two Dodge Cordon About House Where Companion Is Confined.

SOUGHT FOR CAFE JOB

One, Arrested, Taken to Louisville, to Answer for Theft From Jewelry Store.

Seventeen detectives picketed a rooming house at 2853 Olive street, where they were guarding Harry Fisher, suspected of safe robbery, from Wednesday night until Friday morning, while Fisher's two alleged confederates, whom the detectives had hoped to lure into a trap and capture, escaped.

When it became apparent that the confederates had taken warning and fled, the detectives took Fisher to the Laclede Avenue Station and Friday night he was taken to Louisville to answer to a charge of robbery there.

Fisher and others of an alleged gang of safe breakers operating all over the country, were suspected by the police of being the cracksmen who broke open the safe of the Childs restaurant and got $825 last Sunday night. Fisher and two others are known to have been in the city at that time and the methods used were the same as in other cities, presumably by the same gang.

Came From Louisville.

The men were traced to St. Louis from Louisville by way of Indianapolis, in which cities robberies were committed. In Louisville a jewelry supply house and the Zapp & Short grocery were entered and $1000 in cash and jewelry were taken. An ineffectual attempt was made to open the safe of Alex Meyer, a pawnbroker.

Chief of Detectives Carney and Detective Stephens of Louisville followed the robbers to Indianapolis and to St. Louis by laundry packages that were forwarded by parcel post. Fisher was found in the Olive street boarding house, and, Wednesday night, 17 detectives surrounded the place and searched the rooms. The robbers were not there, but Fisher came in later and was arrested and confined to his room.

Confederates Phone to Him.

One of his confederates telephoned Thursday afternoon from a drug store at 5700 Delmar boulevard and another from a saloon at Seventeenth and Market streets. Detectives went to these places, but did not capture them.

By showing photographs to persons who had seen the men telephoning, it was established they were Harry Schmolinsky and a man known as "Jack," who were arrested several months ago at Rochester, N. Y., on the charge of being implicated in a safe robbery and who escaped, four months ago, from a Rochester jail.

BLOCK WILL CONTEST IS SETTLED FOR $25,000

Brothers and Sisters of Commission Merchant Agree Upon Cash Payment From Estate.

By paying $25,000 this week to the contestants, Mrs. Margaret Stevens Block will compromise the suit brought by brothers and sisters of her husband, the late Albert S. Block, to break his will, which, with the exception of a few minor gifts, bequeathed his estate of $200,000 to her. Upon the payment of the money the suit will be dismissed.

The charge was made that Block, who was a commission merchant, was not of sound mind when he made the will nine days before his marriage to Mrs. Block at Springfield, Mo., in 1912. He had twice been declared insane and committed to a sanitarium. But physicians testified he was sane when he executed the will. Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Block has lived at 6007 Von Versen avenue.

Block bequeathed $500 to his mother, but she died before him. He left $250 to his sister, Mrs. Nina Sarason, and $1 each to his brother, Louis Block, and to three other sisters. In a deposition Mrs. Block said she and Block married themselves by a ceremony of their own, without a marriage license, at their home in 1900. They took out-of-town trips together, she said, and were known by their friends as man and wife. Later they decided upon a legal ceremony.

SCHOOLS HAVE EXHIBIT

Clayton County Pupils' Work of All Classes Is Shown.

The first annual school exhibit of St. Louis County has attracted large crowds in the last three days at the Clayton courthouse. Ninety-five of the 115 white schools of the county were represented. The collection, which numbered 5000 specimens, included work ranging from that of the kindergarten to the high school.

Superintendent of the County Schools W. T. Bender, who has been connected with the schools for the past 25 years, said that the exhibit was the first of its kind ever held in the State. He said that at the next annual teachers' meeting he will propose the exhibit be made an annual affair.

Train Kills a Bear.

VERMILLION, Mont., April 4.—A passenger train of the Northern Pacific struck and killed a large black bear near Vermillion station Montana, a short distance east of Hope, Idaho. The carcass of the animal was seized by an Italian section crew. No damage was done to the train equipment.

Motor Cycle Runs Man Down.

Samuel S. Agnew, 65 years old, of 605 Espenschied street, was run down yesterday by a motor cycle ridden by Steve Skeorski of 8026 Ivory avenue in front of 6300 Ivory avenue. Agnew's right arm was broken, and he suffered bruises about the head and body.

PRODUCE SELLERS BY PARCEL POST LISTED BY SELPH

Book to Be Distributed Giving Names of Farmers Who Seek City Customers.

St. Louisans who wish to purchase farm and dairy products direct from the producer may now do so through the parcel post produce list prepared by Postmaster Colin Selph. One hundred and fifty names of farmers and dealers in country towns who wish to sell to city customers direct have been sent in, and it is expected the number will grow to many hundreds as soon as the plan of the Postmaster begins to work out.

The list which has been gotten out in folder form, containing four pages, will be distributed by mail carriers in St. Louis tomorrow. The first and second pages will contain the names of the dealers who have products to sell. The second page will contain a suggestion for inquiry blank to be used by a prospective buyer of produce. This blank is styled: "From Farm to Table via United States Parcel Post." It contains lines to address a producer, and space for the writer to indicate what sort of produce he wishes. The blank asks for information as to prices, so that the producer and consumer may have an understanding before actual trading by mail commences. The blank also asks the producer: "Please let me know how much you can send me, daily or weekly, properly packed in accordance with the postal laws and regulations, via United States parcel post."

The fourth page of the folder contains an application blank to be used by a producer in applying to be placed on the parcel produce list, and directions for preparing and shipping perishable goods via parcel post.

Most of the names submitted to Postmaster Selph are Illinois and Missouri producers, although some live as far off as Arizona and Florida. Most of these are offering to sell butter, eggs and poultry. Many vegetables of all kinds, honey, maple syrup, pickles, catsup, turkeys, squabs, pork sausage, cheese and fruits of all kinds in season are offered.

Postmaster Selph has promised that deliveries of produce through the mails will be promptly expedited. They will be received at the main postoffice and dispatched over mail cars to the various substations for redistribution to the buyers. Arrangement for payment can be made between the buyers and sellers, or collections will be made for the sellers on delivery, in which case a fee will be charged the recipient, to cover the cost of a postoffice money order. Purchases up to $2.50 will necessitate the payment of a 3-cent money order fee, a $5 produce collection will carry a five-cent money order fee and a $10 collection will require an 8-cent fee.

Fifty pounds of produce can be sent in the first or second zones at a cost of 54 cents. But 20 pounds will be carried through the mails outside the second zone.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER JR. WILL TELL OF STRIKE

House Committee Will Compare His Profits With Colorado Miners' Wages.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. will appear before the House Committee on Mines and Mining Monday morning to testify in relation to the Colorado strike. As a large stockholder and officer of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., Mr. Rockefeller will be asked to give his view of the causes that led to the strike and to explain the corporation's course in refusing to grant the strikers' demands.

The committee has reports which show Mr. Rockefeller has spent much time on matters relating to morality and improvement of the poor. Members of the committee are anxious to ascertain to what extent he has practiced his teachings in regard to the miners and their families. He will be asked to present the company's balance sheets so profits may be compared with wages.

Some members of the committee are anxious to find out to what extent Mr. Rockefeller profits from the shacks in which the miners live and also from the company's stores.

GOV. DUNNE WITH WIFE AND DAUGHTER TO VOTE

Executive Does Not Tell How Women of Family Will Line Up.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Gov. Dunne will "deliver his delegation" at the polls Tuesday morning in the Twenty-fifth Ward, he said today. His family voting strength consists of himself, Mrs. Dunne and Miss Eileen Dunne.

"We will be here bright and early Tuesday morning," Gov. Dunne said today at the La Salle Hotel. "Mrs. Dunne and Eileen registered and it will be one of the most enjoyable moments of my life when we start for the polls."

Gov. Dunne did not indicate, if he knew, how Mrs. Dunne or Miss Eileen Dune expected to vote. The executive departed for Springfield tonight.

PREACHER ABSENT; WIFE CONDUCTS FUNERAL

MONTGOMERY, Mo., April 4.—The preacher, failing to arrive on account of bad roads, Mrs. Nicholas Delone, chief and only mourner, delivered the funeral oration over the body of her husband, who killed himself a few days ago at Danville, this county.

She gave old age and poor health as the reason for his taking his own life and said she could not see him buried without some remarks being made over his body. She paid a tribute to his fidelity to her and said she believed God would forgive him. She thought his mind was not right. He was buried in a coffin he had made.

ONE OF 4, WHO ESCAPED FROM ASYLUM, CAUGHT

Fred Kurtz, Found at Cousin's Home, Surrenders Without a Fight.

Fred Kurtz, one of four patients who escaped from the City Sanitarium, Arsenal street near Macklind avenue, Friday night, by picking a lock with a piece of wire, was captured by the police last night at the home of Antone Bernhardt, 2831 South Eighteenth street. He did not resist arrest.

The police say Kurtz, whose home was at 2112 South Eighth street, went to the Bernhardt home yesterday morning. A member of the family told the police. He is a cousin of Mrs. Barnhardt, the police say.

The others, who had not been captured last night, are John Hart, 33 years old, 50 South Jefferson avenue; William F. Craig, 39, 3648 Shenandoah avenue, and Noah Genail, 22, 3742 Garfield avenue.

Although an official statement from the institution said the men were not considered violent, a former guard told reporters that the men had not been given yard privileges and that the ward in which they were kept is for violent patients. He said Kurtz has attempted escape several times.

A man seen at Hodiamont avenue and Catalpa street yesterday morning is believed to be one of them. He started to cross in front of a car, but was pulled back by a woman. He shook his fist at her and walked down Catalpa street. He was bareheaded and wore a blue flannel shirt, brown trousers, rubber boots and a tightly drawn belt.

Hundreds of Dead Federals Lie in Streets of Torreon lieve the permanent Government of Mexico, which will be erected upon the present provisional Government, of all pecuniary liability for such losses.

It is recalled that at the end of the Civil War the United States Government successfully repudiated all such claims preferred by European nations that had recognized the Confederate States.

Accused Vice-Consul Powers Is at Liberty on Parole.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 4.—Vice-Consul Edward A. Powers of Parral, who was arrested charged with passing counterfeit money, is still under charges but is at liberty on parole.

Marion Letcher, Consul here, demanded that Powers be given an immediate hearing, but Manual Chao, Military Governor of the State, has not yet found time to comply, owing to the press of other duties in connection with the battle of Torreon.

Mexico City Papers Print Torreon Acounts Favorable to Federals.

MEXICO CITY, April 4.—With the exception of the Imparcial, every newspaper in the Federal Capital today published accounts highly favorable to the Government side of the operations in the neighborhood of Torreon. Not one newspaper announced the fall of that city, the only inference to that effect being an incidental one contained in a denial and indicating that the report showed the lengths to which sensational border rumors proceeded.

The Mexican Herald, the only paper published in English, printed denials by Gen. Blanquet, the Minister of War, and indirectly by Gen. Huerta, of the fall of Torreon. It declared all the reports of rebel successes were based on an unsupported claim by Gen. Villa.

The city is quiet and no excitement is evident in any quarter.

Hospital for Wounded at Juarez Racetrack.

JUAREZ, Mex., April 4.—It is estimated here that the rebels now have a force of 4500 men in pursuit of the Federal garrison which was forced out of Torreon last Thursday night.

Fighting between the two forces at San Pedro was reported yesterday and the day before, but there was nothing new on the subject received today.

A temporary hospital is being fitted up at the race track and it is stated that 300 wounded from Chihuahua will be brought here to convalesce.

Five States Now in Control of Constitutionalists.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, April 4.

FIVE States, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Sonora, Sinaloa and Durango, having a total area of 306,406 square miles, and a population, according to the census of 1910, of 1,795,108, now are in control of the Constitutionalists. The total area of Mexico is 765,535 square miles, and its population is 15,063,207.

The states in rebel control form an immense wedge, the wide portion of which extends along the American border from Nogales, Ariz., to a point just west of Eagle Pass, Tex., and the point of which rests 500 miles south at Torreon.

The four state capitals the rebels control are Culiacan, in Sinaloa, with a population of 10,380; Durango, in Durango, with a population of 31,092; Chihuahua, in Chihuahua, with a population of 30,405, and Hermosilla, in Sonora, with a population of 17,618. Other cities of importance in the territory are: Torreon, which has just been captured, and has a population of 31,000; Juarez, with 15,000, and Parral, with 14,748.

Among the cities which lie in the pathway of Villa's victorious forces and commonly are considered at his mercy, are: Saltillo, the capital of Coahuila, with a population of 32,966; Monclovia, also in Coahuila, with a population of 6634, and Monterey, capital of the State of Nuevo Leon, with 62,266 inhabitants.

After Monterey is taken, the the Gulf of Mexico and which has 16,313 inhabitants, little obstructed. The same is the route from Torreon to the Gulf of California, on the It has a population of 17,

While the Constitutionalists most one-half of the territory ico, the bulk of the population country is in the section which conquered. It is believed of Villa's army southward more difficult as he progresses the loyalty to Huerta there and the bulk of his army is adjacent to the capital.

MOTORBUS QUITS BUSINESS AFTER 6 WEEKS' TR

Patronage Not Sufficient Make Venture Profitable, Head of Company.

The Rapid Transit Co., which nearly six weeks ran a single bus between Fourth street and road, running on Washington and mar avenues, charging a 5-cent has suspended operations. Business not sufficient to make the venture itable, according to James W head of the company.

One cause of the failure of the line to get more business was time card did not become known. Another was that it crosstown transfer facilities, of service to only a limited Westrich says he is convinced a 5-cent fare, a line of could run all day to capacity and he is figuring on such a would bring more direct compe the United Railways Co.

It was found that few persons east of King's highway used the either direction, the idea being that so short a ride could worth a dime. The best bus line had was the after-theater ness at night.

The motor buses of London which are the chief factors transportation in those double-deckers. This plan ticable in St. Louis, as the trolley wires on cross streets low that seats on the roof would be unsafe. Double-deck run in upper New York City, Grant Monument to Central Park.

NORTH SIDE POOL TO DRAINED AS HEALTH

City Discovers It, and Not ers, Is Cause of Disagreeable Odor.

Sewer Commissioner Moreno, the conference, last Wednesday by the Board of Health means for abating the odor in announced yesterday that one chief sources of nuisances in Louis would be remedied by ment.

For many years residents of St. Louis have complained of a nant pool at Prairie and With nues. The packing houses in the borhood said the odors charged were caused by this pool. Health missioner Starkloff said that was it a cause of odors, but chief breeding place for mos North St. Louis.

HUSBAND CLEARED OF KILLING MAN IN EAST SIDE HOME

Evidence Offered to Show That Bullet Was Not From His Revolver.

ADMITS SHOOTING AT HIM

Charles Eckert Testifies He Fired at Floor and Harold Seagraves' Death Is Unexplained.

By building up a case of circumstantial evidence against another man, attorneys for Charles Eckert yesterday won his acquittal in Judge Vandeventer's court, East St. Louis, on a charge of murdering Herbert Seagreaves, despite Eckert's testimony he quarreled with Seagreaves on finding him at his home with Mrs. Eckert on the night of the tragedy, and fired one shot to frighten him away.

Seagreaves' ante-mortem statement to the police and others, in which he named Eckert as his assailant, was not permitted to go before the jury, as the State was unable to prove that the wounded man was aware, at the time that he was at the point of death.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty at 5:45 p. m., after deliberating one and three-quarters hours. Mrs. Eckert, who sat beside her husband during the trial, cried in joy. Eckert sat as if dazed until his attorney, Daniel McGlynn shook his hand. Then he arose and, shaking hands with the jurors, thanked them for his freedom.

Eckert's Account of Killing.

This has Eckert's account of the events of Nov. 22, last, the day of the murder. Eckert, a railroad yard watchman working at night, said that on Nov. 22 a man whom he scarcely knew, except that his name was Al Morrows, told him if he would go home that night he would "find out something."

Eckert went to his home, 1505 College avenue, at 9 o'clock, and found the front door locked. Peering in, he saw Mrs. Eckert and Seagraves sitting on a sofa. Near them in a chair was her sister, Mrs. Lela Church. Eckert twice saw Seagreaves attempt to put his arm around Mrs. Eckert's neck. But she repulsed him, Eckert said, and reproached him in tones so distinct that the husband, listening outside, could hear, telling him to behave himself like a gentleman.

Saw Seagraves With Wife.

Eckert knocked at the door, and Seagraves sprang up, ran towards the back of the house. Eckert went around the house, but finding the kitchen door locked, returned to the front, where he found Mrs. Eckert and her sister on the porch. He walked through the house and found Seagraves trying to hide behind a range in the kitchen. Seagraves seized a glass tumbler from the sink and held it like a weapon, Eckert said. The husband demanded to know Seagraves' business there, and then ordered him out of the house.

After he had passed out of Eckert's sight, walking rapidly towards the front door, the witness testified, he drew his revolver and fired one shot towards the floor. A bullet mark, ranging downwards across an oak chiffonier, 23 inches from the floor, and a flattened bullet on the floor corroborated his testimony as to the direction of his aim.

At 10 o'clock, Seagreaves was found, 300 yards from the Eckert home, lying in the street, with a bullet wound from the chest to the back. He died at 5 o'clock the next morning, having told the police and his sweetheart, Miss Millie Bagley, that Eckert shot him.

Mrs. Church Tells of Shooting.

Mrs. Church said she and her sister met Seagreaves in a store and that he "invited himself" to accompany them home and to enter the house. Her story agreed with Eckert's up to the point when, standing on the porch, she heard the report of a pistol inside the house. Then, she said, she "lost her senses" with fright and ran to her home on Sixteenth street, two blocks away. Mrs. Eckert did not testify.

The process of disentangling Eckert from this web of evidence began with testimony by Ransom Payne, Chief of Police in East St. Louis, and by Capt. Matt Tierney, U. S. A., retired. They both declared Seagreaves' wound was such as a steel-jacketed bullet, fired from a high-powered revolver, would cause, and that a lead ball, fired from a low-powered revolver, would not have pierced Seagreaves' body. Eckert said his revolver was a cheap one, of low power, firing a lead bullet. The weapon was exhibited at the Coroner's inquest, but afterwards disappeared.

Another Man's Threat Related.

Payne said he once had been shot with a revolver bullet such as Eckert had, about three inches lower than Seagreaves' wound, and that the bullet did not emerge from his body.

The defense introduced a dramatic surprise by placing on the stand Miss Lillie Earl, a domestic at a rooming house where Morrows lived, at 826 Illinois avenue. She said both Morrows and Seagreaves were attentive to her, and that Morrows told her if she went out again with Seagreaves he would kill his rival.

A few hours before the murder, the girl said, Morrows remarked to her in a significant tone: "Well, I've invested $5." She explained to the Court she understood Morrows meant he had purchased a revolver. She said she had not seen him since New Year's eve, but that she had received a letter from him, posted at Chester, Ill., during January. Subpenas for him to testify at the trial were returned by the Sheriff with the report that Morrows had left the city.

Good Character Witnesses.

Mrs. Estelle Lamont, whose house adjoins the Eckert home, testified she heard two shots several minutes apart. One was muffled, as if fired inside a house, she said, and the other was clearer, as if fired in the open. Otto Curley, 1836 Parsons avenue, also heard two shots, and saw a man run out of an alley and up Summit avenue. The man was not Eckert, whom he had known for many years.

MILLER WILL SUIT SETTLED BY $7500 PAYMENT TO SON

M. K. & T. Employe's Daughter to Get Like Amount and Another Will Have Annuity.

$100,000 FUND FOR WIDOW

Son, Cut Off With $1, Brought Suit, and Court Is Expected to Ratify Agreement.

A financial settlement in consideration of which George A. Miller, 20 years old, is expected to withdraw his suit contesting the will of his father, Alfred I. Miller, late purchasing agent of the M., K. & T. Railroad, was agreed upon by attorneys, yesterday. It has not yet been signed by the principals, but it is thought by the attorneys that it will be accepted.

The younger Miller named, as principal defendant, his mother, Mrs. Georgiana Miller, formerly of 5436 Maple avenue. His sisters, Miss Helen Miller, 14 years old, and Mrs. Marie Connor of Boston, also were made defendants, but their sympathies were with their brother, for, like him, they had been cut off with $1 each.

Each to Get $7500.

P. W. Haberman, attorney for the defendants, said the settlement as agreed on between him and John S. Leahy, attorney for George A. Miller, provides that Miller and Mrs. Connor each are to receive $7500 cash, and that Helen Miller is to have an income of $100 a month for life.

A fund of $100,000 is to be set aside, the interest on which shall go to Mrs. Miller in her lifetime. At her death the $100,000 is to be divided between George A. Miller, Helen Miller and Mrs. Connor.

Being a minor, Miller sued through Joseph A. Rule as best friend. In his petition Miller alleged that through excessive use of alcohol his father was of unsound mind when the will was drawn and was dominated and unduly influenced by Mrs. Miller.

Young Miller recently has been in Colorado for his health and is said to have been in need of funds when the suit was filed.

Two Other Suits Against Widow.

At the time her son's suit was filed, last October, Mrs. Miller was defendant in two other court actions.

The first proceeding against her was a suit filed by her daughter, Mrs. Connor, who asked a guardian be appointed for Mrs. Miller. The daughter alleged Mrs. Miller used intoxicants to such an extent she was incapable of managing her affairs.

About the same time Mrs. Olive W. Gardiner, wife of a dentist, sued Mrs. Miller for $100,000, alleging Mrs. Miller had alienated Gardiner's affections. Mrs. Gardiner also named Mrs. Miller as co-respondent in a divorce suit filed at Clayton.

ILL TREATMENT FOUND IN ILLINOIS ORPHANAGES

Negroes Better Cared for Than Whites, State Legislative Committee Reports.

CHICAGO, April 4.—There are 7908 orphans, one per cent of the children of the State, in institutions in Illinois, according to a preliminary report, today, by the Legislative Investigating Committee. There are 416 more boys than girls in the orphanages. The committee found that girls are more readily adopted by families than boys.

Negro children, considering the number of institutions available, have better care and facilities than white orphans. "Gross irregularities have been found by the committee," Chairman Thomas Curren asserted. "Atrocities, the vilest form of treatment, have been discovered in some instances. The most pitiable surroundings exist, and cruel and inhuman treatment of various sorts have been resorted to in some of the institutions. In many cases all trace of adopted children has been lost." The committee will meet in Chicago April 27.

Man Robbed of $200 on Car.

CITIZENS WHIP MAN FOR NOT SUPPORTING FAMILY

Twelve Men Give Him Five Lashes Each With Hickory Switches.

NEWPORT, Ark., April 4.—Twelve prominent citizens of Richwood township took the law into their own hands last night and administered a whipping to Earl Compton, who married a Richwood girl and it is alleged refused to support his wife and children.

Compton is alleged to have been offered work on the dredge boat and to have refused to work. The children were crying from hunger. He lives about one and a half miles from Pennington and is said to have been warned of what he would receive unless he tried to earn a living.

Last night his neighbors waited upon him in a body. He refused to come out of the house, and the leader of the party went after him. He was dragged from the house and taken to a nearby spot, where each of the 12 men gave him five lashes across the back with hickory switches. Compton is an able-bodied young man of 180 pounds.

TWO MEN INDICTED IN LOCAL OPTION ELECTION

Irregularities in Voting Are Denounced by Youngstown, Ohio, Grand Jury.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 4.—Serious doubts concerning the validity of the "wet" victory at the Mahoning County option election held March 2, is expressed in the report of the grand jury which has been investigating the election.

"Irregularities in registration and voting at the election were worse than possibly could be imagined in the mind of the average citizen," the report says.

Eighteen indictments were returned involving charges of perjury, illegal registering and voting and violation of the corrupt practices act. John F. Hynes, vice-president of a brewing company, and J. C. Birmingham, are among the indicted. Hynes is charged with having given a dollar each and furnishing liquor to a number of voters taken from the county infirmary to the polls.

PLAN TO GET A NEW CANAL ROUTE ABANDONED

Government Decides Colombian Project Would Not Be Practical.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—No rights to the United States for an inter-oceanic canal by way of the Atrato River or for a naval base off the Colombian coast are contemplated in pending negotations for the final agreement between this country and Colombia in settlement of the long controversy arising out of the partition of the South American Republic in the establishment of the Republic of Panama and the cession of the Panama Canal zone to the United States.

This was learned here tonight from an authoritative source, with the further information that American Minister Thompson and the Colombian authorities hope to sign the final papers in about three weeks.

The United States it was stated, had abandoned its effort to obtain the canal route because the Washington administration did not consider it a practicable one for an ocean-to-ocean waterway.

ARTIST, HEIR TO MILLIONS, AND WIFE SEPARATED

James B. L. Ali Haggin Will Not Discuss Probability of a Divorce.

NEW YORK, April 4.—"It is obvious that Mrs. Haggin and I are not living together, but I cannot answer your question as to whether or not Mrs. Haggin is contemplating suit for divorce. This is a purely personal matter between Mrs. Haggin and myself."

So said James B. F. Ali Haggin, the 31-year-old artist grandson of James B. Haggin, who has been called "the most picturesque of American millionaires," to a reporter in his room at Blythewood, "a health resort for all forms of nervous trouble and general invalidism" in Greenwich, Conn., today. "It was to escape from the talk of our separation that I came here to rest," Haggin continued.

Mrs. Haggin, who was Mrs. Faith Robinson at the time of her marriage to the youthful heir to millions, in the Little Church Around the Corner, in November, 1903, is now living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah P. Robinson. She and Haggin have been living apart since last fall. A reporter met Mrs. Haggin as she left the Robinson home Friday afternoon. He said: "We have information that you and Mr. Haggin have separated and that you are about to bring an action of some sort against him. Is that true?"

"I prefer to say nothing about it. I will not deny that your information is correct," Mrs. Haggin replied.

CONSULATE APPOINTED UNDER FIRE IN SENATE

James C. McNally, Named for Bavarian Post, Is Accused of Shady Deal.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The nomination of James C. McNally of Pittsburg, Pa., for Consul at Nuremberg, Bavaria, is under fire in the Senate. It was discussed at length in executive session today.

McNally was Consul at Nanking, China, for several years. He has been in the consular service for more than a decade. It is alleged by those who oppose his nomination that while in China he took advantage of an American resident in a real estate deal.

This charge was made before McNally got his appointment to Nuremberg. Secretary Bryan had J. W. Folk, then Solicitor of the State Department, investigate the charge and make a report. Mr. Folk gave Mr. McNally a "clean record," and the appointment followed.

A bitter fight is being made on McNally, but the Senate Committee on Commerce reported the nomination to the Senate, after a subcommittee had passed upon the charges and dismissed them.

MINERS' WAGE QUESTION GOES OVER FOR ELECTION

Illinois Workers and Operators Vote to Refer Problem Back to Wage Scale Committee.

PEORIA, Ill., April 4.—Both the Illinois miners and operators today voted to refer back to the Wage Scale Committees the question of clearing up the wage controversy. At the Friday session it was voted to let the convention as a whole negotiate for a settlement. Adjournment was then taken and no sessions will be held until Wednesday. Many of the delegates desired to return to their homes, where "wet" and "dry" contests will be the issue at Tuesday's election.

Gov. Dunne's selection of the Mine Investigating Committee caused considerable comment on the part of the miners, who claimed that heretofore it has been the custom of the Governor to consult the miners before making the appointments. It is reported that the miners will prepare a resolution of protest and present it to the Governor.

The closing down of the mines at La Salle, Peru, Oglesby, Jonesville, Sparland and Cedar Point has left 1200 miners out of employment. The operators at these points claim there is scarcely any demand for coal and they are overstocked.

I. W. W. RIOTERS CLUBBED BY 500 NEW YORK POLICE

Leader and Followers Smashed With Night Sticks in Attempt to Parade.

GIRL LEADS WILD CHARGE

Mounted Men Charge Through Mob That Tries to Break Up Union Meeting.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Two hundred Industrial Workers of the World, led by "Wild Joe" O'Carroll, defied and denounced the police in Union Square this afternoon, and, in the biggest fight their organization has yet had with the authorities, were routed by unmerciful clubbing.

O'Carroll had his scalp laid open for six inches by a blow from a policeman's stick and was beaten from head to foot by the clubs of others. Adolph Wolff, his deputy in the leadership of the grimy-faced mob and poet laureate of the I. W. W., had his eyes blackened and his nose smashed by the fists of plain-clothes men.

Then these two men and six others were arrested. Dozens more were soundly thrashed and driven to flight. Their red banners were torn down and trampled. But they still mouthed threats and blasphemies as they went into cells or scurried before blows.

"Kill the cops, to hell with the law, down with order," were the mildest of their expressions.

Their riots and threats of riots kept Union Square seething with excitement for three hours. Nearly 10,000 persons were gathered there in expectation of trouble. It would have surprised no one had a bomb been flung, as was the case several years ago at a somewhat similar meeting there.

Five hundred policemen and half a dozen mounted men were on guard. The men on horseback several times had to drive their mounts directly into the crowd. The unmounted men were swinging clubs and fists.

The trouble was caused, as was the case in the Cooper Union riot a few weeks ago, by the I. W. W.'s, who don't work and glory in that fact, trying to break up a meeting of respectable workingmen who were honestly trying to better their condition.

As early as 12 o'clock photographers, moving picture men and reporters took places on a high pile of lumber which overlooked the square and plaza. Men and women with nothing to do augmented the crowd from minute to minute until the plaza was crowded. A general impression was prevalent that it wouldn't be long before somebody started something.

It was not. I. W. W. talkers harangued small groups constantly. About 2:30 some of the more conservative of the "Conference of the Unemployed" decided that it wouldn't be well to oppose the Central Federation Union meeting and announced an adjournment, but the announcement did not suit the I. W. W.'s at all. Having assembled, they wanted to "get things going." They laughed mockingly at the postponement. Then two of their subleaders, Albert Turner and Joseph Gans, unwrapped packages and produced a couple of vividly red paper banners, which they fastened upon poles. One read "Tannenbaum Must be Freed." The other bore the legend, "Unemloyed, Local No. 1."

As these were raised about 50 I. W. W.'s stuck the red announcement placards in their hatbands and formed in line behind the banner carriers, Garibaldi Lapolla, a $1600-a-year teacher in the De Witt Clinton High School, was close by the banner carriers. So was Becky Edelson, the girl I. W. W. who was arrested on Park Row this week while trying to take up a collection for the cause.

Fight Is Started.

As the paraders stepped out, four abreast, Detective Gegan, who, with his partner, Gildea, had been following the agitators for weeks, asked Turner: "What are you going to do?"

Turner replied: "We're going to march down Broadway."

"You can't do that; you haven't a parade permit," the detective said.

"Oh, to h—— with a permit," yelled a man in the front rank.

The policeman made a grab for him, and instantly there was a swirling, fighting knot of about a hundred men around the banners. A plain clothes man grabbed the Tannenbaum banner out of Turner's hands, and brought it down over that individual's head. The paper broke, and the banner encircled Turner's neck. It was torn away and flung to the street.

Gans, the banner carrier, and La Polla, the school teacher, were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. The police had hold of Turner for a time, but let him go.

When the red banners began to wave and the I. W. W.'s to shout curses at the police, the whole great crowd in the square plaza made a rush toward the center of activity.

Just then the six mounted policemen came galloping into the throng, which parted like water before a boat's prow. The riders didn't look out for the pedestrians. They charged with their long sticks strapped to their wrists and drove the crowd before them.

More than a score of men and women were knocked down by the horses or by the rush of the throng. Hundreds forced their way, in half a panic, into the hallways of business buildings on the north side of Seventeenth street.

The I. W. W.'s who had been dispersed from the ranks of the intended parade straggled through the square and gathered around "Wild Joe O'Carroll" and the poet, Wolff, who were standing on a pathway.

Half a dozen times in the half hour following the first clash there were minor conflicts. An I. W. W. would gather about him 40 or 50 idlers and start a harangue and advise his hearers to take whatever they wanted from the rich—food, money, anything. When the crowd would block a pathway a policeman would order the speaker to move on.

There would be a scurrilous reply, then the clubs of half a dozen policemen would get to work, there would be more shouts and fleeing and then a general rush of the whole plaza crowd, which would bring another charge from the mounted men and another scattering of spectators.

At 4 o'clock the Central Federated Unionists who had the permit to assemble at the Pavilion appeared upon its plaza. The president, Thomas J. Curtis, introduced Joseph Gannon, vice-president of the Association Federation of Miners, who started to speak about the copper strike in Michigan. The men were clean, orderly and intelligent. The meeting looked like a success from the beginning.

That angered the I. W. W. men. "Wild Joe" O'Carroll with his 8-inch grayish black locks hanging down over his eyes, called to his followers:

"Come on boys, down to Rutgers Square. We'll have a meeting of our own. To h—— with this place."

With O'Carroll in the lead and militant Becky Edelson close behind, about 75 I. W. W.'s started in a sort of military fashion, down the east side of the square. Twenty uniformed men followed.

At Fourteenth street O'Carroll looked over his gang and shouted:

"Stick your red cards in your hats, boys. Show 'em our color."

The detectives asked him what he intended to do, and he said he was going to parade. He was told he wouldn't be allowed to. He said that did not matter, he was going to parade anyhow.

Detectives Dawson and McGannon arrested him and started to march him back toward the square. Becky Edelson sprang at them as though to rescue O'Carroll. She was pushed aside. She sprang back, screaming the vilest filth at the captors of "Wild Joe" and again she was pushed away.

That drove the I. W. W.'s into a frenzy. They swarmed about their leader and the girl and yelled: "To h—— with the cops. Kill them; kill the tools of the capitalists. To h—— with the law."

It was then that the police got to work in real earnest with their clubs. They struck right and left with all the force of their arms.

A reporter saw one policeman swing his stick with both hands, as powerfully as Ty Cobb swings a baseball bat. He flattened out three I. W. W.'s in as many seconds by body blows, and then plunged into the thick of the fighting after more.

Boarding Car, Hurt by Motor Truck.

While attempting to board a southbound Broadway car, at Market street, Frank Mekanka of 1829 South Second street, who is blind in the left eye, was run down last night by an automobile truck driven by John Brown of 811 North Channing avenue and owned by George D. Barnard & Co. Mekanka suffered a fractured right ankle and internal injuries.

JAPANESE SERVANT KILLS DOCTOR'S WIFE AND SELF

Shoots Stockton, Cal., Woman in Home as She Sits Directing His Laying of Carpet.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 4.—Mrs. Ellis R. Harbert, wife of a leading physician of Stockton, was shot and killed today by a Japanese servant in her home in the suburbs.

After killing Mrs. Harbert, the slayer locked the door to the room, and gathered up silverware and other valuables. The crime was not discovered till tonight when Dr. Harbert returned home. He found her body on the bedroom floor.

The servant, who is said to be an ex-convict, took refuge in the basement, where he killed himself as he was about to be arrested.

The murderer was identified tonight by the police as Irvatora Katsura, a paroled convict from Folsom, who was released Jan. 13, 1914. He was convicted of second degree murder in San Francisco, Feb. 26, 1907.

Anger, incurred by instructions given him by Mrs. Harbert as to the laying of a carpet and her insistence that it be tacked as she directed, caused the servant to shoot her as she sat in a chair supervising his workmanship.

DRUNKEN INDIANS INVADE HOME AND KILL FAMILY OF 4

Murder Husband, Attack and Shoot Wife and Fatally Wound Girl, 2, and Boy, 14.

SEMINOLE, Ok., April 4.—As the result of an early morning attack by two drunken Indians, David Bolegs, his wife, their 2-year-old daughter and their 14-year-old nephew are dead. Bolegs was instantly killed, the girl was shot as she lay asleep in bed, the boy was clubbed to death and Mrs. Bolegs was attacked and then shot. The murders were committed in the Bolegs' home four miles southeast of Seminole.

Saturday afternoon Sheriff Henry Moore arrested Panaska Tiger and Hully Holatta, Indian brothers residing near Wewoka, and took them to Wewoka to avoid a large posse of Seminole men, which it was feared would lynch the Indians if an attempt was made to place them in the Seminole Jail.

A dying statement of Mrs. Bolegs follows:

"They came to our house about 3:30 o'clock and wanted to come in. Dave got up and dressed and invited them in. They were drunk and wanted to fight, and when Dave told them he did not want to fight they shot him. They beat up Jimmie with a shot gun and shot the baby, which was in bed with me. They took me, ran me out of the house, attacked me and then shot me. They then left the house."

Bolegs was shot in the head, one bullet entering the forehead and passing entirely through the skull. The nephew, Jimmie, was in bed when attacked. Mrs. Bolegs, who had been shot in the abdomen, dragged herself to the road, where she was picked up by neighbors.

4 CONVICTS SLAIN, ANOTHER WOUNDED, TRYING TO ESCAPE

Sacramento Guards Knew of Plot and Had Warned Prisoners Against Attempt.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 4.—Thirteen convicts in the incorrigible ward of Folsom Prison attempted to escape here late today by overpowering the guards in the corridor of the building.

Three were shot and killed, and one, Norman Hare, who gave the signal for the break, died tonight of bullet wounds and a fifth convict is expected to die.

The men who figured in the plot were considered the most vicious in the prison. Not a guard was injured and none of the men reached the outside. Those not shot dodged into their cells and begged for mercy.

The men plotted the break in their cells, Thursday night. It was overheard by the guards, and the leaders were warned by Warden J. J. Smith not to attempt to escape.

At 4 o'clock today Hare gave the signal "ready," and the convicts broke the doors of their cells and rushed into the corridor. The cell doors were wooden. Eight men reached the corridor. F. Quifflet and E. C. Wiseback, guards, used their rifles.

As fast as the convicts charged, brandishing pieces of wood, they were shot. Romers, Carson and Furbey dodged back into their cells and implored the guards to stop shooting when, with five of their companions dead or wounded, they saw the hopelessness of escape.

Five convicts who had been unable to break down doors shouted: "Don't shoot, for God's sake! Don't shoot us in our cells."

MAN, 69; WIDOW 57 TO WED AND "FORGET AGE"

Charles Ehrengart Says He Will Take Bride to "Cottage Just for Two."

Charles Ehrengart, 69 years old, of 5391 Cote Brilliante avenue, who has been twice married before, and Mrs. Carrie Emig, 57 years old, of 1391 Belt avenue, a widow, surprised their friends Saturday by the announcement of their approaching marriage, which will take place next week.

Their marriage will be the culmination of 33 years of acquaintanceship, beginning at a time Ehrengart was in the commission business at Leffingwell avenue and Adams street. Mrs. Emig was a frequent customer. Ehrengart's first wife, with whom he had lived 42 years, died two years ago. In April, 1912, he married Miss Frances Gaube. She died last September. He has four children, all living and four grand children, the eldest 17 years old.

Mrs. Emig was made a widow by the death of her husband, Morris Emig, a city fireman, 10 years ago. She has no children.

"Of course, we are going to take a honeymoon," said Ehrengart to a reporter. "When we return we are going to live in a little cottage just for two and try to forget that there was ever such a thing as age."

MURDER CASE WITNESSES HELD FOR INTIMIDATION

Assistant Circuit Attorney Moore issued an information yesterday charging Name Ali and Kasim Shei, Albanians, witnesses in the case of Mehmet Ibriam, awaiting trial for the murder of Muslin Ali, a brother of Name Ali, with intimidating each other to leave the city.

The two Albanians were arrested in their room at 209 Duchouquette street Friday night, the police having received information they were making arrangements to return to Albania.

The police told Moore that an Albanian secret society had been collecting funds to defray the expenses of Mehmet Ibraim's defense when brought to trial.

Muslin Ali was stabbed to death Jan. 28, in the yard at 209 Duchouquette street.

NEGRO STABBED, KILLED

Slayer Escapes After Fight on O'Fallon Street Last Night.

Emanuel Cates, 25 years old, a negro, of 1223 Blair avenue, was stabbed in the throat and killed by another negro, whose name is said to be George Osborne, in a fight on O'Fallon street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets at 11 o'clock last night. Osborne escaped.

Two negroes are being held by the police in the Fourth District Station in an effort to find out Osborne's address and the cause of the killing.

DOROTHY REGEL TO FIGHT $4052 SUIT BY MEDART HEIRS

Husband Says She Has Canceled St. Louis Vaudeville Engagement to Escape Service.

ADMITS SHE GOT MONEY

Declares Rich Business Man Died Before He Could Keep Promise to Cancel Note.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 4.—John J. Collins, theatrical producer and vaudeville booking manager, today said he would contest the suit of the William Medart estate of St. Louis against Mrs. Collins for $4000.

"It is true my wife borrowed the money from Mr. Medart and that she gave him the note, but last September when he was in New York for the baseball games, he told her in my presence that he would make her a present of the note on the occasion of her birthday," said Collins.

"Mr. Medart was the uncle of my wife's first husband. He came to see us every time he was in New York and I know he meant to cancel the note, which was drawn in 1910.

Cancels Her St. Louis Date.

"It is likely that the note would have been destroyed by Mr. Medart on his return to St. Louis if he had not died soon after his arrival there. My wife, who is heading a vaudeville act in Washington, has communicated with her attorney, James W. Osborne, and I am prepared to spend as much money as the note calls for to establish her right.

"In order to avoid service of papers, I have canceled my wife's engagement in St. Louis, April 20. We are willing to have the case tried in New York if that can be done. Mrs. Collins did not learn until Wednesday that her St. Louis bank account had been attached."

Mrs. Collins was married three times. Her second husband was Louis J. Winch of Philadelphia.

Sued by Medart Heirs.

Collin's wife was sued in the Probate Court in St. Louis, April 1, by the heirs of William Medart, for $4052.21, alleged to be due on a promissory note for $5000 given by her to Medart in February, 1910. Her name, as given in the petition, is Dorothy Regel. She was formerly the wife of Fred H. Regel of St. Louis.

Medart, who was president of the Medart Patent Pulley Co., is alleged to have advanced the money to Mrs. Regel while she was in financial difficulties, after the death of her husband. After her husband died, her home on Laclede avenue was robbed of jewels valued at $5000 while she was dining downtown with Medart. It was said, at the time, Medart had given her the jewels.

A. J. Hirsch, attorney for the Medart heirs, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Medart advanced her the $5000 represented by the note because of his friendship for Regel.

WILL DISCUSS "BETTER BABIES" IN CONFERENCE

Circulation of Literature Dealing With Subject Has Aroused Library Association.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—"Better babies" will be one of the subjects discussed at the conference of the American Library Association here, May 25 and 30, because of the educational campaign conducted by Samuel H[illegible] in charge of the Public Library at Grand Rapids, Mich.

For some time the librarian has circulated slips to mothers whose names appear on the official birth register of his city, giving the names of all books and magazine articles in the library dealing with the care of babies.

So much interest was aroused among the mothers that all this class of literature has been in continuous circulation and the Library Association sees possibilities in his plan.

STEPFATHER WILL PLEAD GUILTY AND SAVE GIRL

Robert Higgins Is Ready to Admit Killing His Wife to Marry Her Daughter.

GALESBURG, Ill., April 4.—Robert Higgins, charged with killing his wife so that he could marry his stepdaughter, Julia Flake, has decided to plead guilty, State's Attorney John M. Wilson announces. Higgins has asserted heretofore he would oppose the charge, although the authorities are said to hold his confession, made on the day of the arrest.

Julia Flake, the 15-year-old stepdaughter, may escape prosecution, although the State's Attorney would not say positively she would be exempted.

The Mercer County grand jury, which will consider the murder case, will meet next Monday.

UNDERWOOD AND HOBSON END PRIMARY CAMPAIGNS

Alabama Candidates for U. S. Senate Each Hold Rallies.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 4.—Rallies in Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, the State's largest cities, and in numerous smaller cities and towns, tonight closed the campaign of Congressman Oscar W. Underwood and Richmond Pearson Hobson, candidates for the Democratic nomination for the United States senatorship at Monday's primaries. The largest vote ever polled in Alabama is expected.

500,000 ILLINOIS WOMEN EXPECTED TO VOTE TUESDAY

They Will Attempt in Local Option Elections to Knock Out Old John Barleycorn.

CHICAGO OFFICES SOUGHT

Several Women Are Out for Alderman, 1 Opposing 'Bath House' John Coughlin.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Homan's influence in State and city politics in Illinois will come next Tuesday in the struggle for aldermanic honors in Chicago and the assault on John Barleycorn throughout the State. It is estimated that 500,000 women will vote in the election.

About 210,000 are registered in Chicago. The saloon question is not an issue in the city. The remaining 300,000 registered women voters are scattered through the 101 counties outside of Cook. As the liquor issue stands now, one-half of the counties are dry. The pending fight is on township petitions for local option.

The women are aroused all over the State and are two to one in favor of giving "red eye" a black eye. It is confidently predicted that Springfield, Danville, Elgin, Joliet, Rockford, Bloomington and other strongholds of rum will be carried by storm.

The women in the State capital have marshaled their forces in great numbers. The registration of women in Springfield is about 10,000, which is 70 per cent of the male registration. The same conditions prevail in the other cities named. The women's clubs and other organizations have been a large factor in bringing out the vote.

"Wet" and "Dry" Arguments.

The entire State is being threshed over by "wet" and "dry" orators. The argument of the "wets" is that a "good" town that votes out the saloon will be a "dead town" thereafter. Examples to support this assumption are pointed out as the result of previous elections in which John Barleycorn was worsted. "The drys" base their assaults on the destruction, waste and inefficiency they say is caused by the sale of liquor in a community of industrial workers.

In Chicago the women's registration is approximately two-thirds of the male registration. The figures are 210,000 to 460,000. Several women have entered the fight for Alderman.

Miss Marion Drake, a former court stenographer, is giving "Bath House" John J. Coughlin a merry whirl in the First Ward. Coughlin is finishing his eleventh term as Alderman, a continuous record of 22 years. Miss Drake is running as a Progressive. She is also opposed by P. L. Orme, a Republican.

Coughlin is strong with the saloons and lodging houses. Next to the big hotels, salooning is the greatest industry in the First Ward. Coughlin's normal majority over Republicans has heretofore been about 15,000. The Municipal Voters' League says of him: "Insurance broker and other sources of income. Has a notorious record. One of the original gray wolves."

"Bath House" Denounced.

It is not believed that Miss Drake can overcome his strength in the ward. She is backed by all the club organizations in the city and is making a warm fight. She denounces "Bath House" as a promoter of vice. Coughlin is wealthy. His insurance business, Miss Drake asserts, is but a cloak to hide his real business, which is a participation, she alleges, in the wages of sin.

She has raised the cry that made Croker quit—"Where did he get it?"

Coughlin has all the lodging houses filled with his constituents.

"I'll beat that skirt by 8000," he confidently asserted last night.

He is already said to have spent $10,000 in his fight. His picture, bordered with shamrocks and printed in green, is in every saloon. He has 100 men, most of them on city payrolls or expected to be, working hard for him.

"I am for women, but not in politics," Coughlin says. "If they had good homes or a bunch of kids they would not be chasing around trying to grab something they are unfitted for. I don't think that more than half who are registered will vote."

Miss Drake aroused his anger this week by sending out 1232 suspect notices. These are supposed to expose illegal voters.

"Bath House" gained his nickname because he owned a Turkish bath when he was first elected Alderman. Then he turned his attention to manipulating corporations and the city treasury.

Coughlin Wrote a Song.

Coughlin obtained notoriety by writing the song, "Dear Midnight of Love," which he bestowed on May de Sousa on her first appearance on the stage. As a worker for special privilege, he has all other "wolves" in the City Council beaten to a pulp. He does not try to mask his work, but rather glories in it. He confronts the public with "What are you going to do about it?" For 22 years the public has found it can do nothing.

"Hinky Dink," Michael Kenna, the side partner of "Bath House" in City Council seats and politics, is working hard for his friend because, he says, "A skirt has butted in." They have a fine machine. It will be Hinky Dink's turn next year. He, too, is wealthy. Two successful saloons in the First Ward are a part of his assets. One is for hoboes and the other for men of higher class. Kenna obtained his sobriquet when he was a newsboy.

In the Twelfth Ward, which also is Democratic, Mrs. Berenice Naperlaski is running on a Progressive ticket. She is a club woman and is backed by her Polish countrywomen. It is not believed she can win.

Clubs Supporting Woman.

In the Seventeenth Ward Mrs. Harriet Vittum, head of the Northwestern University Settlement Work, is running on a nonpartisan ticket. She is supported by the Chicago Commons and the Woman's clubs. Mrs. Vittum's ward is likewise Democratic, and the vote for the old party is so heavy it is not considered that her chances are bright. The three women candidates are indorsed by all the reform organizations.

In the Twenty-Ninth Ward Miss Mary McDowell, head of the University of Chicago Settlement, is making a bitter fight on Frank McDermott, Democratic candidate. He is a reactionary with affection for corporations.

Miss McDowell has wide influence in the ward, and it is expected that she will defeat McDermott by throwing her influence for the other candidate, Frank Bussein. She also has a club ready for Congressman T. J. McDermott, if he offers himself again as a candidate.

FIGHT BY "DRYS" IN COLLEGE TOWN

Women of Lebanon, Ill., are taking the lead in a campaign to drive the saloons out of that town, which is the seat of McKendree College. The question is to be voted on at a township election Tuesday at which it is expected that practically all the women in the township will vote.

The women's campaign has been carried on by the Civic League of Lebanon. The members have made a complete house-to-house canvass, urging all the women to vote and showing them how. Many public meetings have been held, at which addresses have been delivered by imported and local speakers.

Squads of college students have been out every night tacking up "dry" placards to posts and trees. These have been promptly torn down by the "wets" until a warning of prosecution by the Civic League put a stop to it.

There are a dozen saloons in Lebanon. An attempt was made about five years ago to vote them out. The wets won then by a close margin. With the women voting this time it is conceded by many that the drys are almost certain to win. The wets have made no organized defensive campaign. If the township votes dry the saloons will be not only driven out of Lebanon but out of Summerfield, which is in Lebanon township. There are several saloons in Summerfield.

Relays of women are to be near the polling places all day to explain to women how to vote dry and vehicles are to be used to get all the dry voters to the polls. Classes are to be suspended at McKendree College so that the students can aid in various ways.

There is at present only one dry spot in St. Clair County. That is at Marissa.

NURSERIES NEAR POLLS FOR BABIES OF WOMEN VOTERS

The women of Madison County, Ill., will ride to the polls in carriages and automobiles next Tuesday when they go to cast their first votes in the township elections.

The politicians who are shaping the destinies of four parties asking for township offices, and the leaders of the campaign for and against local option, realize that the women hold the balance of power and will use every effort to secure their support.

Mrs. Charles Foiles, president of the W. C. T. U. in Granite City, said yesterday that the dry forces would hire carriages to get the full vote out, and that nurseries would be established near each polling place where women could leave their babies while they went to vote.

An officer of the Personal Liberty League, conducting the fight against local option, said the league expected to use automobiles and carriages to get their voters to the polls.

The strong fight being made by Editor Cassidy of Granite City, candidate for Supervisor of Venice Township, against the faction now in control, and the spirited contest between the "wets" and the "drys" insures the polling of a large vote. The local optionists and the "antis" are both claiming victory.

C. H. Kunneman, secretary of the Personal Liberty League, says Nameoki Township will go wet, and that the "wets" will carry Venice Township 3 to 1.

Mrs. H. F. Butler, member of the Home Protective League, said a poll of Nameoki township indicated a "dry" victory there, and she believed Venice township would go "dry," though by a smaller majority.

Mrs. Butler told how "wet" advocates, posing as "dry," have in reality been instructing the women how to vote "wet" under the pretext they were telling the way to vote "dry."

The local option ballot reads: "Are you in favor of local option?" "Yes." "No."

Persons wanting to vote for the proposition will mark a cross after the "Yes," those voting against it will mark a cross after the "No."

Mrs. Butler said that when the "wet" campaigners called on a woman who was known to favor local option, they would tell her they had been sent around to instruct the women how to vote "dry," and say the women must vote "No" if they wanted no saloons. A "No" vote, in reality, means a vote for the saloons.

"The 'wet' campaigners have made a thorough canvass," Mrs. Butler said, "and in making a house-to-house campaign we found several women who said they were going to vote with us, but who would have voted 'wet' ballots if we had not corrected them."

The "drys" will close their campaign with a mass meeting in the Niedringhous Memorial Church in Granite City Sunday night.

Kunneman said Saturday night the "wet" campaign was closed.

"Wet" and "Dry" Campaigners in Alton Are Busy.

In the campaign of the "wets" and "drys" for supremacy in Alton at the city election next Tuesday, meetings will be held by both sides today and tomorrow.

Tonight a mass meeting will be held by the "drys" in the Temple Theater, at which Mayor J. O. Bacheldor of Marion, O., will speak. The Rev. C. W. Reese, leader of the "dry" campaign, will speak.

John Emerson Roberts of Chicago will speak in the Temple Theater tomorrow night on behalf of the "wet" cause.

WHITES ASK NEGRO WOMEN TO DEFEAT COLORED CANDIDATE

Leaders of the several tickets in the field for the aldermanic election, Tuesday, in East St. Louis, it was learned from several sources yesterday, are in the position of having to make a trade with the negro women's vote, numbering about 1000 out of a total of 3200 women registered, if they are to be successful in preventing the election, in the Second Ward, of the negro candidate, A. D. Woods. If the feminine negro vote is thrown to Woods, it is freely conceded, he will win easily.

From the same source it was learned that the negro women are virtually a unit in their desire to have a white woman appointed on the School Board at the next election and the story in circulation Saturday night was that the active leaders on the Economy, Improvement, Socialist and Independent Municipal tickets were endeavoring to induce the negro women to vote against Woods on the promise they would use their influence later to place a woman on the School Board. There is only one other ticket, the Independent, and it has one candidate and he is Woods.

Woods in Several Races.

Woods has been in the aldermanic race at several elections and two years ago he lacked only 72 votes of winning. Candidates and leaders were trying to convince the negro women, it was said, that Woods could accomplish little in the aldermanic body if elected and that the combined influence of leading men to place a white woman on the School Board would serve more effectually their purposes than the election of the negro as Alderman.

The Women's Civic Federation of East St. Louis is taking no part in the campaign of a partisan nature, the officials urging upon women the advisability of using their own judgment in voting, regardless of political affiliations of the male members of their families.

Mrs. Robert J. Boylan, secretary of the federation, said the sole aim of the organization was to interest the women in the election to the extent of registering, March 17.

She had hoped that a total of 5000 would be shown, but the inclement weather on registration day reduced this number to about 3200. She expected that there would be nearly a full women's vote and emphasized that it would be strictly nonpartisan.

Only 3200 Have Registered.

East St. Louis never has seen the time when the women were held in the polite deference that has been everywhere manifested the past few weeks. Candidates and their friends have found reasons to pay social visits to men in their homes whom they had not called upon before, solely for the purpose of sounding the wives on the election. Men have taken an unusual interest in young women, who are registered and who formerly attratcted little attention from them.

Tuesday's election in East St. Louis will be for eight Aldermen, one Chief Supervisor, 10 Assistant Supervisors and one Assessor.

A. J. & P. ELECTRIC LINE IS ORDERED SOLD BY RECEIVER

Owners of Alton and East St. Louis Interurban Expected to Bid It In.

The Alton, Jacksonville & Peoria Railroad, an electric line which ruined several families financially and caused an unprecedented amount of litigation without ever reaching its original terminus, is about to pass into new hands.

The last obstacle in this direction was removed yesterday when Judge Hadley in the Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville, authorized the sale of the road by the receiver, Frank L. Butler.

About 40 of the bondholders of the road, represented by a committee composed of J. C. Van Riper, W. C. Fardyce, George L. Edwards and W. V. Delahunt of St. Louis, and C. A. Caldwell of Alton joined with the receiver in asking for a sale to wind up the affairs of the road.

It is anticipated the line will, in the course of the six weeks necessary to legalize its transfer, pass into the hands of the Clark Brothers or Philadelphia, who control the properties of the East Side Electric System, including the lines of East St. Louis, Belleville, the Tri-Cities, Alton, and the connecting interurban lines. It will then become a feeder for the Alton, Granite & St. Louis Traction Co.'s line.

Dream of Two Bankers.

The road was the dream of two Jerseyville bankers, A. O. Auten and A. W. Cross, both of whom are dead. When most of the communities on the East Side had been linked with electric lines and there seemed no prospect of Jerseyville being brought within this circle, they decided they themselves would give their home town this benefit, and the road was organized. A half million dollars of the Cross fortune eventually was lost in the promotion.

It was planned to build between Alton and Jerseyville, with extensions to Jacksonville and Peoria later if the line proved profitable, although more than a million dollars was expended in the effort. The first rails were laid northward from Alton. Two years were required to get the line to Godfrey, the next town north of Alton. Ruinous fees were paid for floating bond issues, and most marvelous examples of mismanagement were testified to before the special master who heard the receivership procedings.

A few miles at a time the road was dragged over the bluffs toward Jerseyville, but before the city could be reached the City Council canceled the franchise, and the line was stopped just where it is today—three-quarters of a mile from the business center of Jerseyville. One element of citizens thought the line would take business away from the town and they still are active in keeping it out the city.

E. M. Davis Takes Up Management.

After the death of Cross, his widow, Mrs. Anna B. Cross, turned over the management of the estate to her son-in-law, Edgar M. Davis, then living at 24 Kingsbury place, St. Louis. This management included his election to the presidency of the railway company.

He was also president of a fire insurance company in St. Louis. He was a member of prominent clubs, and had a high position in financial affairs until in October, 1911, suits were filed against him by tradesmen for a total amount of less than $1000.

His fall then was rapid. Within a week he was accused by a liquidating committee of appropriating $29,000 of the assets of the insurance company, and in a few days the railway company went into the hands of receivers.

Mrs. Cross continued to believe in his integrity and turned over $300,000 of real estate securities to cover notes bearing her signature, reducing herself to a position of almost poverty. Davis went to California. A year ago Mrs. Cross was induced to go before a grand jury in Jersey County, where her story was told. Davis was indicted on a charge of embezzling $300,000 from the estate. He returned and denied his guilt, declaring that the estate was encumbered to its full value when he took charge of it, and that he had only attempted to save it. Two weeks ago Davis was again indicted in Jersey County, the new indictment charging embezzlement of $500,000 from the estate.

In September, 1911, Butler was appointed receiver of the railway company and succeeded in realizing on $100,000 worth of receiver's certificates, with which the rails were laid to the present terminus at the Jerseyville City limits. These certificates and $3000 interest on them are due July 1 next and there is no money to meet them. Since Butler has been in charge of the property, the receipts have been $80,707, and the operating expenses $70,315. The latter figure does not include taxes, interest, receiver's salary, attorney's fees, or other items which are figured in the expense. Butler never has received a cent for his services as receiver. He assured the court the road was deteriorating rapidly and needed $40,000 worth of repairs right now.

Pocket Full of Bills.

Three bushel baskets full of claims against this line are in the archives of the Circuit Court. After many months of hearings before Thomas Williamson as special master a tentative agreement was reached by creditors to pool their issues, have a sale and realize what they could. There was, therefore, no contention at the court hearing Saturday.

The A., J. & P. is 21 miles long and operates one car an hour. It cost $500,000 in material, labor and equipment, and as much more in discounts, brokers' fees and current rentals.

A definite offer for the system by the Clark Brothers, to whom much money is due for furnishing power, is understood to have preceded the determination to sell. There is likely to be little competition in the bidding for the line, but through the sale the dream of the builders is likely to be realized, as the Clarks intend to extend and improve the line and put regular service in effect.

One of the first things to be done with it, it is anticipated, will be to construct a spur to Piasa Chautauqua. L. C. Haynes, vice-president and general manager of the Clarks' interests, T. W. Gregory, the secretary, and other principal officers have summer cottages there, and have long had in mind electric service to Piasa, which is now reached only by train or boat.

KENYON OPENS FIGHT ON SECRET SENATE SESSIONS

Offers Resolution Forbidding Executive Meetings Except on Treaties or by Consent of All.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Open war was declared in the United States Senate today against the time-honored rule of secrecy relating to proceedings in executive sessions.

Following the defiance expressed by several Senators in closed session Friday against suppressing debate on the confirmation of Wisthrop M. Daniels, of New Jersey, as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, actual hostilities began when Senator Kenyon of Iowa today introduced a resolution to provide for open sessions on all matters except treaties, unless otherwise directed by unanimous consent of the Senate.

Resolution Sent to Committee.

The resolution proposing to amend the rules and which was referred to the Committee on Rules, read:

"Resolved, that it is the judgment of the Senate that all executive sessions shall hereafter be open to the public except when treaties are considered or when the Senate by unanimous consent orders otherwise; and the Committee on Rules is directed to prepare such amendments to the present rules, or to prepare new rules, or both, as may be necessary to carry out the terms of this resolution and present the same to the Senate for action thereon."

The resolution was submitted with the backing of Senators LaFollette, Cummins, Gronna, Borah, Clapp, Jones, Bristow, Norris and Poindexter who propose, as they gave notice Friday, to discuss freely executive session debates on the qualifications of nominees for public office whenever they feel that the public should be informed regarding them. These Senators were united today in the anti-secrecy campaign and all declare themselves without fear of any attempt being made to unseat them on the ground that they are violating the oath of office.

Even Senators who adhere to the most strict interpretation of the Senate rules admitted that the Senate could not punish members who disclose information relating to presidential appointments, agreeing that observances of secrecy was a matter appealing to the "individual conscience."

Administration leaders and Republican Senators who long have cherished the dignity of Senate procedure expressed the view today that no action would be taken at this session of Congress at least. If Senators wish to make public debates concerning presidential nominees, it was stated, they would be privileged to do so without endangering their seats.

Trouble has been brewing for many months over executive session secrecy and an upheaval was threatened recently during debates on the general arbitration treaty with Great Britain. In that debate Senators Root and O'Gorman engaged in a wordy controversy over the purposes of the Carnegie endowment for international peace.

What the Senators said on this point was widely published and in subsequent executive sessions a resolution was introduced by Senator Kern, the majority leader, directing an inquiry by the Foreign Relations Committee into the manner in which information regarding secret proceedings is made public. It was referred to the Rules Committee, where it since has reposed, no action having been taken.

Ever since that resolution was submitted there has been a suppressed undercurrent of feeling against secret proceedings.

AUCTION SALE OF LOTS IN HADLEY PARK TODAY

Twenty-Seven Tracts Will Be Sold — Subdivision Was Opened Two Years Ago.

An auction sale of the remaining 27 lots in Hadley Park will be held today under the auspices of Charles F. Vogel, with A. R. Schellmeyer as auctioneer.

The tract, bounded by King's highway, Gravois avenue, Loughborough and Korn avenues, is one of the most attractive popular priced subdivisions in Southwest St. Louis.

There are granitoid walks, sewers, water and gas mains, all of which will be included in the price at which the lots are sold.

Although the tract was placed on the market only two years ago, it is well built up with substantial little homes. The sale will be made without reserve to the highest bidders.

WILL FIX MILK PRICE

Illinois Producers to Confer With St. Louis Dealers.

Directors of the Southern Illinois Milk Producers' Association were authorized at Edwardsville yesterday to determine, with the St. Louis wholesalers, the price of milk to Oct. 1.

The proposition of the producers opening their own supply station in St. Louis and entering into active competition with the big dairies was again broached, and some officers thought this eventually would be done. The association has agreements covering the shipments of 20,000 gallons a day into St. Louis.

FORMER MAYOR COTTERILL AND MAYOR GILL.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 4.

IRAM CHARLES GILL, Seattle's great political curiosity, the man who within three years after he been recalled from the Mayor's of that municipality so reversed sentiment that he was returned office by the heaviest majority y ever cast, has become the most r executive this city has ever Other cities of the Northwest lling on him to make public ad without stint and already, less one month after he was inaugu he is being talked of for the gov ship of the State.

Taxes would be , they prophesied, while the ipal projects, such as the water and the light and power plant, be ruined and sacrificed to the tory corporations.

the recalled Mayor's inaugura early in March for a new tenure office he has successfully demon d the absurdity of each of these tions. From a financial wreck, stoop-shouldered, frail-looking peering from behind gold-rimmed tacles and puffing at a corncob he has become the real people's pion; he has been magnified into most powerful single factor in the west metropolis.

Fight on Him Began.

IOR to 1910 Gill had served long and honorably in the City Coun il, both as member and as Pres of the body. During a period when of his colleagues were held in ion because of changes in popular , he was never attacked. At the of the period, although he had a living wage from the city, in to his occasional fees from the he was practically a poor man.

the spring of the year which fol the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Expo Gill suceeded in obtaining the lican nomination for the mayor for the first time. He defeated A. eallion, who had been Superintend of Public Utilities during a pre administration.

Democratic nominee proved to be William Hickman Moore, a for Mayer and prominent attorney. In for the majority in the general , Gill took an avowed stand fa the withdrawal of questionable from hotels and apartments and ting a certain section of the city these characters would be com to reside.

ttle is a seaport town, with nearly inhabitants; at its wharves touch ercial fleets of the entire world; it is the Puget Sound Navy Yard its Pacific reserve fleet, its thou of bluejackets and marines; and northward is Alaska. campaign resulted in the elec tion of Gill by a substantial ma jority. C. W. Wappenstein was Chief of Police, Wappenstein hav been a former Pickerton man and of Police of several large cities, Seattle, for one term. The Post-Intelligencer, the only morn ewspaper of the city, Republican tics at the time, had supported for the mayoralty after he had se the Republican nomination, but any degree of warmth. Erastus rd was its editor.

ugh Wappenstein had been Chief e of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition in the preceding year, Editor Brainerd was not friendly, and while Gill was in Alaskan waters on a vacation trip in the fall of 1910, had Wappenstein removed from office by the acting Mayor, Max Wardall, President of the City Council. Gill received word of the eruption and hurried back, reinstating his appointee over the objections of the editor. A recall was demanded and an organization formed to push it.

Under the recall law it was possible to pay solicitors a fixed sum for each name obtained for the recall petitions. Hired workers were placed on the city streets and after considerable disturbance managed to get the number required to force an election. Since the spring municipal election a law had been enacted by the State Legislature giving women general suffrage, and these responded to the appeal that they use the new power for the first time by defending their "homes and daughters" against Gill and the "vice syndicate." They formed active organizations and in conjunction with ministerial federations and welfare leagues promoted the fight on Gill.

George W. Dilling, a real estate dealer who was practically unknown, was selected as the man to make the race against the mayoralty incumbent at the recall election. Preachers in their pulpits thundered against Gill; the Rev. Mark A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle, the largest of its faith in the world, was among those strongest against Gill and what was styled as "Gillism."

The ballot, while not overwhelming, was decisive and Dilling was installed in the mayoralty chair.

Not Allowed to Serve a Year.

BY these successive steps the recall of Gill was accomplished less than 12 months after he had been inaugurated. Anathema was pronounced against him, and his name became almost a byword for "vicious interests." If anyone then had ventured to predict that Gill would ever be elected Mayor again, he would have been hooted as insane.

Dilling found little to do upon entering office except to remove Gill's appointees and replace them with men of his own picking. The man whom Gill had placed at the head of the lighting department was accused of being a minion of the traction syndicate and he gave way to a man within the department. The head of the Fire Department, a personal friend of Gill, was eliminated and Frank L. Stetson succeeded him. Claude G. Bannick, an honest but puritanical police officer, became Chief.

In the meantime, a grand jury had been called with a foreman who was prominent in Matthews' congregation. William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency and strong rival of the Pinkertons, appeared in Seattle and inquiry developed that he had been employed to investigate "vice" conditions by Dr. Matthews. The minister admitted the employment in a written statement.

As a result of the investigations indictments were returned against Wappenstein, former Chief, and against various other men, including members of the editorial force of the Evening Times, a newspaper which had supported Gill and was generally opposed to the morning rival. Although the latter indictments were speedily thrown out of court because of lack of evidence on the part of the prosecution, Wappenstein fared less successfully and after his first trial had resulted in a disagreement, was convicted at a second trial of accepting a bribe while Chief of Police.

Testimony against Wappenstein centered largely on two witnesses, who admitted that they had themselves violated the law and at least one of whom confessed to perjury. Wappenstein's attorneys were so confident of success that they did not argue the matter to the jury. As a result of the verdict, Wappenstein was sentenced to a term in the State Penitentiary, and after appeal to the Supreme Court of the State failed, was taken to prison to serve his sentence. He was subsequently pardoned by the present Governor, Ernest Lister, a Democrat.

Pendulum Swings Toward Him Again.

WHILE these developments were plunging the city into one turmoil after another and business was almost at a standstill, Dilling and Bannick instituted what became known as "the purity squad." It was alleged later that this organization had existed under Wappenstein, but if so it had failed to attract attention.

This was one heavy instrumentality in starting the pendulum swinging back towards Gill. The "squad" had as its mission the apparent cleansing of the city of undesirable women. Door-smashings became frequent; private homes were invaded; women alone on the streets after dusk were insulted. Much of the uproar, it was said, was due to the blundering methods of those comprising the "squad" rather than its actual purpose.

The 1912 mayoralty election approached and in the spring of that year Gill decided to fling his hat again into the ring and remove the disgrace that had been pressed upon him by the recall. He explained that he did not care so much for himself as he did for his young sons, for his wife and for his mother. Gill was the son of a prominent Wisconsin statesman who had served as Colonel with great honor during the Civil War.

Two other candidates appeared in the field, Thomas A. Parish, member of the State Tax Commission, and George F. Cotterill, Democrat and leading prohibition orator. The Post-Intelligencer had come into new hands; Erastus Brainerd had departed and Scott C. Bone, former president of the Gridiron Club of Washington, D. C., was now its editor-in-chief. The paper was still Republican in politics, but between the new editor and Col. Alden J. Blethen, editor of the Evening Times, there existed a cordial relationship which contrasted strangely with the bitterness between Col. Blethen and Brainerd.

He Tries Again, but Fails.

THE Post-Intelligencer supported Parish before the primaries, while the Seattle Star, a penny publication, took up the defense of Cotterill. The Times took the stand that since the municipal election had become nonpartisan because of legislative enaction by the State, it would support no one, and opened its columns to all three candidates. Cotterill and Gill survived the primaries, Gill leading all others.

The Post-Intelligencer joined forces with the Star in support of Cotterill and Gill waged a single-handed fight. "Gillism" was once more the issue, with women's and ministerial organizations behind Cotterill. In spite of these powerful opponents, Gill was defeated by a small total of 600 votes.

The election of Cotterill paved the way for the return of Gill to power in 1914. Soon after his inauguration Cotterill manifested Socialistic tendencies, permitting a horde of I. W. W.'s to parade through the business section May 1 with a red flag at the head. He was warned that trouble would ensue, but was persistent in his attitude. When the procession had gone for some distance, carrying a silken red banner and on the left an American flag roped so that it could not float, a group of veterans of the Spanish-American war plunged into the crowd and tore down the red flag.

Immediately Cotterill fell into general disfavor. The Times roundly scored him, and from that period on did not hesitate to oppose him and his policy of permitting soap-box orators to declaim from public thoroughfares throughout the business section. The city seemed drifting toward anarchy when the 1913 Potlatch celebration approached and Secretary of the Navy Daniels came to Seattle. The Pacific reserve fleet steamed into the bay and thousands of sailors came on shore for the festivities.

I. W. W. Riots a Factor.

A DELEGATION of citizens waited on Cotterill, pointing out that if the anarchists were permitted to orate during the Potlatch, trouble between them and the bluejackets would undoubtedly result. The Mayor refused to listen, and on the second night after the gold-ship opened the Potlatch, several men in uniform raised a row with an I. W. W. speaker. One of the sailors was stabbed.

Indignation rose to a white heat and on the following evening a crowd of sailors invaded the city and sacked all the I. W. W. and direct-action Socialist headquarters that could be found. When this had been accomplished the avengers disappeared and quiet reigned over the city.

Cotterill was greatly aroused by the entire disturbance and on the morning after it was all over, proclaimed the city in a state of riot, took personal command of the police and ordered that the Times be suppressed. A court order quickly compelled Cotterill to revoke his mandate as to the Times, but the "state of riot" did not terminate for several days.

If anything was needed to restore Gill, an admittedly patriotic man, to favor after the Potlatch riot, it was more than afforded by the renewal of the "purity squad" activities. The room of a youth recently arrived from Kansas was raided and the boy shot without cause; the waitress' union appealed to the City Council to prevent further insults at the hands of the "squad;" and suits aggregating thousands of dollars were filed by hotel keepers and outraged citizens against the city, the police and members of the "squad."

When the mayoralty campaign for 1914 approached considerable difficulty was encountered by the forces which had backed Dilling and Cotterill and now needed a new candidate to defeat Gill. A large number of applicants offered themselves and Austin E. Griffiths, member of the Council, was finally indorsed by the Ministerial Association.

The Star, which had supported Cotterill in 1912, refused to commit itself before the primaries except to denounce practically all of the candidates in the field. Particularly was it strong against J. D. Trenholme, chairman of the Democratic County Committee and the candidate of the business men. The Post-Intelligencer urged that either Griffiths or Trenholme be selected, while the Times took a nonpartisan attitude and opened its columns to all the candidates.

Old Enemies for Him.

GILL led at the primaries, with Trenholme second, and a Socialist a close third. Griffiths ran fourth. Immediately the Star entered the lists for Gill, while the Post-Intelligencer announced its indorsement of Trenholme. Erastus Brainerd, former editor of the latter newspaper, was back again in the city and in a strong letter came out in support of Gill, the man he had helped to recall three years previous.

Gill himself, in public statements, declared that he had no desire to see an "open" town; that the so-called "Gillism" was dead, and that he only wished to demonstrate that he could give the city the best administration in its history. In spite of this his opponents continued to fling at him echoes of his past, aided by a large campaign fund collected in behalf of Trenholme. Gill refused to have any speakers during the campaign and paid all his own expenses, borrowing approximately $1500. The business men's fund for Gill's opponent amounted to four times this amount.

On the eve of the election the Star called on Mayor Cotterill, former Mayor Moore and another disinterested citizen to investigate the campaign funds of the two candidates. The report showed that among the contributors to the Trenholme fund were head of the traction corporation and a prominent brewery man.

The majority rolled up for Gill astounded even his most optimistic supporters, exceeding 14,000 votes, while his total, 37,000, was the heaviest ever obtained by any candidate for the office.

Chooses Rival as Aid.

IMMEDIATELY upon his inauguration Gill added a second sensation by naming as his Chief of Police Austin E. Griffiths, the ministerial candidate for the mayoralty against himself. Griffiths accepted the office, and among the first announcements was the abolition of the "purity squad," received amid general rejoicing.

Gill made good his promises to maintain a "closed" town by ordering that cabaret shows be stopped in cafes and put into effect several other stringent ordinances which surprised even the most rigorous. He also did not remove either the Fire Chief, Stetson, who had been named by Dilling when Gill was recalled, or the superintendent of the lighting department, another Dilling appointee.

Gill was given a banquet by the business men who opposed him during the campaign and his corncob pipe was accorded the place of honor for the evening. He was hailed as the harbinger of a new era for Seattle; and in his quaint way he replied by notifying the business men that their influence in politics had ended. This contributed to his popularity, while he made himself solid with the laboring classes by taking early steps to terminate a strike between teamsters and employers.

Gill appeared on the night of March 21, when Seattle celebrated the signing of the Alaskan railroad bill, in the garb of a train conductor, directing a miniature "Alaska Special" train. His popularity was evidenced by cheers and applause that greeted him along the line of march.

London Suffragettes Who Try to Stop Speakers Are Saved From Mob by Police.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 4.—Suffragettes created a diversion during a Unionist demonstration in Hyde Park today and as a result "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond and the Misses Rogers and Virtue were arrested.

The women, 1000 strong, marched through the London streets to the park. Although the police had not given a permit for the procession, the women forced their way through the crowds gathered at the gates of the park. The paraders were waving the suffragette colors.

Immediately on their entrance to the park, crowds of rowdies charged them. For an hour a fierce fight was in progress, the police repeatedly interfering to save the women from the mob.

Miss Virtue was on the point of being thrown into the river when policemen got her out of the hands of her tormentors.

In the meantime Mrs. Drummond and other speakers, perched on the shoulders of male sympathizers, harangued the crowd, making a particular point of interfering with the Unionist speakers, William Coutts and William Joynson Hicks, both members of Parliament.

A delegation of 13 Americans, who refused to give their names, marched in the women's procession carrying the Stars and Stripes.

One of them was identified as Miss Weatherby of Portland, while their leader described herself as a daughter of a former Ambassador to Turkey.

"I have to maintain my former opinion—The Pianola is still the best, unsurpassable, supreme."

—PADEREWSKI

—And The Pianola—the world's greatest musical instrument, which the world's greatest pianist indorses in such decisive terms—may be had at a price so low and on terms so liberal that there is no longer any reason why this wonderful instrument should not be in homes even of most moderate income.

Steinway Pianola

This majestic instrument is a combination of the world-renowned Steinway piano with the player-action which Paderewski is pleased to call "the best, unsurpassable, supreme"—the crowning achievement in the history of musical instrument manufacturing. The Pianola makes you a musician instantly.

Analyze this name, "Steinway Pianola." Think what it means. In possessing this wonderful instrument the glorious soul of the Steinway is yours to command—yours to enjoy. You can mould its golden tones even as the masters. You become a musician in the fullest sense of the word.

Stroud Pianola

This, the latest creation of the great Aeolian organization of player and piano experts, has been deemed a masterpiece of perfection. Such great artists as Chaminade, Paderewski, Moskowski, Hoffman and others have been unstinted in their enthusiastic endorsement of its splendid tone qualities and delightful action.

The Stroud Pianola embodies every feature whereby music may be artistically produced, even by the veriest novice. You can perfectly reproduce the hand-playing of artists or interpret to please your own fancy. To see the Stroud Pianola is to understand and appreciate why we describe it so enthusiastically.

Do not confuse the name Pianola with the term "player-piano." The genuine Pianola is widely imitated, but do not be misled. The genuine Pianola can not be obtained in St. Louis elsewhere than at Aeolian Hall. Why be content with, or even consider, imitations when you can secure at Aeolian Hall a genuine Pianola piano for as little as .... $550 Terms: $3 a Week

GIANT RALLY IN LONDON PROTESTS ULSTER MEASURE

Prominent Unionists Address Crowds in Hyde Park and Denounce Use of Force.

DEMAND POPULAR VOTE

Twenty-Two Processions With Many Bands Gather to Cheer Peer Orators.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 4.—The widely heralded "rally" of Unionists, to protest against any coercion of Ulster, brought an enormous concourse of people to Hyde Park from all points of the compass today. Twenty-two processions with bands playing and banners flying converged on the central open space of London from as many different localities and mobilized around 14 platforms.

All the meetings were addressed by Peers and members of Parliament who never before had competed with the orators of various creeds and theories who customarily occupy the open air platforms.

The speakers fiercely denounced any attempt to "use the army and navy to drive out by force of arms our fellow subjects in Ireland from their full heritage in the Parliament of the United Kingdom."

Many Peers Speak.

Demands were expressed that the Government should immediately submit "this grave issue" to the people.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, Austin Chamberlain, a son of Joseph Chamberlain, Walter Long and such prominent Unionist Peers of Viscount Milner, the Earl of Selborne and Lord Londonderry as well as Lord Robert Cecil and Lord Charles Beresford, were among the speakers.

An attractive contingent in the procession was formed by a body of 5000 men, mostly from the Stock Exchange, Lloyds and other city institutions, which formed upon the Thames Embankment and then marched to the park, there taking a lively part in singing the hymn, "Oh, God, Our Help in Ages Past," and "God Save the King," which opened the proceedings.

Balfour Predicts Disaster.

Arthur Balfour, former Unionist Premier, who occupied the center platform, moved a resolution protesting against the use of the army and navy against Ulster and demanding an immediate general election on home rule. He declared:

"The Government is on the point of committing a great national crime. If the crime is committed, it will be followed by one of the greatest national disasters."

When bugles announced the time for taking a vote on the resolution, Sir Edward Carson sprang onto the wagon waving his Union Jack and calling for three cheers for the King. His act aroused wild enthusiasm in the vast gathering, which cheered for some minutes.

Premier Asquith Opens His Campaign for Re-Election in Scotland.

LADYBANK, Scotland, April 4.—Premier Asquith opened his election campaign this afternoon in the Masonic Hall of this little village. The hall is a diminutive building with a holding capacity limited to 300. Under these circumstances the speech of the Prime Minister was made to the 60 reporters present rather than to the delegates of the Scottish Liberal Associations, who filled the rest of the hall.

Elaborate telegraphic arrangements were made for the circulation of the Premier's address throughout the United Kingdom.

Notes a Grave Situation.

Premier Asquith said he had felt it to be his duty in the higher interests of both the army and the state to assume his new office "because a grave situation had been created both in regard to the discipline of the army and in connection with its relation to the civil power."

The Premier continued:

"There is a certainty that if things went on as they had threatened to do, a controversy would have arisen which every patriotic man would have been anxious to avoid until a case of crucial urgency arose."

Paying a tribute to the army, Premier Asquith declared:

"The British Army can be counted on, from the highest to the lowest rank without qualification or reserve, to undertake all the duties its obligations require it to discharge. The army is not, and I pray may never become a political machine. The army has no place and no voice in the making of our policy or the molding of our laws. The army will hear nothing of politics from me, and in return I expect to hear nothing of politics from the army."

Says Unity Will Come.

Mr. Asquith definitely refused the Unionist demand that the question of home rule should be submitted to the electors. He said:

"We believe it to be a wise and just measure. We have disclaimed and will continue to disclaim any submission of it to the country. None the less we are earnestly anxious if it is possible to work out a settlement.

"The local option proposal is not only fair but generous. For myself I repeat that I am anxious for peace. I close no door to a settlement, but peace—and I say this for both sides—must be peace with honor and in any settlement reached, we must secure the putting of a home rule bill for Ireland on the statute book. I firmly believe that in time there will be complete Irish unity."

Gets Big Ovation.

Before closing Mr. Asquith made a bid for labor support. He remarked: "With one exception, recent bye-elections have been lost by the Government through a split in the Progressive vote. It is time that state of things came to an end. We must not allow ourselves to be troubled by trivial differences. When united we are irresistible."

The Premier got a great ovation from crowds of excursionists who thronged the village from all parts of Scotland.

GORKY IS CURED BY ROENTGEN RAYS OF TUBERCULOSIS

Russian Novelist Writes He Has Recovered After Being Given Up as Doomed.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—Maxim Gorky, novelist, has been cured of tuberculosis by application of Roentgen Rays to his spleen, he asserts, in a letter to the newspaper, Russkoe Slove. The news has caused astonishment, no less than rejoicing, among the revolutionary writer's friends, who gave him up as doomed when he went to the south of Europe some months ago.

Gorky says that his release from consumption was accomplished by Dr. Manuhkin who, in examining him at Capri last October, found that both lungs had become affected. The X-rays were used four times, a preliminary application being made, to ascertain the nature and extent of the involvement. As soon as this was determined by an X-ray picture of the lungs it was resolved to turn the rays on the spleen. The theory of the doctor was that the X-ray emanation intensified natural elements into therapeutic agents.

Gorky, who was born in 1862, in North Russia, and who attempted suicide in 1888, wrote his first novel in 1892. In 1905 he was arrested at St. Petersburg as a "Red" and was first imprisoned, then exiled. When he went to Rome last fall, broken down and despondent, he was accompanied by Mme. Andreya, a friend. Then his wife went to Caperi and nursed him. The Czar pardoned him in January last and he returned to Moscow.

DR. JUDSON IN BERLIN

BERLIN, April 4.—Harry Pratt Judson, president of Chicago University, and Mrs. Judson are here on their way to China, by way of Siberia. Traveling with Dr. Judson is Dr. Francis Peabody of Boston.

Dr. Judson said he is on his way to China to make a careful study of health conditions, hospitals and surgical arrangements and especially of methods of handling the cholera. He expects to be away about a year. He wil report the results of his inquiries to the Rockefeller Commission, of which he is chairman. He was entertained on Tuesday by the Chinese Minister, Dr. Yen, who was educated at the University of Virginia.

He expects to return to his desk Monday.

NEW YORKERS TO TEACH PARIS LATEST DANCES

Rival Organizations Preparing to Introduce Tango Teas in French City.

PARIS, April 4.—It is reported that two prominent Tango organizations are coming from the United States to wage a campaign here, during the season and a later one at Deauville, they will bring a negro orchestra, to do the one-step and hesitation waltz and other novelties, which so far are unknown here.

Hiram Foster has announced that Philip Potter, a nephew of the late Bishop Potter, Dwight Partridge and James Dewnsberry are coming late in April to continue the supper dances of the Hotel Astor in New York style at the Hotel Majestic here. The list of patronesses is to be enlarged so as to include Mmes. William E. Corey, Eben Jordan, Berry Wall, John H. Hanan, J. Vail Converse, C. Forbes Conant and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson.

The representative of the rival tea and Tango syndicate who are here seeking a suitable hotel or garden restaurant for the season does not permit an announcement to be made, though he hopes to complete arrangements within a week.

Former Minister of Foreign Affairs Appeals for Panama Exposition Appropriation.

PARIS, April 4.—Gabriel Hanotaux, the ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, publishes in the Figaro this week a stirring appeal to the Chamber of Deputies to lose no time in voting liberal allowance for a French representation at the San Francisco Exposition.

He points out that all recent Cabinets have favored a liberal expenditure for this purpose, and the present Ministry is especially reminded its inaction is being due merely to the leathargy of Deputies who are absorbed in home politics pending the approaching elections.

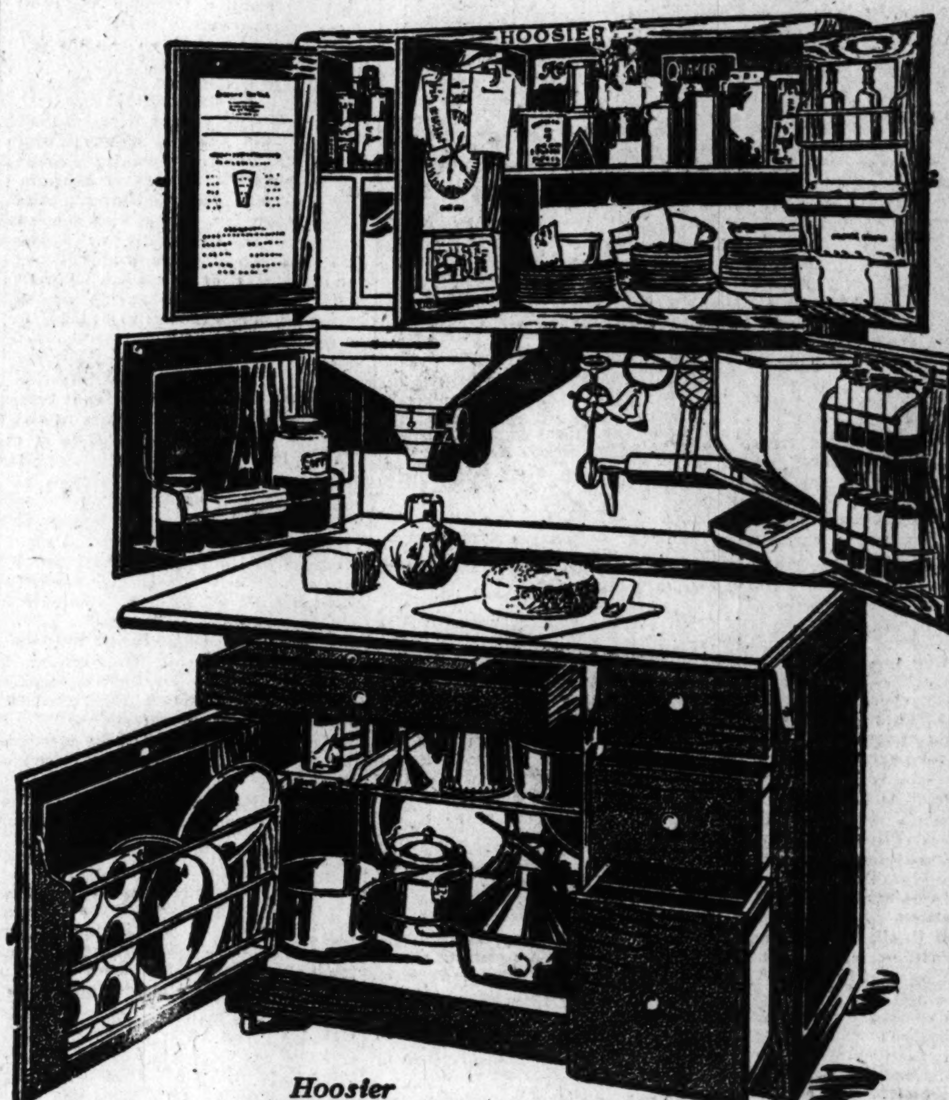
HOOSIER Cabinets Are Waging WAR on Out-of-Date Kitchens $1 Puts a Hoosier in Your Home If You Act NOW



Hoosier "White Beauty" ised in leading magazines

Here Are Three Questions You Must Consider Now

1. Should I be glad to have the NEW HOOSIER in my home—knowing that I now take miles of unnecessary steps?
2. Shall I order now while a single dollar puts it in my kitchen?
3. Shall I wait—knowing that delay will surely lose me the opportunity to benefit by the liberal terms of the HOOSIER PLAN?

Every woman who has seen this Hoosier has expressed surprise at the low price for this truly wonderful cabinet.

Here is the easy Hoosier Plan in detail:

1. $1 puts the Hoosier you select in your house.
2. $1 weekly quickly pays for it.
3. The Low Cash Price fixed by the factory prevails strictly.
4. No interest. No extra fees.
5. This sale is under direct supervision of the Hoosier Company.
6. Your money back if you are not delighted with your Hoosier.

As We Stated Yesterday—

the unusual terms of the Hoosier Plan must be limited to the present small allotment of cabinets. After that our regular terms must prevail.

TONIGHT SCORES OF WOMEN ARE ON THE VERGE OF DECIDING to buy Hoosiers now. Nearly all of them are reading this ad. Some will delay too long. Others will come tomorrow and decide. If enough come tomorrow, the sale will close. And your opportunity will be ended, unless you are one of those who come.

There can be no good reason for postponing decision. In five minutes you can make up your mind whether to buy now or later.

This is not merely a question of investing one small dollar for a few weeks. It is a question of your health and freedom from kitchen work. The only safe way to decide is to examine the cabinet in our store thoroughly tomorrow.

More Features that help make this new HOOSIER the greatest labor-saving machine you could put into your kitchen.

We have described already—

1. The Housekeeper's Food Guide.
2. The Cook-Book Holder.
3. The Metal 50-lb. Flour Bin.
4. The Wonderful Shaker Sifter.
5. The Metal Linen Drawer.
6. The "Emergency" Shelf.
7. The New Bill File.
8. The Handy Money Tray.
9. Eight Crystal Glass Spice Jars.
10. The New Condiment Cupboard.
11. The Sanitary Table Top.
12. The Convenient Pan Pocket.

Now notice these:—

Every feature listed and described has been thoroughly tested and proved practical in the Hoosier Experimental Room.

(13) At the top and on the right-hand side of the Hoosier is a handy package cupboard that holds forty or more packages, such as cereals, gelatin, baked beans, canned soup and other miscellaneous articles needed in preparing meals. This shelf is within easy reach.

(14) Just below the package pantry is the dish cupboard, holding 70 or more dishes. It is easy to keep the necessary dishes for your regular meals here, thus saving time and steps and adding much to the scientific system of your housekeeping.

(15) The Patented Clock for want-lists is praised daily by the hundreds of thousands of women who own Hoosiers. It has the names of all articles you ordinarily order for the household, arranged in circles with clock-hand indicators which can be set to point out the several needs. It is quickly manipulated and a great convenience.

If you will come into our Store and sit in front of a Hoosier you will appreciate these features to the fullest extent. Word descriptions cannot do them justice.

(16) The sanitary metal table top slides out 16 inches from the base, forming the handiest and most satisfactory base to work on known to any kitchen. Nothing sticks to its surface. It is cleaned with perfect ease.

40 Special Features 17 Entirely New

You should settle this matter now one way or the other. Why risk losing the chance to SEE these features themselves? Come down tomorrow, and look over each cabinet carefully and decide which contains the most features you need. Looking doesn't obligate you at all and it surely will help you to determine this matter fairly to yourself.

Out-of-town persons can buy the Hoosier at the same low price and on the same easy terms as people living in St. Louis. Write for catalog, list of prices and details of easy payment.

SPORTING SECTION — ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH — SPORTING SECTION

PART FOUR. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1914.

BROWNS SUBDUE CARDS IN THIRD GAME, 8-1

HUGH MILLER IS TERRIER STAR IN GAME WITH YANS

First Sacker Polls Four Hits and Helps Regulars Win, 11 to 4.

CRANDALL VS. KUEPPER

Both Pitchers Are Hit Hard, but Cold Weather Their "Alibi."

From a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MONROE, La., April 4.—Peace is once more established at the St. Louis Federals camp as the Mainstays braced themselves and trimmed the Leftovers, 11 to 4, in a free-hitting exhibition at Forsythe Park this afternoon.

The seconds claim an injustice was done them as both Crandall and Tobin, two of their stars, were picked by the regulars. Tobin replaced Kommers, who was an absentee, owing to an operation on his nose.

Pleased with the nine-inning showing of Bob Groom in the previous combat, Brown called on Keupper and Crandall to go the route. Neither showed above the ordinary. The seconds gave Keupper poor support, but the southpaw set them a poor example with two foozles. The "also-rans" hit Crandall intermittently, but with the exception of the fourth inning were unable to solidify their run-making ingredients. This marked the first victory for the Mainstays in four games played with the Leftovers and murder would have been committed had the result been otherwise.

Mathes Goes Hitless.

Every member of the regulars except Mathes tore into Keupper's left-handed serves. Hughey Miller proved the star of the entertainment with four raps in five times at bat. He scored twice, stole a base and sent in two runs. As usual, his defensive play was perfect. Boucher also contributed to the feast with a quarter dozen each of runs and hits. Mike Simon was the third member of the regs to better the two mark in hits. Four members of the Leftovers, Groom, O'Neil, Hartley and Gabriel, annexed a pair of blows each.

The day was almost too chilly for good ball, and as a result the heavers failed to exert themselves, this in a great measure accounting for the mediocre fielding.

Brown Against Signals.

Brown utilized the morning for signal plans. Practically every member gave his views on certain plays and in this manner many new schemes and trick-plays were evolved. Brown is opposed to many signs as he claims it diverts a man's mind from the game and he fails to think for himself. The afternoon game was devoted to sign work and as a result the score was held down considerably as the machine is far from smooth running.

A game is planned with the Monroe City leaguers for tomorrow afternoon though it is quite chilly. With less than a week's work in front of the squad, Brown expects to put in some exceptionally hard minutes.

BILL ABSTEIN TO WED LOCAL GIRL ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 4.—William H. (Bill) Abstein, first baseman of the Los Angeles baseball team, today obtained a marriage license to wed Miss Helen Hunt of St. Louis, tomorrow. Henry Berry, president of the Los Angeles club, accompanied Abstein to the courthouse today.

Abstein gave his age as 29. His bride to be is 19. Miss Hunt is expected to arrive from St. Louis early tomorrow morning. Their romance dates from the time Abstein was playing on the Pittsburg team and won the heart of the fair Miss Hunt while the Pittsburg club was battling on the diamond with the Cardinals.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Guess Again, Charles.

IF there's any other National League manager we'd rather NOT be than Miller Huggins it is Charley Herzog, who thinks he is going to run the Cincinnati Reds, this season.

"Thinks" is the right expression. For while Charles carries around the jockey's credentials, a Board of Directors will, as annually in the past, have the mount for this pennant race. Owgoost is no longer a resilient buffer between the front office and the ball field and the bumps will henceforth be handed direct to Charles, right from the board's shoulder.

Reconciling the Irreconcilable.

CHARLEY'S job has no answer. It's like squaring the circle, solving perpetual motion and fastening the crime on the inventor of the tango. To successfully lead the Reds out of the woods into first division, Herzog will have to Placate the Stein Gang.

Bow to the Board of Directors.
Surrender his own ideas.
Get about six real ball players.
And get all the best of the breaks.

And, in Addition—

BESIDES this, Charles must observe the time limit, which is one season or less. So far no reports have been given out as to Herzog's successor. But our early spring advance rumors are no doubt on the road now, and will be ready for display about the second week of the season.

Hey, Charley! You've No Cinch.

HERZOG, over and above all that's been said above, must learn how to play shortstop—to fill Tinker's shoes. They are SOME shoes, too; and it's doubtful if Charles' extremities can grow with sufficient rapidity.

That's about all Herzog has to do, according to himself, outside of—

Drilling catchers, watching new pitchers, re-arranging the infield, revamping the outfield, teaching the hook slide and keeping everybody in prime condition.

But, with it all, it's no cinch that last place will be left behind by the Rhinelanders. The following outfit is not calculated to arouse any ardent enthusiasm, save in the dome of Brother Bill Phelon, who recently let the Cincinnati public in on the "info" that the Reds "looked like first division:"

OUTFIELD — Marsans, Bates and Kellogg or Moran.
INFIELD — Hoblitzelle, Groh, Herzog and Niehoff, with Berghammer and Rawlings as substitutes.
CATCHERS — Clarke, Von Kolnitz, Gonzales, Blackburn and, maybe, Mellon.
PITCHERS — Ames, Benton, Yingling, Rowan, Johnson, Couchman, Adams and, maybe, Markle.

After reading this list the only thing left to do is say a few sad rites and drop a tear and a clod on all that remains of Cincinnati hopes.

The only encouraging thing about the roster is that only seven teams in the league appear to have a better line-up!

Which makes the Cardinals sure of seventh place! Gid-dap, Plato!

Watch Out for the Sox.

JIMMY CALLAHAN'S team is in great condition this year. It's lame arm has entirely recovered and its spitter has all its old-time stuff on it. Looks life first division for Walsh.

• • •

Our "Dope" on the Bull Moose.

OUR "info" slipster wires us the following line on Big Ed, as a pitching possibility, this season:

"You can bank on Walsh. The Big Moose had his first tryout of the year at Los Angeles, Saturday, March 28, in a game with the Venice Tigers. The veteran tested his pitching arm for five innings and found that he had all his old-time stuff.

"The first man to face Walsh poked a triple into right, but failed to score. Not another hit was made off him while he pitched.

"He did not seem to exert himself much, but put speed on when needed, with a hop to the ball that puzzled Tom Daly, the young Sox catcher who made the world's tour. Walsh found his famous spitball worked as well as ever and was as happy as a kid at the finish of the five innings, and said he did not feel any bad effects or soreness in his arm.

"Walsh pitched again Thursday at Abilene, Tex., for five innings. Two hits were made off him and no runs."

In the Same Class.

BRITISH periodicals maintain that one of the strong points about cricket is catching. So is diptheria, but that doesn't make us like it.

Slip Them Their Bit, Roge.

Roger Bresnahan is indulging in the luxury of 200 pounds avoirdupois this spring, and the comfortable feeling that his contract and that little $555.56 twice each month are perfectly discharge-proof. He may add to his self-satisfaction the knowledge that he will probably not have to work in more than 30 games or so this season, which is leading the life of a petted favorite of fortune.

And to what does Roger owe all this? Why, to none other than the little old Federal League. Roger draws big pay for little work and could not be carried by the Cubs, at the present figures, were it not that Organized Baseball fears the outlaws would immediately grab an experienced and capable leader.

The Evil of the System.

BRESNAHAN'S case is a sample of an evil which ought to be corrected by the magnates of the game. Here we find 200 pounds of caged energy going to waste on the bench, because of a dog-in-the-manger theory that what I can't use, you can't have.

Any waste is sinful and the crimes against economy that are chargeable to National Agreement baseball would be a capital crime, if reduced to loaves of bread and pounds of meat.

Spring Series Dope.

THE Philadelphia National League Club is supposed to be a hopeless wreck. The outlaws grabbed:

Half its pitching staff, Seaton and Brennan.
All its vim and vitality, Otto Knabe.
The other half of its inner defense, Mike Doolan.
And the goat of Bill Killifer.

'Tsnuff to wreck the ambition as well as the performance of any team. Yet lo, and behold! In the very first vernal clash, the Quakers wallop the world's champion Athletics, 4 to 0.

And yet they bet on baseball in the spring!

Mr. Mack in No Hurry.

CORNELIUS McGILLICUDDY, the human filament, is evidently not out to make a runaway race of the American League pennant. He holds that it is better to let a club come on, in development, and gradually attain its top form, than to send it away from the post at top speed.

In this case, by a "fortunate circumstance," Connie's theory conforms perfectly to the best interests of the American League exchequer, which would suffer from premature emaciation if the world's champions won the pennant by July, as they seem about able to.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. DAVIS.

Ode to Matty.

"I MAY have grown a trifle slow,
But I am still as clever;
For pitchers come and pitchers go,
But I go on forever.

"The batter's weakness I observe,
And usually land him;
For when he's looking for a curve,
A fadeaway I hand him.

"When he expects a drop, to crack,
I hand him up a straight one;
Again, I make him break his back
By smashing at a late one.

"I wind 'em in, I wind 'em out—
Across the pan I twist 'em;
And batters find it hard to clout,
My ever varied system.

"But now and then a raw recruit,
With whom I'm unacquainted,
Will soak a fast one on the snoot
To where the Bull is painted.

"Anon I run across a gink
Who is a trouble-maker,
And puts my record on the blink,
Like one J. Franklin Baker.

"It seems no matter how I try
I cannot fool or balk him;
Hereafter, when I face that guy,
I'll simply have to walk him.

"To give the best I have in stock
Is always my endeavor;
For men may boost, or men may knock,
But I pitch on forever."

Fable of How the Camel Got His Hump.

A RICH MAN was riding a CAMEL over the desert one day, when they came to a NEEDLE sticking upright in the sand and blocking the way. Rather than go around it, the CAMEL passed right on through the eye of the NEEDLE. But it was such a tight fit the RICH MAN was scraped off and, falling to the ground, received several severe contusions.

This so enraged the RICH MAN that, seizing a club, he brought it down on the CAMEL with such terrific force that it raised a large hump right in the middle of the CAMEL'S back.

"Now," said the RICH MAN, "I'd like to see you go through the eye of a needle with that hump on your back."

Whereupon the CAMEL went to the gatekeeper of the K. of H. and told him that if the RICH MAN, of whom he gave an accurate description, should apply for admission not to let him in, as the ticket he held was BOGUS.

MORAL: Be kind to animals, especially Camels.

YANKEES WIN THIRD GAME FROM SUPERBAS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 4.—The New York Americans took the lead in the inter-borough series with the Brooklyn Nationals today by winning the third game six to one. Cook's batting and Sweeney's throwing were features of the game. Score:

LARRY DOYLE HITS HOME RUN WITH BASES FULL

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—Piling up seven runs after two men were out in the fifth, the New York Nationals today defeated the New Orleans (Southern Association) team, 7 to 6. Dolye got a home run with the bases filled. Score:

New York, 7, 10, 1; New Orleans, 6, 5, 6. Batteries—Marquard, Hearne and McLean; Bagby, Peddy and Higgins.

Reds Rout Walter Johnson.

CINCINNATI, April 4.—Cincinnati played its first home game of the season here today and defeated the Washington American leaguers in the initial game of a two-game series, 5 to 3. Score:

Cincinnati, 5-5-0; Washington, 3-9-2. Batteries—Johnson, Davenport and Clark; Shaw, Altrock and Ainsmith.

COURT ENJOINS CAMNITZ FROM SIGNING PIRATES

Arkansas Judge Holds That Property Rights of Pittsburg Club Should Be Protected.

INJUNCTION IS PERMANENT

Temporary Order Is Sustained After Dreyfuss Exhibits Contracts.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 4.—Organized baseball won a notable victory here today when Chancellor J. P. Henderson rendered a decision in the injunction proceedings between the Federal League and the Pittsburg National League club, made permanent the injunction granted previously to the National League club against interference by the Federal League with players under contract with the Pittsburg club.

The decision came after a three days' hearing in Chancery Court with a big array of legal talent representing S. H. Camnitz of the Pittsburg Federal League Club on the one side and the Pittsburg National League club on the other.

The court's decision and the lengthy review of the case, totaling about 4000 words, holds that a baseball contract is property and entitled to consideration as property rights; that no person has a right to induce a third party to break a contract; that interference with labor contracts will be estopped by injunction; that persuading a person to break a contract to the injury of a principal is malicious and that a contract partly void by reason of being in restraint of trade is not wholly void.

Decision Is Explained.

In his review of the case, Chancellor Henderson said: "Under the facts in this case the defendant knew plaintiff was here in Hot Springs training its men for the opening day. He came to Hot Springs to procure some of the players of the plaintiff, and offered them over $1000 in advance of their contract price with the plaintiff to breach their contracts with plaintiff and hire to his company. He was bound to know it would work a great injury to the plaintiff. I can see no purpose of the defendant except to employ plaintiff's players and deprive them of entering the baseball games as a competitor, and by reason thereof defendant's company would greatly benefit financially. It is just such a wrong as a court of equity should not permit when appealed to."

Jerabek Shades Maxwell in Go at Stag A. C.

Eight-Round Bout Is Very Tame and Proves Disappointing to Fight Fans.

Sailor Jerabek, of St. Louis, and Tommy Maxwell, of Hillsboro, Ill.; boxed eight very time rounds at the Stag Athletic Club, 2612 S. Levee, last night, with Jerabek receiving Referee Geo. Kirkwood's decision. From start to finish the bout was slow and uninteresting excepting in one or two instances when both boys opened up and took a chance to exchange punches, Jerabek having the better of most of the exchanges that took place.

The bout was marred because each boy proved too cautious, entirely too much time being wasted in feinting. First one and then the other would try and draw his opponent into a lead and immediately step back without either having attempted to land. The only real effective punches landed during the entire eight rounds were put over by Jerabek near the end of the fourth, when the Sailor connected with several solid right hooks to Maxwell's jaw which shook the latter from his head to his heels. Again in the last round, Jerabek landed another hard right-hand punch to Maxwell's head but failed to take advantage of his opportunity. He then tried to outbox Maxwell, rather than take chances of mixing matters. There probably was not more than a dozen effective blows landed during the entire contest and while Jerabek earned Referee Kirkwood's decision there rally was not much of anything done.

What proved to be the feature of the evening's entertainment was the form displayed by Tommy Burke, (a former amateur), who was making his initial appearance as a professional against Billy Collins, also of St. Louis. Burke administered such a beating to Collins in four rounds that he caused Collins' seconds to toss a towel into the ring when the bell rang for the start of the fifth. Collins made a very game stand but was utterly outclassed from the start, Burke being entirely too clever at every angle of the game. Collins' face was a gory sight when he left the ring.

In the first preliminary Johnny Thompson of St. Louis gave Neal Ford of Alton a severe drubbing for eight rounds, easily earning the decision given him by Referee Kirkwood.

Two Hits Off Babe Adams.

TULSA, Ok., April 4.—Babe Adams, hero of the 1909 world's championship series, pitched his Pittsburg National League teammates to victory here today when he held the Sioux City Western League team to two hits. Score:

Even an 8-1 Victory Fails to Enthuse Manager Rickey

New Leader Hopes to See Team Play Better "Inside" Baseball Than Was Displayed in Beating Cardinals.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

THIS Branch Rickey is a peculiar individual. The average manager, after his team had won 8—1, made 16 hits and held the opposition to five, would have been tempted to gloat over the happy events, we opine. But not so with Rickey.

Sure, he was glad the team won—he says he's always glad to win—and pleased that his team hit so well, and tickled to see George Baumgardner "come back" with a deserved shut-out performance. But the ball game itself—that didn't exactly please.

"I'd dislike to think that we were going to play that way all season," said the Browns' newest manager to the Post-Dispatch last night. "We didn't play baseball, we hit. That hitting was appetizing, but I hope that we'll play better baseball."

Wasted Many Chances.

Branch had in mind some of the wasted chances of his team. For instance, more conservative work on the bases in the big seventh would have netted the Browns at least two more runs. But Shotton and Walker took chances that went wrong.

Some fans probably were unable to fathom a play in the second that cost the Browns a run or two. Wallace was on second and Bisland on first with one gone when the fans were somewhat surprised to see base-runners start what looked like an attempted double steal. The men are anything but fast men and it caused no surprise when Snyder pegged out Wallace at third. No steal was intended here. It was a hit-and-run play, but Agnew, at the bat, missed connections and Wallace was made to suffer. It was one of those plays that look mighty good when executed, but mighty poor when a failure.

Magee Is Not at Home.

Although no black marks appear opposite Lee Magee's name in the "E" column, it was within the power of the Cincinnati German to whack off a run or two at the plate. Magee failed to make a clean stop of drives made to his field, probably due to the roughness of the sward. Some fans are inclined to the belief that Magee is not performing up to his usual dashing form because of the strange field. He performed in left last season, but the desertion of "Reb" Oakes caused Manager Huggins to shift Lee to center. His throws to the plate yesterday were inaccurate.

Old Man Wallace Is Ill.

Bob Wallace was cheered to the proverbial echo as he poled each of his three hits off Perritt and Hopper. And probably not one of the many fans who applauded the veteran infielder knew that he was playing under conditions that would have had the average fellow in bed. Wallace is suffering from a severe cold but insisted on getting in the fray. Once during the game, after he had run from first to second, he took out time for a minute to rest himself. Bob's three hits were line smashes to center and right. If Wallace is not feeling well today, he'll remain out of the contest.

Gus Drops One Over.

Gus Williams whacked the ball into the right field seats in the fifth inning but Umpire Eason waved it foul. Then Gus struck out. He was not to be outdone, however, as he came back in the stormy seventh and again lifted the bulb into the pavilion. There was no dispute as to the fairness of the hit this time. Pratt, following his double, was on the tow path at the time, and cantered home ahead of the big Nebraskan. Gus also caught three fly balls besides making a single. Quite a considerable day.

Dolan Has a Lame Mit.

"Cozy" Dolan, whose play featured the first two games of the series, was missing from the fracas yesterday. The former Pirate tried to stop a line smash with his "meat" hand in Friday's practice session and is limping in the palm as a result. He decorated the bench yesterday and George B. Whitted, a baritone from Durham, N. C., performed at third. George collected one of the Cardinal's five hits and at third base performed in a manner to cause the fans to forget Harry Harland Mowrey.

Only Three for Pratt.

Derrill Pratt, University of Alabama, '11, proved he is no man to be decorating second place in the batting order, a position usually reserved for players who can bunt and are fast. Pratt's bunts yesterday were in the form of two knocks that landed in front of Magee and a third that sailed over Chief Wilson's head. The Southerner also coaxed a pass, stole a base and was retired once by Butler, who ran to deep foul territory and took the lift with his back to the plate. It was a merry matinee for Pratt.

Walsh Headed for St. Paul.

Dee Walsh, resident of Maffitt avenue, will probably sign his postoffice address St. Paul, Minn., within a few days. Dee is quoted as saying that he will jump to the Feds, but this is not likely if the Feds stick to their announcement to tamper with no signed players. Walsh is still lacking as a big league hitter, but if he goes to St. Paul it will be with a string attachment, so that he may be yanked back if he begins to hit 'em regularly.

RICKEY'S MEN GET SIXTEEN HITS OFF PERRITT AND HOPPER

Terrific Cannonading Is Led by Wallace, Walker and Pratt, Each of Whom Gets Three Safeties, While Williams Nicks a Home Run—Baumgardner Holds Cardinals to Five Hits.

By W. J. O'Connor.

JUST when interest in the desperate struggle for the tail-end baseball championship of the world and North St. Louis was beginning to wane, the Browns took the bit in their teeth and ran away with the Cardinals, 8—1, yesterday afternoon at Robison Field. The verdicts now stand 2—1 in favor of the Cardinals, who will invade the Browns' corral today for the fourth conflict.

Pitching according to the late Addie Joss is 80 per cent of baseball and the Cardinals yesterday had about 75 per cent the worst of it. Manager Huggins pinned his hopes in Polly Perritt who whipsawed the Brown Yannigans in the first tiff, but Polly "trun his pals down with a dull thud," to use minor league language.

On the other hand, Manager Rickey relied on George Baumgardner, who registered a monumental failure in his first fling at the enemy, and Georgie came through almost unscarred. One run, the offspring of two passes and a wild throw by Sam Agnew in the opening epoch, was all the Cards could collect at Baumgardner's expense.

Five hits, two of them slightly tainted, was Baumgardner's contribution to the enemy. He was surrounded by a defense that proved almost impenetrable from the start and he breezed through under wraps. Baum rang down the curtain with a strike-out at the expense of Ivy Wingo, the flame-tipped backstop who appeared in the disguise of a pinch-hitter in the ninth frame. It was so easy that Baum, who has an eccentric strain, litterally laughed out loud.

Williams Hits Stride.

Sixteen hits, including a potential poke for four bases by Gus Williams and a three-base jolt by Sam Agnew, the eminent hog-raiser, were credited to the Browns. Rickey's intensified regulars carried the fight to their foes from the tap of the bell and straightened out Perritt's curves for ringing raps that all but maimed the Cardinal infielders.

Their attack was concentrated on Perritt in the seventh stanza when two singles, a home run and two doubles resulted in Perritt abdicating in favor of Mr. Hopper, a sinewy right-hander who hails from New Haven, Conn. Hopper was hit for a triple, and three singles in two and one-third innnigs, a sure indication that he will not be called upon again in the current series.

Leading the Brown attack yesterday was a battle-scarred veteran who is old enough to be the father of some of Rickey's recruits. Bob Wallace, serving his twentieth year in the ranks, lammed out a single that scored the first run for the Browns and later delivered two truculent taps that materially aided the Browns in their merry march to victory. At the fortieth milestone Wallace still looks like "chicken."

From the start the breaks were with the Browns and against the Cardinals just as they were reversed in the early battles. Almost everything the Brownies tried went through according to Hoyle's perscription while the Cardinals bunged up matters time without number. It was the Browns' day to win.

Incidentally the victory was very relishing to Manager Rickey, as Ban Johnson, the autocrat of the American League and baseball in general, was an interested spectator. Ban saw his neglected pets produce enough base hits to win a whole series and he was agreeably surprised with their showing.

He saw in Pratt, Walker and Williams, not to mention Kid Wallace, a coterie of dangerous hitters who are liable to break the heart of a few A. L. hurlers this season. These men hit long and wickedly and when they concentrate their attack the alien pitcher had best be careful all the time.

Robinson Will Make Debut as a Cardinal Today if It Is Warm

THE Browns and Cardinals are scheduled to meet in the fourth game of their spring series at Sportsman's Park, Grand avenue and Dodier street, this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

Manager Rickey said he would make his pitching selection from James, Hamilton or Mitchell. The remainder of his lineup will be the same as yesterday, unless Wallace remains out because of a severe cold. In that event, Ivan Howard, ex-coast leaguer, will serve at third.

Manager Huggins may introduce "Hank" Robinson, the former Pirate, to St. Louis fans, if the weather is warm. Bill Steele is also in prospect.

Mr. Perritt Had Nothing but His Glove, and He Almost Lost That

POLLY PERRITT scaled the pitching peak with a lot of confidence and his glove and was lucky to have his glove left when he was relieved by Hopper in the seventh. The Browns knocked Polly's confidence into a cocked hat the shape of a goose egg.

Perritt's troubles began in the second stanza when Clarence Walker took a reef at a high one and knocked a single through Whitted. A wild throw by Butler let Walker trekk to second. Leary's sacrifice put Tillie on third when he scored on Bob Wallace's single to right. Wallace moved up on Bisland's one-base biff to left, but with the stage all set for a murder, Sam Agnew missed connection on the hit and run and Wallace was pegged out going to third. Whitted, who relieved Cozy Dolan, nipped Wallace standing up. Whitted then gloved Agnew's roller and laid it on Bisland for the third out.

Miller's Throw Nails Pratt.

One gone in the third, Shotton bummed his way to first and skedaddled to third on Pratt's pop single to center, Williams then dumped one in front of the plate and beat the throw to first, Shotton scoring, but Pratt, trying for third, was erased by Jack Miller's beautiful throw to Whitted. Miller's throw was on Pratt's spikes and the out was easy. Walker demised, Perritt to Miller, for the third out.

There was a breathing spell for Perritt in the fourth but Polly's pal, Mr. Snyder, gummed the cards in the fifth by making a classical muff of Agnew's pop fly in front of the plate. Baumgardner fanned with dispatch, while Shotton passed out, Hug to Miller, but Pratt salted a single in center that scored Agnew from second when Magee made a bum peg to the plate. Pratt made second on the play at home but perished there when Gus Williams struck out on four strikes. Mal Eason, whether maliciously or not, missed one strike on Gus, who incidentally missed a home run by two feet on a liner into the pavilion. Williams questioning Eason's decision on the drive into the right-field seats, but Huggins also vociferously alluded to the vacuum in Eason's dome. Mal made two enemies and an error all in a few minutes.

Gus Williams Delivers.

There was another respite for Perritt in the sixth when the Browns peacefully submitted to Polly's show of authority but a revolt that shook a few teeth loose in Polly's upper jaw was enacted in the seventh.

Agnew sawed off a single to left end. Baumgardner fooled the fans by a neat sacrifice. Shotton surprised with a single to center that scored Agnew. Shotton slumbered off first and died in a run-up, while Branch Rickey was heard to wail: "Judas priest."

The rally seemed on the wane as Pratt was seen in the offing with two out, but Derill drove a double to right that revived interest. At this tense moment, Gus Williams decided on a home run and he lifted a liner into the pavilion seats midway between Vandeventer and Spring avenues. It was a stupendous wallop and fans "arose as one man" to cheer. C. Walker's double to left finished Perritt, who was relieved by Hopper. Leary welcomed Hopper with a single through Butler, but Walker tried to score and was cut down at the plate, Butler to Whitted to Snyder, who blocked Tillie off the rubber.

Wallace Scores a Run.

That arch trouble-maker, Bob Wallace, started trouble for Hopper in the eighth with a single through Huggins, a whirling shot that burned the grass as it went. Bisland gave Butler an assist and Miller a put-out, Wallace taking second, whence he scored on Agnew's triple over Magee's agile body. Agnew perished when Baumgardner fanned and Shotton lifted to Magee.

Hopper couldn't keep out of trouble and another run was moulded in the ninth. Pratt's pass, Williams' sacrifice and Walker's single were the ingredients.

The Cardinals started like winners with a run in the first inning after two were dead. Butler got a pass, stole second and went to third on Agnew's wild throw. Then Miller walked—to first—and immediately ran to second, Butler scoring on Agnew's low throw to Pratt. In the subsequent rounds Baumgardner made the Cards play dead.

M'GOVERN READY FOR RETURN BOUT WITH JOE CLARKE

Featherweights Will Furnish Main Event of Future City A. C. Program Tuesday.

CLARKE A C. B. C. STUDENT

Wilkesbarre Boxer Is Taking Business Course and Does Training in School Gym.

Benny McGovern, who has for quite a long while been looked upon as King of featherweights in St. Louis, enters the ring again Tuesday night at the Future City Athletic Club to take on Joe Clarke, the hard-hitting feather from Wilkesbarre, Pa. It will be the second meeting between the two in a local ring, McGovern having out-pointed Clarke in an eight-round bout at the F. C. A. C. on Feb. 3, last.

Interest attaches to this second engagement principally because it has been claimed that Clarke was not at his best when they met the first time following an attack of the grip, and was unable to do himself justice. He is now said to have entirely recovered and in full possession of his natural strength.

Clarke demonstrated in his bout here with Stanley Roberts, the clever English boxer, on Jan. 20, that he is a dangerous man to reckon with by reason of phenomenal hitting power for one of his weight. For three rounds Roberts easily out-pointed Clarke, but the little fellow kept edging in apparently unmindful of the peppering he was receiving, and then, in the fourth round, he dealt Roberts a blow to the pit of the stomach that took all the fight out of the Englishman and made him as helpless to continue as Corbett was when struck in the same place by Fitzsimmons.

McGovern Won Last Bout.

In addition to being a hard hitter, Clarke can box scientifically, but he is so short of stature that nearly all his opponents have a natural advantage of height and reach. This is true of McGovern, and the latter had no trouble out-pointing Clarke in their previous meeting, though the fact that Clarke was not well likely had much to do with the ease of manner in which he did it. It was Clarke's sixty-third bout, and he claims it was his first defeat.

McGovern is confident of repeating, but has paid strict attention to his training so as not to be caught napping. It is probable he will be obliged to work much faster this time against the Wilkesbarre boxer, and a good contest should result. The weight agreement calls for 124 pounds at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Clarke is enrolled as a student at Christian Brothers' College, taking a business course, and has done all his training for the coming bout in the gymnasium of that institution. He is a quiet, gentlemanly little fellow, and has become a favorite with the faculty and his fellow students.

Vick to Meet Mathews.

For the semi-windup President Tommy Sullivan has matched "Kid" Vick with Pierce Mathews at 135 pounds. This should prove a very interesting bout, and a busy time for Mathews. Vick is a wicked hitter with either hand, and Mathews will have to be on the alert every moment of time to keep out of the way of hard wallops. Mathews is the better boxer, and has had more experience, but he is somewhat shy of a punch.

Mathews is rather awkward in the ring and presents a lot of opportunities to an opponent, but, somehow, manages to get first place in a great majority of his bouts. Now and then he makes a mistake as, for instance, last year he imagined himself a match for Harry Trendall, but a right upper-cut to the chin in the early part of the bout dissipated that belief beyond any question of a doubt.

Mathews is a willing boxer, and Vick believes in getting busy from the very start, so the bout is apt to provide good entertainment.

Jimmy Sanders to Show.

Jimmy Sanders of Memphis, Tenn., a younger brother of "Tickle" Sanders, who recently distinguished himself by outboxing and winning from George Kirkwood, has been matched with Joe Warren of St. Louis at 110 pounds. This will be Sanders' second appearance as a professional. He made his first appearance a week ago and lost to "Young" Jimmy Foley, by whom he was considerably outweighed, the bout being at 115 pounds. Sanders has a good punch for a paperweight boxer and gives promise of making good.

Ortel Ready to Wager.

Tony Ortel, manager of Benny McGovern, states that he is willing to wager any part of $500 that McGovern is returned a winner in his bout with Joe Clark Tuesday night. Ortel wants to lay even money, notwithstanding that McGovern owns a victory over Clarke, and this is taken to mean that he expects Clarke to make a much better showing this time.

Negro Club Cards Show.

A club for negroes will give a boxing entertainment on next Wednesday night at Beaumont and Morgan streets. Earl Murphy and Joe Young will appear in the main event of eight rounds at 135 pounds. The semi-windup will be between "Young" Joe Wolcott and Otto Cunningham. In addition to this a preliminary bout will be arranged, and the entertainment will conclude with a battle royal.

Federals' Moral Rights an Issue in Killifer Case

Decision Next Tuesday

Judge Sessions Questions Rght of Outlaw League to Tamper With Player Who Is Satisfied With Contract Containing 10-Day Reserve Clause.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 4.

DECISION as to the winner in the first open contest between the new Federal League and organized baseball as represented by the National League now is up to the umpire, Judge Clarence W. Sessions of the United States District Court for Western Michigan.

Arguments of counsel in the case brought by the management of the Chicago Federal League club to enjoin William J. Killifer Jr. from continuing in the service of the Philadelphia National League club or any other than the Chicago Federal League organization, were completed late today and the Judge took the case under advisement. He announced he would not render a decision before next Tuesday, and possibly not for a week or ten days.

While the counsel for the Federal League centered their attack upon the reserve clause of contracts in organized baseball and the so-called 10-day clause permitting a club to dispense with a contracted player's services at any time after a 10-days' notice, the issue went off at a tangent when Judge Sessions during the argument raised the question as to the Federal League's moral rights in the matter.

FEDS WIN EITHER WAY, JOE TINKER DECLARES

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.

JOE TINKER, manager of the Chicago Federal League team, said today that the Federal League could not lose by any decision which the United States Court at Grand Rapids may make in the Killefer case.

"If our contracts hold good," said Tinker, "Pitchers Blanding and Kahler of the Cleveland club and several other players must return to our organization.

"Should the decision be adverse, baseball contracts will be illegal, thus enabling us to offer inducements to major league stars. We can't lose, no matter what the decision of the court."

Moral Rights Questioned.

The Court pointed out that Killifer and the management of the Philadelphia club are the parties to the contract containing the reserve and 10-day clauses and both have said they are satisfied. Further he referred to the Chicago Federal League club as an outsider, not a party to the contract, but nevertheless seeking relief from the Court on a breach of the original contract which it, by offering larger inducements, might have inspired. He said:

"He who seeks equity must himself come into court with clean hands. You, having been a party to the breach of obligation, claim you are entitled to an enforcement of the contract, notwithstanding your action in that regard."

Attorneys E. E. Gates of Indianapolis, Stuart E. Knappen of Grand Rapids and S. H. Strawn of Chicago represented the Federal League in the arguments. Attorneys George Pepper and Samuel M. Clement of Philadelphia and William L. Carpenter of Detroit represented the Philadelphia National League Club.

Case Puzzles Judge.

Judge Sessions questioned counsel for the complainant with regard to the knowledge of the Chicago Federal League Club magnates of the existence of the Philadelphia contract and reserve clause. He stated plainly this was one of the complexing questions of the case for the court. He added the remedy sought by the complainants is extraordinary in the United States District Court; that temporary injunctions are not granted except on a showing of absolute right.

In defense of his position that the Chicago Federals had come into court with "clean hands," Mr. Gates asserted that granting the invalidity of the reserve clause, Killefer had discharged all moral obligations under it when he waited until Jan. 14, 1914, before signing with the Federals.

Attorney George Pepper of Philadelphia took the other side. His argument was woven around the epigram:

"Should the seducer of an employe be entitled to equity in court?"

Attorney for the National League took occasion briefly to defend the reserve clause and the ten-day clause. Affidavits by President James A. Gilmore of the Federal League, Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago club, President Charles Weegman of the Federal League club, and several others were filed to show that Killifer's services were of value to the Chicago Federals.

It was brought out the the ten-days' clause was eliminated from Killifer's contract and the reserve clause broadly amended subsequent to his signing the 1914 National League contract.

The complainants cited this as an evidence of error in the original form of contract.

Killefer in Court.

He also charged that owing to an reorganization and incorporation of the Philadelphia National League club the corporation now seeking to retain Killifer's services under the 1913 contract reserve clause is not the same company, which was one of the parties of the original contract.

Among the interested spectators in court were Catcher Killifer, President James A. Gilmore of the Federal League, President Charles Weeghman of the Chicago Federal League club and President W. F. Baker of the Philadelphia National League club.

Forsters Roll High Score in Tenpin Tourney

By upsetting 2957 pins in the city bowling tournament at the De Soto alleys last night, the Frank J. Forsters set a scratch mark which will be hard to beat, the tenpin sharps believe. Including their seven-pin handicap, the Forsters' total score for their three games was 2978, a mark that may be beaten because of liberal handicaps awarded other clubs. However, the scratch total is sufficiently formidable to weather the tournament, it is thought.

Peaks set the pace for his teammates, getting 616. He finished with a 257. Joquel was next with with 609, while Huffine was low with 546, which is a fair effort. The St. Charles (Mo.) five was second in last night's session with 2885, while the Fidelitys came next with 2835.

Some of the noteworthy individual performance last night were Grimm's total of 619, including a 257 game for the Union Sodas and Harris' mark of 592, including a 247 game. He bowled with the Wabash club of the K. P. League. Other scores:

Nine New Meets Are Included in Tennis Schedule

NEW YORK, April 4.—Nine new lawn tennis tournaments and the same number of changes in dates previously awarded were announced today by Edwin F. Torrey, secretary of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association. Of the new tournaments the doubles championship of Western Pennsylvania scheduled for the Altoona Cricket Club in August and the award of February and March dates for the national indoor championship for men and women, at the Seventh Regiment of this city are important.

In the shifting of dates, the clay court championship of the United States, at Cincinnati, moves to July 11. The fixtures have been added to the tournament schedule since it was printed March 24, and include:

May 23, New York Lawn Tennis Club, New York City, Manhattan doubles and open singles; May 30, County Tennis Club of Westchester, Incorporated, Hartsdale, N. Y., Eastern championship of New York State; Aug. 25, Altoona Cricket Club, Altoona, Pa., doubles championship of Western Pennsylvania; Oct. 12, Virginia Hot Springs Golf and Tennis Club, Hot Spring, Va., open tournament; Jan. 25, 1915, Pinehurst Country Club, Pinehurst, N. C., annual open tournament; Feb. 12, 1915, Seventh Regiment Tennis Club, New York, indoor championship for men; March 15, 1915, Seventh Regiment Tennis Club, New York, indoor championship for women.

Ty Cobb Defeats Colonels.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4.—Detroit won the first game of the series with Louisville here today. Cobb got two hits, one for two bases, and stole two bases. Score: Detroit, 7-11-4; Louisville, 3-4-4.

KILLEFER RULING WILL NOT AFFECT BASEBALL WORLD

—BAN JOHNSON.

Court's Decision Involves Only Player Named in Suit, Says League President Here.

Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American League, saw the Browns defeat the Cardinals in the third game of their series at Robison Field yesterday. Johnson is paying St. Louis one of his widely scattered visits. He said he came here to look over the American League team. It s hinted that the approaching Federal League opening here had something to do with his call.

Johnson said that any decision handed down by the court in the Bill Killifer case in Grand Rapids would have no effect on baseball in general.

"If the court decides to restrain Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia club," said Johnson to the Post-Dispatch, "it will have no effect on players who are signed to 1914 contracts. In my opinion it is for the court to decide whether Killifer had a right to deal with the Federal League while still being obligated to the Philadelphia club.

Ignored Phils' Option.

"When he signed his 1913 contract, he gave the Philadelphia club an option on his services for 1914. As a matter of fact, he joined the Federal League, or signed one of its contracts, without giving the Philadelphia club a chance to dicker for his services.

"The 1914 contracts are vastly different from the 1913 form. For that reason the decision of the court in Grand Rapids will affect Killifer. It will be necessary to make a test case of the 1914 form of contracts."

Johnson said he was displeased with the legal wrangle into which the Pittsburg club became involved with Pitcher Howard Camnitz in Hot Springs.

"By asking for an injunction against Camnitz, restraining him from tampering with Pittsburg players, the Pittsburg club violated an order sent out by the National Commission regarding the Federal League," continued Johnson.

Stay Off the Feds.

"Major league and Class A league club were requested to enter into no court procedure with the Federal League. It was especially displeasing to most baseball men when it became known that the Pittsburg club filed its suit in Arkansas, a remote State, of whose laws we know little.

"The Pittsburg club should not have worried over the presence of Camnitz in Hot Springs. In fact, it should not be bothered by any Federal League representative."

English Polo Team Is Shaping Up for Cup Series With Yankees

MADRID, April 4.—Of the English polo players now practicing in Spain preparatory to a choice being made of the team to go to America for the cup, expert opinion is that Maj. Hunter, Maj. Matthews, Capt. Palmer and Capt. Badger are distinguishing themselves, and W. Balding, who is one of those chosen to go to the United States, is an excellent player, showing the most promising form.

The final make-up of the team for America will not be known until the middle of April, but it certainly will include Capt. Battett, one of the finest players here and probably Maj. Hunter.

GARDNER LOSES IN GOLF FINALS AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4.—S. S. Worthington of the Shawnee (Pa.) club today won the men's event in the fourteenth annual United North and South Amateur Golf tournament here, defeating Paul E. Gardner of Onwentsia Club, Chicago, 6 up and 5 to play in a 36-hole match.

The first flight consolation trophy was won by Harold Weber of Toledo, O., from R. W. Harvey of the Philadelphia Country Club, 3 up and 2 to play, in an 18-hole match.

Pirate Yannigans Lose.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 4.—The second team of the Pittsburg National League club was defeated here this afternoon by the local club of the Western League, 4 to 3. An error by O'Toole in the second inning gave the locals two runs. Score:

Pittsburg, 3-6-1; St. Joseph, 4-5-3.

Batteries—O'Toole, Delhi and Coleman, Kafora; Adams, Pursell, Jenkins and Schang.

BROWN RECRUITS LOSE TO KANSAS CITY TEAM, 6-1

Rickey's Second Team Get Plenty of Hits, but Fail to Make Use of Them.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4.—Although the second team of the St. Louis Browns outhit the local American Association club in the first of a series of two games here this afternoon, Rickey's rookies failed to take advantage of their opportunities and the Blues won, 6—2. Several times the Browns had chances to score, but they could not once come through with the necessary blows. This is shown by the fact that 11 runners were left stranded on the towpaths during the pastime.

On the other hand, the local club bunched hits and took advantage of every chance to count. They had two big innings, the third and sixth, in which they scored all their runs, making three in each. Five of the eight hits made were collected in these two rounds, which, combined with some loose playing by the Browns, put over more than enough runs to win.

Hoch Pitches Well.

Hoch worked on the mound for the visitors, and, despite the score rolled by the locals, pitched a creditable game. Mack Allison, former Brown, started toiling for the Blues, and Mack hurled a fine game for five innings, allowing but three blows and no runs. Ralph Willis then took up the work on the hilltop and the Browns soaked him for six hits and their two runs in the final four rounds.

The Browns started scoring in the seventh, counting one, and put over their final score in the eighth. In the seventh, Miller took second when Titus dropped his fly, and scored when Menges beat out an infield hit after Bold had flied out. Bold started the eighth with a single over third, took second on Menges' out, went to third on Jenkins' short single to center and counted when Mannig forced Jenkins at second. Score:

M. A. C. Members Have Plans for Reorganization

Members of the Missouri Athletic Club, whose home was destroyed by fire, have been invited to attend a banquet and subsequent business meeting Wednesday evening at the Mercantile Club to hear plans for reorganization. A circular has been sent to all the members with the following notice:

"There will be a general meeting of all the members of the M. A. C. on Wednesday, April 8, at the Mercantile Club, Seventh and Locust, when the present condition of the M. A. C. will be fully explained, and plans for the future submitted. Dinner will be served at 6:30 at $1 per plate." Those unable to come to the dinner should attend the business meeting at 8 p. m."

A big surprise is in store for the members, it is said, and some interesting news as to the future developments of the club will be divulged.

W. A. Umpires to Meet.

CHICAGO, April 4.—N. L. O'Neill, president of the Western League, today issued a call for his umpires to gather at Des Moines, Io., April 16 to receive final instructions for the season. His roster of umpires as announced tonight is as follows: McCafferty, Haskell, Gaston, Stockdale, Parent and Morrison.

McKinley Surprises With Win Over C. B. C. in Opening Game

THE interscholastic baseball season opened yesterday when the majority of prep nines got into action by playing practice games. McKinley, Soldan, Manual, Principia and Central made their inaugural appearances, while Smith and Yeatman were idle, having played Friday afternoon.

Of the High School teams, the crimson-hosed McKinley lads were most in evidence, playing two games, in the morning and another in the afternoon. The forenoon encounter proved to be a walkaway for Coach Sheik's boys over the Prinicipia Military Academy, 10—0. Although McKinley was conceded a win it was thought that the Science lads would put up some sort of a struggle. Brock, Regan and company started their bombardment early in the game and soon knocked Schaberg, the opposing pitcher, off the slab. For the winners, Menze, Blades and Wallace each occupied the mound for three innings, Coates and Brock each took a whirl at catching. The game was played at Francis Field.

Soldan Smothers Manual.

The other morning contest was played betwen Soldan High and Manual Trainig School at the latter campus. Soldan so greatly outclassed their opponents that the game was called in the sixth inning after the Union avenue squad had amassed 11 tallies and held the gold and black nine scoreless. Every substitute on the squad was given a trial after Cook's charges had once gained a large lead and had the regular lineup remained throughout the score undoubtedly would have been more than doubled.

Chalfont and Streiter were the Soldan hurlers with Ruel and Preston behind the bat. Streiter especially performed creditably, holding the enemy hitless on his interscholastic debut. A number of pitchers worked for Manual.

Central, playing the American Car and Foundry nine, at Forest Park, held little more than a batting practice. The score after nine innings showed Central in the lead, 22 to 2. The tiniest of Coach Walker's recruits knocked extra base hits while the greenest of the pitchers held the enemy scoreless. However, the one feature of the game was the steady pitching of Rehagen, a new hurler of the school boys.

McKinley Humbles C. B. C.

The real surprise of the day came in the McKinley High's clean cut victory over Christian Brothers' College in the afternoon on the college campus. The South Siders, supposed to have the weakest organization in the Interscholastic League, were thought to prove a mere practice game for their older and more experienced opponents. However, they crossed even their most sanguine followers and took the Easton avenue contingent into camp, 4—2.

As a result of the victory, the completion of the prep school race takes a decidedly different hue and it looks as if Soldan would have at least one hard oppressor. Coach Sheik showed at least as strong if not a stronger array than he copped the bunting with last year.

Menze, the pitcher, is a real find and should rival Chalfont for hurling honors. Coates caught a nice game, while the infield worked nice considering the early date. Blades was a bit wobbly at shortstop, probably due to stage fright on his initial appearance. The outfield never had a great deal of work but accomplished well the little it did have. The hitting of the squad was weak and unless some improvement is made will hurt. However, one thing noticeable is the confidence in their play and the pep displayed by all the players.

48 TEAMS TO PLAY IN POST-DISPATCH LEAGUE OPENING

Schedule for Opening Day Contests on April 11 Is Given Out.

Forty-eight teams in the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League are scheduled to play the first games of the 1914 season next Saturday morning. The 48 schools represented have been included in eight divisions of six teams each. The divisions are called West End No. 1, West End No. 2, North Side No. 1, North Side No. 2, South Side No. 1, South Side No. 2, Central No. 1, and Central No. 2.

Each team is to play every other team in its division one game. When this has been done, the winner of the most games in a No. 1 division will play the club that has won the most games in a No. 2 division of the same section for the sectional championship.

The losing teams in the sectional contests will be eliminated, leaving four teams in the race for the city title.

The captains of the winning teams in the West End, North Side, South Side and Central divisions will then draw for opponents for the semi-final round.

The two winners in these games will then play for the championship of the city and the gold medals and pennant to be awarded to the winning team.

All teams in the league are considered on the same basis. The fact that four sections have been named Division No. 2, as Central Division No. 2, does not mean that the teams of that division are of any different rank than the teams of Central Division No. 1. The management of the league is facilitated by the numbering of the divisions.

Difficulties Easily Settled.

In most cases the games have been scheduled on the grounds of the schools which have arranged favorable sites. Some of the team managers announced that no suitable grounds were located near their schools. In the event that these team managers are able to obtain permission from property owners for the use of grounds, an effort will be made to schedule future games on the school's "home" grounds.

Following the announcement of the schedule of the opening games, it is now the duty of every team manager to AT ONCE get into communication with the manager of the opposing team to agree upon umpires for Saturday's games. The managers are reminded that Rule 4 says that managers must agree on one or two umpires at least 24 hours before a game is scheduled to be played.

When teams are scheduled to play in Forest Park, Fairground, O'Fallon Park or Carondelet Park, the managers must agree in advance upon the time and baseball diamond for the game.

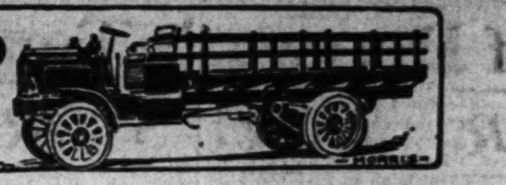
AUTOMOBILE

NEWS.



FOUR HIGHWAYS HAVE BEEN TRACED COAST TO COAST

All Will Be Generally Used by Motor Tourists and One Is Through St. Louis and Kansas City.

Transcontinental inquiries received by the A. A. A. Touring Board indicate that many of those who have in mind a journey to the Pacific Coast in 1915 will journey westward over one route and return by a different itinerary. While 1914 will see a greater number of cross-country travelers than in 1913, the total in 1915 promises to be surprisingly numerous and warrants Chairman Frank X. Mudd of the Touring Board to predict that American interstate travel from this time on will count largely in vacation periods of many people who have been in the habit of wearing out tires on foreign highways.

In preparing for a comprehensive transcontinental service, the touring department of the national organization of automobilists has added to its material until there are now available three complete routes with a fourth to be added in the spring of 1915. Of these, the Overland Trail is for about 95 per cent of the way the route of the Lincoln Highway, which will attract a large amount of cross-country travel.

The fourth new route will start east from Los Angeles and is by far the longest of the cross-country lines, being via Yuma, Phoenix, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Texarkana, Little Rock, Memphis, Nashville, Knoxville, Asheville, Greensboro, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia to New York. This transcontinental route will be available throughout the year. Very little difficulty was experienced in its framing, as long stretches of good natural roads were found in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. In fact, the one great problem of the A. A. A. pathfinder was to select the "one best way" from the number of options offered at several points, notably east of Phoenix. For the first time the Southwestern and Gulf States will be placed on a through line across lower Arizona, New Mexico and upper Texas.

The pioneer big route between Chicago and the Pacific Coast was the "Trail to Sunset." This quickly made clear that for the San Francisco and San Diego exhibitions in 1915 there would be a great call for other routes, reaching the Pacific Northwest as well as central and southern California. It was therefore decided by the A. A. A. in the early summer of 1912 to undertake the mapping of three complete lines in one season.

Starting in June the northern route through Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Bismarck, Butte, Missoula and Spokane to Seattle was covered. The "Northwest Trail" was the first to give details across the continent by the northern route, and to supply specific information, including mileages, for reaching Yellowstone Park from the north or Glacier Park from the south. Equally complete notes were then taken from Seattle through Tacoma, Portland and Sacramento to San Francisco.

Immediately afterward, the Overland Trail was traveled from San Francisco through Sacramento, Carson City, Reno, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Omaha, Chicago, Cleveland, Erie, Jamestown, Elmira, Binghamton, and Kingston to New York.

The third line was laid down to Los Angeles via Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Ely and Goldfield. No date has been set for the publication of these notes, due principally to road conditions in Western Colorado and Eastern Utah, which will doubtless be improved before the spring of 1915.

FIGURED COST PER MILE

In a recent letter received by the Oakland Automobile Co. of St. Louis, from M. C. Jansen Jr. of Nashville, Tenn., he states: "I have just thought that my car had a birthday, after which I figured my entire expense for one year's running.

"The result was surprising to me, after my experience with various makes of other cars. The distance covered in a year's time was 53,000 miles and here is an itemized list of the cost per mile:

Gasoline, .0150; oil, including transmission and cup grease, .0024; washing and polishing, .0052; extras, .0015; total, .0241.

"The extras include $3 for a dash light, $2.50 for a tool box to put on the step, $1.50 for two headlight globes and $1.50 for a wire connection on the dash so that I would not have to pump up my tires by hand. I was at no expense for repairs and made no attempt to achieve a low expense record."

Oakland officials state that less than 2½ cents per mile is nothing unusual for a normal year's service with an Oakland in the hands of an average owner.

OLDFIED HAS 'COME BACK'

What car will the one-time champion and daredevil speed annihilator, Barney Oldfield, drive in the approaching Indianapolis International Sweepstakes? That question is giving the race "nuts" something to talk about and is causing ambitious entrants in the Memorial day classic no end of worry.

Barney has "come back." His sensational return to form in the recent Santa Monica road races has put to shame corresponding efforts of come-back champions in all other branches of sport. He is a factor to be reckoned with in Carl G. Fisher's annual motor marathon.

The feud between Fisher and Oldfield is said to be the result of an ill-advised publicity campaign by Barney's former press agent. It kept Barney from competing in several important contests on the Speedway, but the hatchet has been buried and the man who made the "stogie" famous will appear at the wheel of a Stutz car at Indianapolis, May 30.

DID THE BETTER JOB

Oldtimers know that Barney Oldfield did much to make the name of Henry Ford famous in the days of long ago when Mr. Ford designed the Ford 999, engaging Barney to drive the car. The speed merchant made a name for himself with this car. They are still relating an incident which happened at the Michigan State Fair races last fall when Barney drove an exhibition mile in record time. Mr. Ford walked up to Barney and said: "Well, Barney, I made you and you made me," and the speed king replied: "Yes, Henry, I did a much better job of making than you did."

HOT POLITICS RIPE IN MOTOR TRADE ELECTION

Politics are as thick in Automobile Row just now as they are just prior to an election for President of the United States. The annual meeting of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association will be held at the Washington Hotel, Monday night, April 14. According to the provisions of the constitution, a nominating committee selected a ticket consisting of three officers and six others to make up the Board of Directors. This ticket was sent out 15 days prior to the election and then something happened.

The friends of several men prominent in the trade wondered why they had been omitted, and the more they wondered the less explanation could they find. Hence, they decided to put up an opposition ticket and this has been done.

Partisans of both tickets are now out doing hot political work to pledge votes for their respective tickets or for individuals on the tickets. It is safe to assert that every member of the association—there are 72 firms who are members—will attend the meeting, which is to be followed by refreshments. The two tickets follow:

Regular ticket: President, Samuel Breadon, Western Automobile Co.; vice-president, T. L. Hausmann, Overland Automobile Co.; treasurer, Joseph A. Schlecht, Mound City Buggy Co.; other directors, W. C. Anderson, Ford Motor Co.; Ralph C. Doak, Woods Motor Vehicle Co.; Nelson S. Gotshall, Cole Motor Co.; O. L. Halsey, Halsey Automobile Co.; H. B. Krenning, Dorris Motor Car Co.; John H. Phillips, Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co. The secretary is elected by the directors.

Opposition ticket: President, Samuel Breadon; vice-president, F. H. Fahrenkrog, Kardell Motor Car Co.; treasurer, Joseph A. Schlecht; other directors, A. L. Elwood, Locomobile Co.; Ralph C. Doak, T. P. Goll, General Motor Car Co.; J. D. Perry Lewis, Lewis Auto Co.; H. B. Krenning, H. M. Rosenberg, White Motor Car Co.

It will be noted that Breadon, Schlecht, Doak and Krenning are nominated on both tickets.

A NEW PACKARD CAR

The first of the new Packard "2-38" runabouts was received by the Halsey Automobile Co. on Friday, and is attracting considerable interest, and causing much favorable comment among the automobile public. This car is the first of its kind of any make in town and it is a novel one. The body, which fits on a standard "2-38" phaeton chassis, has a seating capacity of three people, including a comfortable rumble in the rear, which can be made to disappear into the deck. The decks extends from the back of the front seat to the very end of the chassis, and has a wonderful stowing space for baggage, being accessible from either side by a good broad door. It is illuminated by an electric light.

CAR BODY FOR SPORTSMEN

The Packard camp car was the only automobile exhibited at the New York sportsmen's show in Grand Central Palace. The special body was designed by Henry B. Joy, president of the Packard Motor Car Co., as a suggestion to sportsmen who wish to remain independent of civilization while on a hunting trip.

The body is of a modified prairie schooner type especially adapted to roughing it. Provision has been made for a food supply large enough to last several weeks.

There are accommodations for two persons in the front compartment where touring seats are used. An ingenious arrangement of the cushions forms a second seat for two in the center of the car. The side seats are easily convertible into bunks. By means of side and rear curtains, with a windshield in front, the car may be entirely closed.

The car carries a complete camping outfit, including a fireless cooker, tent, water buckets, self-cooling water bags, cooking utensils, dishes, electric lights, food bags, air-tight tin cans, lanterns, axes and guns. There is storage and locker rooms beneath the side seats and an extra luggage box is suspended from the floor.

Mounted on a Packard "48" touring chassis, the camp car probably has traveled into more remote places than any other vehicle in America. Early in 1912 it fought its way from Denver to the Grand Canyon in the face of terrific winter conditions on the Santa Fe trail. In two months during 1913 Mr. Joy drove the car more than 5000 miles in his preliminary surveys for the Lincoln highway. In April it went from Detroit to Omaha, plowing through the mud the greater portion of the trip. In June it was driven to San Francisco in 15 days. In September the car was used for a trip from Detroit to New York and return over the eastern section of the Lincoln way.

HOW FORD HANDLES MYRIAD OF JOB HUNTERS

Conditions in the vicinity of the Detroit Ford Motor Co. plant have resumed a normal aspect. No longer do thousands of men besiege the entrances on Manchester avenue in the hope of securing positions under the new wage regime. They have finally come to realize that no such casual and haphazard method is being followed in adding to the working force.

The painstaking manner in which the new wage scale was evolved and the thorough way in which the entire plan is being fortified by elaborate follow-up work is illustrated by several features. One of the most significant relates to the handling of employes in the shops to discover by thorough test their fitness for work in the various departments, and thus protect them against a seeming failure to make good and a summary dismissal.

Foremen are not allowed arbitrarily to dismiss a man. If the foreman of any gang finds that one of his men is not doing satisfactory work, instead of dismissing the individual outright, he must send him to a clearing house, where his case is investigated, and he is given another trial in some other department, unless he is found to be wholly inefficient. There his ability for another kind of work will be tested. These shifts may take place a half a dozen times before the man is finally let out or retained.

The company is determined that the additional money received under the new plan shall be devoted to reasonable purposes. In order to determine this a large number of investigators are employed. Almost all of these have been taken from the plant itself, having been drafted from the hospital staff and the executives of the various departments of the plant, and ranging from full-fledged doctors to men who were formerly, perhaps, merely in charge of a shipping platform. This plan was followed in order to secure men who had already demonstrated their ability to handle men successfully. The investigators get on intimate terms with the men they are studying, and learn to know the conditions under which they live, and how they spend their time and money. If it is found that a man is not profiting by the additional money he is receiving, he must prove that he can or else he no longer participates in the profit-sharing plan.

"STANDARDIZED" HAS BEEN STANDARDIZED

"Ever since J. J. Cole, president of the Cole Motor Car Co., Indianapolis, let the public into the secret of his success in manufacturing automobiles by taking the standard units of its kind, the tested bests, calling the Cole the standardized car, the word standardization, in full or modified, has crept into the sales and advertising of some of the largest and most successful products of the country," says N. S. Gotshall of the Cole Motor Co. of Missouri, local Cole dealer. "Today, conservatively speaking, more than 15 per cent of advertising touches in one way or another on this thought."

Continuing, he says: "It was not long after Mr. Cole gave the public his secret that advertising appeared on the standardized automobile top, to be quickly followed by a big concern advertising standardized furniture. Nowadays the public hears of the standardized business stationery; the standardized breakfast food and numerous other standardized commodities. President Wilson has used the word in his speeches; standardization has echoed in the halls of Congress; Government officials incorporate it in their recommendations; even city government officials discuss standardized municipal government.

"Only lately in sport circles one learns that weight is to be standardized in prize fighting. President H. B. Joy of the Packard Motor Car Co., Detroit, came out with a statement a fortnight ago proclaiming that the Packard chassis is now standardized. This concern is only one of the automobile factories using the word standardization.

"Every one does not apply the word, standardization, exactly as the Cole organization uses it, but from the viewpoint of it being a high-class word to be connected with a high-class product, its usage is paramount.

"One even hears of the Standard motor car demonstration today and concerns that used the word "standard" in their slogans are displaying it more prominently today that ever before.

BUY TENTH PREMIER

Nine months ago the Wacker-Helderle Undertaking and Livery Co. purchased for their funeral service six eight-passenger limousines, two hearses and a combination flower wagon, all on Premier chassis.

On account of the absolute dependability of these cars for funeral work, the Wacker-Helderle Undertaking and Livery Co. decided when buying their ambulance last week that nothing but a Premier six chassis would be added to their equipment.

This last purchase is the latest addition to the most complete line of funeral cars in use in the United States.

"So Motz Tires Cost More Than Any Other Kind?"

"Ordinarily, yes. But, at my request, the maker of my Electric included them without extra charge. He seemed perfectly willing to pay the additional seventy-five or a hundred, himself."

Any leading maker of Electrics, when asked, will do the same. He knows Motz equipment means a trouble-proof machine. Thus he is content with less profit. Most makers supply Motz without even being asked. Doubtless all will ere long.

Why shouldn't Motz Cushion Tires cost more than pneumatic or solid tires? They never puncture nor blow out—and they outwear three to a half-dozen sets of pneumatic tires.

They don't bump the occupants or shake the delicate parts of the Electric as do solid tires. The shock-absorbing, cushioning qualities of these tires is indeed unusual. They are the only tires, except pneumatics, which possess ample resiliency.

Note, too, the anti-skid construction. Double treads with notches. Nothing could be more effective on slippery pavements.

About 70% of all 1914 Electrics are Motz-equipped. This gives some idea of their popularity. In some localities one scarcely sees any other Electric Tire.

Motz Cushion Tires

Motz Cushion Tires are of rubber which costs 50% more than the usual. And there are 46% more pounds of rubber than in other tires of equal carrying capacity. They have double treads with patented, slantwise bridges and undercut sides. This ingenious construction, together with unusual quality and quantity of rubber, affords a resiliency heretofore known to pneumatic tires only.

A written Guaranty of 10,000 miles, 2 years, accompanies each set. That's about three times the usual pneumatic guaranty.

Whenever you want tires or tire service, come here. You'll find us amply prepared to take care of your every need. For handsome, illustrated Tire Book 178, address

Hupmobile

The Car of The American Family

Get This Thought!

Hupmobile owners—and there are tens of thousands of them—will have no other car, because the Hupmobile gives them complete satisfaction at a lesser cost!

That's the Hupmobile story summed up and boiled down—a car that's never out of commission, and a car that costs less when it's in commission.

Two Mills Per Mile

When we speak of lesser cost we mean all-around lesser cost—upkeep, repairs, tire mileage, gasoline and oil mileage—and lesser depreciation when you come to sell the car at second hand.

But let us drive home just one point today—the repair cost indicated by a canvass of all the repair parts ever sold by this company.

Assuming an average of even 5,000 miles per car per year—which, of course, is ridiculously low—the average cost comes to the absurd figure of 2.7 mills per mile.

As a matter of fact, Hupmobile repair cost unquestionably averages 'way below 2 mills per mile—and any owner you talk to will tell you that his total cost is one of the least of his troubles and the service he gets, one of the greatest of his joys.

Go to the Hup dealer and let him tell you the delightful details of a story we can only outline here!

ST. LOUIS WILL BUILD BODIES FOR 104 TRUCKS

W. H. Anderson, St. Louis representative of the Kelly Springfield truck, entertained James L. Geddes, president of the company manufacturing them, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Geddes was in St. Louis to put the finish on one of the biggest motor truck deals ever consummated.

His company had just completed the sale to the Pacific Motor Coach Co. of Los Angeles, Cal., of 104 five-ton and one two-ton Kelly Springfield trucks. The deal involves more than half a million dollars and a certified check for $100,000 was the earnest money.

The St. Louis interest in the order lies in the fact that the bodies will be built in this city by the St. Louis Car Co. It was this contract that Mr. Geddes came here to close.

The truck chasses are to be equipped with bus bodies seating 54 persons each. They are of novel design, specially equipped for comfort and safety. They will be used to give regular motor bus service between Los Angeles and Venice, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Pedro and other near-by points. Thirty-three of them will be delivered by July 1. The bodies will be of the double-deck kind.

SAFETY FIRST

Quality and Lower Cost Mileage for Goodrich Tire Users

Goodrich Unit Molding is in reality the original "Safety First" idea in tire-making.

The body of the tire, the side walls, the fabrics, the rubber, the bead and the Safety Tread are so well balanced and are of such uniform high quality that this, coupled with Goodrich efficient workmanship, makes it possible for us to mold Goodrich Tires as a unit.

Therefore, Goodrich Tires wear as a unit. Every part helping every other part to render the service demanded of it—thereby giving the utmost in service and mileage to the tire user.

The fine, strong fabric and high grade rubber are literally interlocked by Goodrich Unit Molding. This is one reason why Goodrich treads do not separate and why "tire troubles" are practically unknown to Goodrich users.

The extra thickness of tough Goodrich rubber in the treads of Goodrich Safety Tread Tires at the point of contact with the road provides longer wear, longer service and longer satisfaction.

The thick, tough rubber bars and crosstie of the safety tread as shown above, make a "Safety First" roadway for the car. They clean and dry the path and grip it. Because the Safety Tread design is built as a unit, it rides easier than any other non-skid tire, and in fact just as smoothly as a smooth tread.

The Accepted Standard

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires

Best in the Long Run

The Goodrich Safety Tread Five Bars and a Crosstie—the Safety First Symbol

The quality of Goodrich Tires today is the standard by which all other high grade tires are judged. That is because they represent perfection of tire-making and tire-knowledge—which gives Goodrich Tires leadership.

Just the unit-group of bars and crosstie which brace and balance the strain on the tire so that the Safety Tread runs as a smooth tread does and gives more actual service and mileage.

Pay no more than the following prices for the accepted standard automobile tire:

Size	Smooth Tread Prices	Safety Tread Prices	Grey Inner Tube Prices	Size	Smooth Tread Prices	Safety Tread Prices	Grey Inner Tube Prices

There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

THE Paige Detroit Motor Car Company has no bonded or other indebtedness on which it has to pay interest—it has no excessive capitalization on which it has to earn dividends.

That enables it to put a full dollar of actual value into the car for every dollar of the selling price.

And this excess of real value creates a demand for Paige cars that cuts selling and advertising expense to the minimum.

And this in turn makes it possible to put still more value into the car.

Doesn't that look like sound reasoning?

Doesn't it make you want to investigate the Paige still further?

And just remember this—It is going to pay you to get your name on an order blank as quickly as possible—The Paige is going to be oversold again this year.

AUTO NEWS AND GOSSIP

F. H. Ehnts, sales and advertising manager of the Dorris Motor Car Co., has been in the East for two weeks closing up two important deals for Dorris commercial cars.

George Franklin of the Regal Motor Car Co., claims the distinction of being the only man who has attended every automobile show held in this country during the past seven years.

Since the opening of the season, Sept. 1, an even 100 1914 Moon cars have been delivered in Chicago, up to March 30.

Willis W. Benson, 6300 Pave boulevard; H. H. Hall of East St. Louis and Judge August Kassebaum of St. Louis County, last week bought Pathfinder cars.

The motor bus service established in St. Louis March 1, with one car in use, has been abandoned for the present. Lack of patronage is the reason given.

W. H. Daughters, well known in local accessory circles, will, it is said, be connected with the new Ford factory in St. Louis.

The McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co., piston ring manufacturers, have put into service the first cycle car for delivery purposes. It is a Comet.

PREFER RIGHT DRIVE

With about half the motor car manufacturers in the country building their cars with right-side drive and about half with left-side drive, the controversy as to which type of construction is the better, seems to have reached its heighth. The motoring papers are full of the discussion and in every local salesroom the subject is thrashed out daily.

As one writer states it, "The greatest argument in favor of the right-side drive is that the driver can watch his off wheel and the ditch much better. It seems to me this is such a strong argument that it outweighs all that can be said in favor of the left-side drive. They say that when one gets used to it, one can judge where he is driving and how close he is to the ditch, but don't you believe it. Men who have driven both kinds of cars say they cannot.

"If it were merely driving up to the curb, probably a close enough estimate can be made, but when it comes to country touring, and that after all is the best fun in motoring, I want to know just where the ditch is. I want to actually see it. I don't want to have to estimate where it is nor trust to chance that there is no hole or open culvert that I may drop into. I am not afraid of the other fellow's hitting me and I am not going to watch him."

Mr. H. A. Matthews, treasurer and sales manager of the Jackson company, who built all three models with right-side drive, declares that when it comes to a question between safety and convenience, safety certainly should have first choice, and until the country roads are very much improved he believes right-side drive will be the choice of the conservative car buyer.

CAR SAVES USER $24 A DAY

"It has been recently estimated that 200,000 automobiles, exclusive of trucks, are constantly used in the daily business and professional routine of the United States," says J. E. Newell of the Kissel Kar. "If this be true, and I for one believe the number to be understated, the motor car has never received due credit as an economic force.

"All classes of people who, in their daily duties, have to move from place to place, such as clergymen, physicians, real estate dealers and salesmen, admit the utility of the automobile, but I question whether many of them have ever reduced the saving of time to figures in dollars and cents.

"An automobile, strictly observing the speed limit, can cover daily fully four times the ground that a horse can cover, but let us say for the sake of argument that it covers only three times as much.

"Let us assume that 200 people who formerly used horses in their vocations save every day four formerly non-productive hours through the substitution of the motor car. It is conservative to assume that the value of their time will average $1 an hour. That amounts to $24 saving to each in a working week of six days and therefore a total weekly saving to those 200 people of $4800, and a total yearly saving of $229,600.

"With 200,000 automobiles used for just such purposes as the 200 I have cited, the total saving in time—measured in money—is something enormous.

"Of course, the difference in maintenance expense between a horse and an automobile needs to be considered, but allow a maximum margin for that and it is but a flea bite against the amount saved through increased efficiency."

PILE OF TIRES HIGHER THAN TOP OF PIKE'S PEAK

Some statistician out in the factory of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O., has figured out that one week's tire production of the factory, if piled on top of each other, figuring an average of 4 inches height per casing, would make a stack many feet higher than Pike's Peak.

When, a month or so ago, a third shift of workers began operations at the Goodyear factory and the wheels resumed their humming 24 hours a day, the management predicted that within a short time the tire production would be brought to 10,000 a day. This refers to pneumatic tire casings only, and does not include the motor truck tires, carriage tires, bicycle tires, etc., of which Goodyear produces a large quantity. The record of tire production for five days of the past week shows that the 10,000 a day prediction is rapidly being made to "come true." No Saturday figures are included here for the reason that Saturday afternoon is a holiday at the Goodyear factory, and there is no Saturday night work. The week's pneumatic tire production ran as follows:

Monday, 8296; Tuesday, 8808; Wednesday, 8637; Thursday, 9412; Friday, 9264, a total for the five days of 44,417 pneumatic tires, enough for the equipment of more than 11,000 cars.

LOZIER MEN ORGANIZE

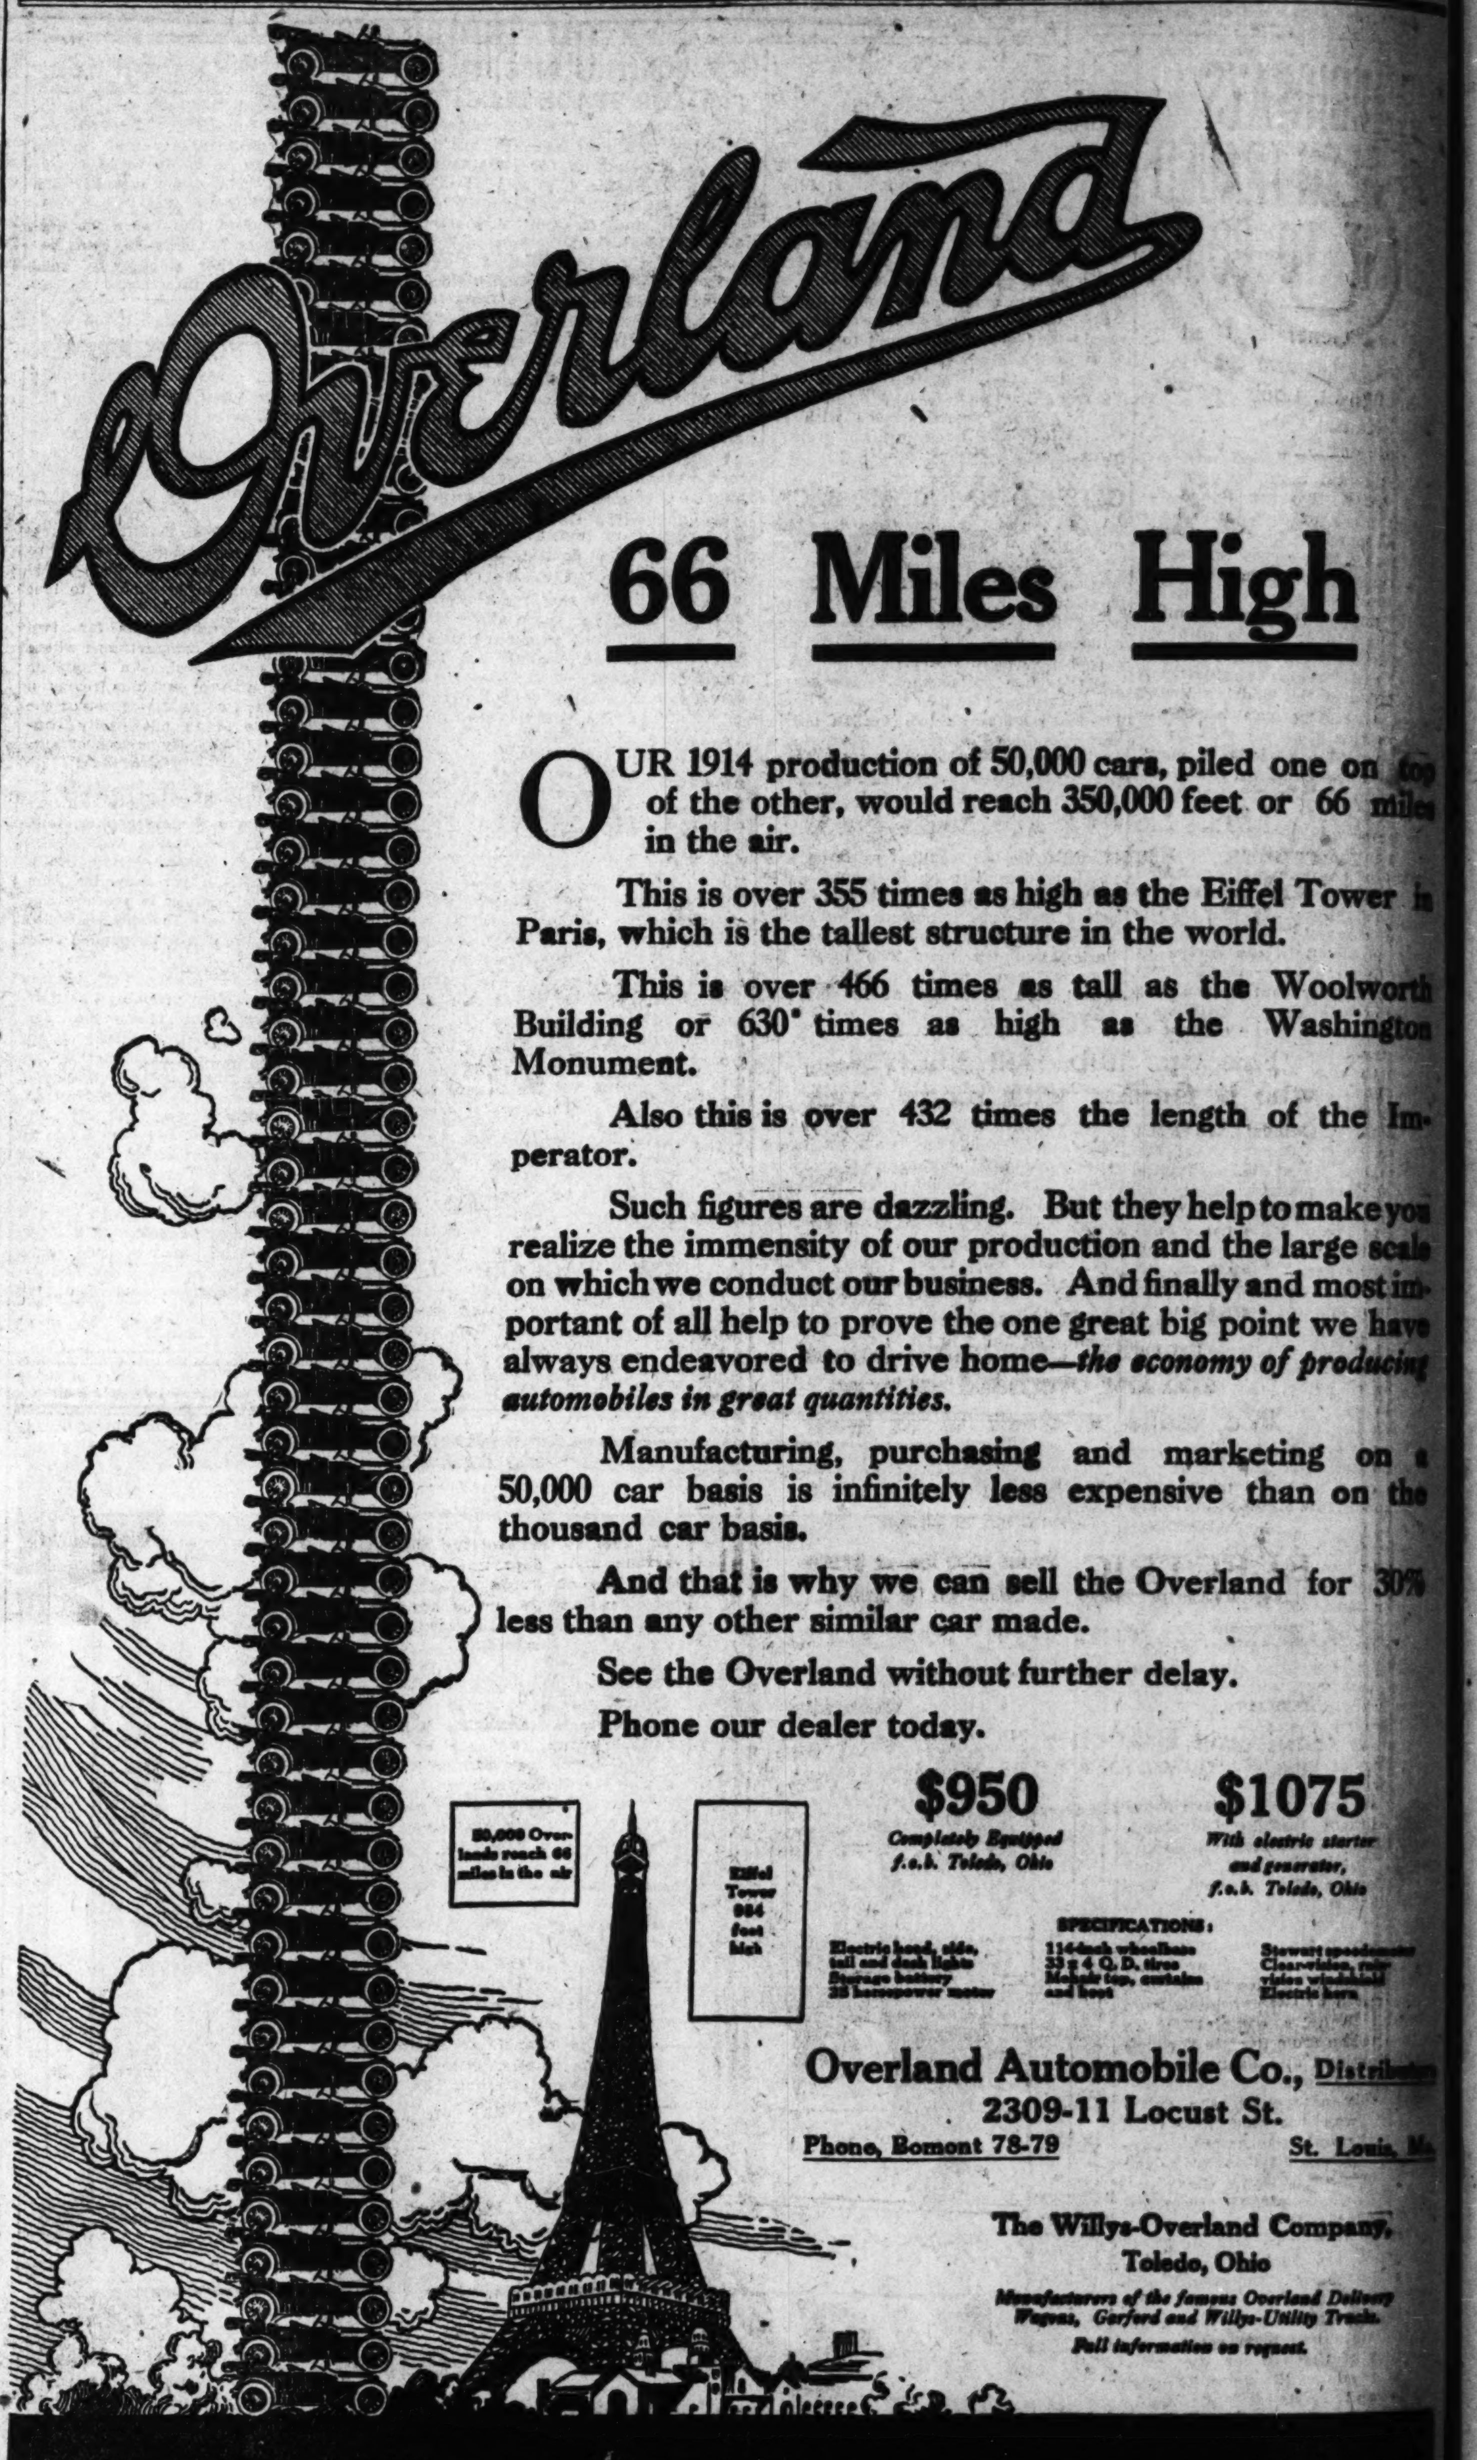
Word to the Weber Implement and Auto Co. says that an outgrowth of increased production at the Lozier plants has been the organization of a young men's social and athletic club.

Over 75 young men employes met in the assembly room at the Detroit factory this week and completed plans for the club, which has been named the Lozier Young Men's Club. A constitution and by-laws were drawn up and officers elected at the "hurrah" mass meeting of office men, factory foremen and inspectors.

Membership of the club is to include factory and office employes at both the Detroit and Plattsburg, N. Y., plants of the Lozier company.

FINALINE INCORPORATED

The Finaline Manufacturing Co., maker of Carter's Finaline, "an embalmer and preserver of varnish and paint," has just been incorporated for $20,000. The officers of the company are T. W. Carter, president; B. H. Morische, vice-president and treasurer; Edward L. Foth, secretary and general manager. The company, which is located at 5037 Delmar boulevard, has been doing business for the past two years as a partnership.



50,000 Overlands reach 66 miles in the air
Eiffel Tower 984 feet high

66 Miles High

OUR 1914 production of 50,000 cars, piled one on top of the other, would reach 350,000 feet or 66 miles in the air.

This is over 355 times as high as the Eiffel Tower in Paris, which is the tallest structure in the world.

This is over 466 times as tall as the Woolworth Building or 630* times as high as the Washington Monument.

Also this is over 432 times the length of the Imperator.

Such figures are dazzling. But they help to make you realize the immensity of our production and the large scale on which we conduct our business. And finally and most important of all help to prove the one great big point we have always endeavored to drive home—the economy of producing automobiles in great quantities.

Manufacturing, purchasing and marketing on a 50,000 car basis is infinitely less expensive than on the thousand car basis.

And that is why we can sell the Overland for 30% less than any other similar car made.

63370 MILES OF BAD ROADS

Missouri has 117,634 miles of dirt roads and 63,370 miles are wholly unimproved, according to figures obtained from State Highway Commissioner Buffum. There are 54,264 miles of improved dirt roads, that is, roads graded up or dragged. The State has but 3420 miles of gravel roads, 1417 of macadam, 50 of patent surface, 570 of sand clay, 700 of chat and 342 with miscellaneous dressing.

There was expended upon the public roads $4,755,315 in 1913. Of this amount, $1,312,876 was County Court appropriations; $113,500 from the State for road dragging, $387,274 was donated, $352,739 was appropriated by road districts and $1,692,102 came from the bridge fund.

Neither Gov. Major nor Democratic candidates who would succeed him as Governor has advocated the adoption of the constitutional amendment submitted by the last Legislature proposing a 10-cent levy on the $100 valuation for road purposes.

Gov. Major says he will call two good road days again this summer.

KENTUCKY TO PUT CONVICTS AT WORK ON HIGHWAYS

Constitutional Amendment Adopted Gives This Option to Authorities—25 Governors Favor Convict Road Work.

The movement for placing convicts on the road received a fresh impetus last month, when a constitutional amendment was passed in Kentucky, permitting the use of prisoners upon the public highways. Previous to this, all Kentucky prisoners were employed within the walls of the institution under the contract system, but, pending the passage of the amendment, the prison commissioners refused to renew a contract soon to expire, so that convicts will be available for road work as soon as the necessary legislation can be enacted.

Plans for drafting such legislation are well under way, the chairman of the Legislative Council of the Kentucky Federation of Labor, Peter Campbell of Louisville, being particularly active in this direction. Mr. Campbell is also a member of the Executive Committee of the National Committee on Prison Labor, which organization is working in close co-operation with him in preparing this road legislation.

Twenty-five Governors have placed themselves on record as favoring the working of convicts in the construction and repair of highways, according to a compilation of the discussions of prison labor in their last message to the Legislature, recently issued by the National Committee on Prison Labor.

Convict road work is advocated by the Governors, both because of the healthful nature of such work and owing to the fact that convicts who have been employed in this way can more readily find employment when released, while many of the Governors also point out the benefit to the public from better roads secured at a minimum cost.

Gov. Dunn of Illinois states that humanitarian reasons underlie the employment in open air work of this sort wherein and whereby the convicts are restored to society with their manhood quickened instead of deadened or destroyed.

Gov. Oddie of Nevada, who was instrumental in securing the passage of the legislation which provides for convict labor road work in that State, is enthusiastic as to the success of the plan.

CITIES ADOPT MOTOR CARS

Municipalities of the United States are rapidly adopting the Ford idea of transportation, and already there are many hundreds of "the Universal Car" used to transact the business of various civic departments. Newark alone has 40 Fords in city service, and Cleveland 26, while hundreds of other municipalities, ranging from town to metropolis, are using one or more.

From the beginning the Ford has been popular with city officials. Modern business demands automobile transportation, for only by the use of the motor car can city officials and employes do their work with the greatest economy and expedition. Public works departments, school boards, sewer, road and park employes, fire departments, water boards—in short, the innumerable branches of the great business of running a city find the motor car indispensable, and it is no longer uncommon for the boards of aldermen and similar legislative bodies to pass large appropriations for the purchase of city cars.

The Ford branch at Boston, serving all the smaller cities and towns of Massachusetts, such as Lowell, Gloucester, Cambridge, Springfield and Waltham, reports that it has sold 55 Fords for municipal use. Cleveland has a record of 35, of which 26 are within the city. The New York City territory has 93 in operation, while Los Angeles has sold 65 to municipalities in its territory.

BRISCOE'S CYCLE CAR

Officials of the Argo Motor Co. of New York, recently announced manufacturers of a $295 car in the cycle car field, will be Benjamin Briscoe, president; D. E. Latta, vice-president and general manager, and F. D. Dorman, former secretary of the United States Motor Co., and of the Maxwell Motor Co., secretary and treasurer. The Argo car is to be produced simultaneously in America and in Europe, but the European product will be friction driven while the American car will have cone clutch, shaft drive, sliding gears and bevel drive.

FREAKS NOT DESIRABLE

"A tendency among a large class of buyers to want something a little different from standard models is handicapping the production of many automobile factories," says a well-posted dealer. "Of course, we have to meet this demand, just as do all builders of high-grade cars, but I believe many make a mistake in not buying the standards. It stands to reason that the designer has given considerable thought to the subject and adopted equipment that seemed to him, as an expert, to best suit the requirements of harmony, quality and good taste."

TRUCKS TO PUMP HOT TAR

The White Co. of Cleveland, O., announces the sale of three five-ton trucks to the Good Roads Co., contractors, of Baltimore, Md. These trucks will be built with power transmission tank bodies for sprinkling and spreading hot tar and other road binding materials.

The tank bodies will be built with a steam generator and a series of interior steam pipes for maintaining the tar in the proper state of fluidity and the power transmission will operate an air compressor to force the fluid through the passages to the spreading outlet.

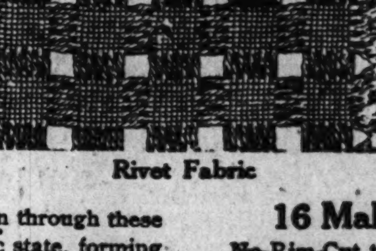
How Goodyear Fights Loose Treads

After we ended rim-cutting we took up loose treads—another major tire trouble.

At the base of the tread in every tire there must be a breaker strip. In all tires save Goodyears this strip is made of closely-woven fabric. And road use often separates this breaker strip from the rubber.

We bought the rights to a patent fabric which we picture here. It cost us $50,000, and it forms our breaker strip.



Rivet Fabric

This fabric rivets itself to the rubber. The tread rubber is forced down through these openings, while in a plastic state, forming hundreds of large rubber rivets. Then the whole tire is vulcanized en masse.

This lessens by 60 per cent the risk of this tread separation. And no other maker employs it.

Millions Saved

That is one way in which we save tire users millions of dollars yearly.

Another is our "On-Air" cure. No-Rim-Cut tires are final-cured on air bags, under actual road conditions. This saves the countless blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric. This extra process costs us $1,500 daily, and no other maker employs it.

In these tires alone is rim-cutting ended in a satisfactory way. We control the method.

And these tires alone have our double-thick All-Weather tread—a smooth-running anti-skid.

16 Makes Cost More

No-Rim-Cut tires are the only tires embodying these costly features.

After years of tests on countless cars they have come to outsell any other tire in the world.

Yet there are 16 makes of tires which sell at higher prices. Some nearly one-half higher. Two such tires cost as much as three Goodyears. That's a curious situation.

MEDAL AWARD TO ITTNER ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

Designer of St. Louis School Buildings Is Commended for His Work.

The presentation last week by the St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects of a bronze medal to William B. Ittner, architect for the Board of Education, and the indorsement of his work in designing St. Louis school buildings, has attracted much attention from other chapters of the Institute, where Ittner's work is well known.

The medal which bore a likeness of Michaelangelo, was the first ever given by the St. Louis Chapter and was inscribed, "Presented to William B. Ittner by the St. Louis Chapter, American Institute of Architects, in recognition of his marked, meritorious achievement in the design and construction of school buildings."

Ittner is the originator of the St. Louis style of school buildings, generally pronounced by architects to be the most perfect known. He has designed buildings in many parts of the country, and has now in course of construction a $1,000,000 high school building in Washington, D. C.

His plans have been copied by many other architects, and he is said to have almost revolutionized the plan of school buildings.

Buildings he has designed for cities other than St. Louis are: high and grammar schools at Columbia, Mo.; high schools at Wichita, Kan., Richmond, Ind., Shelbyville, Ind., Lafayette, Ind., South Bend, Ind., Nashville, Tenn., Minneapolis, Minn., Hibbing, Minn., Montevideo, Minn., Rockford, Ill., Clarksburg, W. Va., Fort Smith, Ark., Greenfield, O., Salt Lake City, Utah, Lincoln, Neb., Erie, Pa., and grammar schools at Shelbina, Mo., University City, Mo., Kennett, Mo., Highland, Ill., Carthage, Ill., Dubuque, o., Lincoln, Neb., Kirkwood, and two at Erie, Pa.

THEATER AND DANCE HALL ON DELMAR IS PLANNED

The northwest corner of Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenupe is to be im-levard and Taylor avenue is to be imure. Preliminary plans for the building have been prepared by Clymer & Drieschelr, architects. The building provides for stores both on the Taylor and Delmar sides. The enterprise is being promoted by Lowenstein Bros. Real Estate Co.

In the amusement line the structure will contain a theater and dancing pavilion. The theater will have a seating capacity of 3500, the dancing pavilion will be of a semi-outdoor character and will occupy the second floor. It will be inclosed with large glass doors, which can be thrown open in the summer time. The theater will be of fireproof construction.

One of the principal backers of the enterprise is said to be Joseph Nathan, of Nathan & Wood, proprietors of Dreamland and of similar enterprises in San Francisco, Minneapolis, Detroit and Cleveland.

LIVESTOCK 'CHANGE AND OTHER FIRMS SUED FOR $250,000

East Side Man Says He Was Refused Membership and Discriminated Against.

The East St. Louis Livestock Exchange, the National Stockyards and the principal livestock concerns of the East Side, are accused of being part of a monopoly of nation-wide scope, and of oppressive and extortionate methods, in a $250,000 damage suit filed yesterday in the St. Louis Circuit Court by Labron W. Burton, a livestock dealer of 5082 Von Versen avenue.

Burton charges the exchange rejected his application for membership, forbade its members to employ or deal with him, and cast aspersions on his character and business standing because he had criticised the manner in which the stockyards were conducted. He asks $50,000 actual damages and $200,000 punitive damages. John Cashman is his lawyer.

Defendants Named in Suit.

The defendants named in the petition are the St. Louis Live Stock Exchange, National Live Stock Commission Co. of St. Louis, National Live Stock Commission Co., Stewart, Son & McCormack, C. M. Keys Commission Co., Raffety Live Stock Commission Co., Drum Commission Co., Milton-Marshall Live Stock Commisssion Co., Evans-Snider Buel Co., Clay Robinson & Co., St. Louis National Stockyards Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., (of New Jersey), Morris & Co., (of Maine), M. A. Bright, W. H. Keys, W. S. McBride, Carr Smith, J. C. Stickney, H. W. Mann, William Cassell, John H. Sanders, C. M. Raffety, H. B. Carson, A. J. Milton, H. F. Perry, E. S. Coddington, Louis Dragoff, Perry C. Sparks, Jesse L. Henry, Charles A. McCormack, W. W. Stewart and R. B. Stewart.

Reveals Commission Rates.

Burton's petition purports to expose the methods of the Live Stock Exchange and gives a schedule of the commission rates which, Burton says, have been agreed upon, and which, he says, the organization maintains. These rates range from 20 cents a head for hogs and sheep to 60 cents a head for cattle, with maximum and minimum limits on the charge for one car.

He says that, before the alleged combination was formed, commission rates were 30 per cent lower than those now charged. He says the rates were increased in 1912. This rate agreement, Burton charges, is authorized in the rules of the exchange.

The exchange and the firms named in his suit, Burton charges, form a sort of close corporation with unwritten rules by which outsiders are barred. The packers, he says, have excluded salesmen not members of the exchange, and will buy no stock from owners except through the medium of exchange dealers.

Charge Working Agreement.

The further charge is made that there is a working agreement between the East Side yards and yards at Chicago, Peoria, Kansas City, Fort Worth, St. Joseph, Omaha, Sioux City, Louisville, Denver, Portland, Ore., St. Paul, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Under this agreement, Burton alleges, if a person declined an offer for livestock at any one of these yards, a description of the stock and the price offered is forwarded to the other yards, and if the owner should ship his stuff to any of the other yards, no greater price would be offered for it there, even if the market quotations for the day happened to be higher.

By a secret understanding between the packers and the dealers, Burton charges, the dealers can charge shippers as much as they see fit for yardage and feed. Charges of high prices and, in some cases, of short weight, in feed, are made. As there is no other general market for livestock in this section, Burton says, the owners must submit to the conditions imposed or suffer greater loss. Most of the companies, he declares, are so rich and powerful that no one dares to oppose them.

Says They Appoint Inspectors.

Burton alleges that cattle inspectors are appointed by the concerns he has sued, and that appeals from their decisions are made unprofitable for shippers by high arbitration fees. He declares the exchange's membership fee, $2000, is excessive, and excludes many persons from selling stock at the yards.

He says he had been many years in the livestock business before coming to St. Louis, and that he felt forced to protest against methods he found at the East Side yards. Then, he says, the defendant concerns refused to buy stock from him or have any dealings with him. He applied for membership and deposited the fee, he says, but his application was rejected, and, he adds, other stockyards were notified of this action, and accusations against him were forwarded to them.

W. H. Keys, who is among the defendants, both as president of the St. Louis Livestock Exchange and an individual dealer, told a Post-Dispatch reporter at the American Hotel last night that Burton's suit would be bitterly contested, but he declared he was unprepared to make a statement.

"The defendants' side of this litigation cannot be covered in a statement without due deliberation," he said, "and I have not had time to formulate any answer."

Asked if the exchange had any such body as an "Eligibility Committee," that held power to approve or reject applications for membership, and whether the rules of the exchange fixed maximum and minimum commission charges, Keys said:

"I don't remember."

Carson Denies Charges.

Harry B. Carson, secretary-treasurer of the Stewart, Son & McCormack Commission Co., one of the firms named as defendants, denied some of Burton's allegations. He declared there is no trust or monopoly and that any owner of cattle can sell or buy stuff on the market without being a member of the exchange.

The commission rates as outlined in the published accounts of Burton's complaint, he said, were correct. But they provided only for commission accounts, he said, and did not affect the owner's right of trading. He said that a charge of $1 a bushel for corn and 85 cents a bale for hay is made to shippers, who buy feed at the yards, but said there is nothing to prevent a shipper from supplying his own feed whenever he so desires.

While it is true, Carson said, that a small yardage charge is made for livestock held there, the charge is remitted to shippers who move their stock out without sales. He denied there is a working agreement by which charges at one yard are made for yards in other cities, regardless of advances or depreciations in market prices. The inspection of cattle, he declared, is under the supervision of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Veterinarian.

HE REDUCED 57 POUNDS.

New Method of Flesh Reduction Proves Astonishingly Successful.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 4.—Investigation has fully established that Hon. H. T. Stetler of this city has reduced his weight 57 pounds in an incredibly short time by wearing a simple, invisible device, weighing less than an ounce. This, when worn as directed, acts as an infallible flesh reducer, dispensing entirely with dieting, medicines and exercises. Many prominent men and women have adopted this easy means of reducing superflous flesh, and it is stated the inventor, Prof. B. Burns, of 17 West Thirty-eighth street, New York, is sending these outfits on free trial to all who write him.—ADV.

HOUSE COMBINE PLANNING TO KILL HALLER BRIDGE BILL

A. & M. Supporters Say They Will Fight Proposed Special Election on June 30.

Alton & Mississippi combine leaders in the House of Delegates plan to kill the Haller bill authorizing a special election June 30 on the $2,750,000 free bridge bond issue measure indorsed by 40,935 registered voters by initiative petition, and a lively battle will be waged by Reber approach supporters next Friday, if the measure is reported then.

Delegates McCarthy and Gallagher have announced they will fight the Haller bill, but an attempt to poll the other members who have been for the A. & M. proposition revealed most of them refused to talk for publication until the committee reports. The bill will be read in the House for the second time Tuesday and sent to committee. It could be reported for passage at the meeting on Friday.

Delegates Brokaw, Schwartz and other Reber approach advocates will move to have the bill acted upon at the first opportunity, they say. Delegate Deffaa of the Seventh Ward, a Democrat, who has supported the A. & M. at times, but signed the Reber approach initiative petition, will be an addition to the forces behind the Haller bill, because it is a duplicate of the initiative petition measure in all essentials.

The initiative will be invoked for the first time in St. Louis when the Election Board certifies tomorrow to the Municipal Assembly that 40,935 names of legally qualified signers are appended to the Citizens' Committee petition demanding a special election on a bond issue of $2,750,000 for the construction of the Reber approach to the free bridge.

Under the charter amendment adopted in 1912, the petition requires 30,660 signatures, or 25 per cent of the vote cast for Mayor at the last election to invoke a special election. The lists canvassed by the Election Board were found yesterday to contain 10,275 additional qualified signatures, after 11,114 had been stricken from the original petition.

It is mandatory now for the Assembly to pass an ordinance authorizing a special bond election Nov. 6, or submit the ordinance to a special election. The Assembly must act within 40 days from tomorrow, or by May 14, three weeks after the new session convenes April 21.

The refusal of the House of Delegates to pass the Hines bill providing for an election on a $2,750,000 bond issue to complete the free bridge, resulted in the first successful resort to the initiative.

The Hines bill is now pending before a special joint conference committee, and the Council Friday passed the Haller bill, fixing the date of a special bond election on June 30, to give the lower branch an opportunity to save time by advancing the date of the initiative ordinance.

A. & M. combine leaders in the House plan a fight on the Haller bill which will be sent to a House committee Tuesday night, and they are trying to compel a double election upon the initiative ordinance instead of themselves voting to submit the bonds at an election which would save the taxpayers about $80,000.

Delegate McCarthy told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he would not only oppose the Haller bill, but would fight any attempt to act on the similar initiative ordinance at the new session of the Assembly convening April 21, on the ground that the ordinance expires like ordinary legislative bills with the end of the present session.

City Counselor Baiard told the reporter that the initiative petition is addressed to the Municipal Assembly and not to any particular session of it, and that within 40 days from the date of introduction of the ordinance, the Assembly must pass it or submit it at a special election. Baird said the Assembly can be forced by mandamus proceedings to act on the petitions, and this opinion was given Baird a month ago by Judge Dillon of New York, the city's special counsel in all bond issue matters.

Delegate Gallagher, another A. & M. leader, has not joined McCarthy in his stand against the legality of the initiative petition if it is carried over to the new session, but is determined to fight the Haller bill and force two elections under the initiative petition.

The Haller bill is identical with the initiative ordinance, except as to the date of an election, and a proviso in the Haller bill that any surplus after the construction of the eastern railway and highway approaches may be devoted to the completion of western approaches and the paving of bridge spans, estimated at $374,000. This proviso was added to a copy of the initiative ordinance by City Counselor Baird and adopted by the Council Friday.

The House must act within two weeks on the Haller bill, as the present session ends when the next session convenes April 21.

Council members told a reporter of the Post-Dispatch that they would oppose the calling of a special election June 23, for the submission of a general improvement bond issue of $9,700,000, as recommended in a bill introduced by a joint committee last week. The bill will be the subject of a public hearing tomorrow at 2 p. m., before the Council Ways and Means Committee.

The fact that a revision of the registration is to be conducted July 11 by the Election Board, in connection with the State primaries, Aug. 4, may force the selection of an autumn date for the general bond issue election. Chair Dabelle of the Election Board told a reporter that it would vitiate a bond issue to permit a revision of the special registration, required by law to intervene before a bond election. The Council majority is determined to permit no confusion of the bridge bond question by submitting any other bond proposition at the same election or prior to it.

"THERE IS BUT ONE FAIR AND HONEST WAY"

To Determine the MERIT of a Ready-to-take Medicine

No one can speak positively of the worth of any medicine until he has tried it. Not tried it on others, but tried it on himself. Any one who has been afflicted with a chronic ailment and experienced relief from some remedy, he and only he can give testimony that is worth anything concerning the remedy.

The people who have taken Peruna know what Peruna is. The people who have read about Peruna or heard about Peruna, have a more or less imperfect knowledge of it. The true test, the only fair and honest way, is to try it. Read the remarks below, made by people who know Peruna. If you are interested, send to us for the "Ills of Life," full of similar testimonials from honest men and women all over the United States.

Mrs. A. E. Stouffer, R. R. 1, Sabetha, Kas.: "Peruna has given me health and strength; it is the best medicine that was ever made for women. My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman. I talk to every one about Peruna. I cannot say too much for it."

Mr. Isaac Horrenga, Fremont, Mich., writes: "I was taken sick last spring, unable to work for three months and a half. My weight was reduced to 135 pounds. At last I was advised to use PERUNA. I have now gained my usual weight. PERUNA gave me a splendid appetite. I feel strong."

Miss Marie E. Lesser, No. 922 26th St., Chicago, Illinois. "I was troubled with systemic catarrh for years. The catarrh had got all through my system, head, throat, stomach and other internal organs. Tried many remedies. Did no good. Took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend. Was surprised at results. I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me."

Mrs. Alvina Piamann, No. 2635 Elm St., Milwaukee, Wis. "I am now able to do my housework again, and have a good appetite. Peruna did it for me. We always keep Peruna in the house. We all use it, my husband and children. I thank you a thousand times for your advice."—ADV.

TOBACCO HABIT

A very interesting book has been published on tobacco habit—how to conquer it quickly and easily. It tells the dangers of excessive smoking, chewing, snuff using, etc., and explains how nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, weak eyes, stomach troubles and numerous other disorders may be eliminated through stopping self-poisoning by tobacco. The man who has written this book wants to genuinely help all who have become addicted to tobacco habit and says there's no need to suffer that awful craving or restlessness which comes when one tries to quit voluntarily. This is no mind-cure or temperance sermon tract, but plain common sense, clearly set forth. The author will send it free, postpaid, in plain wrapper. Write, giving name and full address—a postcard will do. Address: Edward J. Woods, 534 Sixth avenue, 250 F, New York City. Keep this advertisement, it is likely to prove the best news you ever read.

FORMER HEAD OF PEORIA SCHOOLS GUILTY OF FORGERY

Newton C. Dougherty Is Convicted Again; Served One Five-Year Term.

PEORIA, Ill., April 4.—Newton C. Dougherty, former banker and School Board head, was tonight found guilty of forgery of school scrip while secretary of the School Board in 1888. The jury was out two hours, and took three ballots, two of them informal. The first stood 11 to 1 for conviction, the second 12 for conviction and the third, a formal ballot, the same.

Dougherty was released on a Sheriff's bond of $1300 until Monday at 9 a. m., when he will file a motion for a new trial. In addition, he is held by $30,000 bonds in Peoria and Mason Counties.

This is Dougherty's second conviction for crimes committed more than 26 years ago, the first being in 1905, when he pleaded guilty to forgery, and served five years in the State penitentiary.

State's Attorney McNemar, in his closing argument, branded the defendant as "the most colossal fraud that ever walked the streets of any city, fooling citizens of his own and other communities and the members of his own School Board into thinking him an honest man."

The prosecutor referred to the defendant's confessions of theft and forgery on other counts than he is now being tried which extended over a period of nearly 20 years and which amount to approximately $400 a month, according to the evidence.

Dougherty's attorney defended his client, telling the jury that Dougherty had served five years in the State penitentiary at Joliet for the crimes that he had committed, that he is 67 years old and that another term in prison would kill him. His counsel declared that the accused man was being "hounded" and persecuted by an endless chain of circumstances.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS VISIT THE POST-DISPATCH

Missouri University Visit St. Louis to Get Insight of Mechanical End of Newspaper

Fifteen seniors of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, accompanied by F. L. Martin, acting dean, and C. G. Ross, associate professor, and Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Ross, visited the Post-Dispatch yesterday afternoon to make a study of the mechanical departments as a part of their training.

The party came to St. Louis Friday to inspect newspaper plants, type foundries and engraving establishments of the city and learn about the mechanical end of newspaper making.

After being escorted over the Post-Dispatch building the members of the party were taken on an automobile trip through the West End as guests of the Real Estate Exchange. They returned to Columbia this morning.

There are 130 students, the largest number ever enrolled, in the school of journalism this term. The class of 22 to be graduated is also the largest since the school was started, six years ago. It has been ascertained that 90 per cent of the graduates of the school are engaged in newspaper work.

The students who made the trip to St. Louis are: Guy Trail, New Haven, Mo.; Robert K. Tindall, Fayette, Mo.; Thomas E. Parker, Carterville, Mo.; C. F. Moss, Kansas City, Mo.; H. L. Fry, Rich Hill, Mo.; W. J. Nolle, Canton, O.; O. G. Carpenter, Eldon, Mo.; Oliver N. Gingrich, Columbia, Mo.; E. V. Nash, St. Joseph, Mo.; Miss Edith Riley, University Place, Neb.; Miss Anne S. Evans, St. Louis; Miss Merze Marvin, Shenandoah, Io.; Miss Rosalie Tumalty, St. Louis; H. W. Smith, Vandalia, Mo.; C. M. Elliott, Pana, Ill.

MAIL CLERK WHO ONCE DISAPPEARED IS DEAD

B. F. Gravely Said Uncontrollable Desire to Go Away Caused 33-Day Mystery.

Benjamin F. Gravely of 2825 St. Vincent avenue, chief record clerk in the offices of the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service for the St. Louis division, whose mysterious disappearance from St. Louis for 23 days in the summer of 1912, attracted much attention, died Saturday of pneumonia in St. John's Hospital. He had been sick five days.

At the time of Gravely's disappearance a nation-wide search for him was made by his family before he returned home.

His explanation was that he had had an uncontrollable desire to go away. He said he had spent the entire time in New York City, and that at all times he knew where he was. On his return he resumed his position in the Railway Mail Service, to which he was appointed from Springfield, Mo., Nov. 16, 1885.

Gravely had saved money and owned stock in several large business concerns in St. Louis.

He was born and reared in Bolivar, Mo., where the funeral will be held. He is survived by his widow and one son, Joseph, a student in the Missouri State University.

ARMY MEN TO GO ABROAD

Officers Will Study Military Science in Europe.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The War Department has made public the names of army officers who will leave for France next July to study methods of military science with French regiments.

Those to be sent are Capt. John W. Barker, Third Infantry, to a regiment of infantry; Capt. A. M. Miller, Eleventh Cavalry, to a cavalry regiment; First Lieut. F. W. Honeycutt and Second Lieut. Edwin St. John Grable, Third Field Artillery, to field artillery regiments; Maj. Morton J. Henry, quartermaster corps, to the school of intendance; First Lieut. John G. Quekemeyer, Thirteenth Cavalry, to the Saumur Riding School; Capt. Frank Parker, Eleventh Cavalry, to the French War Col-

MAN KILLS BRIDE, WOUNDS HER MOTHER, SHOOTS SELF

Texan Objects When Wife of Seven Months Insists on Visiting Parents.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 4.—Because his bride of seven months persisted in visiting her parents, Alfonso Zuniga today shot and killed her, wounded his mother-in-law and then probably fatally wounded himself.

The shooting took place in a street known as "Lovers' Lane," where Mrs. Zuniga's family resided.

KING PLANS TO SEE U. S. WITH QUEEN ELEANORE

Ferdinand of Bulgaria to Accompany Her on Tour if Political Conditions Permit.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria will be accompanied on her American tour by King Ferdinand, if the political conditions in Bulgaria permit. This information has been formally communicated to the United States Government, it was learned today, together with a few details of the proposed royal visit.

The party will sail May 21, on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, from Hamburg, and travel in the United States strictly incognito. The sole purpose of Queen Eleanore is to study the American hospitals and the methods of training nurses in this country.

Under the circumstances the royal visitors will not be regarded as official guests of the United States, which honor they seem anxious to avoid. It is expected, however, that some courtesies will be shown them, and that perhaps a representative of the army and of the navy and a personal representative of President Wilson will be designated to accompany the visitors during their American tour.

WINNERS IN BENCH SHOW OF COLLIE CLUB ANNOUNCED

Twenty-five collie dogs competed for honors yesterday at the fifteenth annual bench show of the St. Louis Collie Club, held at 1113 Olive street.

Interest centered around the struggle between the entries of Miss Minnie Bullock of West Innsbury, Conn., and Dr. O. P. Bennett of Washington, Ill.

Dr. Bennett's great Parbold Picador defeated Miss Bullock's Imna Stormer and his Tazewell Tittle defeated her Imna Blue Girl in the female classes. When it came to the brace class she put in her champion Imna Selected with Imna Blue Girl and defeated the doctor's brace, Parbold Picador and Tazewell Tittle. Imna Selected also won the Dinks Parrish trophy for best of either sex in the show.

Other winners were: Sutherland Signet, Frank B. Hall, Kansas City, puppy dogs; Imna Blantyre, Miss Virginia Henderson, Bridgeton, American-bred dogs; Imna Selected, Miss M. Bullocke, tri-color dogs; Gillespie Girl, Alex Easton, novice females; Springdale Gillespie, Alex Easton, American-bred females; Imna Blue Girl, Miss M. Bullocke, limit females; Termon Heatherbloom, P. J. Friel, St. Louis, sable and white females; Chocolate Queen, Thomas B. Elliott, St. Louis, tri-color females.

The Gerold O'Reilly prize for the best American-bred dog was won by Sutherland Signet; St. Louis Collie Club trophy for best female, by Tazewell Tittle; Parbold Picador got the club prizes for best dog in the open and limit classes. Thomas B. Elliott's Trilby got the Harry B. Hawes prize for the best American-bred female and Foxbar Bayard, owned by President Van Blarcom of the club, got the Philadelphia Collie Club's prize for the best dog owned by a club member, and P. J. Friel's Termon of Heatherbloom got the Chicago Kennel Club's prize for the best female owned by a member of the local club.

METHODISTS SAY PRESIDENT IS FREE TO CHOOSE CHURCH

NEW YORK, April 4.—The New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church this afternoon tabled, after a warm debate, a resolution requesting the President of the United States to discontinue the custom of attending Thanksgiving Mass at the Roman Catholic Cathedral in Washington.

The motion to table was carried by a vote of 80 to 73. The resolution said:

"Inasmuch as that service has been widely construed at home and abroad as the official Thanksgiving service of the United States, we, the members of the New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, most respectfully suggest to the President the propriety of discontinuing the practice."

The resolution provided that a copy be sent to the senior Methodist Bishop in Washington, with the request he lay it before the President.

Dr. Thomas S. Bond, pastor of the Morris Heights Methodist Church, the author of the resolution, and several supporters, including Dr. Wallace McMullen, assistant professor in the Drew Theological Seminary, and Christian Resiner, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, said that in the debate over the resolution no one took exception to the President attending any church he chose, as an individual, but when he attended the Catholic Church with his official family the event could not help assuming an official significance.

It was the opinion of those who supported the resolution that President Wilson was inconsistent in issuing a proclamation urging citizens of the United States to assemble at their own churches on Thanksgiving day and then himself attending a church to which he did not belong.

TELLS WHY CHICKS DIE

I am the Poultry Expert—

I want to send you---ABSOLUTELY FREE---my Book, which has revolutionized the Poultry Business. The title is

"White Diarrhoea and How to Cure It"

This book contains scientific facts which tell how to prepare a simple home solution that cures the terrible White Diarrhoea Plague over night. It tells how you can actually raise 98 per cent of every hatch. I want to send this Book to everyone interested in poultry

FREE

WHITE DIARRHOEA and How to Cure it A TREATISE IT IS ESTIMATED THAT THREE MILLION CHICKS DIE EACH YEAR FROM THIS PLAGUE DESPAIR NOT A REMEDY HAS BEEN FOUND. Published Every Season by Reefer's Hatchery Kansas City, Mo.

Every Chick that dies costs you at least 50 cents. Last season I helped 10,000 people save 2,000,000 baby chicks. This year I want to help 100,000 people save all their chicks. Can I help you, too?

Anyone Can Now Make Money Raising Poultry!

Thousands of people realizing the enormous profits in chickens start in with a few hens each season. No business in the world would equal the poultry business as an easy money maker but for one fact and that fact is that millions of chicks are killed each year by the terrible White Diarrhoea plague. The majority of chicks hatched die in the first two weeks. But now with Mr. Reefer's scientific discovery of a simple home solution this obstacle has been removed, as it actually raises 98% of every hatch and it cures this dreaded disease over night.

So now you can start in the poultry business today with 98% advantage over the smartest poultry raiser that ever made a dollar in years gone by. Think what it means to you! It means Independence and Prosperity. By this discovery Mr. Reefer has added Millions of dollars to the wealth of this country. This great book tells you about it absolutely free.

DIE OVER NIGHT

MY REMARKABLE BOOK tells why millions of chicks die over night. It tells just how to prevent this terrible white diarrhoea plague. It tells exactly how you can make each chick produce from 50 to 75 cents for you. And all this information is free.

Absolutely Free

FEEDING CHICKS

IN addition to many other valuable suggestions, my book tells just how to feed the tender day-old chick; it tells how to care for them and what to give them to eat and drink. This experience is worth thousands of dollars, yet I give it free.

Fine Type of White Leghorn Cockerel, a Breed Highly Valued for Stocking Commercial Egg Farms

FIRST PRIZE PEN COCKEREL, CHICAGO SHOW 1913 WHITE LEGHORN.

WHITE LEGHORNS ARE MAINSTAY OF THE EGG FARMS

Small Birds Are Hard to Breed to Standard, but They Are Profitable Fowls.

There is no let up in the popularity of the White Leghorn, and there will not be. The White Leghorn is popular because it deserves to be popular. It is beautiful and it is as useful as it is beautiful.

White Leghorns outnumber all other varieties combined on the large egg farms of the country, though a few other varieties are doubtless as good layers.

There has been a great development in the Leghorns, especially in the White Leghorns, within the past few years. The old idea of the Leghorn was that it looked more "stylish" if its tail stood straight up. Now such a bird has no chance whatever of winning at a poultry show. Long backs and low tails are the fashion and surely they are more beautiful than the previous styles.

There isn't anything more beautiful in poultry than a White Leghorn, male or female, with a fine five point comb full, well rounded breast, long back, sloping slightly downward, with the tail large, well spread and carried quite low, the bird set upon a pair of good strong legs of good length. The color is as beautiful as the shape. The plumage is, of course, snow white in the ideal bird and a bird with creaminess or brassiness in plumage has little chance of winning. The red of the comb and wattles and the white of the wattles are features of the beauty of this variety, as well as the yellow legs and toes.

The comb is an important section in the Leghorn. On account of its size, which is quite large, a Leghorn comb which approaches perfection is quite rare, so that a cut in a showroom of one point on comb is a light cut. If a Leghorn has a poor comb it can scarcely expect to win in strong competition. According to the Standard, the value of the comb is one-tenth of the whole bird.

Bright yellow legs are most desirable, but not easy to obtain, especially in combination with snow-white plumage. The coloring matter that makes the legs yellow is likely to put creaminess into the plumage, while lack of creaminess in the plumage may mean paleness of legs. The white plumage and the yellow legs are rather contradictory characteristics, but we want this combination.

In other words, while it is not so difficult to breed white Leghorns true to color as in the case of barred rocks, still there are plenty of difficult problems, and a bird that combines excellencies in all the points named above is not often seen in this variety.

Leghorns are kept chiefly for laying purposes. Eggs are the foundation of the poultry business, and the production of eggs is the most profitable branch of poultry keeping.

But Leghorns are not the inferior table fowls many suppose them to be, especially when young. They are not large, but they mature quickly and they reach a weight of a pound and a half to two pounds almost as early as any of the larger varieties, and at this size they are fine as broilers or frys. At any age, if properly fattened, they are not inferior table fowls, thought not equal, to be sure, to some of the larger varieties.

There is a great deal of current discussion among Leghorn breeders as to size. There has been no standard weight for Leghorns, but there probably will be after 1915. The demand is for larger Leghorns than we have been accustomed to, and already the judges are giving the preference, other things being equal, to birds that are larger than the average Leghorn. Few fanciers admire a very small Leghorn, but they do not want to see the Leghorn become a coarse bird like the English Leghorn. A weight of three and one-half pounds in a pullet to five and one-half in a cock is surely sufficient.

DO NOT FORCE FOOD ON NEWLY-HATCHED CHICKS

Nature Intended Their Digestive Organs Should Have 48 to 72 Hours' Rest.

About the last thing the baby chick does before he kicks his way out of the shell is to absorb the yolk of the egg. That is nature's way of providing him with sustenance while he is gathering strength to hustle for himself. This yolk is a generous feed and will amply meet the needs of the chick until he is 48 to 72 hours old, depending on the individual.

During this period the ideal way to care for chicks is to keep them quiet and warm. The digestive organs of the new chick are decidedly delicate and for a day or two after hatching he should not be disturbed unduly until the yolk has been absorbed by his system. To feed chicks before this yolk has disappeared simple to invite trouble. It upsets the natural functions of the digestive organs and may start anyone of several bowel disorders.

It is the chick that has rest and quiet for at least 48 hours after hatching, with no feed, that has the best chance of escaping the many dangers which beset the life of the youngsters from the time they are out of the shell until they are 10 to 15 days old. It starts them off well and they develop quickly into big, growthy fellows.

April is the greatest egg month, usually, and, I think, the best month for hatching chicks. Eggs are most plentiful and they have the most vitality. It's also the month when more eggs are put in storage than in any other month, both because they are plentiful and because April eggs are good keepers.

Try the "water glass" method of keeping eggs. Buy some water glass or sodium silicate, add 10 parts of water and cover the eggs with this solution. Keep them in an earthen vessel preferably. Put the eggs away while they are cheap.

Poultry Problems Solved

Roup.

I have a barred rock cockerel that is getting over the roup and he keeps stretching his neck and opens his mouth frequently as though there is something in his throat that will not come up or go down. He breathes heavily. What can I do for him.

What is a good forcing food for chicks one month old to have layers that will go through the moult this fall? I would like to have them laying by August.—A Fancier.

It is evident that your cockerel has not recovered from the roup. I would suggest that you swab his throat with a solution of carbolic acid and water (one drop acid to one-half tincupful of water). This will relieve the irritation in the throat. Keep your bird out of the draft and in a warm place until he is well.

Feed your chicks any good ration, see that they get plenty of exercise and plenty of green feed and water and they will properly mature and start laying in the fall. Would not advise the use of any of the so-called forcing foods.

White Crested Black Polish.

Will you please let me know where I can purchase some white crested black Polish chickens like the picture in the Post-Dispatch recently?—Mrs. M. W., Cairo, Ill.

We cannot refer you to any particular breeder of this variety. Write to any of the general advertisers on this page or those who mention black Polish.

Imperial White Pekin Ducks.

Could you let me know where I can get some of the white Pekin ducks that were shown in the Post-Dispatch? Also the price of both ducks and eggs.—Mrs. F. S., Breese, Ill.

Any of the advertisers of these ducks on this page will furnish with either stock or eggs. The price will be according to the quality of the stock.

Barred Plymouth Rocks.

I have a light colored barred Plymouth Rock cockerel and seven very dark hens. Is it correct to mate a light cockerel to dark hens to get good colored cockerels?—Mrs. D. W., St. Louis.

The progeny from the mating you describe will not be the proper color. A dark male should be mated to dark females to get good cockerels, and a light male should be mated to light females to get the proper colored females.

White Crested Black Polish.

I notice the illustration of the white crested black Polish chickens. Please advise if I can get a pair of them or a setting of eggs and what they will cost?—J. V. M., Ennis, Tex.

See answer to M. W., Cairo, Ill.

Don't Be Hasty About Killing Your Hens

Simply Get Busy and Command a Top Price Market for Your Excellent Product.

By JOHN F. CHASE,
In Missouri Ruralist.

An agitated Missourian rises to inquire if there is any use continuing in the poultry business, now that eggs are coming in from China by the million dozen. This man thinks he might as well kill off his hens and quit the farm, for when even the commission men get excited and go to holding meetings there is surely something worth worrying over.

It looks very much like the lower prices for eggs and butter. We might as well acknowledge that and make the best of it. But here's consolation for men and women who live on Missouri farms: Stale eggs from China and aged butter from New Zealand cannot compete with the pure fresh product you have to offer if you can send that product direct to the consumer. Such organizations as the egg circle at Salem are going to solve the problem of getting worth while prices for really good eggs. You can market your butter by parcel post and a co-operative creamery will be able to pay you more for cream than you have been getting, even if butter is cheaper. A new postal ruling permits farm produce to be sent in boxes and crates. Why not get busy and try marketing direct?

Let's not kill off the hens for a while at least, but let's get together for mutual benefit. If there is too serious a reduction in the price of farm products and no corresponding lessage of cost of articles the farmer must have, the tariff tinkers may hear something drop in 1916.

What a pity that we waste so much! It is claimed that nearly $50,000,000 is lost in the marketing of eggs in New York City every year from damaged and unsalable stock. Eggs are "perishable," like fresh meat. They must be gathered promptly, thoroughly cleaned and marketed early and in the finest possible form. If they are, the waste will be reduced practically to zero.

Peafowls Regaining Their Old Popularity

Strong Probability That Picturesque Birds Will Again Become Farm Feature.

Time was—in the United States—notably on the Virginia plantations and the great farms of Kentucky, when every farmer of any means had a small flock of pea-fowls; this not alone for the beauty of the birds and the prices their feathers would bring, but because a peacock roast was a tit-bit fit for a king, and whenever one needed a bit of ready cash, he could always find some hotel chef in the nearest city, or some club of epicures ready to pay a munificent sum for this exceptional treat.

Latterly, American farmers, too, are discovering that a few pea-fowl are little more bother to raise than any other fowl, while the prices they will bring from public parks, zoos, owners of great estates, and the like, stand out of all proportion to the amount of cost entailed. More than that, on the farm itself the lovely peacock is indeed an attraction.

Left to themselves, the pea-fowl, according to those who know them best, will frequent the wooded localities on the farm, feeding upon grain, fruits and insects. The birds are polygamous and the females make their nests upon the ground among bushes. The nest is composed of grass and the number of eggs laid is five to six.

The birds roost in high trees, and even in captivity their inclination to get into an elevated position often manifests itself, they preferring to perch upon high walls or upon the ridges of the farmer's buildings.

Skim Milk Is Valuable for Confined Poultry

It Is Considered the Best of all Rations to Supply the Need of Meat.

Many poultry raisers, and especially beginners, find it a vexing problem to supply the meat portion of the ration for poultry that cannot forage for bugs. Where skim milk is available, this problem is quickly solved. Fed to poultry, skim milk has a higher value than when given to any other farm animals.

It has been found that the protein in milk is easily and quickly digested and this feature makes the milk one of the most, if not the most, valuable sources of protein for poultry feeding. Dried casein is also very digestible, comparing favorably in this respect with milk. It is an excellent egg producer.

If milk is not available and meat in some form must be bought, let it be reliable beef scraps. Feeding inferior quality of meat food is very risky where egg production is the desired object. Where hens will not eat meat foods from the hopper it is safest to discard them. Such foods should not be mixed in a mash to induce birds to eat them.

Sprouted Oats Make a Fine Chick Food

Also, This Method Makes Much More Food Than by Feeding the Raw Grain.

If you have not fed sprouted oats there is no use in delaying. You can have them even if you have to use old boxes and tubs. Sprouted oats make fine green food for penned-up fowls at all seasons of the year.

Of course, there are manufactured sprouters, with lamps. These are best. The artificial heat is necessary in cold weather, unless you have a very warm cellar, or unless, as some do, you sprout the oats in the kitchen.

It's great stuff, either for young chicks or for laying fowls. Sprouted oats will stimulate egg production and increase egg fertility. They will make the little fellows grow. They will reduce the feed bill. They are like silo for the dairy cow. They reproduce summer conditions in winter. If you give them

February and March hatched chicks are valuable, especially as winter layers, but the April and May hatched chicks usually have the best quality and win most of the prizes in the winter shows If you don't get April and May hatched chicks in show condition in December and January it is because you have not yet learned how.

Grind about one-third of the hen's feed for her and she wil be more helpful in filling the egg basket.

Missouri Hog Cholera Serum Proves Its Merit

Remarkable Results Are Obtained From U. S. Test in Pettis County.

The United States Department of Agriculture has shown its high estimate of the hog-cholera serum made by the College of Agriculture of the Universtity of Missouri. In a series of tests made last year in Pettis County in co-operation with the farm adviser, the Government experts used only College of Agriculture serum with the result that of 5909 diseased hogs treated only 1033 died, a loss of only 17 per cent.

Heretofore serum has been used only as a preventive. The Government test in Pettis County first proved that the serum can be used as a cure for sick hogs. The ordinary loss in a diseased herd is 75 to 100 per cent, but in all Government tests only 25 per cent of the serum-treated hogs died; and in Pettis County, where college-made serum was used, only 17 per cent died.

Tests in Pettis County showed that when serum was used on well hogs in actually diseased herds, only 2.5 per cent died, and when used on herds exposed but not yet diseased, only 0.63 per cent of the hogs treated were lost. These remarkable results show that the serum is sufficient protection for all practical purposes.

With experienced county farm advisers working with the College of Agriculture in distributing and applying the serum, the farmers of no other state have a better chance for co-operation with the college in stamping out hog cholera.

IT PAYS TO SECURE A TENANT WHO PAYS.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let.." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the STAY-AND-PAY tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house or apartment or store that he finds. HE WATCHES AND ANSWERS "TO LET" ADS.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately is rarely rented injudiciously.

The Post-Dispatch prints more of these "to-let" offers than its two nearest competitors.

BUYERS ARE FOUND BY ADVERTISING — BECAUSE THEY ARE OPPORTUNITY HUNTERS!

If you have something to sell—real estate, suburban property, farm lands, of any sort—there's a buyer for it. You don't know who he is, or where he is. You'd be helpless in trying to locate him—but for the fact that HE IS TRYING TO LOCATE YOU!

For buyers are opportunity seekers. And they have learned that the classified columns are "the Happy Hunting Grounds" for opportunities. Thus, when your "ad" starts upon its quest, it meets the man for whom it was written—also upon HIS QUEST. AND THAT'S HOW "RESULTS" FOLLOW ADVERTISING. The Post-Dispatch reaches more of these opporunity seekers than any other St. Louis medium because it reaches a larger number of readers.

NEXT BRIDE OF WHITE HOUSE IS THE "FAMILY BOY"

Miss Eleanor Wilson, Secretary McAdoo's Fiancee, Likes to Have Lots of Fun.

GOES TO THE BALL GAME

She Plays Golf, Tangoes, Rides Astride, and Prefers Society to Sociology.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 4. — Miss Eleanor Wilson—about whom columns have been printed and concerning whose every movement, now that her wedding to Secretary McAdoo is in prospect, there will be columns more of fact and surmise—is just a very human girl having the time of her life.

Of course, the air is thick with questions and rumors as to just where and when and how the great event will materialize. The real truth as to that is that only the White House knows.

The capital has a little more than a bowing acquaintance with the next White House bride. Miss Eleanor has been pretty constantly right here since her father entered the White House. She has plunged headforemost into the fun of being the daughter of the President of the United States—quite apart from her personal pride and joy in being Woodrow Wilson's daughter. She has gone everywhere and done everything with a zest and a fresh young enthusiasm that have made the attentions offered her a real pleasure to those offering them rather than a perfunstory sort of official duty.

"Baby" of the Family.

Miss Eleanor is frequently alluded to as "the baby" of the Wilson family. She herself is wont to say that she is "the family boy." And there really is something a bit boyish about her—her wide open blue eyes under their fringe of black lashes under the straight, heavy black brows; her clear, healthy, open air sort of coloring—one feels perfectly sure that she develops a freckled nose, on occasion, and a fine coat of tan—her easy vigor of movement; her frank joy of life. She is the one woman of the Wilson family who does not go in for sociology rather than for society. She doesn't devote herself aggressively to the uplift, or trouble herself unduly about schools as social centers; though she is, of course, politely interested in other people's tastes in those directions.

Miss Eleanor is rather less of a "highbrow" than the rest. She has a healthy taste for play—all sorts and plenty of it. She went to the baseball games with her father last season. It was she who went to the local and neighborhood horse shows—without her father. And she went to the fleet target practice at Hampton Roads. Also she went on little quiet week-end cruises down the Potomac on the Sylph, when the President wanted to get away from everybody and everything and just rest for a day or two. She plays a smashing good game of golf.

Inaugural reports credited the President and his daughter with being great walkers given to long tramps. Washington has not found them so. Not one of the Wilson girls has been as familiar a figure on the streets as Helen Taft, or before her, Ethel Roosevelt or before her Alice Roosevelt.

She Likes the New Dances.

Miss Eleanor is seen on foot on the Washington thoroughfares, but not very often. Her chosen companion on such occasions seems to be her fiance's youngest daughter, Sallie, or Secretary Tumulty's eldest, Mary, both school girls, just getting into their teens. Her choicest friends, among girls approximately her own age, seem to be Miss Maitland Marshall and Miss Ruth Hall, more especially the latter.

When Miss Ruth and Miss Eleanor are seen together on the streets of Washington it is most frequently on horseback. All the Wilson girls ride and Miss Eleanor particularly well and fearlessly. She is one of the advocates of the cross saddle and wears a divided skirt.

As for dancing, "Miss Eleanor's simply crazy about dancing!" This is the verdict of all who know her. Nor does she draw any line against the so-called "modern" dances. She tangoes, and she hesitates and she fish crawls and she is all enthusiasm to master every new step or glide or dip that comes to town.

CITY OFFICIALS TO SPEAK

Central Civic Council Invites Them to Annual Dinner.

City officials will be the principal guests at the annual dinner of the Central Civic Council Thursday evening at the City Club, 811 Locust street. Delegates from every improvement association in the city have been invited to attend. It is the only occasion during the year when representatives of all the associations get together.

The Central Civic Council, representing 17 of the improvement associations in the city, meets monthly throughout the year at the Public Library. Among the city officials who will speak at the dinner are Dwight F. Davis, Park Commissioner; Edward E. Wall, Water Commissioner; Charles A. Moreno, Sewer Commissioner; Judge Selden P. Spencer, vice-chairman of the Board of Freeholders; John H. Gundlach, chairman Executive Committee of the Pageant; Edmund R. Kinsey, president of the Board of Public Improvements, and Charles M. Talbert, Street Commissioner.

The Real Estate Agents' sale lists of improved and suburban property in the Post-Dispatch real estate pages suggest the safest investments for unplaced funds.

MARKETS HERE NOT SANITARY, FEDERAL OFFICIAL REPORTS

Does Not See How Patrons Can Tolerate Union Market, He Tells Civic League.

CITY INSPECTION LACKING

Biddle, Soulard and South Condemned as "Fallen Into Decay and Disuse."

That Union Market on Broadway makes one wonder how its patrons can tolerate its lack of sanitary provisions," and that Biddle Market, at Fourteenth and Biddle streets, Soulard Market, at Ninth and Soulard streets, and South Market, 7215 South Broadway, "have fallen into decay and disuse," are assertions made in a report submitted yesterday to the Municipal Markets Committee of the Civic League by George V. Branch, special investigator for the United States Department of Agriculture.

He made a thorough examination of the four public markets owned by the city of St. Louis, at the request of the Civic League, which is planning to take up with members of the Municipal Assembly the advisability of including an appropriation in the proposed general bond issue for the construction of model markets on the present market sites.

"Union Market is about on a par with large markets in several of the greater cities," the Government expert reported. "Stalls with uncovered candy piled high are located along the street outside the building, ready with their sticky products to capture all the filth possible.

Inspection Not Regular.

"Other booths with exposed quantities of cheese, pickles, cooked meats and other products which are not washed or cooked before being eaten, can be found in uninclosed parts of the market. The city does not even provide for regular inspection by a health official, but leaves this important task to the market master, who has never been trained in such work and whose other duties preclude any kind of efficient service in this direction.

"The Biddle, Soulard and South markets have practically fallen into decay and disuse through lack of governing and directing force. A city cannot establish a market and expect it to run itself, any more than a business man could expect such results from a private enterprise.

"When a market gets so dingy and filthy that a person dislikes to enter it, patronage is sure to dwindle, until the market reaches the condition in which Biddle, Soulard and South markets are today. But I could not but come to the conclusion that these markets would make flourishing trade centers if given a chance. A complete overhauling of both the physical condition and the system under which they are conducted would, I believe, place them in a condition to serve a great numbr of persons.

Tile Counters Needed.

"Soulard and Biddle market buildings need thorough renovation and such remodeling as will give plenty of light and air. Cement floors should be laid to drain off water quickly, and all counters should be raised to allow the daily use of hose and scrubbing utensils. Tile and glass counters are especially desirable for the meat stalls. The open market places need substantial paving, provided with proper drainage. Steel sheds are desirable as soon as increased use of the markets will warrant."

Branch recommended that the present four markets be placed on an efficiency basis, but that no movement for additional markets should be undertaken at this time. He declared that the necessity of the present municipal markets has not yet been demonstrated.

The members of the Municipal Markets Committee of the Civic League are: Hanford Crawford, chairman; Prof. W. F. Gephart, vice-chairman; Peter L. Gibson, Trescott F. Chaplin and John M. Wulfing.

Business Openings for Every Man in Your Block

Embezzling Cashier Gets Five Years.

OMAHA, Neb., April 4.—Albert C. Felt, cashier of the First National Bank of Superior, Neb., which recently failed, today pleaded guilty in Federal Court to embezzlement and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Exquisite Hair Tinting

There is a new preparation on the market that is so entirely harmless and so easy to use that there is really no excuse for any woman (or man) to longer tolerate gray or streaked hair.

"Brownatone" meets and overcomes every objection heretofore found to hair stains and is so pleasing in its uniformly splendid results that it has within a few months made thousands of friends, who could not now be induced to use anything else.

"Brownatone" is the result of most exhaustive experiments and is absolutely guaranteed satisfactory or money will be returned.

It positively cannot be detected, will not rub off or wash off, and is harmless, and permanent in every way.

Prepared in two shades—one for golden or medium brown—the other for dark brown or black. Also in two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

A trial size and an interesting booklet will be sent upon receipt of ten cents, or we will fill your orders direct if your druggist insists upon substituting.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

Made only by the Kenton Pharmacal Co., 505 E. Pike St., Covington, Ky.

Sold and recommended in St. Louis by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and other leading dealers.

ILLINOIS MAYOR IS ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT

Four Others Accused Along With Livingston Executive Are Fined.

Joseph Renner, Mayor of Livingston, Ill., charged with assault and battery by Joseph Bibino, was found not guilty in Edwardsville yesterday.

Bibino said the Mayor and five other men made fun of him while he was learning to ride a bicycle, and finally pushed him over so that he fell into some mud, greatly to the detriment of his clothing and his feelings.

Although the Mayor was declared not guilty, fines of $3 and costs were assessed against four participants in the joke—John Neil, Matthew Brown, James Nixon and Fred Ray. The fifth man eluded the officers.

I. C. Commission Suspends Increase.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A proposed increase by the Missouri Pacific Railroad of 2¾ cents a hundred pounds in rates on wheat and corn from St. Paul, Minn., to points in Kansas and in other states was suspended today by the Interstate Commerce Commission until Aug. 3, for inquiry.

RATE INCREASE HEARING ENTERS FINAL STAGE

Officials of Interstate Commerce Commission Hope for Early Conclusion.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission expressed confidence today that the hearing on the general 5 per cent increase in freight rates sought by the railroads had entered on its final stage. Testimony in opposition to the lake and rail shipping interest began today.

This last direct testimony may take two or three days.

Counsel for the carriers expressed willingness today to submit the case without briefs or oral argument. Various shipping interests have reserved the right to file briefs, however.

Seeks to Succeed Cummins.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Representative Maurice Connolly of Dubuque, Io., today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic Senatorial nomination to run against Senator Cummins, Republican, a candidate to succeed himself.

WORKERS FOR BLIND TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

Conference Will Have for Main Object, Prevention of Needless Sightlessness.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Of the 100,000 sightless persons in the United States 40,000 are needlessly blind, in the opinion of many persons devoted to caring for them.

The most important discussion before the First National Conference of Workers for the Blind, which opens here April 16, will be on "The Prevention of Blindness." The plan for the conference originated with the Ohio Commission for the Blind. The list of institutions which will participate is not complete. It is certain that many states will be represented.

In Memoriam.

In memory of my dear wife and our beloved mother, Mrs. Minnie Metzger, who departed this world April 8, 1908. May she still be remembered by those who loved her. Sadly missed by HUSBAND AND DAUGHTERS, BELLE AND MINNIE.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Frederick Jost, who departed this life one year ago, April 3, 1913. Gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear beloved son, brother and grandson, Harry Graubner, who departed this life suddenly, April 5, 1913. Sadly missed by his PARENTS, BROTHERS, SISTERS AND GRANDMOTHERS.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Claude Govar, who departed this life March 31, 1913.

One year ago we parted,
And you left this world of care;
On the road to heaven you started,
While we were weeping here.
Yet our hopes are growing brighter
As we are passing on our way,
For we know the time is coming
When we meet on judgment day.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mary A. Crump (nee Joial), who departed this life March 24, 1911.

Silently the shades of evening
Gather around our lonely door,
Silently they bring before us
The dear face we see no more.
So often we go to your grave,
Lingering there, trying to be brave,
But oh, 'tis hard to bear
To go away and leave you there.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

DEATHS

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear daughter and sister, Dora Volk, who departed this life April 5, 1913.

Like the ivy on the withered oak,
When all things else decay,
Our love for you will keep green
And never fade away.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

In Memoriam.

To my beloved husband, John Goebel, who died April 2, 1912.

Dear husband, you rest in peace from this world of trouble in your grave, thy resting place. With us your soul is in our home, your sorrows and your worries I now alone must carry. I'll not forget thee until death my eyes do close, and in the pleasant heights above I long to meet again.

Your sorrowing wife.
HENRIETTA GOEBEL.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Runge, who departed this life one year ago, April 10, 1913.

Silently the shades of evening
Gather round the door,
Silently they bring before me
That dear, sweet face I see no more.
Rest in peace, your cares are ended,
Rest in peace, your work is done;
You are gone, and those who love you
Now are coming, one by one.

Sadly missed by her daughter.
MRS. WILLIAM SANDWEG. (c)

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of Bertie McNamara, who departed this life April 6, 1909.

The moon and stars are beaming
Upon a quiet grave,
Where sleeps our only brother,
We loved, but could not save.
Heaven now retains our treasure,
Earth the barren casket keeps,
And sad hearts long to wander
Where our loved one sleeps.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of my dear grandchild, Harry Graubner, who departed suddenly April 5, 1913.

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear Harry, loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
Our dear Harry would be called away.
We could not realize what was said
When the message came that he was dead;
But God, who loved him best,
Has taken him home to rest.

Sadly missed by GRANDMOTHER.

In Memoriam.

Sacred to the memory of our beloved daughter and sister, Minnie Finke, who entered into rest April 4, 1913, one year ago.

You are the one that is missing,
The one we loved so dear;
Silent is your kind voice
That we so dearly loved to hear.
Although your hands we cannot clasp,
Your face we cannot see,
Let this little token tell
That we always remember thee.

MOTHER AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of my dear husband, George H. Smith, who departed this life April 2, 1913.

My loving husband, so true and kind,
He was to me in heart and mind
A faithful husband he was as well,
When he on earth with me did dwell.
Human life is like a flower
That blooms and withers in an hour;
My loved one gone and I am left the loss of him to mourn,
But may I hope to meet again with Christ before the throne.

MRS. ALMA SMITH.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of my beloved wife, Clara Heitland (nee Meyer), who departed so suddenly one year ago, April 2, 1913.

Sad and sorrowful was the call
For my dear wife, beloved by all;
I little thought that on that day
My dear wife would be called away.
No one knows how much we miss you,
For you were so good, so kind so true;
It's hard to bear that you are missing,
We sigh, we weep, we pray for you.
Although you are gone you're not forgotten,
Neither shall your memory fade,
Loving hearts will often linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

AUTOMOBILE BARGAINS

can frequently be found in secondhand cars that have been overhauled in our own factory. We now have some demonstrators, show cars, etc., which are being sold for from $400 up. Some of them are equipped with electric self-starters. They can be seen at our showroom, or our salesman will call if you phone us.

MOON MOTOR CAR CO.
4400 N. Main St. (c)

We have the following used cars, which have been taken in exchange on 1914 Locomobiles. All of the cars listed are good, honest buys, built by makers who are thoroughly reliable and represent honest car values. These cars have been priced to move them quickly, and we will appreciate a visit from prospective buyers, whether we sell you or not:

1912 NATIONAL

Repainted, good tires, demountable rims, full equipment. This car was taken care of in the Anheuser-Busch Garage, and anyone conversant with the condition in which their cars are kept will appreciate this buy. Can be converted into a speedster and would be very fast. Act quickly.

$1200.00

MOON ROADSTER

Very classy job, painted bright red. Equipped with bucket seats, demountable rims, speedometer, windshield, etc. Was owned and driven by one of St. Louis' most considerate and careful drivers. The owner had the Moon people thoroughly renew this car. Would make a dandy roadster for someone desiring a classy, speedy car.

ASK THE PRICE

1912 MOON TOURING AND LIMOUSINE

Fully equipped and in excellent condition; repainted and has limousine body. Without double this is the best livery buy in the city. 7-passenger. Presents fine appearance and we will consider terms.

$1000.00

PIERCE-ARROW LIMOUSINE, SIX CYL., 48 H. P.

This car will be appreciated by anyone desiring a high-grade car at a moderate price. The car's appearance would lead you to believe it was this year's car. Beautiful limousine body, in excellent condition. Can secure open body also if desired. Must be seen to be appreciated.

$1300.00

CONTINENTAL SPECIAL LIMOUSINE & TOURING

The best buy in St. Louis. We will demonstrate to your satisfaction that this car is the best automobile value in St. Louis. Has new motor, runs perfectly, good appearance and will climb "Nigger Hill" on high with 7 people. Best livery buy in the used-car market.

$600.00

PACKARD LIMOUSINE AND TOURING

This car was owned by one of St. Louis' oldest automobile owners, was never abused and used mostly for city driving. Car is in good condition. Limousine body looks like new. It is needless to say that at $1100.00

for the two-body job it is a snap.

LOCOMOBILES

We have sold all of our used Locomobiles, which is ordinarily the case, as used Locomobiles move rapidly. We received two Locomobiles in trade last week, and both cars were sold the next day. We have left an excellent car, a guaranteed job, in a 4-cylinder, 30 horsepower, 5-passenger car, which is fully equipped and a high-class value. We will move this car at $1450. Will bring in the neighborhood of $1000 two years from now. Is there any car you can buy with a depreciation of $200 a year? Think it over.

A used car to us means as much as a new one. Our reputation is at stake in every case. Ask any owner who has purchased a used car from the Locomobile. We will supply you names of owners.

YOU CAN ATTAIN EFFICIENCY.

There's no mystery or black art about writing an ad that will sell your real estate. Just tell the facts about it—the facts you'd want to know if you were looking for property yourself—and place the ad in the Post-Dispatch, where the larger number of readers will see it, or request your agent to see that it is kept listed in St. Louis' One Big House, Home and Real Estate Guide.

MARYLAND TERRACE
AND THE
DISTRICT OF OPPORTUNITIES

Go out to Maryland Terrace today and view that beautiful property and the surrounding territory and you will realize quickly that this is the district of real opportunities for investers in real estate.

You have only to recall what happened the past few years in such places as Washington Heights and Parkview Place to realize what will be the results in this district.

Regardless of whether you may want a home or merely buy for investment, you will not do yourself justice unless you investigate the merits of Maryland Terrace and the surrounding properties before you make a decision.

Maryland Terrace offers splendid opportunities because it is a property of the highest class, under the control of one company who specialize in nothing but the development of West Edge subdivisions. When you buy in Maryland Terrace, your price includes all improvements, such as 6-foot sidewalks, telford streets, shade trees, sewers, storm sewers, terraces sodded, etc. The lots average 208 feet in depth, and the property is sanely restricted for residential purposes.

You don't need a lot of cash to buy in this high-class property. A man who has $25 to $50 a month can put it here and reap the splendid profits which are possible under the conditions that govern the future of this district.

This is the close of the ninth week of our Grand Prize Contest and below is the standing of the five leading salesmen up to this time.

This contest will close at midnight on April 20th and don't fail to do all you can to help your favorite salesman in this contest. The line-up at present is as follows:

1st place—K. N. Matthews. 2d place—C. H. Bayless. 3d place—F. C. Gorham. 4th place—F. D. Robertson. 5th place—E. Watkins.

Don't miss the opportunity to go out and see Maryland Terrace today.

YOU CAN PAY OFF YOUR LOAN ANY TIME
It's worth a great deal to you as a borrower to know that you can pay off your loan any time before the 10 years are up. Also in any month you can pay as much more than the required amount as you want.

Many have taken advantage of this liberal provision. Systematic saving makes it possible—the saving of interest is the incentive.

Write, telephone or call for booklet—"THE SAFE WAY TO BORROW."

It's concise, interesting and instructive.

LET US MAKE YOU FAT!

50-CENT BOX FREE!

We Want to Prove at Our Own Expense That It Is No Longer Necessary to Be Thin, Scrawny and Undeveloped

We Invite Every Thin Man and Woman Here, Every Reader of This Magazine Who Is Run Down, Nervous or Underweight, to Get Fat at Our Expense.

"Gee! Look at that pair of skinny scarecrows over there! Why don't they try Sargol?

This is a generous offer to every thin man or woman reader of this paper. We positively guarantee to increase your weight to your satisfaction or no pay. Think this over. Think what it means. At our own risk, we offer to put 10, 15, yes, 30 pounds of good, solid "stay there" flesh on your bones, to fill out hollows in cheeks, neck or bust, to get rid of that "peaked" look, to rejuvenate and revitalize your whole body until it tingles with vibration energy to do this without drastic "diet," "tonics," severe physical culture "stunts," detention from business or any irksome requirements—if we fail it costs you nothing.

We particularly wish to hear from the excessively thin, those who know the humiliation and embarrassment which only skinny people have to suffer in silence. We want to send a free 50-cent package of our new discovery to the people who are called "slats" and "bean poles," to bony women, whose clothes never look "anyhow," no matter how expensively dressed; to the skinny men who fail to gain social or business recognition on account of their starved appearance. We care not whether you have been thin from birth, whether you have lost flesh from sickness, how many flesh builders you have experimented with. We take the risk and assume it cheerfully. If we cannot put pounds and pounds and pounds of healthy flesh on your frame we don't want your money.

How can we do this? We will tell you. We have discovered a remarkable concentrated treatment for increasing cell growth, the very substance of which our bodies are made—a treatment that users say makes indigestion and other stomach troubles disappear as if by magic, and makes an old dyspeptic or a sufferer from weak nerves or lack of vitality feel like a 2-year-old. This new treatment which has proven a boon to thin people is called Sargol. Don't forget the name—"S-A-R-G-O-L." Nothing like it has ever been produced before. It is a revelation to women who have never been able to appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness. It is a godsend to every man who is under weight or who is lacking in nerve force or energy. If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, of which you can feel justly proud—if you want a body full of throbing life and energy, write The Sargol Company, 96-S Herald Building, Binghamtom, N. Y., today, and we will send you, absolutely free, a 50c box of Sargol to prove what we claim. Take one with every meal, and in five minutes after you take the first concentrated tablet of this precious product see how it commences to unfold its virtues. It has by actual demonstration often increased the weight at the rate of one pound a day. But you say you want proof. Well, here you are. Here is the statement of F. Gagnon, who has tried Sargol, and is convinced of its wonderful value:

F. GAGNON writes:

"Here is my report since taking the Sargol treatment. I am a man 67 years of age, and was all run down to the very bottom. I had to quit work, as I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds with 26 days' treatment. I cannot tell you how happy I feel."

WHAT SARGOL HAS DONE FOR OTHERS

We have hundreds of letters like this which we want to send you. Here are gains in weight reported from just a few: C. E. Crouner, 15 lbs. in thirty days; Thomas Davis, 10 lbs. in 16 days; Lenore Patton, 16 lbs. in 30 days; Mrs. Seim, 13 lbs. in 20 days; F. A. Myrick, 20 lbs. in 30 days; Mrs. S. E. Murray, 30 lbs. in 40 days; Mary Bland, 18 lbs. in 40 days; W. W. Allis, 36 lbs. in 50 days; Wm. Carmichael, 5 lbs. in 10 days; Arthur Stewart, 5 lbs. in 12 days; Mrs. C. Craig, 13 lbs. in 30 days; Mrs. N. Gallagher, 18 lbs. in 35 days.

Send today for our Free 50-cent package, and let us prove that

SARGOL SHOULD DO THE SAME FOR YOU

The new treatment is used to increase the red corpuscles in the blood, strengthen the nerves and put the digestive tract into such shape that your food is assimilated and turned into good, solid, healthy flesh, instead of passing through the system undigested and unassimilated. It is a thoroughly scientific principle, this Sargol, for building up the thin, weak and debilitated without any nauseous dosing.

Send for the 50-cent box today. Convince us by your prompt acceptance of this offer that you are writing in good faith and really desire to gain in weight.

We could not publish this offer if we were not prepared to live up to it. It is only the astounding results of our new method of treatment that make such an offer and such a guarantee possible on our part. So cut off the coupon today and mail it at once to the Sargol Company, 96-S Herald Building, Binghamton, N. Y., and please enclose 10c. with your letter to help pay distribution expenses. Take our word, you'll never regret it.

$1000 if We Fail on Our Guarantee. Try It at Our Risk. Mail Coupon Today

Beautiful Hair and Lots of It—If You Use Crystolis

Here at last is a true hair-grower given for a trial on a positive guarantee of success and satisfaction or no pay. Crystolis is guaranteed to grow hair on your head, however bald; to stop hair from falling out, to drive out dandruff, to make thin, short, scant hair grow thick and long; to make oily, matted, stringy hair or dull, dry, dead-looking hair soft, glossy, fluffy and beautiful. It must do this or it is free.

And hundreds and hundreds of people—men and women—living all over America say it has done these things for them, and they give Crystolis all the praise.

We have secured the sole American rights to this great English Hair Treatment, which has been awarded Gold Medals at the Brussels and Paris expositions, and have been amazed at the glowing reports our patrons have given. People say they were bald for years, but now glory in their beautiful, abundant hair. They tell how, with a few applications, dandruff disappeared, how hair stopped falling out and new hair came in less than 30 days' time.

No matter what your form of hair trouble—how long you have been bald, no matter how badly your hair is falling or how many treatments you may have tried, we want to send you some of these wonderful letters to read yourself—we want you to try Crystolis yourself at our risk.

We give you a binding guarantee, without any strings or red tape, that Crystolis must produce a new hair growth for you—make your hair grow long, thick and abundant and give you entire satisfaction—or Crystolis will be free. We are a responsible, reliable concern, have plenty of money to back this guarantee and have deposited $1000 in our local bank which we will forfeit if in any instance we fail to comply with the plain terms of this contract. Don't put this aside. You may lose it or forget it. Cut out the Coupon and mail it, and let us prove what Crystolis can do in your own case. Do this today.

YES—FRIDAY IS UNLUCKIEST DAY IN ST. LOUIS

Surprising facts about accidents, insurance, and industrial life collected by the School of Social Economy

Dr. George B. Mangold, chief of the School o Social Economy, affiliated with Washington University.

WHAT hour of the day are you most likely to meet with an accident?

DO you know WHY more accidents happen on Fridays than any other day of the week?

WHAT is the most dangerous occupation in St. Louis which employs hundreds of men?

WHAT are your chances of having some one give financial aid if you are hurt while at work?

THE Fourth City of the United States may not know it, but it is being exploited as highly interesting material by an ardent group of college clinicists.

This earnest little band of investigators, 68 in all, make their headquarters in a gray stone building on Locust street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth. They compose the faculty and student body of the School of Social Economy, which is affiliated with Washington University. They are individuals of devouring curiosity. Some of the things they want to know are: Why is a poor man? What are the great problems of the laboring population? What is the race problem? How should one go about being charitable? What are the duties and methods of municipal government? What ought to be done with dependent, neglected and delinquent children? What is there to this eugenics question? What ought to be done to make the public healthier? How should playgrounds be supervised? And several other hows and whys.

Rather a tidy little hard-working program, isn't it? Their way to find out the answers to all these questions is not to lock themselves up in a library and read about them, or sit in a classroom and hear drooning lectures about them. Of course neither the library nor the classroom is neglected, but the real method is to trace each problem right into where it lives and try for a strangle hold. That is, if an investigator wished to know about the habits of a hobo, he would go to the Hobo Roost to find out about them at first hand.

Among needy mothers the question "Have you a bath tub?" was almost invariably answered "No."

They do not undertake these direct studies, of course, until they are prepared to do so. The seeker must know in advance what he may reasonably expect and what he should do with anything he happens to find. It is the same principle as that which prevents a medical student from going into the dissecting room until he has learned something about anatomy. Such a student might happen upon the pericardium, but it wouldn't help him much if he didn't know the pericardium from a perinium. So, in the School of Social Economy only the mature, thoroughly grounded students are intrusted with the delicate tasks of conducting excavations under the social cuticle of St. Louis.

The importance of such work, when properly done, can scarcely be overestimated. In the first place, it provides a complete diagnosis for any civic illness that may need attention. In the second, it results in immediate benefit to the persons most in need of help. In the third, it provides a corps of trained investigators, prepared to undertake any social work that public policy may demand.

One of the important industrial problems confronting St. Louis as well as the rest of the country, is to determine the relative responsibilities of employer and employe when workingmen are injured at their tasks. Students at the school, working under the direction of Dr. George B. Mangold, chief of the faculty, have compiled the results of such a study in a way to make possible a scientific consideration of conditions in St. Louis.

Most fatal accidents in St. Louis happen on Fridays and in the afternoon.

ACCIDENTS: Their investigation disclosed that one out of every four fatal accidents in St. Louis happens to men while they are at work. Out of every 100 male persons who die in St. Louis every year, more than two meet violent deaths in industrial accidents. From these figures have been excluded the decrepit and the crippled, so that this relatively large number of slain represents able-bodied men.

More than half of these, the students discovered, are married men and of the married men fully half have dependent children under 16 years of age. In most cases, the men are compelled to use all their wages to provide for the necessities of life. This means that little or nothing is left for dependent families, most of whom are compelled to appeal for public aid.

In their official report, the investigators declared that many of the accidents are preventable and much of the misery following them can be lessened by intelligent legislation. The report purports to show the social significance of 220 fatal accidents, the distribution of the blame, the compensation received from employers, insurance companies or other sources, and whether the loss fell upon those who should have borne it.

It was learned, for instance, that most fatal accidents happen in the afternoon and the largest percentage happen on Friday. From this the conclusion is deduced that as the day grows older and the week grows older, increasing fatigue together with increasing speed as the toilers warm to their work, results in more carelessness and susceptibility to danger. That the percentage is greater on Friday than on Saturday is due to the fact that in many plants Saturday afternoon is a holiday.

The studies shelve once and for all the old superstition that most accidents happen on Monday. Believing that Monday was always heaviest in accidents, in which the workers were at fault, many quasi-philosophers have reasoned that the workingmen drank to excess on Sunday and returned to their tasks unfit. It is shown that Monday has a smaller percentage of accidents due to the negligence of the men than any other day, except Saturday and Sunday.

In the forenoons, most accidents happen between 8 and 9 o'clock and between 11 o'clock and noon. The 8—9 hour is the first hour of work for probably 50 per cent of the group and the second hour for the rest. The men are not properly warmed up, are yet stiff from the previous day's toil and languid from the night's sleep. The high mark just before noon is probably due to speeding up or fatigue or both.

In one-fourth of all accidents no one was to be blamed.

In the afternoons most accidents happen between 2 and 3 o'clock. The hour following 2 p. m. is the most fatal of the whole day. Stiffness caused by a short rest and numbness from a full stomach are thought to be largely responsible for the mortality of this period. From 3 o'clock on the number of accidents declines with each hour, probably because high speed is necessarily lessened toward evening.

In 220 cases studied it was found that 64 were the fault of defective equipment, that 43 were the fault of the workman alone, that 18 were the fault of fellow workmen and that 62 were the fault of both workman and faiulty equipment. Information as to the culpability in other cases could not be obtained.

A more complete digest of the figures shows that 33.8 per cent of the fatal accidents were due to defective equipment and that only 22.7 per cent of the accidents were traceable to the workman's carelessness, disobedience, drunkenness, etc. In 52 per cent of the fatal accidents the fault was due to the employer and fellow workman. That is, the death of more than half the men killed in industrial accidents in St. Louis was absolutely without fault of the victim.

The number of cases classified as pure accidents, without blame to anybody, was 24.8 per cent of the whole. This, added to the 52 per cent just mentioned, makes 76.8 per cent of all accidents due to conditions over which the workmen had no control. From these figures, the students drew the conclusion that the large proportion of accidents due to the risks of the trade ought not to be a burden borne by the unhappy families of the victims, but by the industry itself.

A classification of fatal accidents by industries showed that there are three times as many fatalities among railroad employes as among carpenters, masons, painters and teamsters. About 30 per cent of railroad accidents were found to be attributable to the men themselves.

In a given number of cases the investigators found that out of the total of all financial aid given to the families of the slain workmen, 54.6 per cent came from insurance companies. That meant that, out of a total of $72,992 that went to the bereaved ones, $40,000 came from sources which showed precaution on the part of the individual, while only $32,000 came as compensation from employers, although in an overwhelming majority of cases the working men were not at all responsible for the accidents.

All of this data was obtained by personal inquiries of the investigators and from public records. The facts were obtained scientifically and only statements which could not be controverted were allowed to influence the conclusions. The investigators in this particular bit of research were men, headed by Dr. Mangold.

INFANT MORTALITY: No less interesting and important was research conducted by women students, chief of whom were Miss Etelka Weiss, a graduate nurse of the Touro Infirmary, New Orleans, and Miss Sophia E. Roever of the Research Department of the school. Its purpose was to ascertain the causes of the enormous infant mortality in the congested districts. The conclusion was that an overwhelming number of deaths of infants under a month old are due to the adverse living and working conditions of the mothers in the pre-natal period.

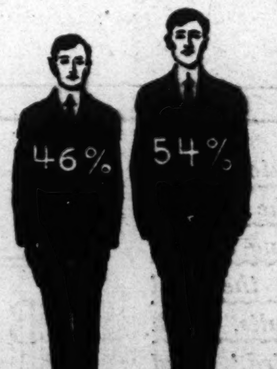
This investigation was accompanied by great immediate good, in that many poor women got the benefits of careful nursing and advice that they could not possibly have gotten in any other way. The total number of cases observed was 234, of which 169 were white women. Of these, 46 received care at the Washington University Hospital Dispensary and 228 were visited in their homes.

All of these were women in the poorest circumstances. Only 23 of the total lived in homes which had a weekly income as high as $15. Forty-one of them lived in homes in which the weekly income was less than $7. Nearly half of the entire number lived in homes where the income was less than $10. In practically every case, the "problem of living was so acute," as a report puts it, "that little care or attention could be given to prospective mothers until they came under the supervision of the dispensary or nurse. In a large number of cases, food and clothing had to be provided and in several children had to be cared for."

"Of the 228," continues the report, "only 11 did not need instruction as to bodily cleanliness and the necessity for proper digestion. Only 18 lived in clean houses. To the inquiry, 'Have you a bath tub?' the answer was almost invariably, 'No.' The few who had this luxury kept it for summer use only."

Reports on some of the cases make pathetic reading. Many of these women hadn't the remotest idea of the necessity of admitting fresh air into their houses, either by day or night. Where there were children they were mostly sickly. Many of the women were so underfed as to make the chances of healthy offspring extremely unlikely.

A great many of the women had symptoms of the conditions which often make child birth mortally dangerous, yet didn't recognize the symptoms. In practically every case the teaching of the investigators wonderfully ameliorated the condition of the women and sowed lessons of sanitary living that have borne fruit in the conditions of many others.



Fifty-four per cent of persons injured get help from insurance companies.

Isolating the cases directly involved in this inquiry, the students discovered that the percentage of deaths of children of the instructed women was actually much lower than the percentage for the whole of St. Louis, although these women lived in districts where the percentage of deaths is much greater than the normal.

These results appear all the more astonishing when it is remembered that most of these women were so unfortunately situated that few comforts could be theirs during the pre-natal

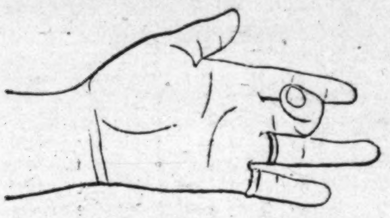
Simple Operation for Curing "Snap-finger"

THAT painful little trouble known as "trigger-finger" or "snap-finger," has annoyed many a person and puzzled many a surgeon. Dr. Robert Abbe has discovered a very simple surgical operation which cures it instantly.

The trouble manifests itself by the little finger, or one of the others, refusing to open after being closed upon a brush or any medium-sized object. The victim uses his other hand to raise the finger, when it suddenly jumps up with a snap and sometimes a little pain.

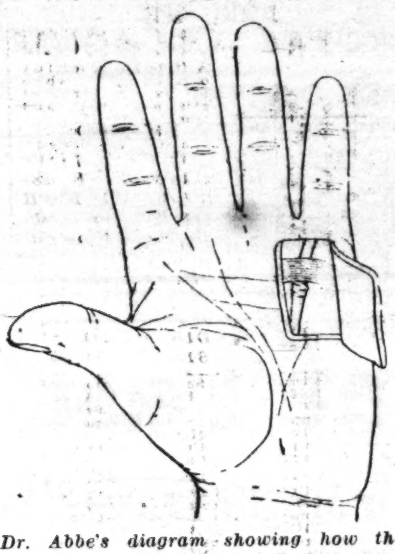
Describing the operation in the Medical Record, Dr. Abbe says:

"Recently a distinguished artist sought relief from this distressing condition. He had been obliged to paint with his palette on a table, because when holding it and his brushes in the grasp of his left hand, the little finger stuck tight down and only admitted relief with a painful snap. I at once painted the part with iodine, inserted a fine bistoury in the flexure crease, and pressing the point down to the tendon, drew it along for half an inch. The relief was instantaneous and final. The finger now closed into the palm and played naturally without catching. A small pad of boracic gauze made pressure for two days and the trouble was cured.



The condition known as "snap-finger."

The tendon is easily located by thumb pressure at the crease, and is not covered by nerve or vessel. Cutting the tendon fibers lengthwise (if one wished to cut deeply, which is not necessary) would in no wise damage the tendon.



Dr. Abbe's diagram showing how the tendon puckers up under the transverse tendon.

"I offer this as the simplest and most perfect operation for the cure of this distressing condition.

The trouble is explained, not by a rheumatic tumefaction of the tendon, but by a crumpling up of the conjoined flexor tendon at the point indicated in the drawing, very much as a tape might crinkle when slack above a slot and refuse to pull back easily.

"This simple operation not only solves the riddle but cures the malady."

What the Ancients Knew About Mustard

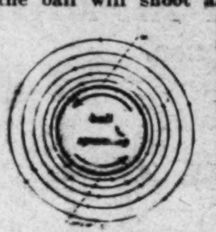
MUSTARD is one of the most ancient medicines. Pythagoras, who flourished between five and six hundred years before Christ, mentions it. Hippocrates, who was born in 460 B. C., employed it. Pliny, the Elder, writing in 77 A. D., describes three different kinds of mustard and says the seeds were imported to Italy from Egypt originally.

The Romans used it as a stimulant after a cold bath; they mixed mustard oil and olive oil in equal parts and used this as a liniment for stiffness of the muscles. They knew the virtues of mustard poultices and of mustard as an emetic. As a remedy for the stings of scorpions and serpents, they pounded it, mixed it with vinegar and applied it to the wound.

They also made a drink out of it, fermenting the seed in a fiery spirit. The liquor thus produced they called mustum ardens, which means burning wine. The word mustard is probably derived from this.

Spitballs and Fadeaways Explained by Mathematician

WHEN the pitcher hurls a curved ball he sets the ball spinning with his hand. The air does the rest. In what direction the ball will shoot and to what extent it will swerve from a straight line are matters that can be calculated to a nicety, for they depend upon a mathematical principle first enunciated by Daniel Bornoulli several hundred years ago. This principle is that in a stream of water or air the pressure is high where the velocity is low and the pressure is low where the velocity is high. Dr. W. S. Franklin, professor of physics in Lehigh University, applies this principle to the curved flight of a baseball in an article in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, from which the following is condensed:



Air whirl produced near a spinning ball; air everywhere at rest except in so far as it is affected by the spinning ball.

To analyze the effect of the air upon a moving ball, it is best to think of the ball as standing still with the air blowing past it, as shown in Fig. 1.

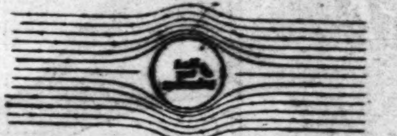


FIG 2

Air stream flowing past a ball which is not spinning.

Fig. 1 shows the air whirl streaming past a ball that is not spinning. Let us consider a combination of Figs. 1 and 2—that is, let us consider how a blast of air streams past a spinning ball. At a the stream and the whirl both give a velocity from right to left—that is, two causes are acting together at a to produce velocity from right to left, whereas the whirl tends to produce velocity from left to right—that is, two causes act in opposition to each other at b to produce velocity. Therefore the velocity at a is much greater than the velocity at b, as shown in Fig. 3. According to Bernoulli's principle, the pressure of the air at b is greater than the pressure of the air at a and consequently the spinning ball is pushed upward by the air stream or blast.

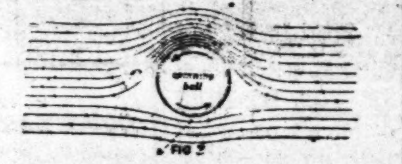

FIG 3

Air stream flowing past a spinning ball. The velocity is high at "a" and low at "b," consequently the air pressure is high at "b" and low at "a," thus producing the unequal forces "F" and "f" in Fig. 4.

The dynamic effects in Fig. 3, where a blast of air blows from right to left past a spinning ball, are exactly the same as the dynamic effects in Fig. 4, where a spinning ball moves from left to right through a body of still air. That is to say, the spinning ball in Fig. 4 is pushed upward by the air, and therefore the ball travels in an upward curve, as indicated by the dotted curved arrow.

Let us call the foremost point N of the traveling ball the nose of the ball. The travelling ball curves in the direction in which the nose of the ball is moving because of the spin. Thus, if the nose of the ball moves toward the right the ball will curve to the right; if the nose of the ball moves upward (as shown in Fig. 4), the ball will curve upward, and so on.

Unequal side forces "f" and "F" exerted on a spinning ball which is moving through the air.

Fig. 5 shows the curved flight of a high foul. The ball is set spinning rapidly as it glances off the bat, and instead of following the symmetrical dotted curve (which it would follow if it were not spinning) it actually follows the curve CC.

When we come to the "spit ball" the problem is far more intricate. The old idea of cause and effect must be discarded, it must give way to chance and the laws of probability.

Consider a very smooth ball which is moving through still water without spinning. There is certainly no more reason why the ball should jump to the right than to the left. Therefore it must continue to move straight forward. That is good logic, but such a ball is no more subject to logic. The fact is that the ball does jump sidewise, and in a most irregular manner. This may be shown by dropping a smooth marble in a jar of still water. The marble goes nearly straight for several inches, and then suddenly jumps sidewise. Similarly a smooth baseball jumps sidewise irregularly as it moves through the air, if the ball is not spinning.

Curved flight of a high foul.

Fig. 6 shows how a rapidly moving stream of air splits when it flows past a ball, and the dividing lines, or vortex sheets, aa and bb between moving and still air are unstable. The result is that the stream of air aa (or bb) spurts upward and downward in irregular succession. When the stream aa spurts downward it produces an upward force or reaction on the ball, and vice versa. That is to say, the irregularities of the streams aa and bb cause a series of irregular side forces to be exerted on the ball.

Showing how a rapid stream splits when it flows past a ball.

The dynamic effects associated with a ball standing in a stream of air as shown in Fig. 6 exist also when a ball moves through still air. Therefore, if a ball moves fast enough through still air to produce unstable vortex sheets the irregular sidewise spurts of the air as it flows around behind the ball will cause the ball to travel in an irregular zigzag path.

The Strength of Shrapnel

SHRAPNEL, says the American Machinist, is really a flying cannon, which shoots its charge while in flight or explodes on contact. Its speed of 500,000 feet per second is produced by a pressure of from 30,000 to 35,000 pounds per square inch from the powder that expels it from the gun. Its bursting charge exerts a pressure of from 20,000 to 25,000 pounds per square inch. The metal of its case has a tensile strength of 135,000 pounds to the square inch and an elastic limit of 110,000 pounds per square inch.

New Portraits OF St. Louis Women

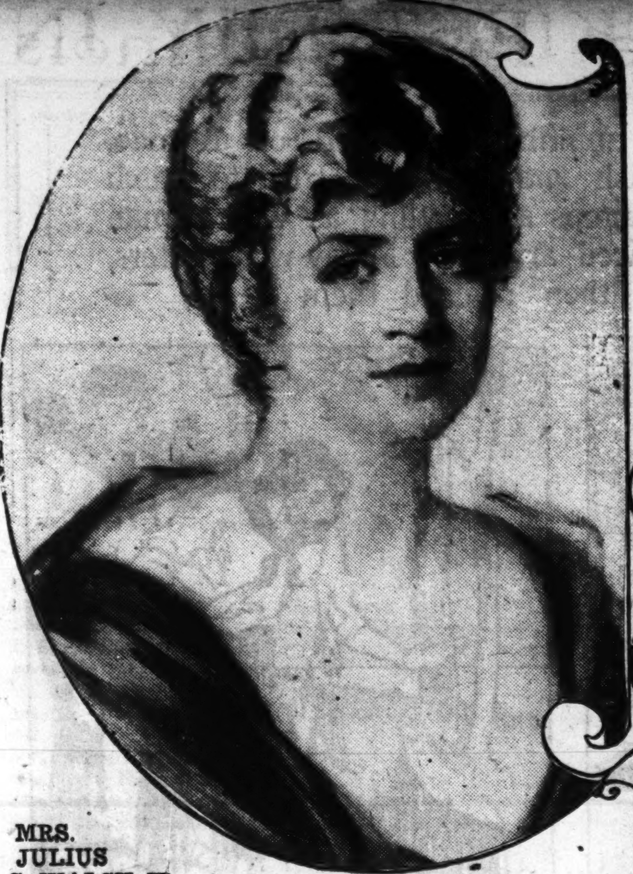
Noted Painter of Royalty



MRS. JULIUS S. WALSH JR.

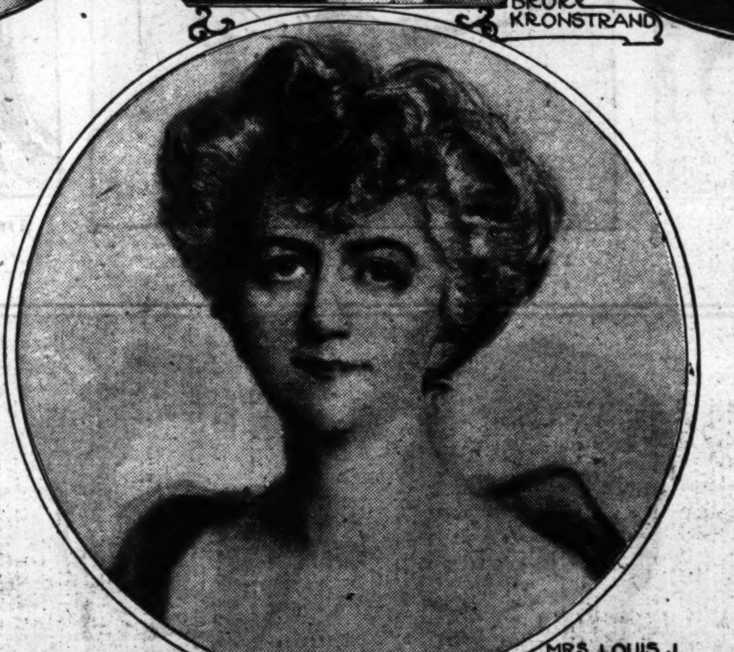
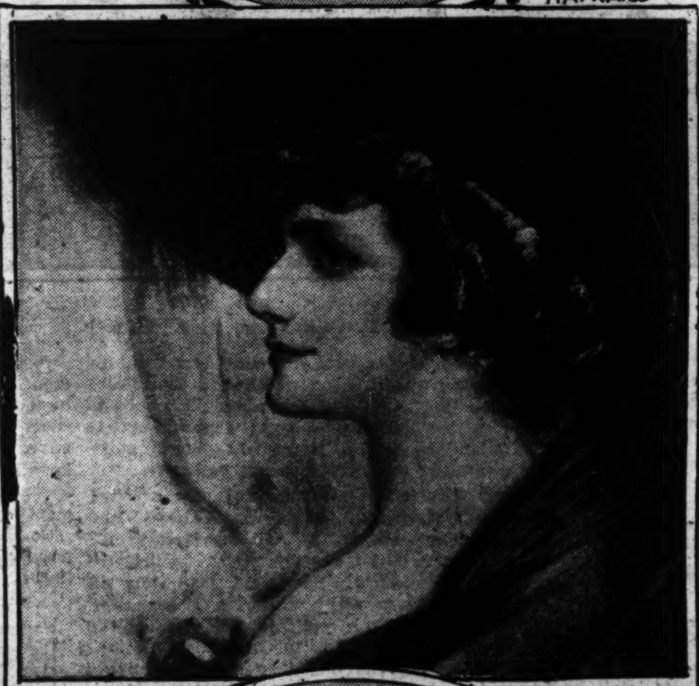
MRS. L. M. RUMSEY JR.



MRS. LOUIS J. HAYWARD



MRS. JOSEPH PULITZER, JR.

"ART is long and time is fleeting" used to be an unquestioned proverb, but in these hustling days even art has been compelled to speed up in order to keep pace with our fleet-footed times. This is exemplified particularly by Bror Kronstrand, famous Swedish portrait painter, who, for the last few weeks, has been reproducing upon canvas the faces of prominent St. Louisans with what might be called twentieth century velocity. Most grateful to the busy and hurried men and women of today is his feat of painting, in one sitting of from two to four hours, a complete life-size portrait of his subject.

That Kronstrand, for all his astonishing speed with the brush, is also an artist of high merit is proved by the imposing list of royal and famous persons who have chosen him, though he is now but 38 years old, to perpetuate their faces for history. The first portrait made of King Gustave V of Sweden after his accession to the throne was painted by Kronstand. Among the 20 members of reigning families whom he has portrayed are the Crown Prince of Sweden, Princess Henry and Prince Alexander of Battenberg, mother and brother of the Queen of Spain, and Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein.

Celebrities whom he has limned include scientists like Lord Kelvin, Sir William Ramsay, Sir William Crookes, Sir William Huggins, late president of the Royal Society, and Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer; financiers like Emmanuel Nobel, nephew of the founder of the Nobel prize and oil king of Russia; statesmen like Count Witte and Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France; and noblewomen like the Duchess of Sutherland, the Duchess of Bedford, the Duchess of Somerset, Lady Methuen, wife of Field Marshall Methuen of Ladysmith renown, and Countess Waldemar von Rosen.

His American subjects include Mrs. William H. Taft, painted at Beverly, Mass., while her husband was President; the late Admiral Robley D. Evans, whom Kronstrand painted on the day before his death; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law and daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan; Francis Burton Harrison, Governor of the Philippines, and Mrs. Harrison; Mrs. Edward E. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, formerly Mrs. Oliver Cromwell; George W. Guthrie, former Mayor of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Guthrie; and Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter.

On putting the last stroke of the brush a few days ago upon a painting of William H. Lee, president of the Merchants-Laclede National Bank, St. Louis, Kronstrand completed his nine hundred and twenty-seventh portrait.

Among other St. Louisans who gave sittings to the Swedish rapid-fire painter were Mrs. Julius S. Walsh, Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer Jr., Mrs. Henry C. Garneau, Mrs. Louis J. Hayward, Mrs. Henry S. Turner, Mrs. William Bagnell, Mrs. James M. Franciscus and William D. Crowell.

Kronstrand's process is to sketch his subject in charcoal on specially prepared canvas, which he tints with transparent pigments, prepared under his direction by a Paris firm. All of the modeling is done with charcoal, which is then so softened by the colors that the modeling seems to exist in the pigments themselves. He discovered the system, he relates, when he was once required to make a portrait on short order, and set himself to studying the problem of simplifying the conventional process of portraiture.

He gained some of his rapidity and sureness of touch as a sketch artist for the London Graphic, to the staff of which he belonged for two years, during which he also drew political cartoons for the Bystander.

Kronstrand won the medal at the Royal Academy of Stockholm in 1900. He spent a year in Paris, a year in Dresden and more than four years in London, where he first gained distinction as a portrait painter. His sketches and comics, accompanied by text in his own quaint English, published in a little paper which he founded in a small town in Southwest England, attracted the attention of the editors of the Graphic. He spent a part of the last three years in the United States, painting prominent men and women in Washington, New York, Bar Harbor, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and even in Honolulu, where he passed one winter.

Unlike most foreign artists, Kronstrand does not feel compelled to declare that American women are the most beautiful in the world. In physical perfection, he believes, they are surpassed by the women of Sweden, and in personality and charm by those of Russia. American women, he says, are noteworthy for their fine skins and shapely hands and feet, but are inclined to overdress, to talk too loudly and too much, and to lack individuality, having "cold temperaments and looking at one with a hard and brilliant glitter of the eyes, from which feeling is seldom reflected."

Revolutionists in Mexico Have Postal Stamps

A STATEMENT on this page that the State of Sonora, which is in revolt from Mexico and is therefore an independent nation—at least for the present, had no postage stamps or money proves to be incorrect. Joseph Wheless, a St. Louis attorney, who has interests in Mexico, sends us stamps authorized by the State of Sonora and one authorized as a temporary stamp by the Constitutionalists for Mexico. The Sonora stamp is the same for dos centavos (two cents) as for un centavo (one cent). A letter coming from Mexico to the United States must bear stamps worth five cents, so the Sonorans use two twos and a one, or they may use the Constitutionalists' five cent stamp. We have no postal convention with Sonora or with the Constatutionalista government and therefore, we might refuse to transmit mail from thence unless it bore United-States stamps; but in this matter, as in all others relating to the troublesome Mexico question, we look on the Revolutionists' stamps with eyes that refuse to distinguish them from Huerta's Government stamps.

When Dyspetics Should Drink

DR. LEVEN of Paris, one of the most famous specialists in disorders of the stomach, gives in the Presse Medicale some advice on how and when dyspeptics should drink.

He says that X-ray observations of the stomach has proved the erroneous nature of the established belief that water does not remain long in the stomach, but passes within a few minutes into the intestines. It is true that water flows on quickly if the stomach be empty, cold water taking ten minutes and warm water five on the average. But if the stomach contains the smallest quantity of food the water will remain in it several hours.

The X-ray machine has revealed another error, one of sensation felt by the sick, which is the belief that the stomach is full when it is absolutely empty, or that it is empty and craving for food when it is really fairly full.

Liquid of any sort added in any large quantity to the food swallowed dilutes the nutritive juices to excess, excites the contraction of the muscular walls of the stomach and tires out an organ already weary or ill.

Dr. Leven advises dyspeptics to drink before meals, but does not forbid all drink at meals. The best drinks in his opinion are warm, such as weak tea. Dyspeptics should never drink for three hours after meals, for even a healthy stomach does not get rid of the food within that time.

This is the general schedule that Dr. Leven gives his patients: A dyspeptic who lunches at noon and dines at 7:30 should drink five of six ounces of hot liquid at 11:30 a. m.; not more than two or three ounces with the lunch, five or six at 7 p. m., and not more than two or three ounces at dinner, in addition to the fluid of such soups as he finds agree with him. He may also take a hot drink on rising.

From such a regimen, acording to Dr. Leven, every dyspeptic, no matter what be the form of his trouble, will derive real benefit.

"Animal Spirits" an Ancient Error

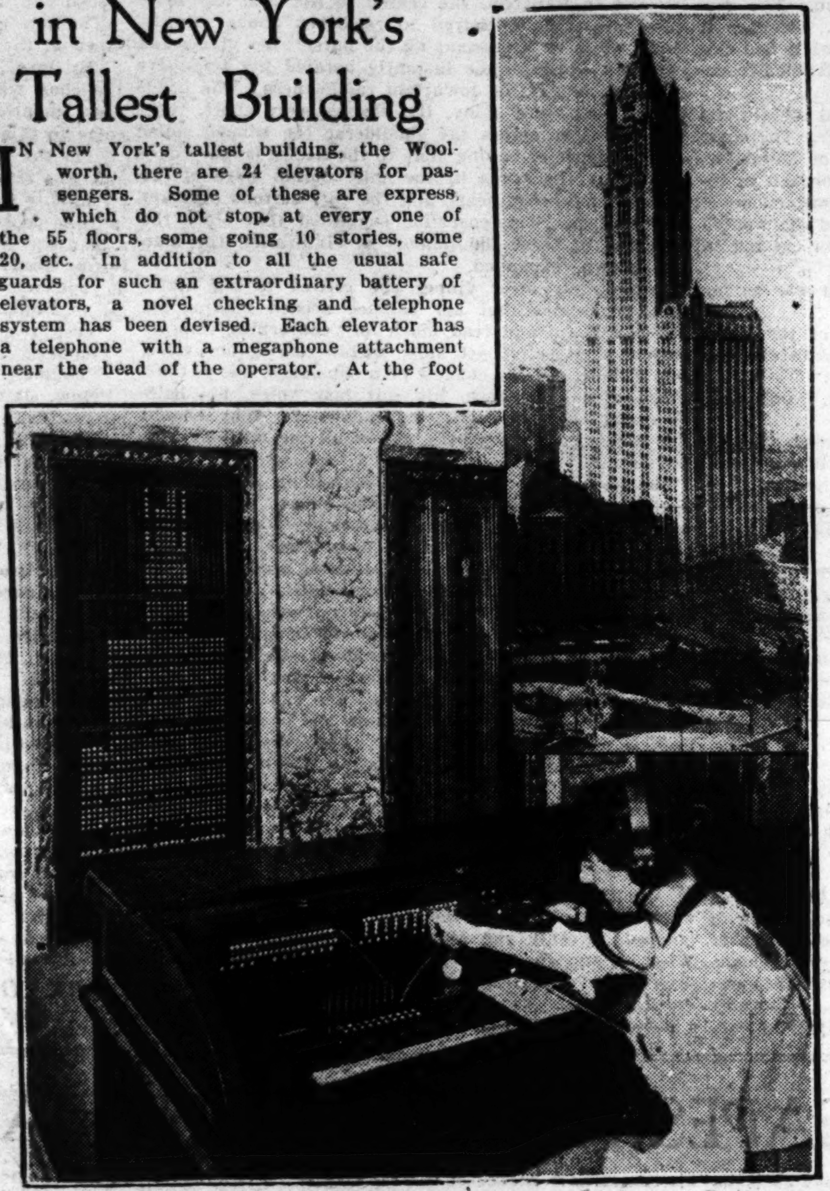
"FEW persons ever stop to consider when they speak of 'a man of spirit' that they are unwittingly employing the language of the days of Galen," says the Journal of the American Medical Association. "Yet this is evidently the survival of the old doctrine of spirits. We may believe that Galen had a conception of the nerve trunks as conductors of something—he called it spirits—to and from the brain and spinal cord.

"The natural spirits were that undefined property which gave to blood the capacity of nourishing the tissues of the body. The vital spirits were acquired in the heart; and when at last the blood with its vital spirits went to the brain and experienced a sort of refinement for the last time, the animal spirits were separated from it and carried to the body by the nerve trunks."

Such was the idea of the vital functions in the second century. Today, after 1800 years, we know that there are no "spirits" in our blood or nerves, but we still speak of being in "high spirits" or "low spirits," of being full of "animal spirits," of a "spirited answer" or a "spirited horse."

Telephone Girl Controls Elevators in New York's Tallest Building

IN New York's tallest building, the Woolworth, there are 24 elevators for passengers. Some of these are express, which do not stop at every one of the 55 floors, some going 10 stories, some 20, etc. In addition to all the usual safe guards for such an extraordinary battery of elevators, a novel checking and telephone system has been devised. Each elevator has a telephone with a megaphone attachment near the head of the operator. At the foot of the elevators' shaft is a board fitted with 24 series of 55 small electric bulbs which light as the elevator ascends and are extinguished as the elevator descends. A girl, seated at a telephone switchboard, watches this board and should there be unwonted delay in the ascent or descent of an elevator she puts in a plug and asks the elevator operator for an explanation. If this be not satisfactory she reports directly to the proper person and makes a record of the matter. Should an elevator ever be held up between floors the inmates would be able to talk through her switchboard with anyone on the telephone lines. This surveillance compels the most exact and constant service which is necessary in so immense a building.



Call Box for Automobiles Successfully Installed in Hamburg

THIS is a novel device which has been installed in Hamburg, Germany. It is a call box for taxicabs. Instead of using a telephone to call a cab the Hamburgian drops a mark (24 cents) into a slot in the face of this machine, which instantly telegraphs its number to a central station, whence a taxicab is sent immediately. The chauffeur reports his arrival at the box in a similar manner and then takes the caller where he would go. The mark deposited in the box is deducted from the bill at the destination. Should there be no cabs at the central station a slip is automatically given the caller which can be exchanged for a mark at the central office or will be accepted by any taxicab chauffeur in payment of fare.

Fine Butter Is Made From Trees

THERE are several trees that yield an oily substance much resembling butter and making a good substitute for it. Some of these grow in Europe, but the best known species are natives of Africa and South America.

The Bassia butyracea, or the "shea butter" as it is commonly called, grows wild on the west coast of Africa. The butter obtained from this tree is derived by pounding and pressing the seeds, which are three inches long. When extracted, the oil assumes the consistency of butter and smells like chocolate. Not only is it an excellent article of food, but it is used extensively for the making of soap and candles.

The seeds of the crab tree of Brazil and Guiana are 70 per cent fat and the "crab wood tallow" derived from them is excellent for the manufacture of candles and soap. When boiled, the tallow turns out yellow butter which contains a small quantity of strychnine. The latter, however, is easily removed by prolonged boiling.

From the nutmeg a useful fat is obtained. The nutmegs which have been broken or damaged by insects are roasted, ground and pressed for the fat, which is used for cosmetic and medicinal purposes.

A tree abounding in the forests of Africa and called by Kaffirs "chignite," yields (from the fruit or bark, the exact source being unknown) a white butter-like substance which constitutes an important article of commerce on that continent.

A Real Robinson Crusoe From Illinois

JAMES P. COLLINS, able seaman, of 425 West Fifty-second street, Chicago, has just regained his home after stirring adventures which, had he lived in an earlier century like Alexander Selkirk, might well have supplied the plot for that perennial romance "Robinson Crusoe." More fortunate than Defoe's hero, however, Collins had a companion of his own race in his hardships—A. J. Dann, also a sailor, of 225 Chatham street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Collins' mishaps, like Crusoe's, began with a shipwreck. He and Dann had formerly been sailors together on the Great Lakes, but drifted apart into various corners of the world when both became seafarers. They were overjoyed when they met by accident in the Philippines more than a year ago, and promptly signed as shipmates on the Scotch schooner Marie Ellen, trading from Glasgow to the Philippines. Capt. Malcolm Lewis was owner and navigator. The crew consisted of two mates, bo's'n, sailmaker, cook steward and 12 seamen.

The Marie Ellen sailed from Manila Jan. 27, 1913, for Ilo-Ilo, on Panay Island, arriving there on the evening of the third day out. The schooner discharged her cargo, reloaded with lumber, and on Feb. 3 set out for Zamboango, on the island of Minanao. They made the port, took more lumber aboard and went on to the Callabato River, on the same island.

On Feb. 6 they started on what proved the schooner's last voyage, intending to make Jolo Jolo Island. Early in the morning the craft was seized by a heavy current which dragged it 200 miles off course, the vessel bringing up at La Ha Datu, in British North Borneo. The captain, being astray in his reckoning, went ashore for a chart and for provisions.

"We sailed from La Ha Datu on the morning of Feb. 10, intending to make our way back to Jolo Jolo," relates Collins.

"Late in the afternoon of the same day the wind began to freshen from the eastward and we stood on the port tack, intending to put about on the starboard tack at the end of the last watch. It was about two bells of this watch that we got orders from the skipper to close reef sails and heave to. The wind suddenly shifted and a gale coming, we decided to run before it.

"About three bells of the middle watch Hans Werdman, then in the lookout, shouted 'Breakers ahead!' and then came the quick command for 'All hands on deck!' We tumbled out in a hurry, the first mate yelling for us not to mind our clothes. The sails were then all aflap and things were murky, with heavy seas and wind. We went bang on the reef and over toppled the foremast, carrying the lookout to his death. The mainmast then too went by the board, smashing the port lifeboat and bulwarks to splinters, and we skipped out of danger of a falling top hamper.

"The Marie Ellen rose and fell on the reef and began to break up. A Dutch sailor named Klaus shouted to us to get ashore as best we could. We tried to launch the starboard lifeboat, but we gave up, for all saw this could not be done with the boat on the weather side of the ship and a monster sea running.

"It was each man for himself then, and Dann and I agreed to stick together and try to swim to the shore of a small island which was surrounded by the reef. Several of the crew had already gone overboard, and Dann and I followed, sticking close together, but swimming diagonally for the small island, which the other fellows tried to make straight ahead. They were swept away in the distance. We learned afterward that several of them struck the shore of another small island. We were pretty nearly all in when we struck the sand and fell down on the beach."

The two castaways were in such deadly exhaustion that they fell asleep where they dropped, and did not awaken until the tropical sun hammered at their eyelids the next morning. As in Crusoe's case, their first thought was for the ship from which they had escaped. Crusoe, it will be remembered, was so fortunate as to find part of the hull still unsubmerged, and to rescue from it firearms, powder, tools and provisions. But the Americans found nothing left of the vessel but the stern, which soon beat to pieces on the reef.

Already suffering distress from hunger and thirst, the sailors set out to explore the island, in the hope of finding human habitations. That day they made the entire circumference of the island, and found no sign of men save when, on completing the circle, they came again upon their own footprints. Thus did Crusoe explore his desert kingdom and return in despair to the spot from which he started.

The next day, in the keenness of their hunger, they began tearing bark from trees and devouring it. They had kicked off their shoes while swimming, and the hot hands and sharp stones baked and lacerated their feet. Collins tore strips from his shirt to make wrappings for their feet, but the sun scorched his back and shoulders.

It was Collins who proposed that they dig for clams at the seashore. Using their hands, they scooped away the sand, and finally came upon quantities of shell fish. These relieved their hunger, but cruelly aggravated their thirst.

On the third day they decided to strike toward the heart of the island in search of water. To their joy, when the sun was beaming straight down at noon, they came upon a dell, green with grass and bushes, and in the center a fresh-water spring!. They flung themselves down and drank enough to satisfy the drouth of a dozen men.

That night they started awake in alarm as a troop of animals, snorting formidably, rushed by with a clatter of hoofs in the darkness. Without firearms or the means of building a fire, they dared sleep no more that night.

In the morning they could not rest until they discovered what the nocturnal prowlers were. After a big hunt they came upon a herd of wild hogs, browsing in roots and herbs. The problem of a food supply would have been solved had they possessed rifles or known how to lay traps. They had no resource but that of savage man before he invented tools—to catch their meat with their bare hands.

So Dann concealed himself in a thicket, while Collins, making a detour, gave a cry which put the hogs to flight in the direction of his hidden companion. As

There was, besides, the inevitable German tourist, who shelled with questions every man who wore brass buttons, until there was some serious talk of dropping him astern some day. He had shelled the Colonel, but that gentleman was snugly encased in the finest and most impenetrable Bessemer, complacency.

Upon these Irrawaddy boats the purser is usually the master of ceremonies in the dining saloon. The captain and his officers rarely condescended. Perhaps it was too much trouble to dress; perhaps tourists had disgusted them with life; at any rate, they remained in obscurity.

Elsa usually sat at the purser's right, and tonight she found the stranger sitting quietly at her side. The chair had been vacant since the departure from Mandalay. Evidently the purser had decided to be thorough in regard to her wishes. It would look less conspicuous to make the introduction in this manner. And she wanted to meet this man who had almost made her cry out in astonishment.

"Miss Chetwood, Mr. Warrington." This was as far as the purser would unbend.

The Colonel's eyes popped; the hands of the three maidens fluttered. Warrington bowed awkwardly, for he was decidedly confused.

"Ha!" boomed the German. "Vat do you tink uff . . . ."

And from soup to coffee Warrington eluded, dodged, stepped under and ran around the fusillade of questions.

Elsa laughed softly. There were breathing spells, to be sure. Under the cover of this verbal bombardment she found time to inspect the stranger. The likeness, so close at hand, started a ringing in her ears and a flutter in her throat. It was almost unbelievable. He was bigger, broader, his eyes were keener, but there was only one real difference: this man was rugged, whereas Arthur was elegant. It was as if nature had taken two forms from the same mold, and had finished but one of them. His voice was not unpleasant, but there were little sharp points of harshness in it, due quite possibly to the dust.

"I am much interested in that little parrot of yours. I have heard about him."

"Oh! I suppose you've heard what they call us?" His eyes looked straight into hers, smilingly.

"Parrot & Co. Yes. Will you show him off tomorrow?"

"I shall be very happy to."

But all the while he was puzzling over the purser's unaccountable action in deliberately introducing him to this brown-eyed, golden-skinned young woman. Never before had such a thing occurred upon these boats. True, he had occasionally been spoken to, an idle question flung at him, like a bare bone to a dog. If flung by an Englishman, he answered it courteously, and subsided. He had been snubbed too many times not to have learned his lesson. It never entered his head that the introduction might have been brought about by the girl's interest. He was too mortally shy of women to conceive of such a possibility. So his gratitude was extended to the purser, who, on his side, regretted his good-natured recommendations of the previous hour.

When Elsa learned that the man at her side was to proceed to Rangoon, she ceased to ask him any more questions. She preferred to read her books slowly. Once, while he was engaging the purser, her glance ran over his clothes. She instantly berated her impulsive criticism as a bit of downright caddishness. The lapels of the coat were shiny, the sleeves were short, there was a pucker across the shoulders; the winged collar gave evidence of having gone to the native laundry once too often; the studs in the shirt bosom were of the cheapest mother-of-pearl, and the cuff buttons ordinary rupee silver. The ensemble suggested that since the purchase of these habiliments of civilization the man had grown, expanded.

Immediately after dinner she retired to her stateroom, conscious that her balance needed readjusting. She had heard and read much lore concerning reincarnation, skeptically; yet here, within call of her voice, was Arthur, not the shadow of a substance, but Arthur shorn of his elegance, his soft lazy voice, his half-dreaming eyes, his charming indolence. Why should this man's path cross hers, out of all the millions that ran parallel?

She opened her window and looked up at the stars again. She saw one fall, describe an arc and vanish. She wondered what this man had done to put him beyond the pale; for few white men remained in Asia from choice. She had her ideas of what a rascal should be; but Warrington agreed in no essential. It was not possible that dishonor lurked behind those frank blue eyes. She turned from the window, impatiently, and stared at one of her kitbags. Suddenly she knelt down and threw it open, delved among the soft fabrics and silks and produced a photograph. She had not glanced at it during all these weeks. There had been a purpose back of this apparent neglect. The very thing she dreaded happened. Her pulse beat on, evenly, unstirred. She was a failure.

In the photograph the man's beard was trimmed Valois; the beard of the man who had sat next to her at dinner had grown freely and naturally, full. Such a beard was out of fashion, save among country doctors. It signified carelessness, indifference, or a full life wherein the niceties of the razor had of necessity been ignored. Keenly she searched the familiar likeness. What an amazing freak of nature! It was unreal. She tossed the photograph back into the kit-bag, bewildered, uneasy.

Meantime Warrington followed the purser into his office. "I haven't paid for my stateroom, yet," he said.

"I'll make it out at once. Rangoon, I understand."

"Yes. But I'm in a difficulty. I have nothing in change but two rupees."

The purser froze visibly. The tale was trite in his ears.

"But I fancy I've rather good security to offer," went on Warrington coolly. He drew from his wallet a folded slip of paper and spread it out.

The purser stared at it, enchanted. Warrington stared down at the purser, equally enchanted.

"By Jove!" the former gasped finally. "And so you're the chap who's been holding up the oil syndicate all these months. And you're the chap who made them come to this bally landing three days ago?"

"I'm the chap!"

It was altogether a new purser who looked up.

"Twenty thousand pounds about, and only two rupees in your pocket! Well, well; it takes the East to bowl a man over like this. A certified check on the Bank of Burma needs no further recommendation. In the words of your countrymen, go as far as you like. You can pay me in Rangoon. Your boy takes deck-passage?"

"Yes," returning the check to the wallet.

"Smoke?"

"Shouldn't mind. Thanks."

"Now, sit down and spin the yarn. It must b[illegible]lly interesting."

"I'll admit that it has been a tough struggle; but I knew that I had the oil. Been flat broke for months. Had to borrow my boy's savings for food and shelter. Well, this is the way it runs." Warrington told it simply, as if it were a great joke.

"Rippin'! By jove, you Americans are hard customers to put it over. I suppose you'll be setting out for the States at once?" with a curious glance.

"I haven't made any plans yet," eyeing the cheroot thoughtfully.

"I see." The purser nodded. It was not difficult to understand. "Well, good luck to you wherever you go."

"Much obliged."

Alone in his stateroom Warrington took out Rajah and tossed him on the counterpane of the bed.

"Now, then, old sport!" tapping the parrot on the back with the perch which he used as a baton. Blinking and muttering, the bird performed his tricks, and was duly rewarded and returned to his home of iron. "She'll be wanting to take you home with her, but you're not for sale."

He then opened his window and leaned against the sill, looking up at the stars. But, unlike the girl, he did not ask any questions.

"Free!" he said softly.

WIRELESS ESCAPES FROM DEATH'S JAWS

ear, to catch a strong spark which he detected as being from a Turkish instrument. He awakened the Captain, who began searching the horizon with his telescope. A smudge of smoke appeared in the north. It came, as they learned none too soon, from the funnels of the Turkish warship Homidieh. The Captain ordered the engineer to make ready for a fast run, and Soupos began calling for aid to the Greek battleship Psara, which had been sent out to capture the Homidieh, and which was believed to be in the vicinity. The Psara was at last picked up, about 40 miles to the east, and the Athenai ran full speed ahead to seek protection under her guns.

In the meantime, the Turkish vessel had sighted the Greek cruiser and eagerly gave chase. The race was a desperately close one. The fast Turkish ship gained rapidly upon the fugitive, and had already begun to drop a few shells in her wake when they came in sight of the Psara. The Turkish ship at once "took to her heels."

The Captain of the Psara summoned Soupos before him and asked him what he meant by not informing his commander sooner of the vicinity of the Homidieh, and thus placing the Athenai in imminent risk of capture.

"I had no information that the Homidieh was in these waters," said Soupos.

"You lie!" shouted the commander. "I shall have you executed."

Soupos was thereupon placed in irons and locked up to await death the next morning. The American contrived to send a message to the wireless man of the Psara, who informed the Captain of the Athenai of Soupos' predicament. The Captain hastened to the rescue of his favorite.

"I spent the night in speculating as to my fate," relates Soupos. "I had been so much behind the scenes of the war that the idea of death did not terrify me. But I did not want to die in disgrace. Having volunteered to aid the Greek cause and having served faithfully, the prospect of being shot as a traitor was harrowing. That night will remain always in my memory. I never once closed my eyes. The next morning at 8 o'clock the guards ordered me to acompany them before the Captain of the Psara. He scarcely looked up at me.

"'Your Captain has interceded for you, and I am going to let you go,' he said, and walked away. I heard afterwards that the two Captains had quarreled violently over my case. The commander of the Athenai told me he had explained that, as an officer, I could not be shot without courtmartial, and that if I were executed without a trial he would demand an investigation. He was very angry, and did not hesitate to accuse the other Captain of being afraid to fight the Homidieh."

Soupos was present at the naval engagement of Lemnos, where the Greek ships destroyed a Turkish fleet, and afterwards spent eight months as an operator on various Greek battleships. Then he became homesick, and a wireless conversation one night with the operator U. S. S. Virginia determined him to resign and return home. Two days out from New York Soupos sent a wireless to his mother telling when he would arrive. Supper was ready when he got home, and the chef d'oeuvre was a bowl of potatoes mashed in cream!

period. Many of them had to bend over washtubs daily up to the time of confinement. Few of them could afford milk, fruits, etc. All the nurse could do was suggest better methods of planning the housework and caution against overlifting and overreaching. "As to diet," says the report, "the nurse could only advise the avoidance of injurious foods and stimulants and greater care in the buying and preparation of the simple foodstuffs the family income permitted.

It is well established that a great majority of persons born into the world die in infancy and that an overwhelming percentage of babies die in the first few months. These students believe they have succeeded in proving that prenatal conditions are largely responsible and that many of the conditions can be avoided if the right kind of care and instruction can be given to the mothers in the congested districts.

At present two other important research tasks are under way at the college. One of them is a study of the temperance problem and the other is a study of wage conditions, to ascertain whether minimum wage laws should be enacted, and, if so, what they should decree. There are other enterprises awaiting the completion of these two.

The college has a faculty of four—Dr. Mangold, director; Dr. Charles E. Persons, associate director; Ora A. Kelley and Anne M. Evans, assistants. In addition, it has an Advisory Committee composed of the Rev. Carroll M. Davis, Rabbi Samuel Sale, Roger N. Baldwin, C. M. Hubbard, Prof. John H. Withers, F. P. Kenkel and Mrs. Philip N. Moore.

Although the school has been in existence only a few years, it has four graduates who are winning national distinction in social service. They are William T. Cross, secretary of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections; Oscar Leonard, superintendent of the Jewish Charities, St. Louis; Miss Ora A. Kelley of the school faculty, and Mrs. Catherine Fertig, director of the Neighborhood Association.

Starch Is Energy and All Peoples Use It as Their Staff of Life

"IN the early history of the race our ancestors probably noticed that certain animals and birds sought much of their food in the seeds of grasses, while at the same time the smaller animals dug into the earth for roots and tubers," said Ernest D. Clark in addressing the recent Congress of Applied Chemistry. "Thus, man early learned to make the starchy food his one of the main articles of his daily fare, and it is true today that among all peoples in all climates bread from cereals or some starchy substitute is the 'staff of life.' Among many animals the foods of this type are the staple ration and it is only the carnivora that scorn such a diet.

"Upon digestion the starches are split into the sugars, which are then burned in the organism to yield their energy for the maintenance of the physical activities and physiological functions of the animals. Unlike the proteins, the carbohydrates and fats are used by animals to produce heat and energy and not so much to become living protoplasm, as is the case with nucleoproteins and albumins, for example.

"Since but little new protein is needed for the upkeep and growth of the mature plant or animal, we see that the constant demands for energy supplies must be met by the sugars and fats consumed. The abundance of starchy foods eaten by men and animals is adapted to meet this necessity of energy-producing material.

"The greatest source of starchy food is, of course, the seeds of the various cereals which we group together as grain. The amount of such material produced by the soil in a year is almost beyond calculation. The production of this golden flood of grain is the earth's oldest and greatest industry.

"Besides the starch given us in the cereals we must not forget the potato, which is another staple article of diet in the whole civilized world. In different countries various starchy foods are popular, such as sweet potatoes, arrowroot preparations, tapioca, sago, chestnuts, bananas, etc.

"From the time that man first noticed that grains were good to eat he has taken plants of this type under his special protection and given them careful cultivation. The result has been an improvement in the races of grains as judged by their yield and adaptability to varying conditions of climate. To produce these harvests the soil supplies the water and mineral nutriments, while the carbon dioxide and sunlight lend their aid through no effort of man. His duty, then, is to see that the soil is kept in its most productive condition and by so doing he will have an ample supply of grain for the needs of the future.

"The observation of primitive man that the seeds of certain plants made an acceptable food was the beginning of agriculture."

Color Fish With Chemicals

STRIKING results are said to have been obtained in coloring live fish artificially to suit the fancies of esthetic admirers of the piscatorial race. This follows the example of floriculturists, who, by means of chemicals, have caused roses, carnations and violets to take on many bizarre hues. The experiments with fish have been carried on in Sicily, carp being used for the most part. First chalk, iron and peat are introduced into the water where the fish are kept, and then they receive another chemical bath containing iron and tin.

Homes of American Cannibals Found in Nebraska

Archeologist Robert F. Gilder uncovers remains of paleolithic cave dwellers in the Missouri Valley and evidence that these prehistoric men devoured each other

By A. EDWIN LONG.

THAT thousands of years ago a curious race living in America boiled each other for food and that great tribes of them lived in the great and fertile Missouri Valley has just been established by Robert F. Gilder, field archeologist of the University of Nebraska. Sunken homes of these cave dwellers who flourished some 3000 years ago reveal human skulls and bones, along with other evidences of this terrible custom.

In all, the archeologist has uncovered 35 sunken homes of this departed race, forgotten probably centuries before the red men even came to the continent. He made most of the excavations along the west bank of the Missouri River, between Omaha, Neb., and Sioux City, Io. The modern Indians have not so much as a tradition as to who these people were. The Indians of Columbus' day did not hint of such a race. It is thought probable, then, that these cave dwellers were destroyed by a race that lived even before the advent of the Indian, for the Indians were unaware of the existence of these cave ruins until the archeologist began to uncover them on the bluffs along the Missouri.

The only clew that today points to the location of the ancient caves is the slight, dish-shaped depressions in the level sod on the bluffs. This has led the archeologist to call the houses the "buffalo wallow" type of houses.

From two to five feet of soil has accumulated above the spot where the cave roofs have sunken. Oak trees 200 years old are today sometimes found growing in the sod over the ruins.

On what was once the clay floor of these caves Mr. Gilder has found charred human bones that have been mashed with a stone hammer. These lie near a large flat boulder in the center of the room that served as an anvil. The cinders of the camp fire are near the stone. Crude stone hammers, smooth with much use, lie among the mashed human thigh and arm bones.

The conclusions are that here, about the central slab, squatted sinewy warriors of this fearsome race, hammer in hand, mashing bones and sucking human marrow. Meanwhile, in darker corners, hardy mothers crooned weird songs and suckled savage babes.

Crudely carved pipes have been found in great numbers and many hitherto unknown varieties in the caves, now seven feet under the present sod surface. Some are carved in the shape of birds, with rows of teeth. Others are molded in the shape of toads and other reptiles and animals.

Perhaps these cannibal chieftains were not without their religion. Clay images have been dug up that seem to be the idol they worshipped.

Most of the relics are found buried under what was once the clay floor of the cave home. Into this floor the ancient American cannibals dug a bottle-shaped cache as big as a barrel, and it is in this, seven feet under ground, that the clay beads, shell ornaments, war implements, bone knives, and other household and war wonders are found.

It is evident that the roofs of these forgotten caves sunk thousands of years ago from the depth of soil accumulated above the ruins. It takes centuries for a few inches of this to accumulate on the knob of a hill, where these ruins are found.

Fragments of skulls are many, but only one skull has been found sufficiently intact to give reliable evidence of the type of men these cannibals were. The forehead is narrow. The bony ridges over the eyes are prominent, such as will resist the blow of a club. It is the skull of one who did not make his living by his intellectual powers, who depended upon his skull to ward off blows, and on his sinewy arm to wield a cudgel.

"Clay images have been dug up that seem to be the idol they worshipped."

THERE has been almost no cannibalism within historical time among American Indians, but that it was formerly practiced here and there nobody doubts. The Indians have occupied this hemisphere a long time, and they have touched at different periods of their occupation all the varying degrees of savagery and barbarism. That they sometimes sank to cannibalism there can be almost no doubt. The Seri Indians, who live in the Gulf of California, are considered to have been cannibals up to within the last 20 years.

It is possible that cannibalism accounts for the condition of many of the human bones found in Indian mounds. The leg and arm bones are frequently split, as they might have been in cannibalism, and it is a commonplace to find them burned. It is probable that this burning represented to some extent a sporadic use of the funeral pyre, but it could just as often mean that the Indians were cannibalistic. They were oftentimes reduced to depths of savagery. Castaneda, who was the historian of Coronado's march from Mexico to the plains of Kansas in 1541, says the Comanche Indians followed the buffalo north and south in migration, ate the flesh of that animal raw, and were but little removed from the wolves who did the very same thing.

For some reason not apparent to the student of humankind, cannibalism seems to have been more indigenous to islands than to mainlands. It is confined today to islands in the south seas. It formerly existed from time to time upon all the populated islands of Oceania and around South America. It was the background of fact behind the story of Robinson Crusoe which so enriched its imagery. Yet none of the great tribes in America were cannibals at the time of the Columbian discovery. The Aztecs and the Peruvians had risen in barbarism to the discovery of what seemed nobler motives for killing a human being than merely to eat him. The Aztecs made a very elaborate ceremony of cutting one's heart out to appease the head of the national pantheon.

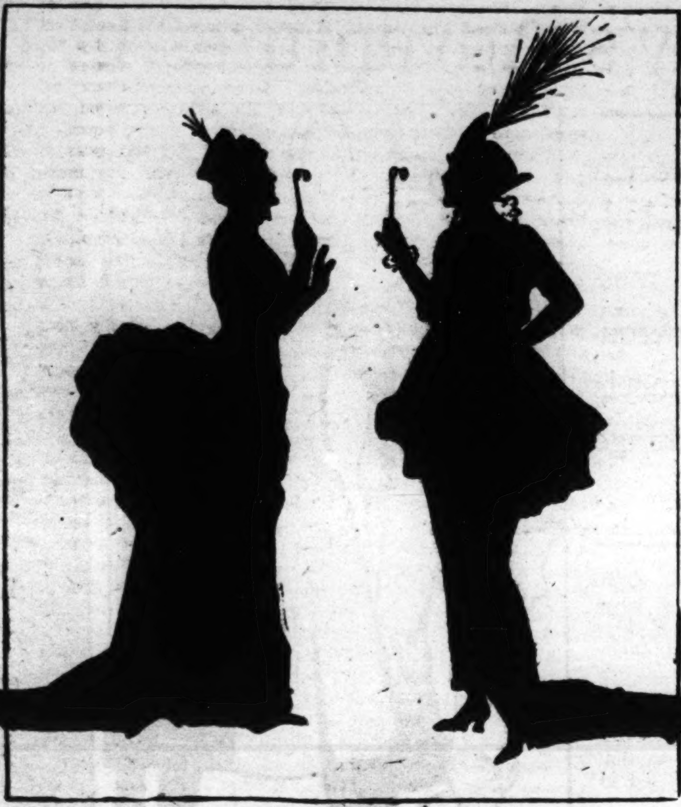
Woman's Fashions—From Tilters to Knickers

Review of a quarter century shows that the present styles are no more freakish than those of every other year in the past . .

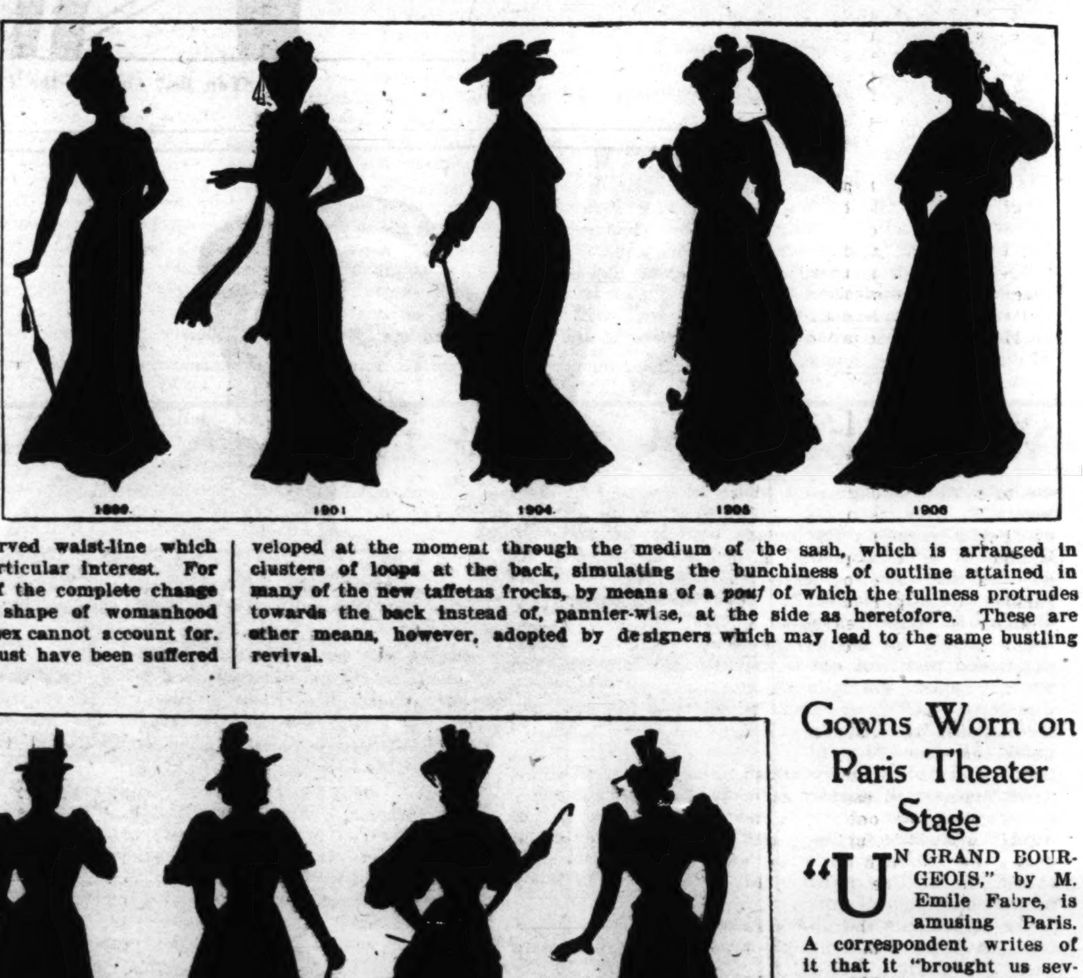
STYLE visits abominable outrages on its devotees. In one period woman is not allowed to sit down because she has too much skirt, which will not conform to a chair or will balloon at the wrong place and disclose pantaletted legs; in another period woman may not walk or sit because her skirt is too scant and is only intended to be worn by a quiet standing person. At one time woman billows below the waist line and is compressed to meagerness above; at another time she expands into a gigantic Sandow at the shoulders and tapers to her toes.



La Mode Twenty-Five Years Ago and Today.

For 50 years hoops and their modified descendant, the tilter, held sway. Throughout this period there was always a greater or less hump at the back which rose or fell through fashion's whim and came to be called a bustle.

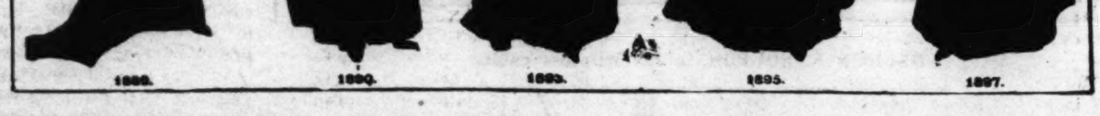
The tilter went out in the 70's when the pull-back skirt came in. The bustle became more prominent then, as those who have seen "Disraeli" realize. It was extinguished in 1889, after more denunciation, spread over a longer period, than the fragile skirts of recent date have encountered. The sudden suppression of the bustle seems to have occasioned twin eruptions on the shoulders, which curiosity of fashion enjoyed a longer spell of popularity than it in any sense deserved. We see it at its extreme height and exaggeration in 1897, after which it happily began to subside.



In 1898 the shoulder puff is a clearly defined feature of the fashionable silhouette, and how deliciously amusing to modern eyes these 16 year old fashions appear.

A plate of styles at that period illustrates the enormous strides that have been made in sporting costumes of all kinds since that day. One of these gowns has a four-decker skirt, each flounce more voluminous than its predecessor. The coat has a positively cast-iron appearance, mercifully tempered with frills in unexpected places, and the tiny waist is swathed in velvet. The companion dress, described by the fashion chronicler of that day as "a ravishing little gown," suggests to modern taste a particularly substantial garment of cloth, the lower half of the skirt represented by a cross-flounce of white cloth striped with rows of gray and silver braid. Here, again, the puffed shoulder and extraordinary curved waist-line point the silhouette of the moment. It is this detail of the curved waist-line which makes the consideration of the corset of that period of particular interest. For it is to the corset one must look to elucidate the mystery of the complete change of form which would appear to have taken place in the shape of womanhood since 1898. It is a phenomenon which the adaptability of the sex cannot account for.

One feels, looking at this old fashion plate, that agonies must have been suffered by the fashionable woman of that day, whose waist appears only a few inches in circumference, while her hips appear of horrifying dimensions. But even 16 years ago we were avowedly too emancipated to submit to the tortures imposed on her ladies by Catherine de Medicis, of whom we read: "In order to achieve and retain the size of her choice—13 inches—she invented, or at any rate introduced, a corset of iron rigidity know as the 'Corps.' This formidable corset was hardened and stiffened in every imaginable way; it descended in a long hard point and rose stiff and light to the throat, making the wearer look as if imprisoned in a closely fitting fortress."



Nothing of the kind, of course, was tolerated in the nineteenth century, and one has only to glance back at the pictures of corsets worn in the wasp-waisted period of recent memory, to see that ingenuity rather than force was resorted to to produce the effect of the proportions desired. A sine qua non of the fashionable figure of those days was the curved line, which curved inwards from under the arm and again outwards from the waist. The tied-in effect conjured up by the egg-boiler simile—falsely applied here, by the way—is not in the least suggested by the not ungraceful, if somewhat unnatural, outline induced by the corset of the period. To us, accustomed as we are to the classic form of present-day corsets, with their low busts and length below the waist, the short, pointed effects of these early modes seem particularly quaint. No wonder big hips were at a premium. Already, however, a few enlightened corsetieres suggest in their announcements an extension of the corset below the waist, and about 1901 we find a definite acceptance of the straight-fronted type as distinct from the curved busk. A significant innovation which preceded a general declaration in favor of straight fronts is the appearance of an "abdominal" corset furnished with suspenders. This corset, as its name implies, was designed to repress any undue exuberance on the part of the figure, and it avoids any definite point in front, being of equal length over the hips.

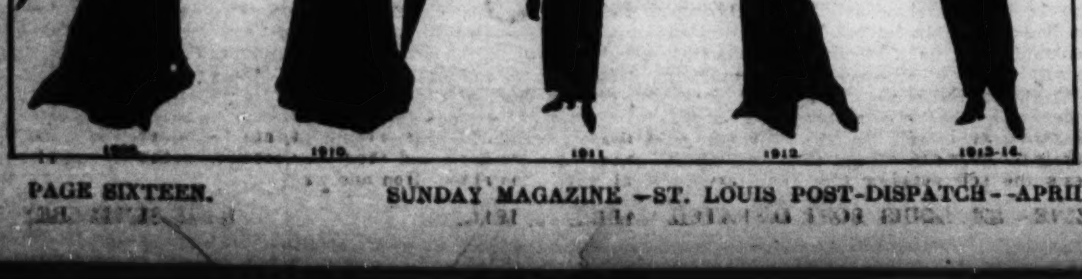
In the silhouettes of 1899, 1901 and 1904 it is interesting to follow the gradual reversion to a natural outline following the introduction of the straight-fronted corset. Between 1900 and 1904, indeed, something like a bloodless revolution was effected in the world of dress owing to the new principles adopted by stay-makers in general. Once again we are threatened vaguely with a recrudescence of the bustle. Frankly, our fears are not particularly acute, since nothing is more certain than that the bustle of 1914 will have nothing in common with the horse-hair-lined erection of 1889. The petit-pouf is not only a more euphonious, but a more accurate description of the "rear-guard" fashion has in store for us. It is chiefly developed at the moment through the medium of the sash, which is arranged in clusters of loops at the back, simulating the bunchiness of outline attained in many of the new taffetas frocks, by means of a pouf of which the fullness protrudes towards the back instead of, pannier-wise, at the side as heretofore. These are other means, however, adopted by designers which may lead to the same bustling revival.

Gowns Worn on Paris Theater Stage

"UN GRAND BOURGEOIS," by M. Emile Fabre, is amusing Paris. A correspondent writes of it that it "brought us several pretty robes which will certainly pass from the stage to the town very soon. First, there was the attractive toilette worn by Mlle. Dux in the first act. It was of white cloth. The skirt had an original drapery forming a tunic at the back only. This tunic was bordered with a band of fox. The corsage was of white mousseline embroidered in silver and trimmed at the neck with a narrow edging of ermine. All this whiteness gave a really exquisite effect.

"In the third act, Mlle. Dux showed us another afternoon dress, this time in velvet tete-de-negre, the front and back being of mousseline of the same shade embroidered in blue silk. Around the open neck was a collarette of tete-de-negre. The waist was outlined by a quaint belt, blue, with embroidered ends. The robe in this third act was a poem of chic simplicity. The corsage was unlined throughout and was a mixture of tulle and black lace, showing through its transparency a silver ribbon placed originally en bretelle.

"As to the robes of Mlle. Sylvie, they will touch the imagination of many young girls. Her robe de ville in silk crepon, corbeau bleu, girdled with plaid ribbons, was a charming success. Its only ornament consisted of three flounces formed by the skirt itself. The decollete corsage, not pointed at the neck, but quite open, had on the shoulders a flounce of the corbeau bleu tulle, and at the waist blossomed a bouquet of large marguerites of the same dark blue, with yellow hearts. For her evening toilette Mlle. Sylvie wore a chair ninon voile, very simply draped, over which ran a broad drapery of shaded beads, going from whitest white to brightest pink through all the intermediate shades, producing the prettiest effect imaginable."



Here is a Paris idea for a street gown, according to the same correspondent:

"The skirt is simply raised on one side with its falling drapery, and keeps the narrow line at the foot which we particularly affect still. The coat, with its long basques, very puckered, very ample, has exactly the appearance of the coatees worn by La Grand Mademoiselle. At the back two pleats, ingeniously arranged, adjust the garment without breaking the line."

New Homes
IN Saint Louis

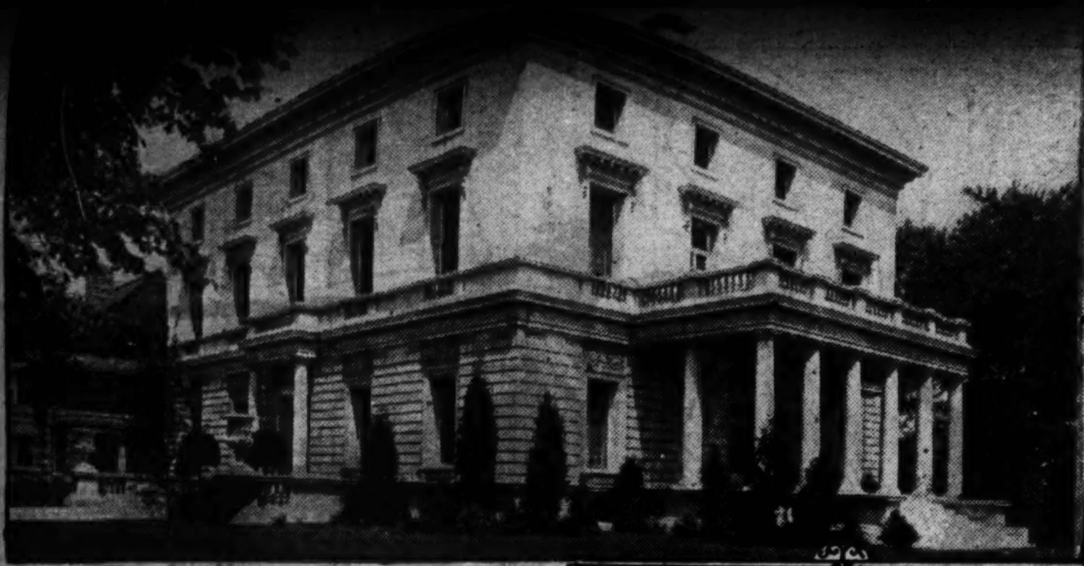
RESIDENCE OF
Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Faust
No. 1 Portland Place



South and east elevations of the Faust residence.

INVESTIGATION of a recent statement by a visitor, who declared the domestic architecture of St. Louis was the worst in the country, reveals that the visitor was somewhat lonely in his opinion. Instead of a general condemnation of the style of St. Louis homes, it is discovered that they not only are admired by other visitors, but that they are being copied both in the United States and abroad.

One guest, who had traveled all over the United States, has declared that one St. Louis home is nearest the ideal he has been able to find. He has asked permission from its owner to duplicate it in the new home he is planning at Baden Baden, Germany. The guest was Herman Sielcken, often called in Europe "the Coffee King," and formerly chairman of the board of directors of the Kansas City Southern Railway. The home is the new mansion of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, 1 Portland place.

Sielcken's indorsement has found an echo in the approval of other architecture critics. The exterior of the white marble mansion is marked by an extreme of refinement and reticence in handling. The over-use of ornament has been studiously avoided by its designer, Tom Barnett, who carried out the general ideas and wishes of Mrs. Faust. The exterior design is in the Italian classic style. Indeed, the whole building suggests an Italian palace transplanted to American soil.

The spacious entrance is over a broad terrace and its beauty is enhanced by balustrades and classic stone seats. On pedestals at the entrance are two replicas of the antique vases in the museum of the Vatican. In the entrance are solid bronze gates, constructed of antique altar rails of the Florentine renaissance period. The grilles were taken from an old building in Florence.

The house is entered through a wide portal, flanked on either side with Doric columns. It leads into a beautifully designed vestibule, with ceiling in stucco. It is wainscoted from the base to the cornice in Pavanazzo marble from the quarries of Carrara. The front doors are of solid bronze and plate glass, embellished with arabesques.

At the eastern facade is an open loggia, with a dazzling white colonnade, the columns of which are reflected in a limpid circular pool in the garden. The loggia ceiling is frescoed after the style of Raphael. On the western facade is a porte cochere, surmounted by an open sleeping véranda, the cornice of which is supported by two statues of Hermes. The portico suggests the grotto of the Villa de Papa at Rome. The use of Hermes sculptures by Italian architects was frequent, especially in gardens, as may be noticed in the statuary of the Villa Cafrarola and of the Villa Borghese.

Every possible use of the garden surrounding the house has been made to enhance the total effect. The north wall, with a balustrade, terminates at its west end with a charming little belvedere, reminiscent of the Villa Lante. The King's highway wall, with its balustrades and flower vases, is an adaptation of the balustrade of the Villa Borghese in Rome. The gates of St. Pietro in Vincoli, Rome, were used as models for the King's highway gates.

The vases were drawn from those of the Boboli gardens in Florence, the belvedere after that of the Villa Lante and the surrounding grounds remind one strongly of the romantic associations surrounding this home of the ancient Medici family, long pronounced one of the finest in Italy.

The walls of the main entrance hall are of imported Caen stone and Breccia Violette marble. The columns of its colonnade are Breccia Violette monoliths. A graceful circular stairway of spider-web delicacy in its curves is an exquisite example of Italian hand-wrought bronze, intricate and delicate in its workmanship. In the center hangs a huge bronze lamp, a duplicate of one which hangs in the baptistery of the cathedral at Pisa.

In the four lunettes of the arches supporting the dome of the grand hall are mural paintings by Thomas. Their delicate colors blend admirably with the general color effect.

Seen through the colonnade at the right of the entrance hall is the living room, furnished in Italian walnut and red damask. To the left is the drawing room in the Louis XVI style, often pronounced the most graceful of all the French periods.

The ceiling of the living room is a fresco reminiscent of Titian and Tintoretto.

The drawing room walls are paneled completely from floor to ceiling in French oak, there being many small mural panels of infants at play in the type and coloring of the most famous French school. The hangings are of Aubusson tapstery. Decorative mirrors catch and reflect the light, particularly that from a large crystal chandelier.

The arrangement of these two rooms in different woods is made so as to afford a contrast, yet there is complete harmony between them. The Italian walnut of the one and the French oak of the other unite in giving the restful ensemble so much sought by architects.

The dining room, which may be seen through a vista from the entrance hall, is also in the Italian style. It has vaulted ceilings, frescoed after the historic vaults of the Albizi palace in Florence. The walls are wainscoted in Italian oak. The architraves of the windows are wrought in alto relievo. The ornament of the paneling of the walls is in old gold. Hand-painted art glass windows look out upon a sunken garden to the north. The windows are replicas of those in the Laurenziana library in Florence.

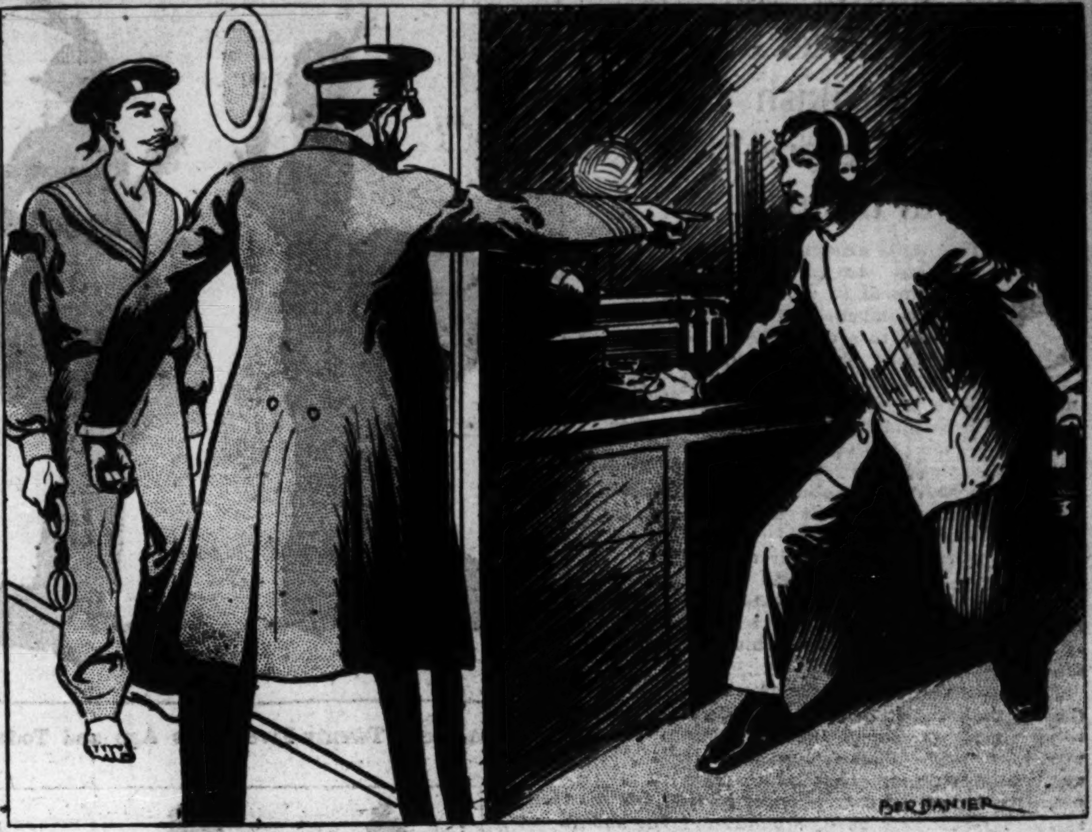
Wireless Escapes From Jaws of Death

American Boy's Adventures in the Balkan War

Marconi operator on Grecian cruiser saves his ship from Turkish man-of-war on overhearing messages and is threatened with execution as a traitor ♣ He meets Queen Olga who grants his strange petition . . . .



"You lie," shouted the Commander. "I shall have you executed."

HUNDREDS of American youths, captivated by the miracle of wireless telegraphy, have set up antennae in their backyards and have launched themselves upon the finest romance of invention by speeding Herzian waves into space and hopefully expecting answers out of the void. But to none of them, probably, has this boyish experiment brought such an adventure as that into which George N. Soupos of New York was led by his amateur apparatus.

As if te genii of the air had decided to answer the knock delivered at the gates of their domain by his impetuous electric waves, they took him by the hand, as it were, and guided him forth from his backyard into the midst of the Balkan War, obtained for him an interview with the Queen of Greece, dexterously extricated him from imminent peril of execution, and then returned him safely home, his valise comfortably stored with gold coins, and the double stripe of a naval lieutenant on the sleeve of his uniform jacket.

At the age of 18 years, Soupos, of Greek descent but of American citizenship, was the proud owner of a little homemade wireless station. He often "listened in" as operators at sea talked with one another or with the shore, and declares that he once caught a message from as far south as Key West. After the loss of the Titanic he sat for three days and nights with the receiver clamped to his ears, hoping to snare out of the sky some word of the world's most dramatic disaster.

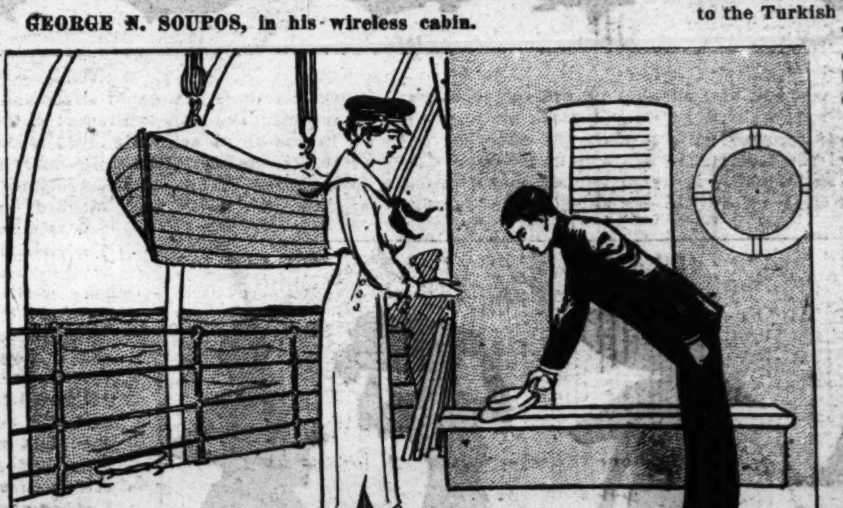
GEORGE N. SOUPOS, in his wireless cabin.

Naturally, he became a pupil at the Marconi School and passed his examination for a license at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. A week later, because he could speak Greek, he was assigned to the steamer Themistocles, which was sailing from Brooklyn to Athens with 2000 Americanized Greeks, who were returning home to volunteer in the war between the Cross and the Crescent.

During tho Atlantic passage the volunteers pestered the wireless man for news of the war, but he was unable to gratify them until they neared Malta. There he learned that a Turkish battleship had been blown up, as she lay at anchorage, by Greek torpedoes. The passengers went wild with joy, and Greek-fashion, kissed the operator. The Captain blew the fog whistle, and that night there was a dinner of jollification aboard.

At the Piraeus the volunteers left the ship, and Greek naval officers, boarding the vessel, informed her Captain that she had been engaged to serve as a transport in the navy. The ship's officers volunteered to remain with her. One of the naval men begged Soupos also to remain, as the services of skilled wireless operators were sadly needed.

"War is not a boy's game," growled the Captain, when Soupos asked his advice. This remark, scornful of his youth, determined Soupos to stay. He received the cheerful information that he might be tempted by Turkish spies, and that if he were suspected of disloyalty he would be shot.



When Queen Olga of Greece asked this American boy if there was anything he would like to have, he replied: "Yes, some mashed potatoes with plenty of cream."

On the very first voyage, the American boy proved his worth by saving his ship from probable destruction. The Themistocles was on her way with 3000 troops to Saloniki, which the Greeks were besieging. Soupos quickly learned that his post was no sinecure. He received messages from Saloniki and relayed them to Athens. The messages were sent by inexperienced operators in a secret code with which he had just become acquainted. In addition, he was expected to pick up stray messages from the Turkish warships and forts. Having no assistant, he had to remain by the key day and night, and the constant sparking of electricity in the little cabin filled it with fumes which made his eyes and lungs tingle.

To the trained ear of the operator, each kind of wireless sender has its own individual spark. To Soupos, the apparatus used in the Turkish navy spoke a language as distinct from that used by the Greeks as the tongues of the two peoples are distinct. Thoroughly exhausted, half-dozing, he was startled into alertness on the night the ship was nearing Saloniki by hearing the crackle of a spark which he at once detected as being Turkish, and close at hand. Fearing the presence of a Turkish warship was indicated, he ran out and reported his discovery to the Captain.

The Captain found that he had entered the bay on the wrong side and that he was almost under a Turkish fort, armed with 12-inch guns, and in waters beset with mines which could be discharged by pressing an electric button in the fort. The ship's lights were instantly extinguished, and the vessel, put about, began fleeing out of the harbor. They had gone little more than a mile when searchlights from the fort darted over the spot at which, only a few minutes before, the Themistocles had been. The next day the ship reached her destination safely. The Captain sent a report to Athens in which he declared that his ship might have been captured or destroyed, but for Soupos' alertness. A reply came appointing him a Lieutenant in the Greek navy.

After Saloniki had fallen, the then monarch of Greece, King George, who was soon to be assassinated in the city which his troops had just taken, and Queen Olga, arrived on the royal yacht, Amphitrite. Soupos was transferred to the yacht, and the Queen, who was interested in wireless telegraphy, sometimes talked with the American youth. One day she asked him whether there was anything he would like to have. His reply, except that it was without surliness, was probably as startling to the Queen as was Diogenes' request to Alexander to stand out of his sunlight.

"I'd like to have some mashed potatoes and plenty of cream," said Soupos.

Queen Olga laughed, and asked why Soupos made that particular request.

"It's the dish I like best of all," he replied. "Mother always makes lots for me. I haven't had any since I left America."

The Queen graciously summoned a steward and instructed him to prepare a sufficiency of creamed potatoes, according to Soupos' recipe. The dish became a favorite with the yacht's crew, and the cook was often thereafter called upon to serve potatoes "a la Soupos."

Previously, during the siege, Soupos received an offer of a bribe if he would betray his code messages to the Turkish warships prowling about the Aegean Sea. The offer came from an English operator on a Moslem battleship, for in the navies both of the Turks and of the Allies most of the wireless operators were foreigners.

"I'm English and you're American," the tempter marconigraphed to Soupos. "Let's get what we can. It isn't our business if these wops cut each others' throats."

He explained that if Soupos after sending his dispatches in the Greek code, would repeat them in the continental code, which the Turkish operators could understand, a man would meet him in a day or two and give him a handsome sum of money.

Soupos immediately repeated the conversation to his Captain, who advised him to lead the Englishman on and learn whether any of the operators on the Greek ships were betraying their trust. The American soon learned that a Belgian operator was at every opportunity sending out news of the Greek plans in continental code. After a brief inquiry, the Belgian was dismissed and put on a train for Brussels.

After a week on the royal yacht, Soupos returned to active service on the cruiser Athenai, assigned to patrol and blockade work. The new Captain took a fancy to the operator, whom he called "Mascot," instead of George. This liking of the Captain saved Soupos' life.

One morning, having turned out of his bunk at dawn, the operator was startled on putting the receiver to his

New Homes IN Saint Louis

LIKE an Italian palace, with replicas of famous old-world grilles, gates. mantels, columns, loggias, balustrades and bronzes ❧ Germany's coffee king impressed by beauty of home, will build a duplicate of it in Baden-Baden ❧ Rare paintings, rugs, objets d'art and windows. . . . . .

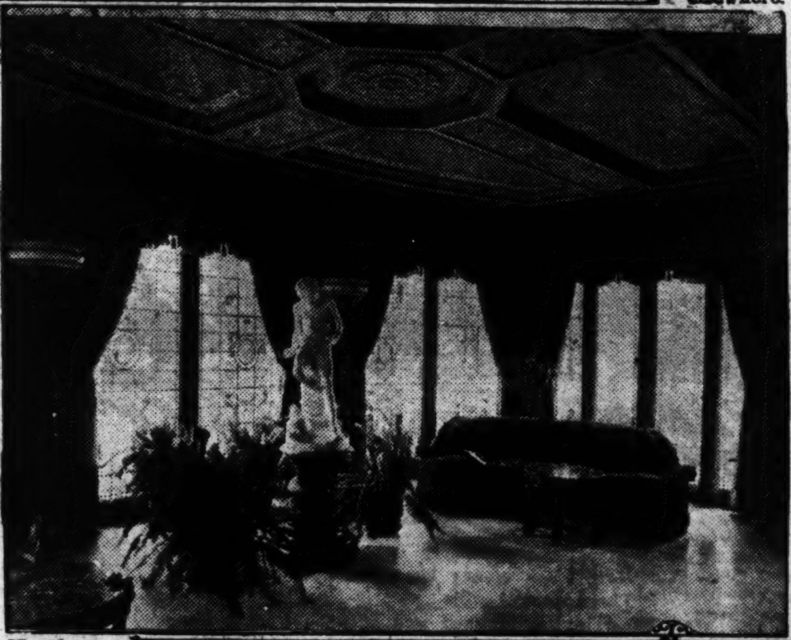
Second-floor hall, showing bronze rail, Pisa lamp and mural decorations.

The morning room is the principal apartment on the second floor. It is in the Italian renaissance period. Its particular gem is an antique Carrara mantel, the masterpiece of an Italian architectural sculptor. The rest of the second floor is taken up with bedrooms, designed to represent various architectural periods. A ballroom and quarters for the household staff occupy the third floor.

Exclusive of bathrooms and the kitchen, which is in the basement, etc., the house has in all 25 rooms. These are divided into 10 on the first floor, 7 on the second and 8 on the third. All of the rooms are large.

The front vestibule has a width of 10 feet by a depth of 14. It leads into the front entrance hall, which is of the same dimensions. The main stair hall is about 30 feet by 28.

The drawing room and the living room are each 28 feet wide by 30 feet deep. The dining room is somewhat longer and narrower, its dimensions being 30 by 32 feet. The east porch is 38 feet long by 16 feet deep. A tearoom on this floor is 22 feet long by 16 feet deep. In addition there are generous east side vestibules and entrance hall, and a large butler's pantry.



North end of dining room.

A generous section of the second floor is taken up with the hall at the head of the circular stairs. There are four large bedrooms, a boudoir, baths, a morning room, 22 feet deep by 30 feet wide, two dressing rooms and a large balcony.

On the third floor are two large ballrooms, occupying the front portion, four servants' rooms and baths, two guests' rooms and baths, a storeroom and a skylight dome space over the main stairway.

The Faust house is only one of many St. Louis homes, put up within the last year or two, that are nothing less than palaces. Indeed, travelers who have gone about over the country, agree that in its new domestic buildings St. Louis is probably surpassed by no other American city. St. Louis home owners have spared no expense in getting the best houses available, and while some of them have not hesitated to employ architects from other cities, the majority of the most influential have employed St. Louis designers.

Much of the recent building activity has been in the suburban districts to the west. These are naturally classed as St. Louis residences, however, because they are owned by St. Louisans and are within easy access of the downtown section.

One of the most pretentious of these is the August A. Busch home on Grant farm. This place is said to compare with many of the baronial estates of Europe, not only because of the size and beauty of the mansion, but also because of the spacious grounds. From only a single point, and that towards the end near the stone gate entrance, can any part of the house be seen from Gravois road. But once past this imposing entrance, a broad boulevard winds through trees and along the shore of a lake to the buildings, which nestle upon a hillside, like a French chateau.

The house, designed by Widmer & Walsh, is a brick and white stone structure of large proportions, the upper windows of which command a fine landscape. It is not only palatial within, but it has in its basement a complete electric lighting and refrigeration plant which provide all the conveniences of any town house. Its most important room is a sort of hunting lodge, in which is the largest single collection of trophies of the chase owned by any private St. Louisan. A description of this room and its trophies appeared in a recent number of the Post-Dispatch.

Another country home that has attracted the attention of visitors is that of Cecil Gregg at Brentmoor, in St. Louis County. This big house is designed in the Italian loggia style and is famed for its windows, which virtually make of the entire building a big sun room in winter and huge porch in summer. It was designed by James P. Jameson.

In the district between University City and Clayton are several costly residences which have been built within the last year. Two of the most important of these are the residences of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Niedringhaus and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle. Mrs. Niedringhaus and Mrs. Shinkle are daughters of Jackson Johnson, president of the International Shoe Co. Another of the same group is the country home of Frank Rand, near University City. These were built by Theodore C. Link.

Of new town houses, one of the most pretentious is the Claude Kilpatrick home at 33 Portland place, built by Mauran, Russell & Crowell. It has received the highest encomiums of experts, not only in St. Louis, but elsewhere. Like the Portland place home of George D. Barnard and the new residence of Edward Mallinckrodt Jr., it has been called a fine model of domestic architecture.

These are only a few of the many important new residence buildings of the city. Their owners, while reticent about announcing the actual cost of their homes, have been unsparing in expense. It is estimated that the average cost of them is anywhere from $150,000 to $500,000. The latter figure is probably extravagant, but it is certainly not larger than the cost of the most expensive buildings named.

It is not alone, however, upon these new and highly expensive buildings that the reputation of the domestic architecture of St. Louis depends. Perhaps one of the most just criticisms ever passed upon them as a whole was that there was such a wide variety in the architectural style. This is probably because the growth of the residence section has been included within a comparatively short period of time. The last half century has seen an unparalleled activity in matters architectural and various schools have been in favor within a short time of each other.

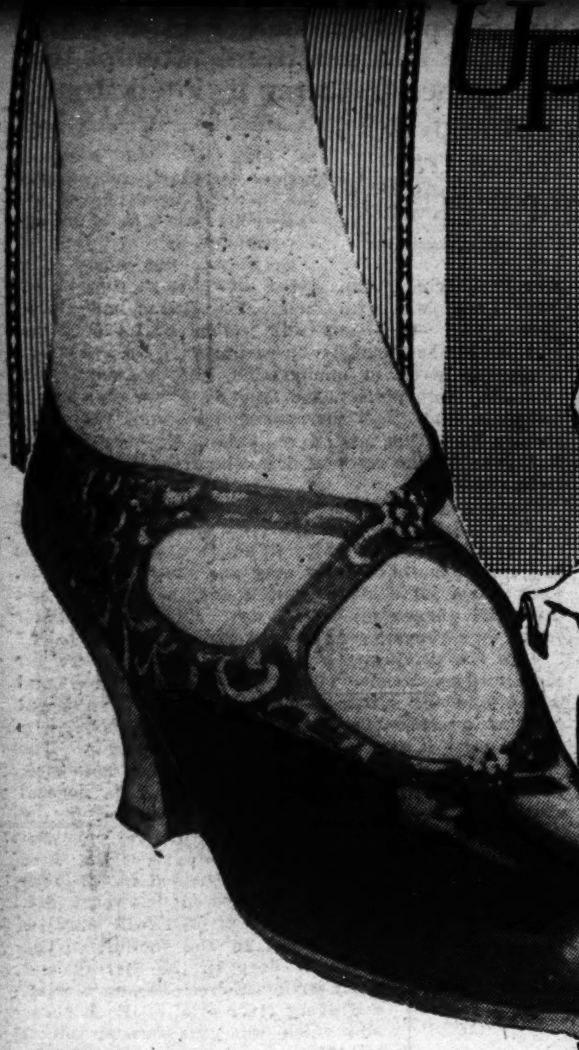
Up-to-Date SHOES for the Tango

Brocade tops, and embroidered vamps are strong favorites; some are of satin, some are bronze kid; lacings go high on the ankle but buttoned straps are preferred



The dancing slipper in its latest perfected form—note the light straps which keep it snugly on the foot and yet give freedom to the ankle. This example is of black brocade, delicately embossed in silver, with patent leather vamp and ornaments of tiny nailheads of steel, hammered together.

TOES that would go a-tangoing must be well-shod in these dance-devoted days. The sprightly steps of the hesitation and the maxixe, together with the artful aid of the slit skirt, show all the dancing foot nowadays; and it is better not to dance at all than not to be properly booted and slippered for it, ladies.

And such shoes are made for dancing.

All the best efforts of the shoemaker have been lent to these dainty things till now it would seem as if the last word in all that is light and dainty and fetching had been attained. The "tango-shoe" proper, with its lengths of ribbon laces reaching half way up to the knee, has passed the zenith of its glory and is like the afternoon sun—waning.

The ribbons, tied too tight, made the feet swell and ache. Tied too loose, they fell and cluttered about the dancer's feet to her distress and discomfort. Fine for a slow waltz or lancers of the old day; they were tried out for the lively tango and the gayer maxixe and found wanting.

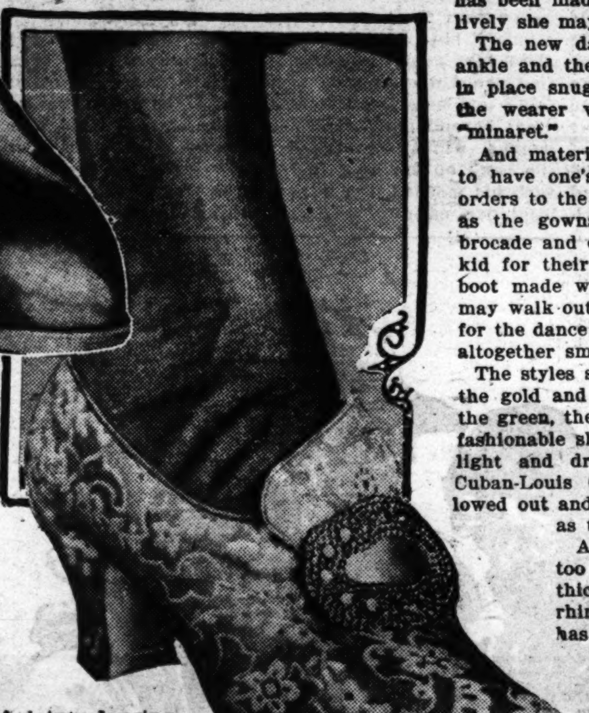
So, came the cry for a shoe that would stay on the foot snugly, no matter how fast the step. The shoemaker kept at his last till he had it. The result is that nearly every light shoe made nowadays can be used for dancing, whether it still has the ribbon laces, the new straps or nothing at all, because the heel has been made to fit so snugly that the wearer, no matter how lively she may be, cannot possibly kick it off.

The new dancing shoe is the cross-strap slipper, open at the ankle and the instep. It is held to the foot by two straps kept in place snugly by means of the same kind of fasteners which the wearer would have on her walking gloves. This is the "minaret."

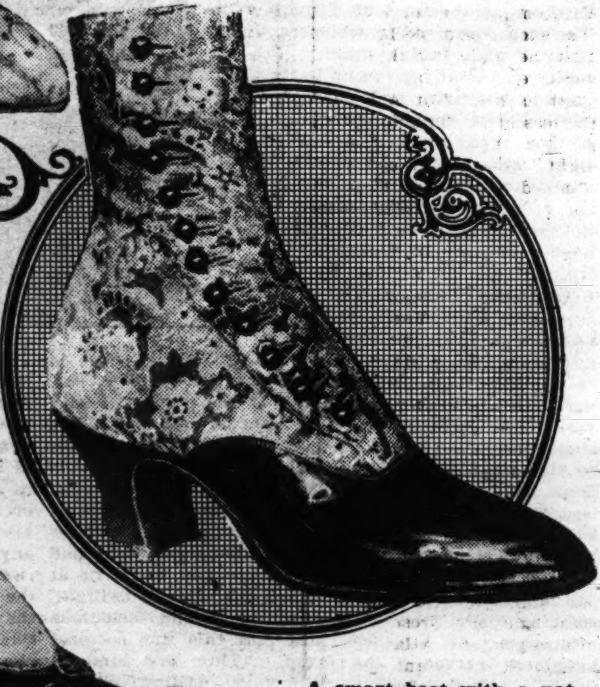
And materials? Almost anything. It is commonplace, almost, to have one's shoe-tops match one's frock, so frequent are the orders to the shoe man for footwear made of the same materials as the gowns. But the best-dressed women are now wearing brocade and cloth of gold and cloth of silver, bronzes and white kid for their dancing shoes and slippers. And there is even a boot made which is both a shoe and a slipper—something one may walk out in and then hie to a trottery and be perfectly shod for the dance; a shoe with a brocade top and patent-leather vamp, altogether smart and stylish.

The styles seem to go crazy over fancy materials—the heavier the gold and silver in the brocade, the more vivid the red and the green, the greater the demand for such a dancing shoe in the fashionable shops. The demand is all for something extremely light and dressy in effect; the heel positively must be the Cuban-Louis Quinze, in which the inside of the heel is hollowed out and the back is somewhat straight, not so pronounced as the French heel.

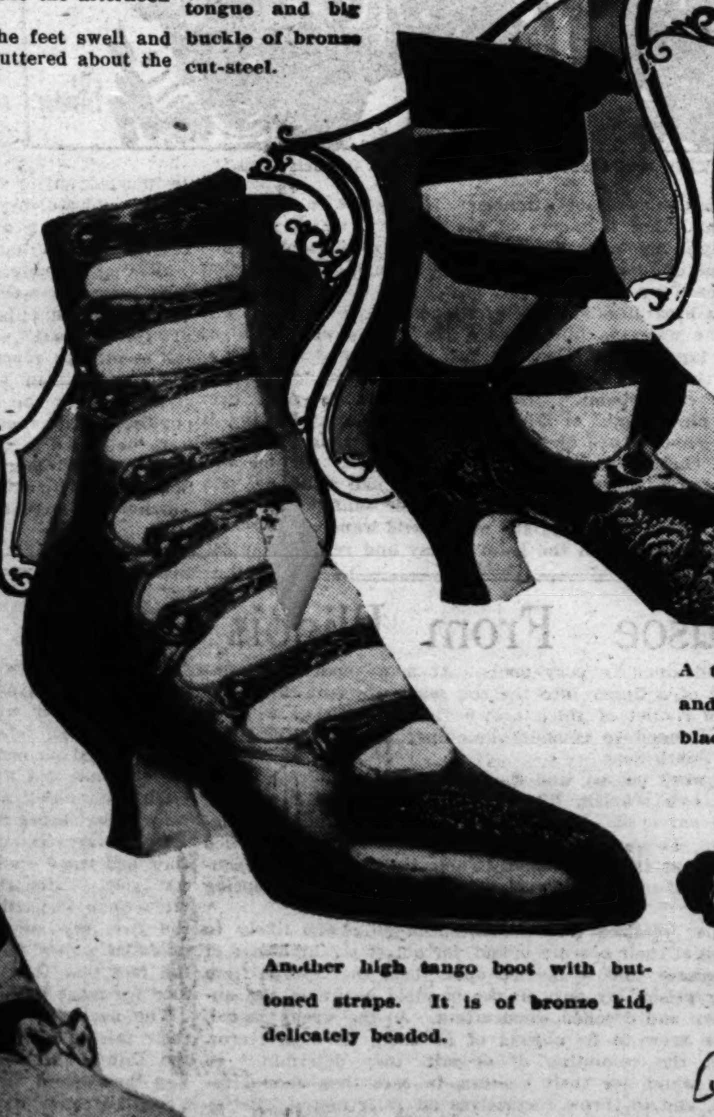
And buckles! Twenty or twenty-five dollars is none too much for a fine pair, set with rhinestones or small thickly clustered steel nailheads. There are plenty of rhinestoned heels to be seen, too—a smart device which has been borrowed from abroad.



A dainty dancing shoe of black, silver and gold brocade, colonial shape, with small tongue and big buckle of bronze cut-steel.

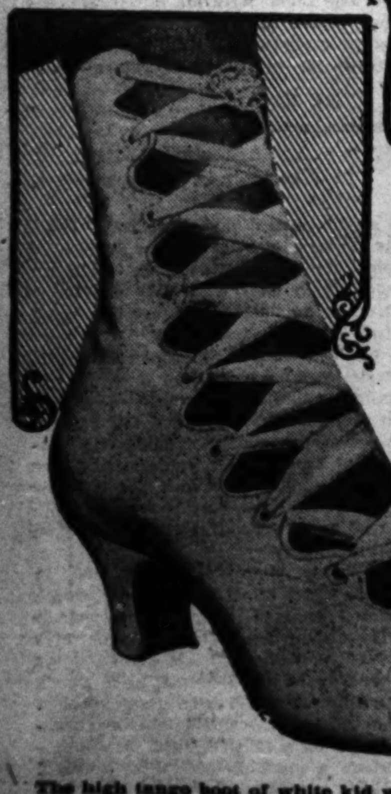


A smart boot with a patent leather vamp and an upper of gold and black brocade, which is suited for street or ballroom.



A tango sandal of gold, red and black brocade, laced with black satin ribbon.

Another high tango boot with buttoned straps. It is of bronze kid, delicately beaded.



The high tango boot of white kid with the modified ribbon lacing. This gives the added security of the laces and lessens the danger of their loosening and falling down.

The tops of your shoes may be of gold brocade, picked out in black or red; the vamps of patent leather or bronze kid or satin of almost any hue. Your buckles are of any size or shape your taste demands or your purse permits. If the slipper has any tongue at all, it should be of the smart colonial shape.

Dancing requires that the soles be as thin and light as possible; so you will find almost all shoes which by any excuse might be used for tripping the light fantastic have the thinnest of soles.

These are the days that try women's soles. And we might add that they try the women's purse filler's soul for these dainty shoes are quite expensive. In spite of the seeming unsubstantial character of these fragile and dainty creations the prices range from $15 to $35 per pair.

CHAPTER I.

East Is East.

IT began somewhere in the middle of the world, between London which is the beginning and New York which is the end, where all things are east of the one and west of the other. To be precise, a forlorn landing on the west bank of the muddy, turbulent Irrawaddy, remembered by man only so often as it was necessary for the flotilla boat to call for paddy, a visiting commissioner anxious to get away, or a family homeward bound. Somewhere in the northeast was Mandalay, but lately known in romance, verse and song; somewhere in the southeast lay Prome, known only in guidebooks and timetables; and farther south, Rangoon, sister to Singapore, the half-way house of the derelicts of the world. On the east side of the river over there, is a semblance of civilization. That is to say, men wore white linen, avoided murder, and frequently paid their gambling debts. But on this west side stood wilderness, not the kind one reads about as being eventually conquered by white men; no, the real grim desolation, where the ax cuts but leaves no blaze, where the pioneer disappears and few or none follow. The pioneer has always been a successful pugilist, but in this part of Burma fate, out of pure admiration for the pygmy's gameness decided to call the battle a draw. It was not the wilderness of the desert, of the jungle; rather the tragic hopeless state of a settlement that neither progressed, retarded nor stood still.

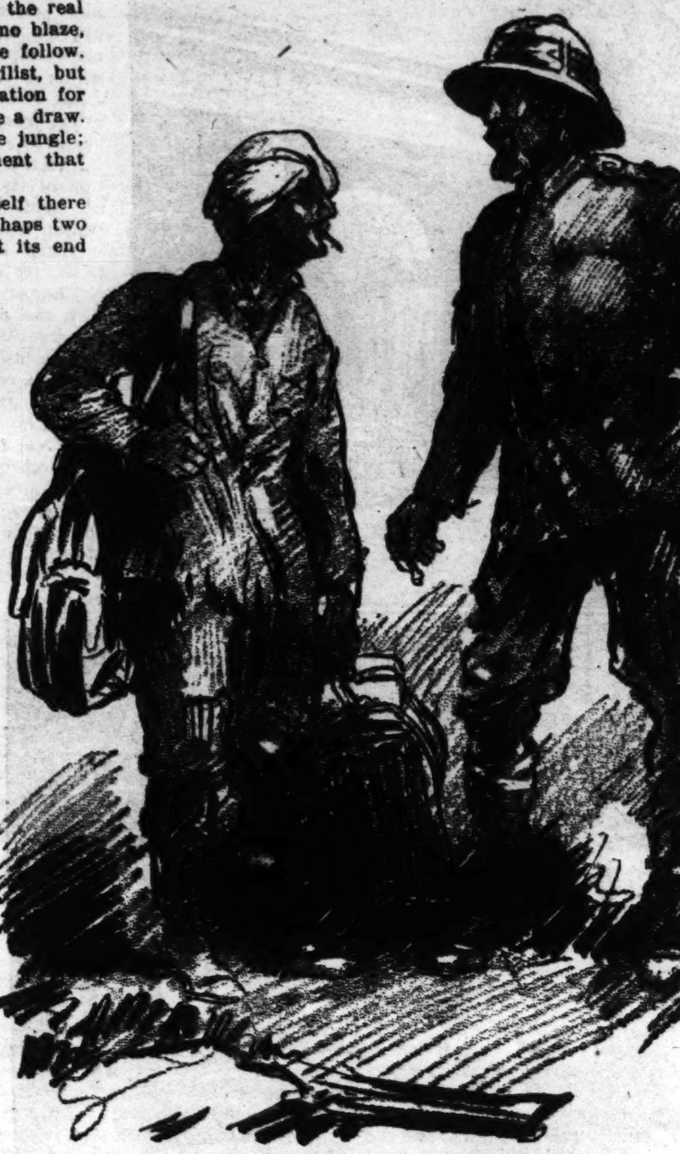
Between the landing and the settlement itself there stretched a winding road, arid and treeless, perhaps two miles in length. It announced definitely that its end was futility. All this day long, heavy bullock carts had rumbled over it, rumbled toward the landing and rattled emptily back to the settlement. The dust hung like a fog above the road, not only for this day, but for all days between big rains; dews drew it down, cooling but never congealing it. From under the first footfall the next day it rose again. When the gods, or the elements, or Providence, arranged the world as a fit habitation for man, India and Burma were made the dust bins. And as water finds its level, so will dust, earthly and human, the quick and the dead.

It was after 5 in the afternoon. The sun was sinking, hazily but swiftly; ribbons of scarlet, ribbons of rose, ribbons of violet, lay one upon the other. The sun possessed no definite circle; a great blinding radiance like metal pouring from the mouth of a blast furnace. Along the road walked two men, phantom like. One saw their heads dimly and still more dimly their bodies to the knes; of legs, there was nothing visible. Occasionally they stepped aside to permit some bullock carts to pass. One of them swore, not with any evidence of temper, not viciously but in a kind of mechanical protest, which, from long usage, had become a habit. He directed these epithets never at animate things, never at anything he could by mental or physical contest overcome. He swore at the dust, at the heat, at the wind, at the sun.

The other wayfarer, with the inherent patience of his blood, said nothing and waited, setting down the heavy kit bag and the canvas valise (his own). When the way was free again he would sling the kit bag and the valise over his shoulder and step back into the road. His turban, once white, was brown with dust and sweat. His khaki uniform was rent under the armpits, several buttons were gone; his stockings were rusty black, mottled with patches of brown skin; and the ragged canvas shoes spurted little spirals of dust as he walked. The British-India Government had indulgently permitted him to proceed about his duties as guide and carrier under the cognomen of James Hooghly, in honor of a father whose surname need not be written here, and in further honor of the river upon which, quite inconveniently one early morning, he had been born. For he was Eurasian; half European, half Indian, having his place twixt heaven and hell, which is to say, nowhere. His father had died of a complication of bhang drinking and opium eating; and as a consequence James was full of humorless imagination, spells of moodiness and outbursts of hilarious politics. Every native who acquires a facility in English immediately sets out to rescue India from the clutches of the British Raj, occasionally advancing so far as to send a bullet into some harmless individual in the civil service.

James was faithful, willing and strong, and as a carrier of burdens, took unmurmuringly his place beside the tireless bullock and the elephant. He was a Methodist; why, no one could find lucid answer, since he ate no beef, drank from no common cup, smoked through his fist when he enjoyed a pipe, and never assisted Warrington Sahib in his deadly pursuit of flies and mosquitoes. He was Hindu in all his acts save in his manner of entering temples; in this, the European blood kept his knees unbended. By dint of inquiry his master had learned that James looked upon his baptism and conversion in Methodism as a corporal would have looked upon the acquisition of a V. C. Twice during fever and plague, he had saved his master's life. With the guilelessness of the Oriental, he considered himself responsible for his master in all future times. Instead of paying off a debt he had acquired one. Treated as he was, kindly but always firmly, he would have surrendered his life cheerfully at the beck of the white man.

Warrington was an American. He was also one of those men who never held misfortune in contempt, whose outlook wherever it roamed was tolerant. He had patience for the weak, resolution for the strong and a fearless amiability toward all. He was like the St. Bernard dog, very difficult to arouse. It is rather the way with all men who are strong mentally and physically. He was tall and broad and deep. Under the battered pith helmet his face was as dark as the Eurasian's; but the eyes were blue, bright and small-pupiled, as they are with men who live out of doors, who are compelled of necessity to note things moving in the distances. The nose was large and well defined. All framed in a tangle of blond beard and mustache which, if anything, added to the general manliness of his appearance. He, too, wore khaki, but with the addition of tan riding leggings, which had seen anything but rocking-horse service. The man was yellow from the top of his helmet to the soles of his shoes—outside. For the rest, he was a mystery, to James, to all who thought they knew him, and most of all to himself. A pariah, an outcast, a fugitive from the bloodless hand of the law; a gentleman born, once upon a time a clubman, college bred; a contradiction, a puzzle for which there was not any solution, not even in the hidden corners of the man's heart. His name wasn't Warrington; he had rubbed elbows with the dregs of humanity, and still looked you straight in the eye, because he had come through inferno without bringing any of the defiling pitch.



"'How much money have you got, James?'

"'Three annas.'

"Warrington laughed and shook the dust from his beard. 'It's a great world, James, a great and wonderful world. I've just two rupees myself. In other words, we are busted.'"

From time to time he paused to relight his crumbling cheroot. The tobacco was strong and bitter, and stung his parched lips; but the craving for the tang of the smoke on his tongue was not to be denied.

Under his arm he carried a small iron cage, patterned something like a rat trap. It contained a Rajputana parrakeet, not much larger than a robin, but possessor of a soul as fierce as that of Palladin, minus, however, the soothing influence of chivalry. He had been born under the eaves of the scarlet palace in Jaipur (so his history ran); but the proximity of Indian Princes left him untouched; he had neither chivalry, politeness nor diplomacy. He was, in fact, thoroughly and consistently bad. Round and round he went, over and over, top side, down side, restlessly. For at this moment he was hearing those familiar evening sounds which no human ear can discern: the mutterings of the day birds about to seek cover for the night. In the field at the right of the road stood a lonely tree. It was covered with brilliant scarlet leaves and blossoms, and justly the natives called it the Flame of the Jungle. A flock of small birds was gyrating above it.

"Jah, jah, jah! Jah-jah-ja-a-a-h!" cried the parrot, imitating the Burmese bell-gong that calls to prayer. Instantly he followed the call with a shriek so piercing as to sting the ear of the man who was carrying him.

"You little son-of-a-gun," he laughed, "where do you pack away all that noise?"

There was a strange bond betwen the big yellow man and this little green bird. The bird did not suspect it, but the man knew. The pluck, the pugnacity and the individuality of the feathered comrade had been an object lesson to the man, at a time when he had been on the point of throwing up the fight.

"Jah, jah, jah! Jah-jah-ja-a-a-h!" The bird began its interminable somersaults, pausing only to reach for the tantalizing finger of the man, who laughed again as he withdrew the digit in time.

For six years he had carried the bird with him, through India and Burma and Malacca, and not yet had he won a sign of surrender. There were many scars on his forefingers. It was amazing. With one pressure of his hands he could have crushed out the life of the bird, but over its brave, unconquerable spirit he had no power. And that is why he loved it.

Far away in the past they had met. He remembered the day distinctly and bitterly. He had been on the brink of self-destruction. Fever and poverty and terrible loneliness had battered and beaten him flat into the dust, from which this time he had had no wish to rise. He had walked out to the railway station at Jaipur to witness the arrival of the tourist train from Ahmadabad. He wanted to see white men and white women from his own country, though up to this day he had carefully avoided them. (How he hated the English, with their cold-blooded suspicion of all who were not island-born)! The natives surged about the train, with brassware, antique articles of warfare, tiger-hunting knives (accompanied by perennial fairy tales), skins and silks. There were beggars, holy men, guides and fakirs.

Squatted in the dust before the door of a first-class carriage was a solemn brown man, in turban and clout, exhibiting performing parrots. It was Rajah's turn. He fired a cannon, turned somersaults through a little steel hoop, opened a tiny chest, took out a four-anna piece, carried it to his master, and in exchange received some seed. Thereupon he waddled resentfullly back to the iron cage, opened the door, and closed it behind. Warrington haggled for two straight hours. When he returned to his sordid, evil-smelling lodgings that night he possessed the parrot and four rupees, and sat up the greater part of the night trying to make the bird perform his tricks. The idea of suicide no longer bothered him; trifling though it was, he had found an interest in life. And on the morrow came the Eurasian, who trustfully loaned Warrington every coin that he could scrape together.

Often, in the dreary, heartachy days that followed, when weeks passed ere he saw the face of a white man, when he had to combat opium and bhang and laziness in the natives under him, the bird and his funny tricks had saved him from whisky, or worse. In camp he gave Rajah much freedom, its wings being clipped; and nothing pleased the little rebel so much as to claw his way to his master's shoulder, sit there and watch the progress of the razor, with intermittent "jawing" at his own reflection in the cracked hand mirror.

Up and down the Irrawaddy, at the rest-houses, on the boats, to those of a jocular turn of mind the three were known as "Parrot & Co." Warrington's amiability often misled the various scoundrels with whom he was at times forced to associate. A man who smiles most of the time and talked Hindustani to a parrot was not to be accorded much courtesy; until one day Warrington had settled all distinctions, finally and primordially, with a square of his fists. After that he went his way unmolested, having soundly trounced one of the biggest bullies in the teak timber yards at Rangoon.

He had no friends; he had no confidences to exchange; nor did he offer to become the repository of other men's pasts. But he would share his bread and his rupees, when he had them, with any who asked. Many tried to dig into his past, but he was as unresponsive as granite. It takes a woman to find out what a man is and has been; and Warrington went about women in a wide circle. In a way he was the most baffling kind of a mystery to those who knew him; he frequented the haunts of men, took a friendly drink, played cards for small sums, laughed and jested like any other anchorless man. In the East men are given curious names. They become known by phrases, such as, The Man Who Talks, Mr. Once Upon a Time, The One-Rupee Man, and the like. As Warrington never received any mail, as he never entered a hotel, nor spoke of the past, he became The Man Who Never Talked of Home.

"I say, James, old sport, no more going up and down this bally old river. We'll go on to Rangoon tonight, if we can find a berth."

"Yes, Sahib; this business very piffle," replied the Eurasian without turning his head. Two things he dearly loved to acquire: a bit of American slang and a bit of English silver. He was invariably changing his rupees into shillings, and Warrington could not convince him that he was always losing in the transactions.

They tramped on through the dust. The sun dropped. A sudden chill began to penetrate the haze. The white man puffed his cheroot, its wrapper dangling; the servant hummed an Urdu lullaby; the parrot complained unceasingly.

"How much money have you got, James?"

"Three annas."

Warrington laughed and shook the dust from his beard. "It's a great world, James, a great and wonderful world. I've just two rupees, myself. In other words, we are busted."

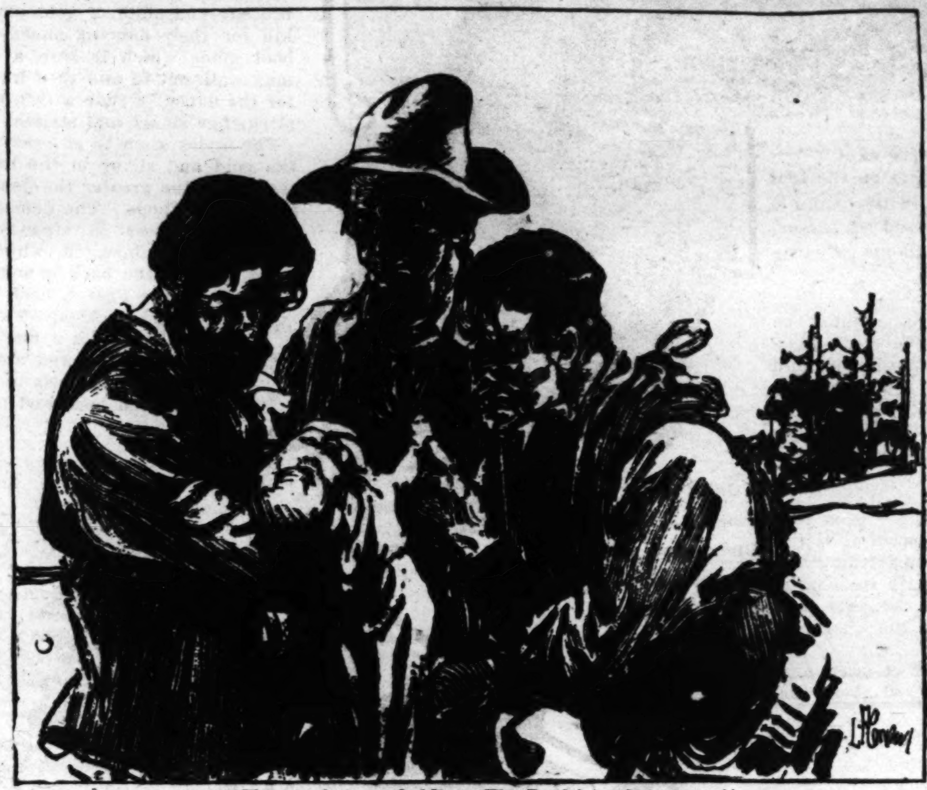
"Two rupees!" James paused and turned. "Why, "AND so the work of regeneration began in Roaring Camp. Almost imperceptibly a change came over the settlement. Tommy, who was supposed to spend his whole existence in a persistent attempt to repose, must not be disturbed by noise. The shouting and yelling which had gained the camp its infelicitous title were not permitted within hearing distance of Stumpy's. The men conversed in whispers or smoked with Indian gravity. Profanity was tacitly given up in these sacred precincts."

edge its justice was the satirist, thus stopped of his fun.

"But," said Stumpy, quickly, following up his advantage, "we're here for a christening, and we'll have it. I proclaim you Thomas Luck, according to the laws of the United States and the State of California, so help me God." It was the first time that the name of the Deity had been uttered otherwise than profanely in the camp. The form of christening was perhaps even more ludicrous than the satirist had conceived; but, strangely enough, nobody saw it and nobody laughed. Tommy was christened as seriously as he would have been under a Christian roof, and cried and was comforted in as orthodox fashion.

And so the work of regeneration began in Roaring Camp. Almost inperceptibly a change came over the settlement. The cabin assigned to Tommy Luck—or "The Luck," as he was more frequently called—first showed signs of improvement. It was kept scrupulously clean and whitewashed. Then it was boarded, clothed and papered. The rosewood cradle—packed 80 miles by mule—had, in Stumpy's way of putting it, "sorter killed the rest of the furniture." So the rehabilitation of the cabin became a necessity. The men who were in the habit of lounging in at Stumpy's to see "how The Luck got on" seemed to appreciate the change, and, in self-defense, the rival establishment of "Tuttle's grocery" restirred itself, and imported a carpet and mirrors. The reflections of the latter on the appearance of Roaring Camp tended to produce stricter habits of personal cleanliness. Again, Stumpy imposed a kind of quarantine upon those who aspired to the honor and privilege of holding "The Luck." It was a cruel mortification to Kentuck—who, in the carelessness of a large nature and the habits of frontier life, had begun to regard all garments as a second cuticle, which, like a snake's, only sloughed off through decay—to be debarred this privilege from certain prudential reasons. Yet such was the subtle influence of innovation that he thereafter appeared regularly every afternoon in a clean shirt, and face still shining from his ablutions. Nor were moral and social sanitary laws neglected. Tommy, who was supposed to spend his whole existence in a persistent attempt to repose, must not be disturbed by noise. The shouting and yelling which had gained the camp its infelicitous title were not permitted in hearing distance of Stumpy's. The men conversed in whispers, or smoked with Indian gravity. Profanity was tacitly given up in these sacred precincts, and throughout the camp a popular form of expletive, known as "D——n the luck!" and "Curse the luck!" was abandoned, as having a new personal bearing. Vocal music was not interdicted, being supposed to have a soothing, tranquillizing quality, and one song, sung by "Man-o'-War Jack," an English sailor, from Her Majesty's Australian colonies, was quite popular as a lullaby. It was a lugubrious recital of the exploits of "the Arethusa. Seventy-four," in a muffled minor, ending with a prolonged dying fall at the burden of each verse, "On b-o-o-o-ard of the Arethusa." It was a fine sight to see Jack holding "The Luck," rocking from side to side as if with the motion of a ship, and crooning forth this naval ditty. Either through the peculiar rocking of Jack or the length of his song—it contained 90 stanzas, and was continued with conscientious deliberation to the bitter end—the lullaby generally had the desired effect. At such times the men would lie at full length under the trees, in the soft summer twilight, smoking their pipes and drinking in the melodious utterances. An indistinct idea that this was pastoral happiness pervaded the camp. "This 'ere kind o' think," said the cockney, Simmons, meditatively reclining on his elbow, "is 'evingly." It reminded him of Greenwich.

On the long summer days "The Luck" was usually carried to the gulch, from whence the golden store of Roaring Camp was taken. There, on a blanket spread over pine boughs, he would lie while the men were working in the ditches below. Latterly, there was a rude attempt to decorate this bower with flowers and sweet-smelling shrubs, and generally someone would bring him a cluster of wild honeysuckles, azaleas or the painted blossoms of las mariposas. The men had suddenly awakened to the fact that there were beauty and significance in these trifles, which they had so long trodden carelessly beneath their feet. A flake of glittering mica, a fragment of variegated quartz, a bright pebble from the bed of the creek, became beautiful to eyes thus cleared and strengthened, and were invariably put aside for "The Luck." It was wonderful how many treasures the woods and hillsides yielded that "would do for Tommy." Surrounded by playthings such as never child out of fairyland had before, it is to be hoped that Tommy was content. He appeared to be securely happy albeit there was an infantine gravity about him, a contemplative light in his round gray eyes, that sometimes worried Stumpy. He was always tractable and quiet, and it is recorded that once, having crept beyond his "corral"—a hedge of tessellated pine boughs, which surrounded his bed—he dropped over the bank on his head in the soft earth, and remained with his mottled legs in the air in that position for at least five minutes with unflinching gravity. He was extricated without a murmer. I hesitate to record the many other instances of his sagacity, which rest, unfortunately, upon the statements of prejudiced friends. Some of them were not without a tinge of superstition. "I crep' up the bank just now," said Kentuck one day, in a breathless state of excitement, "and dern my skin of he wasn't a talking to a jay-bird as was sittin' on his lap. There they was, just as free and sociable as anything you please, a jawin' at each other just like two cherry-bums." Howbeit, whether creeping over the pine boughs or lying lazily on his back blinking at the leaves above him, to him the birds sang, the squirrels chattered and the flowers bloomed. Nature was his nurse and playfellow. For him she would let slip between the leaves golden shafts of sunlight that fell just within his grasp; she would send wandering breezes to visit him with the balm of bay and resinous gums; to him the tall redwoods nodded familiarly and sleepily, the bumble bees buzzed and the rooks cawed a slumbrous accompaniment.



"They took turns holding 'The Luck' in their arms."

Such was the golden summer of Roaring Camp. They were "flush times"—and "The Luck" was with them. The claims had yielded enormously. The camp was jealous of its privileges and looked suspiciously on strangers. No encouragement was given to immigration, and, to make their seclusion more perfect, the land on either side of the mountain wall that surrounded the camp they duly pre-empted. This, and a reputation for singular proficiency with the revolver, kept the reserve of Roaring Camp inviolate.

The expressman—their only connecting link with the surrounding world—sometimes told wonderful stories of the camp. He would say: "They've a street up there in Roaring that would lay over any street in Red Dog. They've got vines and flowers round their houses, and they wash themselves twice a day. But they're mighty rough on strangers, and they worship an Ingin baby."

With the prosperity of the camp came a desire for further improvement. It was proposed to build a hotel in the following spring, and to invite one or two decent families to reside there for the sake of "The Luck"—who might perhaps profit by female companionship. The sacrifice that this concession to the sex cost these men, who were fiercely skeptical in regard to its general virtue and usefulness, can only be accounted for by their affection for Tommy. A few still held out. But the resolve could not be carried into effect for three months, and the minority meekly yielded in the hope that something might turn up to prevent it. And it did.

The winter of 1851 will long be remembered in the foothills. The snow lay deep on the Sierras, and every mountain creek became a river, and every river a lake. Each gorge and gulch was transformed into a tumultuous watercourse that descended the hillsides, tearing down giant trees and scattering its drift and debris along the plain. Red Dog had been twice under water, and Roaring Camp had been forewarned.

"Water put the gold in them gulches," said Stumpy. "It's been here once and will be here again!" And that night the North Fork suddenly leaped over its banks and swept up the triangular valley of Roaring Camp.

In the confusion of rushing water, crushing trees and crackling timber, and the darkness which seemed to flow with the water and blot out the fair valley, but little could be done to collect the scattered camp. When the morning broke, the cabin of Stumpy, nearest the river bank, was gone. Higher up the gulch they found the body of its unlucky owner; but the pride, the hope, the joy, "The Luck" of Roaring Camp had disappeared. They were returning with sad hearts, when a shout from the bank recalled them.

It was a relief boat from down the river. They had picked up, they said, a man and an infant, nearly exhausted, about two miles below. Did anybody know them, and did they belong here?

It needed but a glance to show them Kentuck lying there, cruelly crushed and bruised, but still holding "The Luck" of Roaring Camp in his arms. As they bent over the strangely assorted pair, they saw that the child was cold and pulseless.

"He is dead," said one. Kentuck opened his eyes.

"Dead?" he repeated feebly.

"Yes, my man, and you are dying, too."

A smile lit the eyes of the expiring Kentuck.

"Dying," he repeated, "he's a taking me with him—tell the boys I've got 'The Luck' with me now;" and the strong man, clinging to the frail babe as a drowning man is said to cling to a straw, drifted away into the shadowy river that flows forever to the unknown sea

the beasts romped past, Dann leaped from the brush and, with a football player's tackle, downed a young boar. It was his hope to hold on until Collins could run up and dispatch the brute with a club. But the boar gnashed at Dann's hands and arms with its tusks and compelled him to let go. They could never again get within grabbing distance of a hog. They found no other animals on the island and saw no birds.

Then, exploring one corner of the island which they had not yet visited, they came upon a sight almost as startling to them as was the footprint in the sand to Robinson Crusoe. It was the stumps of trees, and trees that had been severed with an ax, recently! Evidently, there had not long before been men on the island. Nearby they found several old mats crudely woven of fiber.

The castaways appropriated the matting for bedding, and from part of it made sandals for their feet. But it can be imagined with what apprehension they examined these signs of human visitation, and how, in that far-away part of the world, they were not unjustified in fearing that the wood cutters would prove murderous savages and perhaps cannibals.

Needless to say, they kept watch and ward during the following days and nights, although they could have accomplished little in defense, being armed with only staves of wood. They continued cautiously to prowl about the island, and found another sign of the activities of the woodchoppers—a rude chute down which the logs were evidently dragged to the beach.

On all sides, they relate, they found evidence that the island is rich in oil. In depressions of the soil the liquid stood in oozy pools. At many spots the pressure of a finger into the soil was sufficient to start a little rivulet of thick brown fluid. But they were in small mood to consider becoming the Rockefellers of the South Seas.

A week passed, and then two weeks, and then three. The two seamen, like Selkirk, were monarchs of all they surveyed. But the island was but a barren kingdom. Their only subjects were wild hogs, which fled madly at their approach. Their banquet of state consisted of clams and mussels, washed down with spring water.

They realized that no European ship was likely to touch at their obscure island, far out of the highways of commerce, and it dawned upon them that escape from their prison lay only in the possible return of the unknown and dreaded woodcutters. As the weeks passed, these grew to be objects of as much hope as terror. With the resolution of despair, they determined to keep watch for their visitors, in case they should return, and to throw themselves on their mercy. Better a quick death than a lifelong tomb on a desert island, their only food for years to come being limited to shellfish and the bark of trees.

On the morning of the twenty-fourth day, Collins spied a thin column of smoke curling up from a point inland, which he judged to be where they had discovered the tree stumps. So desperately weary were they of the island that, throwing caution to the winds, they did not pause to reconnoiter, but eagerly ran towards the smoke, where, for all they knew, death might have been awaiting.

As it was, they might easily have lost their lives. Half a dozen savage Malays, startled by the onrush of two half-naked white men, shouting in an unknown tongue, on an island which they had ever reason to believe held no men save themselves, sprang up, seized their spears and lifted them for the throw. A gesture from their chief, a quick-witted Arab named Haji Ali, caused the spears to be lowered.

By gestures the sailors made known to the chief how they had come upon the island, and begged him to succor them. Using the pantomime of friendship, Haji invited them to partake of food, which was cooking over the fire, the smoke of which they had seen. How ravenously they fell upon the fare may be judged from the fact that they had been without meat and cooked food for more than three weeks.

The next day the Malays placed the white men in their sampans and took them to Taraban, from which the Dutch authorities permitted them to proceed to Van Boeloengan, in Dutch Borneo. Three months later a small steamer arrived, and the officials arranged for the Americans to be transferred from it to a Dutch steamer bound for Singapore. Finally they reached Rangoon, where the American Consul obtained passage for them to Calcutta on a British ship. From Calcutta another American Consul helped them onward to Bombay. At last they reached Naples and were permitted to work their passage home on the Italian liner, San Guglielmo, which reached New York March 13.

"No more deep water sailing for us," quoth Collins, speaking for himself and his partner. "We are going to stick to the Big Lakes hereafter."

hundred thousand rupees in your pocket."

"But not worth an anna until I get to Rangoon. Didn't those duffers give you anything for handling their luggage the other day?"

"Not a pice, Sahib."

"Rotters!" It takes an Englishman to turn a small trick like that. Well, well; there were extenuating circumstances. They had sore heads. No man likes to pay three hundred thousand for something he could have bought for ten thousand. And I made them come to me, James; to me! I made them come to this god-forsaken hole, just because it pleased my fancy. When you have the skewer in, always be sure to turn it around. I believe I'm heaven-born after all. The Lord hates a quitter and so do I. I nearly quit myself, once: eh, Rajah, old top? But I made them come to me. That's the milk in the cocoanut, the curry on the rice. They almost had me. Two rupees! It truly is a great world."

"Jah, jah, jah! Jah, jah, jah, jah-a-a-h!" screamed the parrot. "Chaloo!"

"Go on! That's the ticket. If I were a praying man, this would be the time for it. Three hundred thousand rupees!" The man looked at the far horizon, as if he would force his gaze beyond, into the delectable land, the Eden out of which he had been driven. "Caviar and truffles and Romanee Conti, and partigas!"

"Chicken and curry and Scotch whisky."

"Pah! You've the imagination of a he goat!"

"All right, Sahib."

"James, I owe you three hundred rupees, and I am going to add seven hundred more. We've been fighting this, old top, for six years together, and you've been a good servant and a good friend; and I'll take you with me as far as this fortune will go, if you say the word."

"Ah, Sahib, I am much sorry. But Delhi calls, and I go. A thousand rupees will make much business for me in the Chandney Chowk."

"Just as you say."

Presently they became purple shades in a brown world.

CHAPTER II.

A Man With a Past.

THE moonless Oriental night, spangled with large and brilliant stars, brilliant yet mellow, unlike the crisp scintillating presentment in northern latitudes, might have served as an illustration of an air-tight bowl, flung down relentlessly upon this part of the world. Inside this figurative bowl it was chill, yet the air was stirless. It was without refreshment; it became a labor and not an exhilaration to breathe it. A pall of suffocating dust rolled above and about the Irrawaddy flotilla boat which, buffetted by the strong, irregular current, strained at its cables now at the bow, now at the stern, not dissimilar to the last rocking of a deserted swing. This sensation was quite perceptible to the girl who leaned over the bow rail, her handkerchief pressed to her nose, and gazed interestedly at the steep bank up and down which the sweating coolies swarmed like Gargantuan rats. They clawed and scrambled up and slid and shuffled down; and always the bank threatened to slip and carry them all into the swirling murk below. A dozen torches were stuck into the ground above the crumbling ledge; she saw the flames as one sees a burning match cupped in a smoker's hands, shedding light upon nothing save that which stands immediately behind it.

She choked a little. Her eyes smarted. Her lips were slightly cracked, and cold cream seemed only to provide a surer resting place for the impalpable dust. It had penetrated her clothes; it had percolated through wool and linen and silk, intimately, until three baths a day had become a welcome routine, providing it was possible to obtain water. Water. Her tongue ran across her lips. Oh, for a drink from the old, cold, pure spring at home! Tea, coffee and bottled soda; nothing that ever touched the thirsty spots in her throat.

She looked up at the stars and they looked down upon her, but what she asked they could not, would not answer. Night after night she had asked, and night after night they had only twinkled as of old. She had traveled now for four months, and still the doubt beset her. It was to be a leap in the dark, with no one to tell her what was on the other side. But why this insistent doubt? Why could she not take the leap gladly, as a woman should who had given the affirmative to a man? Wtih him she was certain that she loved him; away from him she did not know what sentiment really abided in her heart. She was wise enough to realize that something was wrong; and there were but three months between her and the inevitable decision. Never before had she known other than momentary indecision; and it irked her to find that her clarity of vision was fallible and human like the rest of her. The truth was, she didn't know her mind. She shrugged, and the movement stirred the dust that had gathered upon her shoulders.

What a dust-ridden, poverty-ridden, plague-ridden world she had seen! Ignorance wedded to superstition, yet waited upon by mystery and romance and incomparable beauty. As the Occidental thought rarely finds analysis in the Oriental mind, so her mind could not gather and understand this amalgamation of art and ignorance. She forgot that another race of men had built those palaces and temples and forts and tombs, and that they had vanished as the Greeks and Romans have vanished, leaving only empty spaces behind, which the surviving tribes neither fill nor comprehend.

"A rare old lot of dust; eh, Miss Chetwood? I wish we could travel by night, but you can't trust this blooming old Irrawaddy after sundown. Charts are so much waste paper. You just have to know the old lady. Bars rise in a night, shift this side and that. But the days are all right. No dust when you get in mid-stream. What?"

"I never cease wondering how those poor coolies can carry those heavy rice bags," she replied to the purser.

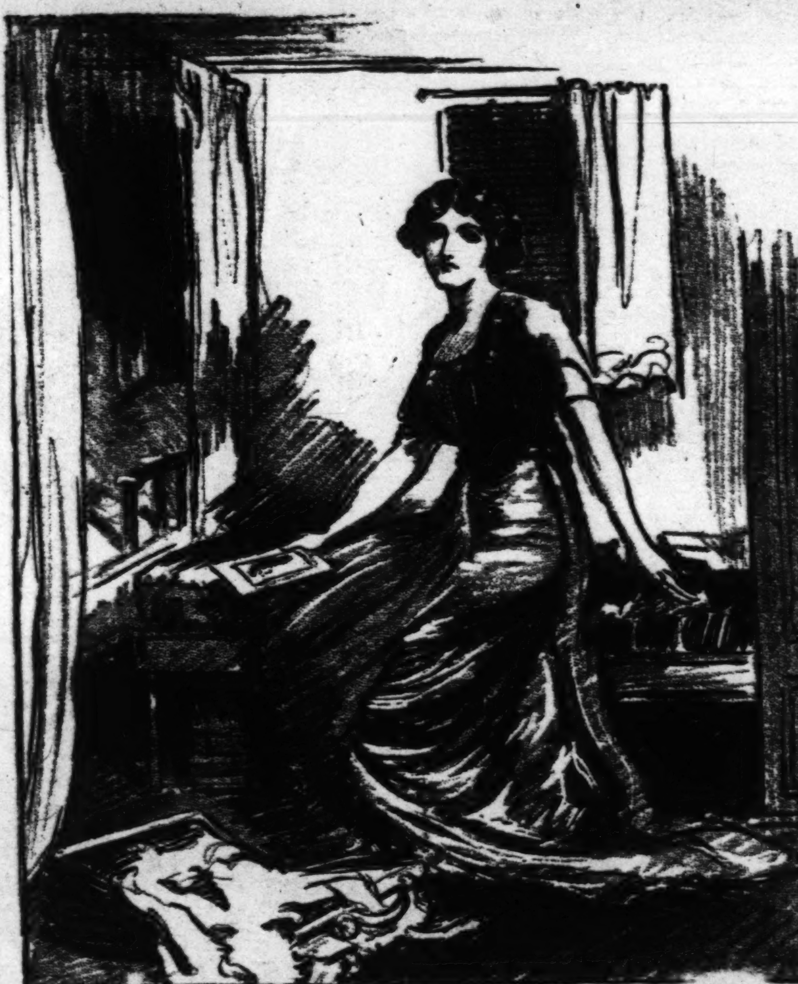
"Oh, they are used to it," carelessly.

The great gray stack of paddy bags seemed, in the eyes of the girl, fairly to melt away.

"By Jove!" exclaimed the purser. "There's Parrot & Co.!" He laughed and pointed toward one of the torches.

"Parrot & Co.? I do not understand."

"That big blond chap behind the fourth torch. Yes, there. Sometime I'll tell you about him. Picturesque duffer."



"Today she was facing the first problem of her young life, epochal. She was, as it were, to stop and begin life anew. And she didn't know, she wasn't sure."

She could have shrieked aloud, but all she did was to draw in her breath with a gasp that went so deep it gave her heart a twinge. Her fingers tightened upon the teak rail. Suddenly she knew, and was ashamed of her weakness. It was simply a remarkable likeness, nothing more than that; it could not possibly be anything more. Still, a ghost could not have startled her as this living man had done.

"Who is he?"

"A chap named Warrington. But over here that signifies nothing; might just as well be Jones or Smith or Brown. We call him Parrot & Co., but the riff-raff have another name for him: the Man Who Never Talked of Home. For two or three seasons he's been going up and down the river. Ragged at times, prosperous at others. Lately it's been rags. He's always carrying that Rajputana parrot. You've seen the kind around the palaces and forts; saber-blade wings, long tail feathers, green and blue and scarlet, and the ugliest little rascals going. This one is trained to do tricks."

"But the man!" impatiently.

He eyed her, mildly surprised. "Oh, he puzzles us all a bit, you know. Well educated; somewhere back a gentleman; from the States. Of course I don't know; something shady, probably. They don't tramp about like this otherwise. For all that, he's rather a decent sort; no bounder like that rotter we left at Mandalay. He never talks about himself. I fancy he's lonesome again."

"Lonesome?"

"It's the way, you know. These poor beggars drop aboard for the night, merely to see a white woman again, to hear decent English, to dress and dine like a human being. They disappear the next day, and often we never see them again."

"What do they do?" The question came to her lips mechanically.

"Paddy fields. White men are needed to oversee them. And then, there's the railway, and there's the new oil country north of Prome. You'll see the wells tomorrow. Rather fancy this Warrington chap has been working along the new pipe lines. They're running them down to Rangoon. Well, there goes the last bag. Will you excuse me? The lading bills, you know. If he's with us tomorrow I'll have him put the parrot through its turns. An amusing little beggar."

"Why not introduce him to me?"

"Beg pardon?"

"I'm not afraid," quietly.

"By Jove, no! But this is rather difficult, you know.

mendable hesitance.

"I'll take all the responsibility. It's a whim."

"Well, you American girls are the eighth wonder of the world." The purser was distinctly annoyed. "And it may be impertinence on my part, but I never yet saw an American woman who would accept advice or act upon it."

"Thanks. What would you advise?" with dangerous sweetness.

"Not to meet this man. It's irregular. I know nothing about him. If you had a father or a brother on board. . . ."

"Or even a husband!" laughing.

"There you are," resignedly. "You laugh. You women go everywhere, and half the time unprotected."

"Never quite unprotected. We never venture beyond the call of gentlemen."

"That is true," brightening. "You insist on meeting this chap?"

"I do not insist; only I am bored, and he might interest me for an hour." She added: "Besides, it may annoy the others."

The purser grinned reluctantly. "You and the Colonel don't get on. Well, I'll introduce this chap at dinner. If I don't"—

"I am fully capable of speaking to him without any introduction whatever." She laughed again. "It will be very kind of you."

When he had gone she mused over this impulse so alien to her character. An absolute stranger, a man with a past, perhaps a fugitive from justice; and because he looked like Arthur Ellison, she was seeking his acquaintance. Something, then, could break through her reserve and aloofness? She had traveled from San Francisco to Colombo, unattended save by an elderly maiden who had risen by gradual stages from nurse to companion, but who could not be made to remember that she was no longer a nurse. In all these four mouths Elsa had not made half a dozen acquaintances, and of these she had not sought one. Yet, she was asking to meet a stranger whose only recommendation was a singular likeness to another man. The purser was right. It was very irregular.

"Parrot & Co.!" she murmurred. She searched among the phantoms moving to and fro upon the ledge; but the man with the cage was gone. It was really uncanny.

She dropped her arms from the rail and went to her stateroom and dressed for dinner. She did not give her toilet any particular care. There was no thought of conquest, no thought of dazzling the man in khaki. It was the indolence and carelessness of the East, where clothes become only necessities and are no longer the essentials of adornment.

Elsa Chetwood was 25, lithely built, outwardly reposeful, but dynamic within. Education, environment and breeding had somewhat smothered the glowing fires. She was a type of the ancient repression of woman, which finds its exceptions in the Aspasias and Helens and Cleopatras of legend and history. In features she looked exactly what she was, well-bred and well-born. Beauty she also had, but it was the cold beauty of northern winter nights. It compelled admiration rather than invited it. Spiritually, Elsa was asleep. The fire was there, the gift of loving greatly, only it smoldered, without radiating even the knowledge of its presence. Men loved her, but in awe, as one loves the marbles of Phidias. She knew no restraint, and yet she had passed through her stirless years restrained. She was worldly without being more than normally cynical; she was rich without being either frugal or extravagant. Her independence was inherent and not acquired. She had laid down certain laws for herself to follow; and that these often clashed with the laws of convention, which are fetish to those who divide society into three classes, only mildly amused her. Right from wrong she knew, and that sufficed her.

Her immediate relatives were dead; those who were distantly related remained so, as they had no part in her life nor she in theirs. Relatives, even the best of them, are practically strangers to us. They have their own affairs and interests, and if these touch ours it is generally through the desire to inherit what we have. So Elsa went her way alone. From her father she had inherited a remarkable and seldom errant judgment. To her, faces were generally book covers, they repelled or attracted; and she found large and undiminishing interest in the faculty of pressing back the covers and reading the text. Often battered covers held treasures, and often the editions de luxe were swindles. But in between the battered covers and the exquisite Florentine hand-tooling there ranged a row of mediocre books; and it was among these that Elsa found that her instinct was not wholly infallible, as will be seen.

Today she was facing the first problem of her young life, epochal. She was, as it were, to stop and begin life anew. And she didn't know, she wasn't sure.

There were few passengers aboard. There were three fussy old English maidens under the protection of a still fussier old Colonel, who disagreed with everybody because his liver disagreed with him. Twenty years of active service in Upper India had seriously damaged that physiological function, and "pegs" no longer mellowed him. The quartet greatly amused Elsa. Their nods were abrupt and they spoke in the most formal manner. She was under grave suspicion; in the first place, she was traveling alone; in the second place, she was an American. At table there was generally a desultory conversation, and many a barb of malice Elsa shot from her bow. Figuratively, the Colonel walked about like a porcupine, bristling with arrows instead of quills. Elsa could have shouted at times, for the old

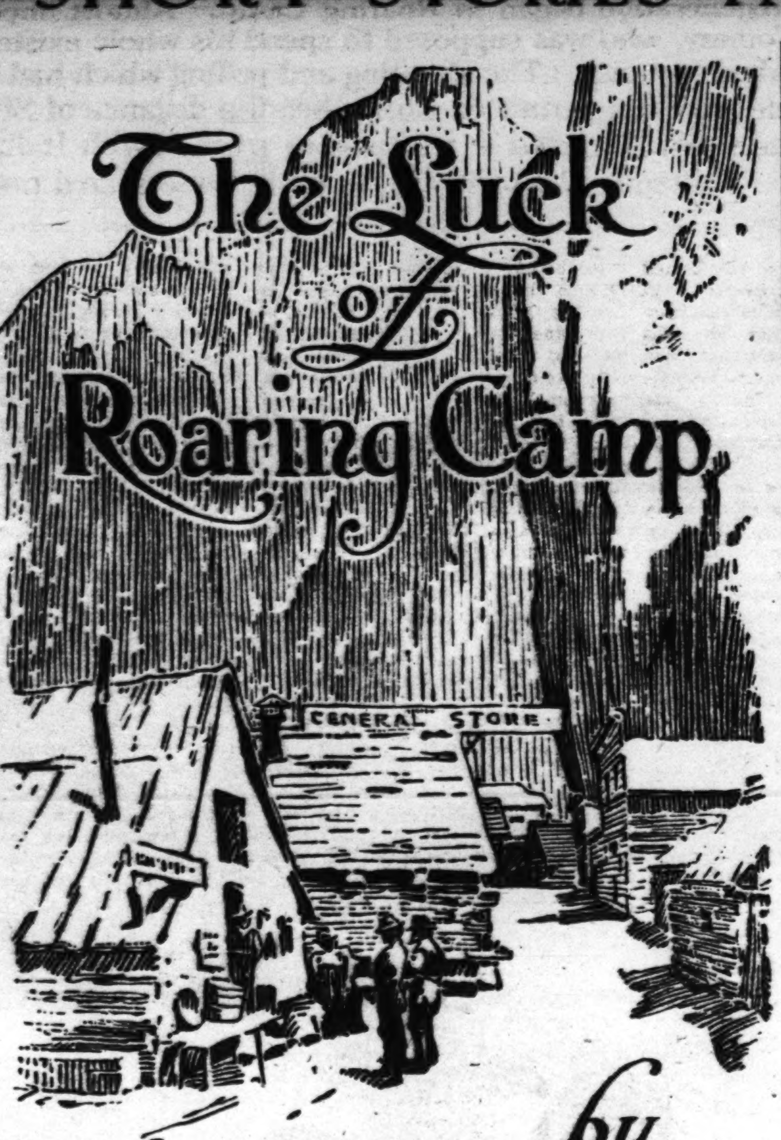
The Luck of Roaring Camp



by Bret Harte

THERE was commotion in Roaring Camp. It could not have been a fight, for in 1850 that was not novel enough to have called together the entire settlement. The ditches and claims were not only deserted, but "Tuttle's grocery" had contributed its gamblers, who, it will be remembered, calmly continued their game the day that French Pete and Kanaka Joe shot each other to death over the bar in the front room. The whole camp was collected before a rude cabin on the outer edge of the clearing. Conversation was carried on in a low tone, but the name of a woman was frequently repeated. It was a name familiar enough in the camp—"Cherokee Sal."

Perhaps the less said of her the better. She was a coarse, and, it is to be feared, a very sinful woman. But at that time she was the only woman in Roaring Camp, and was just then lying in sore extremity, when she most needed the ministration of her own sex. Dissolute, abandoned and irreclaimable, she was yet suffering a martyrdom hard enough to bear even when veiled by sympathizing womanhood, but now terrible in her loneliness. The primal curse had come to her in that original isolation which must have made the punishment of the first transgression so dreadful. It was, perhaps, part of the expiation of her sin, that, at a moment when she most lacked her sex's intuitive tenderness and care, she met only the half-contemptuous faces of her masculine associates. Yet a few of the spectators were, I think, touched by her sufferings. Sandy Tipton thought it was "rough on Sal," and, in the contemplation of her condition, for a moment rose superior to the fact that he had an ace and two bowers in his sleeve.

It will be seen, also, that the situation was novel. Deaths were by no means uncommon in Roaring Camp, but a birth was a new thing. People had been dismissed the camp effectively, finally, and with no possibility of return; but this was the first time that anybody had been introduced ab initio. Hence the excitement.

"You go in there, Stumpy," said a prominent citizen known as "Kentuck," addressing one of the loungers. "Go in there, and see what you kin do. You've had experience in them things."

Perhaps there was a fitness in the selection. Stumpy, in other climes, had been the putative head of two families; in fact, it was owing to some legal informality in these proceedings that Roaring Camp—a city of refuge—was indebted to his company. The crowd approved the choice, and Stumpy was wise enough to bow to the majority. The door closed on the extempore surgeon and midwife, and Roaring Camp sat down outside, smoked its pipe, and awaited the issue.

The assemblage numbered about a hundred men. One or two of these were actual fugitives from justice, some were criminal, and all were reckless. Physically, they exhibited no indication of their past lives and character. The greatest scamp had a Raphael face, with a profusion of blond hair; Oakhurst, a gambler, had the melancholy air and intellectual abstraction of a Hamlet; the coolest and most courageous man was scarcely over five feet in height, with a soft voice and an embarrassed, timid manner. The term "roughs" applied to them was a distinction rather than a definition. Perhaps in the minor details of fingers, toes, ears, etc., the camp may have been deficient, but these slight omissions did not detract from their aggregate force. The strongest man had but three fingers on his right hand; the best shot had but one eye.

Such was the physical aspect of the men that were dispersed around the cabin. The camp lay in a triangular valley, between two hills and a river. The only outlet was a steep trail over the summit of a hill that faced the cabin, now illuminated by the rising moon. The suffering woman might have seen it from the rude bunk whereon she lay—seen it winding like a silver thread until it was lost in the stars above.

A fire of withered pine boughs added sociability to the gathering. By degrees the natural levity of Roaring Camp returned. Bets were freely offered and taken regarding the result. Three to five that "Sal would get through with it;" even, that the child would survive; side bets as to the sex and complexion of the coming stranger. In the midst of an excited discussion an exclamation came from those nearest the door, and the camp stopped to listen. Above the swaying and moaning of the pines, the swift rush of the river, and the crackling of the fire, rose a sharp, querulous cry—a cry unlike anything heard before in the camp. The pines stopped moaning, the river ceased to rush and the fire to crackle. It seemed as if Nature had stopped to listen, too.

The camp rose to its feet as one man! It was proposed to explode a barrel of gunpowder, but, in consideration of the situation of the mother, better counsels prevailed, and only a few revolvers were discharged; for, whether owing to the rude surgery of the camp, or some other reason, Cherokee Sal was sinking fast. Within an hour she had climbed, as it were, that rugged road that led to the stars, and so passed out of Roaring Camp, its sin and shame forever. I do not think that the announcement disturbed them much, except in speculation as to the fate of the child. "Can he live now?" was asked of Stumpy. The answer was doubtful. The only other being of Cherokee Sal's sex and maternal condition in the settlement was an ass. There was some conjecture as to fitness, but the experiment was tried. It was less problematical than the ancient treatment of Romulus and Remus, and apparently as successful.

When these details were completed, which exhausted another hour, the door was opened, and the anxious crowd of men who had already formed themselves into a queue, entered in single file. Beside the low bunk or shelf, on which the figure of the mother was starkly outlined below the blankets stood a pine table. On this a candle box was placed, and within it, swathed in staring red flannel, lay the last arrival at Roaring Camp. Beside the candle box was placed a hat. Its use was soon indicated. "Gentlemen," said Stumpy, with a singular mixture of authority and ex officio complacency—"Gentlemen will please pass in at the front door, round the table and out at the back door. Them as wishes to contribute anything toward the orphan will find a hat handy." The first man entered with his hat on; he uncovered, however, as he looked about him, and so, unconsciously, set an example to the next. In such communities good and bad actions are catching. As the procession filed in, comments were audible—criticisms addressed, perhaps, rather to Stumpy, in the character of showman—"Is that him?" "mighty small specimen;" "has n't mor'n got the color;" "ain't bigger nor a derringer." The contributions were as characteristic: A silver tobacco box; a doubloon; a navy revolver, silver mounted; a gold specimen; a very beautiful embroidered lady's handkerchief (from Oakhurst, the gambler); a diamond breastpin; a diamond ring (suggested by the pin, with the remark from the giver that he "saw that pin and went two diamonds better"); a slugshot; a Bible (contributor not detected); a golden spur; a silver teaspoon (the initials, I regret to say, were not the giver's); a pair of surgeon's shears; a lancet; a Bank of England note for £5; and about $200 in loose gold and silver coin. During these proceedings Stumpy maintained a silence as impassive as the dead on his left, a gravity as inscrutable as that of the newly born on his right.

Only one incident occurred to break the monotony of the curious procession. As Kentuck bent over the candle box half curiously, the child turned, and caught at his groping finger and held it fast for a moment. Kentuck looked foolish and embarrassed. Something like a blush tried to assert itself in his weather-beaten cheek. "The d——d little cuss!" he said, as he extricated his finger, with, perhaps, more tenderness and care than he might have been deemed capable of showing. He held that finger a little apart from its fellows as he went out, and examined it curiously. The examination provoked the same original remark in regard to the child. In fact, he seemed to enjoy repeating it. "He restled with my finger," he remarked to Tipton, holding up the member, "the d——d little cuss!"

It was 4 o'clock before the camp sought repose. A light burned in the cabin where the watchers sat, for Stumpy did not go to bed that night. Nor did Kentuck. He drank quite freely, and related with great gusto his experience, invariably ending with his characteristic condemnation of the newcomer. It seemed to relieve him of any unjust implication of sentiment, and Kentuck had the weakness of the nobler sex. When everybody else had gone to bed, he walked down to the river and whistled reflectingly. Then he walked up the gulch, past the cabin, still whistling with demonstrative unconcern. At a large red wood tree he paused and retraced his steps, and again pased the cabin. Halfway down to the river's bank he again paused, and then returned and knocked at the door. It was opened by Stumpy. "How goes it?" said Kentuck, looking past Stumpy toward the candle box. "All serene," replied Stumpy. "Anything up?" "Nothing." There was a pause—an embarrassing one—Stumpy still holding the door. Then Kentuck had recourse to his finger, which he held up to Stumpy. "Restled with it—the d——d little cuss," he said, and retired.

The next day Cherokee Sal had such rude sepulture as Roaring Camp afforded. After her body had been committed to the hillside, there was a formal meeting of the camp to discuss what should be done with her infant. A resolution to adopt it was unanimous and enthusiastic. But an animated discussion in regard to the manner and feasibility of providing for its wants at once sprung up. It was remarkable that the argument partook of none of those fierce personalities with which discussions were usually conducted at Roaring Camp. Tipton proposed that they should send the child to Red Dog—a distance of 40 miles—where female attention could be procured. But the unlucky suggestion met with fierce and unanimous opposition. It was evident that no plan which entailed parting from their new acquisition would for a moment be entertained. "Besides," said Tom Ryder, "them fellows at Red Dog would swap it, and ring in somebody else on us." A disbelief in the honesty of other camps prevailed at Roaring Camp as in other places.

The introduction of a female nurse in the camp also met with objection. It was argued that no decent woman could be prevailed to accept Roaring Camp as her home, and the speaker urged that "they didn't want any more of the other kind." This unkind allusion to the defunct mother, harsh as it may seem, was the first spasm of propriety—the first symptom of the camp's regeneration. Stumpy advanced nothing. Perhaps he felt a certain delicacy in interfering with the selection of a possible successor in office. But when questioned, he averred stoutly that he and "Jinny"—the mammal before alluded to—could manage to rear the child. There was something original, independent and heroic about the plan that pleased the camp. Stumpy was retained. Certain articles were sent for to Sacramento. "Mind," said the treasurer, as he pressed a bag of gold dust into the expressman's hand, "the best that can be got—lace, you know, and filigree work and frills—d——m the cost!"

Strange to say, the child thrived. Perhaps the invigorating climate of the mountain camp was compensation for maternal deficiencies. Nature took the foundling to her broader breast. In that rare atmosphere of the Sierra foothills—that air pungent with balsamic odor, that ethereal cordial at once bracing and exhilarating—he may have found food and nourishment, or a subtle chemistry that transmitted asses' milk to lime and phosphorus. Stumpy inclined to the belief that it was the latter and good nursing. "Me and that ass," he would say, "has been father and mother to him! Don't you," he would add, apostrophizing the helpless bundle before him, "never go back on us."

By the time he was a month old, the necessity of giving him a name became apparent. He had generally been known as "the Kid," "Stumpy's boy," "the Cayote" (an allusion to his vocal powers), and even by Kentuck's endearing diminutive of "the d——d little cuss." But these were felt to be vague and unsatisfactory, and were at last dismissed under another influence. Gamblers and adventurers are generally superstitious, and Oakhurst one day declared that the baby had brought "the luck" to Roaring Camp. It was certain that of late they had been successful. "Luck" was the name agreed upon, with the prefix of Tommy for greater convenience. No allusion was made to the mother, and the father was unknown.

"It's better," said the philosophical Oakhurst, "to take a fresh deal all round. Call him Luck, and start him fair."

A day was accordingly set apart for the christening. What was meant by this ceremony the reader may imagine, who has already gathered some idea of the reckless irreverence of Roaring Camp. The master of ceremonies was one "Boston," a noted wag, and the occasion seemed to promise the greatest facetiousness. This ingenious satirist had spent two days in preparing a burlesque of the church service, with pointed local allusions. The choir was properly trained, and Sandy Tipton was to stand godfather. But after the procession had marched to the grove with music and banners, and the child had been deposited before the mock altar, Stumpy stepped before the expectant crowd.

"It ain't my style to spoil fun, boys," said the little man, stortly, eying the faces around him, "but it strikes me that this thing ain't exactly on the squar. It's playing it pretty low down on this yer baby to ring in fun on him that he ain't going to understand. And ef there's going to be any godfathers round, I'd like to see who's got any better rights than me."

A silence followed Stumpy's speech. To the credit of all humorists be it said, that the first man to acknowl-

"AND so the work of regeneration began in Roaring Camp. Almost imperceptibly a change came over the settlement. Tommy, who was supposed to spend his whole existence in a persistent attempt to repose, must not be disturbed by noise. The shouting and yelling which had gained the camp its infelicitous title were not permitted within hearing distance of Stumpy's. The men conversed in whispers or smoked with Indian gravity. Profanity was tacitly given up in these sacred precincts."

edge its justice was the satirist, thus stopped of his fun.

"But," said Stumpy, quickly, following up his advantage, "we're here for a christening, and we'll have it. I proclaim you Thomas Luck, according to the laws of the United
